INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 15 .....1877.

ALL QUIET.—The latest news from the upper end of the valley is to the effect that the Indians have remained perfectly quiescent since they closed Jerry's account, but it is manifest to all that a continuance of peaceful relations between them and the whites hangs by a very slender thread. The Indians are just as apprehensive, we are told, as the whites that this thread may be broken, but they are not in the least disposed to give up Jerry's murderers, or to acknowledge but what they did just right in making away with him. Justice Alexander held the inquest as proposed, but with what results does not appear, so far as we are informed. It is quite generally conceded by the settlers that the very best thing that can be done is to let the whole thing blow quietly over without making any demonstrations to forcibly bring the murderers to account. It is felt that any such demonstrations would be disastrous in the extreme to settlers and Indians both. It is certain that the latter will do all they can to avert war, which, they well know must end in their own final extermination, yet they will take that chance rather than be forced to acknowledge they did wrong in killing Jerry or give up his slayers, unless it should be to stand trial according to white man's law, of the workings of which they are very fairly conversant, and seem willing to abide by.

NOT PROPERLY RETURNED.—While canvassing the vote of the late election, the Board of Canvassers found that the returns of the precincts named below did not fulfill the strict requirements of law, and it was a mooted point whether or not a duty to throw these votes all out in consequence. Voting on this proposition Messrs. Curtis and Meysan voted to accept all except those from Lee District, which was thrown out, Mr. Garretson voting no and filing an objection in each of the following for the reasons named: George's Creek, no poll list or Great Register; Olancha, no certificates of registration; Lookout, no certificates of registration; Lee, no tally list and the vote thrown out; Crystal Springs, no poll lists or certificates of registration; Wild Rose, no poll lists or certificates of registration. It is by no means certain but by reason of these informalities, the election will not be contested, and a recount of the sealed ballots demanded. It is now settled that no contest will be made.

HOME FLOUR.—We are glad to note the arrival of a fair invoice of Bishop Creek flour at Rothschilds & Co's., that article having been so scarce here sometime past as to make it necessary for all our merchants to import from San Francisco. This probably would not have been the case but for the fact that Bell's mills have not been running even half the time because of insufficiency of water. This imported article is often times purchased in preference to the home production, which ought not to be done when it can be avoided; it is simply taking money out of the country that might and could be kept at home for the general good.

CONTRIBUTED.—Our county school fund has realized a benefit in the shape of a handsome contribution at the hands of the Hon. Mr. Denton, of the Sheep Ranch. The amount was $300, less about $25 for commissions, etc.; and was paid into the county treasury on Monday. It seems that this appropriate and graceful act was some time ago suggested by Judge Schalten, who had the indorsement of a jury of twelve, and at that time considerable was said in relation to selling whisky to Indians.

MURDER AT DARWIN.—A gentleman who arrived here from Darwin Thursday evening says that on the previous night Nancy Williams, alias "Feather Legs," the keeper of a lodging house in that place, was murdered for her money. Three Mexicans are under arrest for the crime. The inquest was in progress at the time the gentleman left, Thursday morning.

HOW HE WAS MISLEAD.—"Was that an earthquake?" inquired a startled stranger as he sat talking to the old gentleman on the front porch of a house up the valley. "What; that bangin' and rattlin'?" queried the old gent. "Yes; earthquake, wasn't it?" "No, it wasn't no earthquake—just my darter in the kitchen slappin' her big foot down about something."

MINERS' MEETING.—At the annual meeting of the miners of Kearsarge District, held at Rowley's store on Monday last, Henry M. Isaacs was elected District Recorder for the ensuing year. J. H. Holt acted as President and J. C. Irwin, Secretary, but the attendance was small, owing to the proper parties having failed to have mention made in this paper.

A CHANGE.—The Golden House at Benton is now under charge of J. M. Clark, the genial agent of the Northern Stage Line, who is well-known hereabouts. The house takes the name of the jolly landlord, and will undoubtedly maintain its popularity. Tom Golden continues in the saloon business, all the same.

SCHOOL.—Mrs. Lowe's school at the Post closes for the term next Friday. She will begin the school in this place on the Monday following, provided the repairs to the school house are complete; otherwise, on Monday, the 1st of October.

THE clink of coin in heavy poker games is heard nightly in the land. To be be more explicit, a noise of that kind is heard in the saloons, in town, every night.

VISITING.—Mrs. T. S. Harris and Mrs. Wapelhorst, of Darwin, are on a visit to this locality—the guests of Mrs. Lewis, at Camp Independence.

THE CERRO GORDO RETURNS.—Several of them up there at Cerro Gordo have bounced us extensively, all because of that election return business. We are constrained to say that we are mighty glad our nose wasn't forty-five miles long, for if it had been just as like as not some of those fellows would have exercised themselves in trying to pull it—not that we said it was aggravating that the returns didn't get here, nor because it was intimated that, possibly, they were not sent at all, but because of the comparison to Deep Springs—that was the camel that broke the feather's back. To tell the truth about the matter we hardly doubted for a moment but that the said returns had been duly sent to us as well as others here, but as not a soul had received them the question was publicly raised, "What is a hungry nigger gwine to do?" We will explain what happened since: Just one week after election day a letter package from Reno, in Nevada, arrived at the Postoffice here, and in that package was found our postal card and a letter to Treasurer Harry Isaacs, each containing the returns in question. We also have proofs that can't be gainsaid that both had been duly mailed in Cerro Gordo for this place on the morning of the 6th, so nobody there was at fault. Will somebody tell us how that letter and card got to Reno, and what they were sent there for? When we obtain a clear understanding on that point we can begin to have some idea what caused the peculiar taste in the water.

FISH CULTURE.—We have been requested by several, lately, to advocate the stocking of all our streams this season with trout, including the river. Well, all who have perused our local columns for the past month or so will know that we have done so—have time and again presented the subject in all its full import, so that the idea is familiar to everyone and all understand the merits of the proposition; each individual of the entire public are ready to contribute or are ready not to contribute, as the aforesaid each individual may happen to see it. Now, then, having done our part in the good work, what is anybody else going to do? Do those who suggested the thing, and all those who are interested in the scheme, expect any member of THE INDEPENDENT to do the rest of it? In short—why don't some of these enthusiasts go to work with a subscription list and find out what can be done in the matter? There wouldn't be the least trouble in obtaining all the contributions necessary for the purpose, but unless some one soon makes a move in the matter nothing can be done this season.

THE INCOMPLETE RETURNS.—Following is a transcript of the proceedings of the Board of Canvassers in relation to the returns referred to elsewhere: Moved, by Supervisor Curtis, that this Board proceed to canvass the returns of the general election held Sept. 5, 1877, and declare the results from the returns as received, notwithstanding the incompleteness of the returns from (1st) George's Creek, which returns no Poll List, nor Great Register; (2d) Olancha, which returns no Certificates of Uncancelled Registration; (3d) Lookout, which returns no Certificates of Uncancelled Registration; (4th) Crystal Springs, which returns no Poll List; (5th) Wild Rose, which returns no Poll List nor Uncancelled Certificates of Registration, with the exception of Lee Precinct. Motion carried by the following vote, ayes, Curtis and Meysan; no, Garretson.

Moved that the Lee Precinct be rejected on the grounds that no Tally List accompanied the envelope endorsed "election returns;" said motion was carried by a full vote.

WANTED TO KNOW ABOUT IT.—Captain George and staff of the George's Creek sub-division of the Piute Nation, rode into town on Thursday to institute inqueries ralative to the probabilities of war between his people and the whites, growing out of that Round Valley matter. The captain talks good English, and assured everybody "that Injun no dam fool, no want to fight at all." He was quite in earnest on that point. He said, though, they would fight if compelled to, not otherwise. He went home feeling assured war was not imminent.

IN TOWN.—W. T. Grant, of Darwin, was in town one day during the week. Tom May immediately delivered up his proportion of chickens, without waiting for nightfall; other citizens had begun to get their poultry bands in readiness for surrender when William left. Grant said he he didn't consider the thing a reflection upon him, professionally; but thought it was taking an undue advantage of the chickens.

ARREST.—On Monday night last Under Sheriff Gregg unceremoniously snatched a rambunctious sheepherder, who was blowing about his ability and disposition to use a Henry-rifle, which he was packing about and handling most carelessly. He was allowed to depart after taking a night's repose in the county sweat-box.

FIRE IN THE MOUNTAINS.—Judging from the dense smoke that rolled into the valley on Monday evening there must have been a most devastating fire raging in the timber back on the Sierras. For an hour or so before sunset the sun looked like the full moon as regards distinctness of outlines, but of an almost blood-red color.

A ROW AT DARWIN.—Report says that a row took place in Darwin on the 5th, growing out of political matters, during which three shots were fired, one of which inflicted a slight scalp wound on Deputy Sheriff John Pattie. We can get no particulars.

FROSTY.—For the last day or two the weather has been so very cold as to lead us to fear a good deal of the late crops, in the upper end of the valley particularly, may have been seriously damaged by frosts.

SOME consolation to defeated candidates, anyhow; they don't have to wrestle around in search of bondsmen.

Bogus Ballots—Salt River.

OLANCHA, Sept. 10.

MESSRS. EDITORS—Don't you think you are a little off—not much, just a little, you know—in your article of September 8th? The election law intends, if it intends anything, that voters shall not be interfered with by any person, be they black or white, foolish or wise, by bogus tickets or otherwise; and it is a remarkable fact that but one person would acknowledge to be the getter-up of said frauds, and excused himself by saying that he was not mean enough to use them. I am glad to see the voters of Inyo come up to your standard of intelligence, showing candidates they not only read but know how to use the pen as well.

Please correct; Mr. Fowler's boat is not advertised for Salt River this trip. That stream is so low that nothing but small crafts can make the voyage successfully. SNARLEYOW.

[Nevertheless, in a legal ballot there can be no such thing as a "bogus ticket," whether it contains one or a dozen names of candidates belonging to opposite parties. The law recognizes no party; ballots are indistinguishable expressly for the purpose of "protection," and the presence or absence of candidates' names (whether scratched or printed) alone indicates the true intention of the voter.—EDS.]

CAPT. J. G. MESSEC, of Panamint, writes under date of the 5th, to the Coso News as follows:

About the 24th of August, Thomas Brannan, Dennis Murphy and William Raymond started from Lookout for Resting Springs. They passed through Panamint on the 26th of August, and camped at Bennett's Well, in Death Valley on the night of the 28th. I advised them to go from Bennett's Well by way of Furnace Creek, as they would have a well-beaten route. But it seems, after leaving me, some one advised Raymond to go from Bennett's Well by way of Saratoga Springs, which are situated in Death Valley, about 45 miles south of Bennett's Well. They left Bennett's Well on the evening of the 29th, traveled all that night, and at 10 A. M., on the 30th, seeing nothing of the springs, and having but little water they decided to return and try to make Bennett's Well. The heat of the day had come on them in the hottest part of this valley. Returning they kept together until 3 o'clock P. M., when Raymond stopped or fell exhausted, for it was at this time Murphy and Brannan lost sight of him. Murphy gave out about the same time and buried himself in the sand and lay there a day and night without a drop of water. Brannan made Bennett's Well, 15 miles, and from there he went to an Indian wickiup. He got an Indian and two horses and returned for the two men. Murphy was found where he was left, but nothing could be seen or heard of Raymond. After taking Murphy to Bennett's Well, Brannan returned to where he saw Raymond last, and looked for him one day, but could find no trace of him. He must, as is always the case when a man is dying for the want of water, became crazed and wandered off in the sand, and thus Death Valley claims another victim. Raymond was well known in Pioche and this district.

A FEMALE Justice of the Peace in Wyoming Territory was obliged to hear an adultery case in which her husband filled the unenviable position of defendant. She sentenced him to be hanged by the neck until he was dead, and was anxious to have the sentence carried into effect at once, until the attorneys explained to her that she was sitting simply as an examination Court. She then held him in bonds of $18,000,000 to await the action of the Grand Jury, and said she would shoot the first man full of holes that attempted to raise the sureties. Before young men's debating societies use this information as an argument against female suffrage, they will do well to consider just how some male monster would have felt acting under similar circumstances.

WILL NEVER BE SHORT OF PROVISIONS. The next Legislature will never be short of provisions; there are too many Murphys on the list. Senators: P. W. Murphy, of San Luis Obispo; B. D. Murphy, of Santa Clara; John C. Murphy, of San Francisco. Assemblymen: R. W. Murphy, of San Francisco; John E. Murphy, of Del Norte. Now, that's not bad for the Murphy family. They ought to hold a caucus of their own, for they will certainly hold the balance of power on joint ballot.—S. F. Spirit of the Times.

SCRATCHED TICKETS! The like was never seen since the foundation of the world. It was a rare sight to see a straight ticket, and nobody didn't know nothing about how the election had gone until the votes were counted. —Kern Co. Gazette.

A MINERAL has been found in Kern county, which is puzzling the geologists, no one knowing what to call it. It is opaque; in color, tin white; lustre, metalic; laminated; soft; yield to the finger nail; leaves a streak the color of amalgam on the back of looking glasses; it is unchanged by a heat which reduces a Hungarian crucible; is perfectly insoluble in nitric of muriatic acids or any of their combinations; and has a specific gravity about equal to that of mispickel.

RICHMOND, Va., is highly amused over the appearance of the Henry Clay statue, a work of art frightfully begrimmed with dirt, which has just received a pair of hands of snow white marble, ordered by the General Assembly to replace the mutilated ones.

GREAT Salt Lake is beginning to take rank as a watering place. Bathing in its waters is said to cure skin diseases, sore eyes, and catarrh. Hundreds of afflicted are testing its curative powers at Lake Point.

LETTER FROM BODIE.

BODIE, Cal. Sept. 10.

MESSRS. EDITORS—Bodie is improveing very fast—there is about one hundred and ten houses, and two quartz mills running thirty-six stamps night and day. We have a population of about stx hundred—and lots of Piutes. Two stores, one kept by Bryant, of Bridgeport, and the other by S. B. Smith, of Aurora; seven saloons; five eating houses; two lodging houses; two barber shops; one tin shop; one shoemaker shop; two meat markets; three lumber yards (and not able to supply the demand); from three to six houses are started every day, besides quite a number of tents and mud cabins. People are taking up and jumping lots in every direction. I must not forget to mention that we have a Postoffice, F. K. Bechtel, Postmaster, and Wells-Fargos' Express, which is at S. B. Smith's store, he being the agent. The mail and express arrive and depart daily.

G. Estabrook Smith, recently from Oakland, and for 18 years a resident of Alameda county, of which he was a former County Clerk and Deputy for nearly seven years, is about erecting on the main street, directly opposite the Postoffice, a building 24x33, for a business, mining and law office.

At the recent general election held Sept 5th, 72 votes were polled in Bodie precinct; there should have been 200, but the majority of the miners, having come into the State from Nevada, had not been in Bodie a sufficient time to have gained a residence in California, and therefore were not legal voters here.

During Prof. Anderson's performance a few nights since a miner's cabin was discovered to be on fire near the Standard company's mill, and before assistance could be rendered it was entirely destroyed. Upon examination of the ruins the remains of a Piute squaw were found. The miners owning the cabin were at the time of the fire attending the show, and it is generally supposed the Piutes set the cabin on fire. The squaw was reported to have quite a sum of money on her person.

The prospects are now quite favorable for the establishing of a school district and the building of a school house, quite a sum of money having been subscribed for that purpose. A wholesale and retail grocery and liquor store is about to be erected here by Mr. Gilson, of Carson. It is said several quartz mills will soon be built by mining company's and for custom work, which is the great need of the mines at the present time. Gov. Blaisdell's mill site and spring owned and claimed by him for the past ten years, was jumped to-day, causing no little excitement thereby, the Governor having started to San Francisco a few days previously.

The 16th of September is to be celebrated in style by the Mexicans, of which there are a large number in this vicinity. The flag-pole arrived from Bridgeport to-day that is to be used in the celebration. The affair, it is reported, will wind up with a grand ball in true Mexican style. Yesterday being pay day the boys have plenty of pocket change, and anyone seeing the amount of coin in circulation would readily presume that the mines of Bodie district were in a decidedly healthy condition, of which there is no doubt, as one mine alone shipped last week over $40,000. A. C.

HOW TO SEE THE SATELLITES.—A correspondent of the New York Herald claims to have observed the newly discovered satellites of Mars and pointed them out to his wife prior to the time of discovery announced by Prof. Hall of the Washington Naval Observatory. He was examining those of Jubiter by the reflection in a mirror in a dark room, and more by accident than design, turned the mirror upon Mars, when the two satellites became apparent at once. He says this may be verified by any one who will take a clear mirror and stand in a dark room, reflecting the star into it through a window.

YOUNG beginner—"This is getting deuced absurd! I've squeezed her hand and all that sort of thing, and talked of man's loneliness and drifting down the river of life together, and that sort of thing. I wonder what on earth a fellow is expected to do next?" And it never occurred to him that perhaps he had been scarcely explicit enough.—Judy.

TURKISH baths were introduced into England, and thence into the United States by a traveler and political writer, David Urquhart, who recently died at Nice.

SOME FUNNY THINGS.

"Good gracious, what is that, Seth?" said Mrs. Spicer, as a fruit peddler drove past at 6 A. M., howling: "Here yah! Here y-a-a-h! peechiz, ripe peechiz!" "That's, my dear," said Spicer, drowsily, boring his head into the pillow, for a final nap, "that's peaches and scream."—Boston Commercial Bulletin.

"You speak of a mixed crowd," observed the opposing lawyer, "now what do you mean by a 'mixed crowd?'" "If I might venture a definition," politely interposed the witness, "I should say that an Irish row might be called a 'Mick's crowd.'" The lawyer gave up the examination.—Chicago Journal.

It wasn't homesickness that made Conkling retire behind the wheel-house the second day out, and stand on tiptoe every time the screw came out of the water and dig his elbows into the rail and hump up his back, and hang on to his temples, and gurgle, "O, Utica! O, Oneida county! O, my!"—Boston Globe.

"Why don't you speak distinctly?" cried a passenger to a brakeman who announced the names of stations in an utterly unintelligible manner. "I can't understand a word you say." "What's that to me?" responded the brakeman. "You don't expect to have a fine, clear tenor at $30 a month, do you?"

Much has been written against the bassoon; but the first evening after a young man who practiced on one moved into the second floor of an uptown boarding-house, a smile lit up the face of an aged citizen on the floor above. He said that he was now reconciled to death.

SUMMONS.

IN THE JUSTICE'S COURT OF SECOND TOWNSHIP, in the County of Inyo, State of California. D. Strohmeier and F. Strohmeier, plaintiffs, vs. Wm. Wannecke and Charles Kennedy, defendents

The people of the State of California send greeting to Wm. Wannecke and Charles Kennedy, defendents.

You are hereby required and directed to appear before me, at my office in the Second Township, in the County of Inyo, in an action brought against you by the above named plaintiffs and answer the complaint in said action, on file in my office, within five days (exclusive of the day of service) after the service on you of this summons if served within the township in which this action is brought, and if served out of the township, but in said county within ten days, otherwise within twenty days.

The said action is brought to recover of you the sum of two hundred and twelve 34-100 dollars for corn sold, meals furnished and pasturage and for balance due on mule, all of which was done by plaintiffs and their assignors at the special instance and request of defendents and that the same is due and payable in gold coin of the United States.

And you are hereby notified that if you fail to so appear and answer said complaint, as above required, said plaintiff will take judgment against you for the sum of $212 34-100 gold coin, together with costs of suit.

Make legal service and due return hereof.

Given under my hand this 16th day of June A. D., 1877.

The Blues.

Some one writes at considerable length asking in substance whether everybody is subject to the blues and whether there is any cure. To answer positively yes or no would convey a false impression and yet either answer would not be untrue.

Probably every living thing is more or less subject to depression of spirits—by which we mean to include animals; and we are by no means sure that the malady does not extend to the vegetable kingdom as well. Transplant a bunch of ferns for instance, from the dark wood where they have grown to beauty and grace, and set them with all skill in an apparently congenial place in your garden. It may be that the vital process will go on without interruption, for there are unexceptionally strong and elastic habits (temperaments that is) among plants as among animals and men, but the chances are that in a few hours the green fronds will have become dull in color, the tips of the leaves will begin to curl inward and unless the circulation of plant-blood can be quickened death will quickly follow.

The case is exactly parallel in the higher grades of life. Who has not seen a dog or a horse, or even a chicken in the blues? It is as plain in them as it is in a child, only in the case of the latter we say it has the sulks, and usually adopt the worst instead of the best way to induce a change. Perhaps there are a few rare natures that are not subject to blues. To them Heaven may well be less attractive than to the rest of humanity, for having no blues to leave behind how can they appreciate the exemption of which we are assured in the better land?

Is there any earthly cure? Certainly. Plenty of them; just as there are for chills and fever, but in like manner they will not always work. We know one man who walks off an attack, another who rows it off, another who rides it off in the saddle. These are all dyspeptics. The same prescriptions, aided perhaps by lemon juice or nitro-muriatic acid, often prove effective in the case of bilious folk.

When the cause is, as it often is, nervous exhaustion, a good remedy is cessation of all work, religious and secular, plenty of sleep, and, if the constitution can bear it, cold water bathing.

Always an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure, for when the attack has once set in it requires a strong effort of the will to take active measures for relief.

It is not an easy task to fight off the blues. Misfortune, sorrow, individual temperament, and even the accidents of wind and weather, often combine to weigh down the soul until, in extreme instances, insanity may be the result. Probably that which comes nearest to being a panacea is occupation, by which is meant anything that will interest the brain or quicken the circulation. Those who suffer most from blues permit mind and body to relax before the attack is fully developed.

Nevertheless there is no rule which can be trusted to cure every one. Each must find what is most effectual in his own case; and if he prays for aid from on high, he must rise up and go right to work helping himself, if he expects his prayer to be answered.—Christian Union.

THE grasshoppers have so far destroyed the feed in some pastures near St. Albans, Vt., that the farmers have been obliged to commence feeding their cattle with hay. Several are mowing their oat crop for fodder or drying it for winter use. Cornstalks are eaten off by the pests, and unless wet weather sets in it seems inevitable that they will destroy most of the unharvested crops and the fall feed.

A Boy's Composition on Babies.

There are four or five different kinds of babies. There is the big baby, the little baby, the white baby and the poodle dog, and there is the baby elephant.

Most of these babies was born in a boarding house, 'cept the baby elephant; I think he was born on a railroad train, 'cause he allus carries his trunk with him.

A white baby is pootier nor a elephant baby, but he can't eat so much hay.

All the babies what I have ever seen were born very young, 'specially the gal babies, and they can't none of them speak the United States language.

My father had—I mean my mother had a baby once. It was not an elephant baby, but it was a little white baby; it comed one day when there was nobody home; it was a funny looking fellow, just like a lobster.

I asked my father was it a boy or a girl, and he say he don't know whether he was a father or a mother.

This little baby has got two legs, just like a monkey.

His name is Mariah.

He don't look like my father or my mother, but he looks just like my Uncle Tom 'cause the little baby ain't got no hair on his head.

One day I asked my Uncle Tom what wos the reason he ain't got no hair and the little baby ain't got no hair. He says he don't know, 'cept that the little baby was born so, and he was a married man.

One day I pulled a feather out of the old rooster's tail and stuck it up the baby's nose and it tickled him so, he almost died. It was only a little bit of a feather and I didn't see what he wanted to make such a fuss about it for. My mother said I ought to be ashamed of myself and I didn't get no bread on my butter for mor'n a week.

One day the Sheriff come in the house for to collect a bill of $9 for crokery. My father says he "can't pay the bill," and the Sheriff, he say, "then I take something," and he looked around the room, an' he see'd the little baby and he say, "Ah, ha! I take this," an' he picked up the little baby, and he take him away to the station house.

Then my mother she commenced to cry, an' my father say, "Hush, Mary Ann, that was all right. Don't you sea how we fooled that fellow? Don't you see the bill for crockery was for $9 and the little baby was worth only two and a half."

I think I'd rather be a girl not a boy 'cause when a girl gets a whipping she gets it on her fingers, but when a boy gets a licking he gets it all over.

I don't like babies very much anyhow, 'cause they make so much noise. I never knew of but one quiet baby and he died.—Troy Budget.

Ashamed of His Mother.

We never attended exercises at West Point, writes Don Piatt, but we did years ago run down to a ball at Annapolis. We happened, on the cars, to sit by a stout old party, possessed of a ruddy, motherly countenance. She was quite communicative, and soon told us that she was on her way to Annapolis to see her son "grad-i-ate," to use her own expression. We took charge of that old lady—she was so good, kind, sensible and motherly. We were present at the meeting between the mother and son—a handsome, manly youth, one any mother could be proud of.

After supper we asked the old lady if she intended to visit the ball, and she said she would like to look in, but her son said it was quite "unpossible," as all the "tickets" were gone. We volunteered to procure the magic pasteboard, and in due time we made a grand entree, creating some sensation, for the old lady had gotton herself regardless of expense or appearance. The son was revolving with a beautiful girl—one of the Washington belles—and in one of the pauses of the dance he saw his fair partner looking at us and laughing. The eye of the young man sought the object of her evident merriment, when he saw us the expression of his face was that of, first dismay and then wrath.

The dear old lady asked us to get her a glass of water. As we returned we passed the son and saw two red spots upon his cheeks, and his brow contracted in wrath. Our aged friend, stout as she was, seemed ready to sink, and asked to be taken to a hotel. We at once hastened to comply, although assured that she was not ill. But while waiting for the one available hack of Annapolis, we saw two huge tears well out from her dear old eyes and course their way down her then rather pale face, and noting our anxious look she said:

"Don't mind me; I'm a foolish old woman, and ought to have stayed at home, for my son is ashamed of his old mother."

We are justly proud of our navy. Her gallent sons have swung the eagles of the republic too often in triumph through the smoke of battle not to have endeared them to the patriotic heart of the nation. But would it not be well to correct that one defect? It is not well to begin life in this way.

BARLEY FOR BELLEVILLE.—Three large wagons of the prairie schooner class were loaded with barley at Smith & Starratt's warehouse this morning and started for Belleville. As there is considerable teaming going on at that place it offers a good market for the barley crop of Reese river valley.—Austin Reveille.

FIRST New Yorker—"I consider him a man of first-class business talent." Second New Yorker—"Ah, indeed! What was the amount of his defalcation?"

A Gambler's Sermon.

His clothes were good, of the latest fashion and most fashionably cut. His watch chain was the heaviest of the heavy, and as fine as the gold of Ophir. It surpassed in richness the gold chain that the king hung about the young prophet Daniel. His boots were highly polished, and shone like the exterior of fine black walnut coffins. His diamond twinkled like the evening star in the Summer sky. His shirt bosom was white as an infant's soul, but his eyes were sad and his voice was as sorrowful and sorrowing as the wailing of winds in the drooping branches of the weeping willow. He tapped his boots with his natty ivory headed cane, slipped down in his chair, to give the base of his spinal column a rest, pulled his hat over his eyes, and languidly said—which plainly indicated that the gambler struck a loser, had coppered in a wrong place. "Faro is a fascinating game!" In all the games for gambling he has no equal. A man's a fool to play it, but it catches the oldest of 'em. The chances on the closest calculations are against the player; occasionally we strike a winner but we only win to lose. The most prosperous of us die in the gutter—unknown, forgotten and deserted. Luck only smiles on us for a brief season, and when fickle fortunes deserts us, she never roosts above doors again! Few of us are wise enough to save in luck, in order to live in a rainy day. But while we live, we live, and after all, that is all there is of life! The hereafter is a chance, and the old man has put up his cards so well that nobody has ever called the turn. It's a 'cat's hop' at the best. We are not utterly heartless. It makes my heart ache to see how many young men are drawn into the vortex and down to ruin. They begin on a game of base ball. They lose on a horse race. get caught in a friendly game of draw, and in an evil hour try to get even on faro. They often win on the first venture, but it is a terrible success. They always pay 1,000 per cent. on the first winning, and often they pay life and blood on the investment. The first winning opens the fascinating road to hell; builds up a barrier behind them which few ever climb over to reformation. A little sentimental, ain't I? Have some thing? You don't drink? Good. Barkeeper give me a whisky punch light! I'm blue to-day. Gambling and its attending excitements burn all the stamina out of a man, but thank God! it cannot, does not, blot out his sympathies. I wish I had never touched a card, but I am a born gambler. It's in me; it always was; and I'm in for it until the deal goes out. I hate to see young men of promise at a gambling table. They have mothers and sisters who love them; they have good situations and employers who trust them, but the day they set foot inside a gambling room thier fate is sealed. I have a case in mind now. A fine young fellow who a short time since was agent for a New York varnish house and commanded a salary of $5,000 a year, in traveling got lonely. He gambled for amusement when his business was over. He fooled with the bear, petted the beast, and soon found himself torn to pieces. To-day he is an outcast—drunken, broken and deserted. I would advise every one who has a business never to cross the threshhold of a gambling house. I have made big winnings, and I have made big losings. I lost $6,000 in Chicago trying to make ten. I was broken down and stayed down for a good long while. I'm up again. If I had a business you would never catch me a gambling again. Guess I'll go and buy a couple of stacks of reds and see how luck runs to-day. Good afternoon.—Cincinnati Inquirer.

PERHAPS the most magnificent act of heroism ever performed in this vicinity was witnessed during the performance of Forepaugh's Circus, at Reno, on Saturday last. The lion tamer was giving an exhibition of his control over the ferocious brutes under his charge, when suddenly he was observed to turn pale and tremble. The largest lion of the six in the cage had displayed unusual sullenness and anger, now refused to obey its master. With glaring eyes it crouched in the corner, and evidently meditated a spring. The trainer recovered his self-possession in a moment and keeping his eye firmly fixed upon that of the huge beast, dealt it a terrible blow with his raw-hide over the face. With a fierce snarl the infuriated lion bounded forward. Catching one of its open jaws in either hand, the powerful man held the brute off for a desperate moment by main strength. An electric thrill of horror ran through the crowd, which surrounded the cage in an instant. The beasts in the other dens shrieked and roared in chorus. It is in a moment like this that the real heroic element asserts itself. Without turning his head in the least, the brave man firmly whispered, "Pass me a small boy!" One was instantly seized and crowded through the bars. With one superhuman effort the trainer thrust the boy into the hot, closing jaws, and then bounded lightly aside. A snarl, a few savage crunches, and the beast turned again for his prey. But the hero was gone! The door snapped behind him, and gasping "Saved!" he fainted in the arms of the cheering concourse. A handsome subscription was raised on the spot, and when the audience dispersed it was with tears of grateful emotion in their eyes. A brave soul had been rescued from a horrible death—another small boy had been wiped out.

AN envious paragrapher remarks: "It has been observed that the lady with the diamond ring will scratch her nose, in given period, four times as often as any other woman."

THE JUDICIAL ELECTION.

There being no other officers than Justices of the Peace to elect in this county at the regular Judicial election in October, the Board of Supervisors, for economy's sake, did not make any provisions for holding an election at all —in other words, concluded to let the whole matter go by default. This, of course, will save the county some hundreds of dollars of expense in the first instance, but it will probably cost the people, if not the county corporate, a great deal more than that in the end. If the Board of Supervisors can legally appoint Justices for a full term, as they would be required to do on petition if none are elected at the proper time, they could legally do just the same with any and all other county offices. We do not believe that the law contemplates giving them any such powers, and if it does not, and no Justices are elected at the time fixed by the Constitution, then after the expiration of present terms there will be no legally qualified Justice in the county. In view of all the points and facts, which we have not now space to refer to, THE INDEPENDENT would advise that the voters in every township, on the day fixed in the Governor's proclamation—October 17—proceed to elect their Justices, carefully observing all provisions of the election law. The county will finally have to foot the bills, and the absence of the Supervisors' proclamation will affect nothing—except the pockets of publishers, to a small extent.

THE UNITED STATES SENATOR.—California's next United States Senator will be a Democrat. That is the outcome of the election just concluded, by which the new Legislature is Democratic, by a majority of 52 on joint ballot. Now comes the question as to which of the many aspirants for the place will get it. Two elements enter into the determination of that question—money and brains. Honesty ought to be a third element, but, as things go, we doubt if it will ever enter into the calculation. Jim Farley was supposed to have the best chance, but he has been politically unfortunate of late. C. T. Ryland is said to have brains and money, and if he likes to employ both his chance ought to be good. Then comes Mark L. McDonald, the Ursa Major of the Stock Board. Next comes Gov. Irwin, the one above all others whom we should be glad to see chosen, for then the third element—honesty—and not money would vindicate the choice.

THERE is a movement among the representatives of the South to induce the President to recommend the necessary legislation to Congress to increase the infantry regiments of the army to twelve companies instead of ten, as now constituted. This would give to the army one hundred additional Lieutenants and fifty Captains. The plan of increase also contemplates an additional Lieutenant Colonel and Major for each regiment, which would make twenty-five appointments each to that grade. Those who urge the movement say that the South is but sparsely represented among the officers of the army, and that if the President will give that section the bulk of the appointments that it will meet no opposition from the Southern Congressmen, and it is believed at the same time will tend to popularize the army in the South.

MURDERS BY CHINAMEN.—On the 15th instant H. N. Sargent, and Mr. and Mrs. Louis Oder were all murdered by Chinamen, at or near Rocklin, Placer county. Sargent survived long enough to give some details of the attack upon himself, and to describe two of the parties, both well known Chinamen. He was some distance from his house at the time, and knew nothing of the murder of the Oders, who were his tenants. Robbery appeared to be the principal motive for the diabolical deed. The whole country is terribly excited about it, and every Chinaman in that section has been driven away, and their houses destroyed.

A NOVEL feature of the camp meeting ing near Guerneville, Sonoma county, is a cottage of three stories in a hollow tree. The cavity in the tree is thirteen feet in diameter, affording ample room for a lodging house.

A NEW fifty-dollar gold coin is soon to be issued from a die now being prepared by the officers of the Philadelphia mint.

THE estimate upon the new wheat crop of California is fully 300,000 tons. This is a good exhibit for a dry year.

THE TRESPASS LAW.

It is altogether likely some efforts will be made in the next Legislature to amend the present No-Fence Law. There is certainly room for improvement. A correspondent of the Colten Semi-Tropic illustrates the ineffectiveness of the existing law in this way: "A farmer took up a horse for trespass and found his damages to be $20; for safe keeping the horse was put in a stable in the village. At the end of twenty-five days the horse was sold to the highest bidder and brought $7; this amount just covered the court expenses and the farmer not only lost his $20 damages, but had to pay five dollars in cash for the horse's feed at the stable. In other words it cost him $25 to put the horse through the labyrinthine meshes of the Trespass law."

The same correspondent then suggests as an amendment to give the farmer equal justice that the owner or tenant of property trespassed upon shall have the right, if he thinks the stock will not pay the damage and cost of sale, to call in two disinterested men and have the damages assessed and the stock valued, and if the damages awarded and cost of sale are greater than the value of the stock then the owner of the land or his tenant shall have the right to take the stock in payment for the damages.

But the trouble would be to determine the amount of damages in certain cases. Suppose for instance that a dozen or more stray animals make it a habit to graze for days in some farmer's alfalfa field. The owner of the field has certainly thereby sustained a loss and a damage, but it would be impossible for the disinterested referees to say, judging from appearances of the field that it amounted to anything at all, and, in any event, no account can be taken of the annoyance and loss of time occasioned to the owner of the field by reason of the intrusion of such estrays among his own stock. But, whatever his chances for adequate relief may be in case of trespassing cattle or horses on alfalfa or any other crop, there appears none whatever in case of trespassing hogs. Should the farmer take them up pursuant to law, about all he could hope to recover would be the cost of their keeping, since no obvious damage could be shown, even after they had subsisted on his alfalfa for weeks. Well, this cost of keeping is fixed by law at five cents a day per head. For this five cents the law compels the taker-up to furnish the impounded animals good and sufficient food, otherwise he becomes responsible in damages. There can be no objections to the obligation, but the trouble is, the five cents will not equal the value of the feed he is compelled to furnish. Practically, then, there is no legal relief for the field owner in cases of this kind, and really but little in any other. The correspondent referred to above illustrates the matter still further by this statement:

A horse, which would not sell for $1, broke into our orange orchard and destroyed an orange tree worth $3. Now according to the present law we would be compelled to post this horse for ten days, then bring suit in ten more and then have a sale in five more, making twenty-five days, costing in feed five dollars and then the horse brings $1 which is pocketed by the Justice and Constable, while we are expected to hand over to the said court at least six dollars more out of our own pocket, besides losing eight dollars in damages and expenses.

Under the proposed amendment previously quoted the horse could be awarded to the orchard owner to sell or do with him as might be deemed best to cover the losses he had occasioned. But if that cannot be done the law should be so amended that in cases where a sale has been effected under the law, if the stock should not bring enough to pay damages, expenses of feed and court fees, then the proceeds of sale should be divided equally, the court taking one-half and the plaintiff the other half.

THE twenty-fifth session of the California Annual Conference of the Methodist Church commenced in Oakland on the 12th instant. The roll call showed 65 members present and several came in during the session. Bishop Bowman presided. H. B. Heacock was elected Secretary and W. L. Urmy Assistant Secretory.

SENATOR SARGENT has telegraphed Secretary Schurz, demanding the immediate removal of United States Surveyor General Rollins, who is charged with converting money belonging to the Government to his own private use.

THE state and county taxes levied and collected in California last year amounted to $11,982,314, or an average of $18 75 per capita for man, woman and child.

EUREKA, Nevada, is rapidly filling with strangers, and it is said the prospects of the district were never so bright as now.

LOST.—The indications are that the Constitutional Convention question did not carry by some thousands of votes.

COMING TO GRIEF.

Secretary Schurz has transmitted to the Commissioner of the General Land Office a letter ordering the suspension of all the desert land entries offered by Carr, Haggin and others in the Visalia Land Office, until a thorough investigation can be made as to the character of the lands. He says:

"Many reports having reached me of the fraudulent character of said entries, and particularly in the Visalia Land District, I caused an investigation thereof to be made by A. B. Newcomb, Special Agent of the Department of Justice. Under my intructions, Mr. Newcomb proceeded to the State of California and visited all or nearly all of the tracts in the Visalia Land District, mentioned in the list accompanying your report. From Mr. Mr. Newcomb's report, with accompanying affidavits and the statements of residents residing in this district, it appears that nearly all of the lands so entered will produce an agricultural crop without irrigation. Some of the lands so entered had been cultivated for several years by parties now residing there, and others have to be protected by levees from the overflow of the Kern river. It also appears from said report that a large majority of the entries made in that district were made by persons other than the real applicants."

Newcomb paid a brief visit to the Independence Land Office in this place also, but went away apparently satisfied that everything was correct, both in regard to the general conduct of the office and as to the character of desert land entries permitted, of which, however there have been but thirty-four all told.

A CLOUD BURST.—During the prevalence of a heavy thunder storm on the Colorado Desert, on the evening of the 11th instant, one of the largest waterspouts ever seen in that part of the country burst about midway between Pilot and Cactus stations. Some time previously an immense black cloud was observed hanging over the Sierra Madre mountains, from which place it gradually moved over the desert, and when it burst the vast body of water which it contained struck at the place mentioned, taking a westerly course, and flowed in a torrent across the railroad track, which was submerged, there being at one time seven miles of track under water. One large and two small culverts, together with about four hundred feet of track, were washed away. The water in some places was very deep, but it soon found its level. A large force of workmen was sent out from both sides of the wreck, and by 10 o'clock the following morning the track was cleared. The west-bound train was delayed fifteen hours and the east-bound train arrived at the Colorado river only three hours late. The damage will be about $3,000.

SENATOR BAYARD, of Delaware, while in Richmond the other day, in reply to the question, "What he thought about the policy of President Hayes?" said: "I thank God for it. He has disposed of the only obstacle that stood between the suffering South and the full enjoyment of her Constitutional liberties. He has not only carried out Democratic policy, but he has carried the Republicans with him. I think he has the cordial support of fully 75 per cent. of his party. Many who were doubtful at first now see that the time was ripe for the full restoration of every Southern State to self-government under the Constitution. The history of the States since the troops were removed, is one of the very best reasons why the Republicans and Democrats should approve Hayes' policy on the subject."

THE NORTHERN BELLE.—The annual election of the Northern Belle stockholders was held on the 10th, resulting as follows: I. C. Bateman (President), George T. Lawton (Vice President), H. H. Allen, M. J. Holmes and Henry Sweetapple, Trustees; Wm. Willis, Secretary; P. S. Buckminster, Superintendent; Anglo-California Bank, Treasurer. The net value of the bullion produced during the year was $1,592,021. The bullion is all silver, there not being a trace of gold. Cash on hand, $86,000, out of which a dividend of $50,000 was paid on the 15th, leaving a surplus of $36,000 to be carried forward on September account.

INFORMATION of a terrible disaster in the English Channel has just been received. The British ship Avalanche Captain Williams, from London September 4th for New Zealand, came in collision with the British ship Forest, Captain Lockhart, from London for New York, off Portland, and both vessels foundered. Ninety-six persons were drowned. The Forest was in ballast and had a crew numbering 21.

A DISPATCH to Los Angeles from Yuma says that the Warm Spring Indians, on the 11th, attacked a train of five wagons, killed the teamsters and destroyed the cargo. Others are reported killed. No mails are running and no further definite particulars have been received.

THE MURDER IN DARWIN.

Last issue we briefly referred to the reported murder of Nancy Williams at Darwin. We now copy from the News of the 15th the facts as elicited at the Coroner's inquest:

Again we are compelled to chronicle a murder in Darwin, one most foul and atrocious, and which will not reflect very favorably upon the fame of this place. Nancy Williams, the murdered woman, who was keeping a lodging house here, is well known in most every town in Nevada, Idaho and California, and, although leading a dissolute life, she bore the reputation of being one of the kindest and most liberal of woman, alleviating distress by her means whenever an opportunity offered, and giving from her purse to all public enterprises. She was supposed to have about her person or secreted in her house quite a large sum of money, and to obtain this booty undoubtedly was the incentive to the murder. The murder was committed some time during the night of the 12th instant, but her dead body was not discovered until four o'clock next morning. It was promptly taken charge of by M. J. McManus, J. P., who acting as Coroner, summoned a jury, held an examination, and the following evidence was elicited:

JOHN MCGINNISS SWORN.

I went to Nancy's house about 4 o'clock this morning, and struck a match as I went in the hall-way. I saw that her trunk was open, her hat on the bed and everything in disorder. I came out and got some matches from Mexicans who were gambling next door. I went back and saw her lying on the floor. I thought she was intoxicated, but looking again saw blood on her face. I left, and with Mr. Giles found Constable Welch and we went down and found her lying on her face, dead.

ISAAC B. GILES SWORN.

About 4½ o'clock I was taking lunch at the Chop House. Mr. McGinniss came in and said that Nancy was murdered. Found Constable Welch and went down to her house. Saw her lying in the room, dead. There was no signs of any one having occupied the house that night.

W. F. WELCH SWORN.

I went down to Nancy's house at 4½ o'clock this morning and found her lying dead. I found hid in two oyster cans $40 25 in silver, one Defiance Company's check for $382, and some Defiance Company boletas; also receipt for $200 remitted by W. F. & Co. to Masonic Bank, San Francisco.

F. P. HOWARD, M. D., SWORN.

Am a practicing physician and surgeon. Have examined the body of Nancy Williams and made post mortem examination. I found four wounds on her head, three on the left side and one back, either of which would have caused her death. The wound on the back of the head was the only one in which the skull was fractured. There was also a contused or bruised wound on fore finger of left hand. The wounds were all evidently inflicted by some hard blunt instrument. There was also a bruise on each of the thighs; that on the left thigh being most clearly marked. I saw no other marks of violence on the body. The wounds might have been caused by strokes from the butt of a revolver, not from barrel. Apparently, the wound on fore-finger was done by her raising her hand to protect her head.

After hearing the evidence above given the jury rendered a verdict finding that deceased's name was Nancy Williams, nativity not known, aged about 50 years; that she came to her death on the night of the 12th, from wounds inflicted by some person or persons unknown to the jury. The jury was composed of Geo. W. Dow, H. C. Gade, R. D. Holmes, M. Cronin, H. N. Potts, and Thos. Brannan. A number of male and female friends of deceased volunteered their services to dress the body, which was then placed in a neat coffin, and at 3 o'clock P. M., on the 13th the remains of poor "Aunt Nancy" were followed to their last resting place, the grave-yard, by a large concourse of citizens of this place. The citizens subsequently pledged themselves to pay a reward of 1,200 for the arrest and punishment of the murderers.

The Nevada Mining Tax Law.

Following is the full text of the law of the State of Nevada providing for the taxation of a certain class of miners:

SECTION 1. All mining claims producing not more than one ton of ore a day of mineral-bearing material containing gold, silver, copper, nickel, bismuth, antimony, or any other valuable metal, shall be assessed and taxed for State and county purposes, in the following manner: from the gross yield or value of all ores or mineral material of whatever character, there shall be deducted the actual cost of extracting said ore or mineral from the mine, the actual cost of assorting and transportation to the place of reduction or sale, the actual cost of reduction or sale, and the remainder shall be deemed the net proceeds, and shall be assessed and taxed as provided for in this Act.

SEC. 2. All bullion produced from any mine that extracts not more than one ton of ore or mineral-bearing material a day, shall be assessed and taxed at its full market value after deducting the actual cost of mining, assorting, hauling, and reducing.

SEC. 3. On claims of this class, producing not more than one ton a day, there shall be no allowance made for expenses incurred prior to the quarter in which the assessment is made.

SEC. 4. This Act to take effect on and after the first day of April, eighteen hundred and seventy-seven.

Approved March 5, 1877.

THE Philadelphians are led to the disagreeable discovery that, financially, their permanent exhibition is not a success. There is no incentive of patriotism to take the people there from remote parts of the Union, as there was during the Centennial. The people can find fairs equally as imposing nearer home, where their patronage is due, and they are not likely to slight these exhibitions in order to favor Philadelphia.

ALL SORTS.

There is now on exhibition, at 116 Dupont street, San Francisco, a mammoth bunch of grapes from the great grapevine of Santa Barbara (a cutting from the monster sent to the Centennial). This cluster weighs 125 pounds, is six feet in circumference and three feet long. The vine from which this was cut is 16 years old, and produces annually 10,000 to 12,000 pounds of grapes. This is probably the largest bunch of grapes ever grown.

During the fiscal year ended June 30, 1877, the revenue collected by the Government from distilled spirits was $51,161,664, against $50,551,195 in 1876; and while the domestic consumption showed a small increase, the amount withdrawn from warehouse for exportation was 2,529,528 gallons, an increase of 1,220,628 gallons over the amount so removed during the previous fiscal year.

The California-street wire railroad is being pushed to completion rapidly. Three hundred men are employed on the work, and the track on the west side of the hill is completed, and on the east side nearly so. The work is solid and substantial, being composed almost entirely of stone, iron and brick.

A Fearful Fall.

On Saturday last Miss Carrie A. Rice, the daughter of Philo W. Rice of Glenbrook, fell from Shakespeare's rock at Lake Tahoe, and was killed. It appears that she was with a party of six who were rambling along the shores of the lake during the afternoon, when they reached a point of rocks running out into the water, one of which, from a fancied resemblance to the face of the great poet, is known as Shakespeare's rock. Miss Rice was in company with William Crammer, an engineer at one of the sawmills on the lake shore, and proposed to him to descend a steep gorge which led down the face of the rock. Although the members of the party tried to dissuade them from making so hazardous a trip, the venturesome couple started down the rock, reaching a cave a few yards below in safety. Here they rested awhile, and started out again.

When but a few feet from the cave they began slipping and slid fifteen feet to the edge of the most precipitous part of the rock. Miss Rice cried out: "We must go, Will—there is no hope for us!" When they reached the edge Crammer caught a jutting point and held fast, at the same time seizing his companion's clothes. But her impetus was too great, and shooting from his grasp, she reeled over the edge and fell a distance of eighty feet. Crammer started back over the trail to carry the news to her father's house, a distance of about a mile, but fainted just before reaching the door. A number of people hastened to the foot of the rock, about a mile distant, and found the body of the unfortunate girl lying on the pile of rocks, unconscious and dying. Her head lay between two sharp fragments of rock, and the blood oozing from her nose and mouth. She was covered with bruises and lacerations, and nearly all her limbs were broken. She was lifted up, placed on a stretcher and taken to the house, where she died in about half an hour. She was but 18 years of age, a bright-witted and beautiful girl, and much beloved in Carson City and Glenbrook. She was engaged to be married on Wednesday to George Comstock, her father's partner.—Virginia (Nev.) Chronicle, Sept. 11.

IT appears that there is a clash among the good people of Los Angeles as regards the railroad question that is now being agitated. The discussions, in the papers and otherwise have taken a wide range. Each doctor has an unfailing specific. One suggests a wharf and a mule-team; another, a narrow-guage railroad; a third favors legislation regulating freights and fares; a fourth is looking with distended orbs for the approach of Tom Scott; a fifth thinks a candid conference with the Southern Pacific Railroad Company is the best plan; and so on. Whatever may be the outcome of these discussions, it is apparent to all that the defects of this county have been most decidedly exaggerated.—Santa Monica Outlook.

Bloat from Alfalfa.

Dan Fuller, of the Central California Colony, lost a valuable cow, last week, from eating too much green alfalfa. From what we can learn, if an animal is put on green alfalfa, and permitted from the start to eat all that it desires, the alfalfa acts similar to other clover, causing the animal to swell up and ultimately die. Stock must be gradually accustomed to feeding on green alfalfa, or bad results will follow. As there are many people putting in small patches of alfalfa for stock pastures, who are not aware of the effects, we have thought proper to call attention to the subject, and also give a cure for animals so effected. The remedy is simply to pierce the animal with the blade of a common pocket knife, making an incision just the width of the blade through the paunch. This will enable the wind, which is the cause of the swelling, to escape, and will bring relief.—Fresno Expositor.

The above is true in general terms, but the method of procedure is too indefinite to be of any use to one unacquainted with the operation. As with most other operations, there is a right way to do it. At best, it is a summary treatment; and though one should not hesitate to apply it if death seems imminent from the bloat, it is sometimes attended by fatal results. In order that our readers, who may be new to the care of animals, may understand the operation more thoroughly, we quote from Youatt and Martin, as follows:

"The safest place for this operation is the following: Supposing a line be drawn close along the vertebræ, from the haunch bone to the last rib, and two other lines of equal length to extend down the flank, so as to form an equilateral triangle, the apex of the triangle, or the point where these lines would meet, would be the proper place for the operation, for there is no danger of wounding either the spleen or the kidney.

"It may also be suggested that a small trocha is far preferable to a knife for this operation, and might be very conveniently carried in the instrument case of the surgeon, or the pocket of the farmer. It consists of a short strong stiletto, terminating in three cutting edges converging to a point, and having a handle that may be grasped with some force. To this is accurately fitted a silver tube, reaching from the termination of the three edges of the handle. This is plunged into the flank; the stiletto is then withdrawn and the tube remains as long as the operator pleases, and may be secured by tapes attached to two rings at the base of it, and tied around the body of the animal.

"The gas is certainly extricated by the knife or trochar, and generally successfully so. When gas ceases to escape, it may be taken for granted that the manufacture of it has ceased in the rumen; the trochar may then be withdrawn, and the wound will speedily heal."—Rural Press.

FRANK MARSTON KILLED AT BODIE. Most of our Alpine readers will readily recognize the name which heads this article. Frank was drunk and was entertaining a bar-room crowd with his drunken antics and silly talk. One-armed Davis, a Constable or deputy Sheriff, we don't know which, perhaps both, came upon the scene and ordered Frank to subside, in default of which he threatened to arrest him. Frank being too drunk to know what he was talking about, replied that "no damned gambler could arrest him," upon which Davis went to his house and armed himself with a double-barreled shotgun. He immediately returned to the scene of this drunken frolic, and while Marston was talking to some interested listeners, gesticulating in the wildest manner, Davis ordered him to throw up his hands; Frank seeing the shot-gun leveled at him, dropped his hands instead of obeying the command, whereupon Davis shot him in the breast. We are told that Frank had a short scuffle with Davis, during which time another officious individual stood by with a cocked revolver, apparently ready to fire another shot at Marston in case Davis couldn't get away with him. When Davis got up from the floor Marston was dead. The killing created the most intense excitement in the camp, and for self-protection Davis was compelled to flee. A party of citizens overtook the murderer a few miles from the scene of his cowardly action and lodged him in the Bridgeport jail, where he is now strongly guarded day and night by the citizens of that place, who are fearful of a raid from their Bodie neighbors. The feeling against Davis at Bodie is growing more intense every day, and the miners are raising money to secure a vigorous prosecution of the assassin. It is also reported that Frank had just sold a mine for $10,000.—Carson Valley News.

GIANT POWDER AGAIN.

Digging Out a Shot, with the Usual Result.

On the 14th instant, about 11 o'clock A. M., William McClusky was instantly killed from an explosion of giant powder, at the Cliff, one of the mines belonging to the Kearsarge company. A hole had been put in and a "shot" of giant prepared, but from some defect the explosion did not occur at the proper time, and McClusky went back to ascertain the cause. He was warned by fellow workmen not to approach the place, but he laughed at their fears and, we believe, proceeded to dig out the tamping—alone, as the others would not assist in the operation. In this instance, the third accident of the kind lately on the hill, the head of the unfortunate man, from the chin up, was blown to atoms. A messenger was despatched notifying Coroner Blair of the facts, but that officer declined proceeding to hold an inquest, deeming that he was not compelled to do so, the fact of the man's death being unquestioned and notorious. Under the law his inaction in the premises may be warranted, but we doubt if it was in accordance with public policy.

On the following day the deceased was buried at Kearsarge by his fellow miners. He was a man about 45 years of age, and a native of Scotland; had been in the employ of Supt. Gray for about a year altogether. He was considered a good miner and generally a careful one. He was an old soldier; had served through the Crimean and other European wars of his time. No blame can be attached to anyone for his terrible death, except from his own foolhardiness.

MONO MATTERS.—The Mono county Grand Jury were in session at Bridgeport last week. A correspondent informs us that they ignored a bill against one-armed Davis, for the killing of Big Frank, the particulars of which affair have been given. The Jury, it is stated, found thirteen true bills against gamblers, most of whom were residents of Bodie, for violating our California law upon the subject, the County Judge being one of the number. An emeute of the sports took place at Bodie, who fled to the town of Aurora, in Nevada. The presumption was that they would make that camp exceedingly lively at once. Mr. Frank Kenyon, an old Idaho and Nevada newspaper man, has made arrangements to start papers both at Aurora and Bodie, the latter to be called the Bodie Standard, the first number to appear about the 5th of next month. On the 12th instant the Standard company paid dividend No. 1 of $50,000—just one year after purchasing the mine. On the 16th they shipped $44,000 in gold bullion.

HOW NOT TO DO IT.—In these days of water-famine, when you have to sink a deep well deeper in order to reach moisture, if you want to know how not to fix a force pump just call on our senior. During the week he has put in thirteen days' labor in the business, and finally got the thing to work by simply reversing matters. By means of considerable labor he has inverted the well, and the water pumps downward naturally enough.

A WANDERER.—A very large bird, probably of the black eagle or condor species, evidently a wanderer from his haunts among the peaks, sailed over and over the town Wednesday afternoon last. At one time he rested upon the weather vane of the Court House, apparently to afford an easier mark for the rifle shots directed at his birdship. Becoming annoyed at the invariable misses, he deliberately soared aloft and away, in disgust.

COAL MEASURE.—A friend has written us a request to publish the system of measuring coal at Cerro Gordo, Darwin and Eureka. Desired the number of cubic inches constituting a bushel of charcoal; or the exact size of a box which will contain ten bushels, for instance. Will the Eureka Sentinel and Darwin News interview their furnace men and enlighten us?

GONE.—A. K. Briggs, a well known and old time citizen of Inyo, who has recently returned from a trip East, has left us for the Arizona region, to the regret of many friends hereabouts. W. T. Grant, with whose name our local newspapers have sometimes taken liberties, has gone back to America—no, Missouri—on a visit to the old folks.

NEW FIRM.—John Dugan and John Blair have entered into a co-partnership for the purpose of conducting the business of the Bishop Creek Flouring Mills. Both are experienced men, and no doubt they will maintain the enviable reputation of the establishment.

DOING WELL.—Little Minnie Harris, who met with the frightful accident recorded two weeks since, is doing well. The broken bones are knitting perfectly, and she has escaped all set backs so far. Dr. Bicknell is winning golden opinions from all around.

DARWINITES.—Quite a number of prominent Darwin people are sojorning in town for the while, including Mr. and Mrs. T. S. Harris of the News, Mrs. Wabelhorst, E. A. Reddy, Bob Delahide, Martin Mee, Mr. Dolan, Jim Boultinghouse and others.

DOWN FREIGHT.—The big teams of the Cerro Gordo Freighting Company invariably make the down trip heavily loaded with baled hay. The company are now paying to the valley quite as much money as they receive on freight accounts.

LODGE NIGHT.—Inyo Lodge, F. A. M., hold a stated meeting to-night, at the hall.

BLOODY WORK.

Six-shooter Victims—Two Killed and One Wounded.

At a Mexican saloon in Lone Pine, run by Francisco Dabeeney, there was on the night of the 15th, a crusade opened in which a young man named George P. Eames and a Mexican known as "Poncho"—Francisco Lugo—met with almost instant death. In the melee, during which some twelve or fifteen shots were fired, John Allison received a bullet in the back, making a very serious wound but from which he is likely to finally recover.

Little can be learned of the actual animus of the affair; the testimony recorded by the acting Coroner now on file in the Clerk's office, is a mass of disconnected trash not calculated to prove anything more than the actual fact that the men were killed by somebody. But it is generally understood that Eames and Allison went to the place "heeled," and probably expected to enact a little bull-dozing; young Eames had before incurred the enmity of some of the Mexicans on account of his actions toward one of the women of the place, and that there was considerable bad blood all around, or at least on the part of the Mexicans.

We quote the deposition of Allison as being the nearest to a description of the affair of anything else in the testimony, as follows:

John Allison, age 30 years; resides in Lone Pine, Inyo County, California. Deposes and says that on the night of the 15th of September, 1877, in the said town of Lone Pine, he was at the saloon belonging to Frank Dabeeney. That they were there fooling, being all drunk; he, deponent, was fooling with Frank Dabeeny; Poncho ran up and grabbed me and threw his hand behind his back and jerked after something; I pulled my gun at the same time he got his out; Poncho cocked his six-shooter and fired the first shot; don't know whether he hit anybody or not; all was firing, myself, Poncho and others; don't know who all. Next thing I knew everybody was running and I felt a shot strike me in the back; Poncho was in front of me; I fell to the floor; don't know who shot me; looked around and saw Frank Dabeeney running and putting a pistol in his pants; did not see Dabeeney fire at all; do not know who killed Poncho; do not know who killed George Eames. This was on the evening of Sept. 15th, 1877, and happened in Lone Pine, Inyo Co., Cal.

INQUISITION BY CORONERS JURY.

State of California, county of Inyo. Before W. H. Nosler, Justice of the Peace and acting Coroner, in the matter of the the inquisition upon the bodies of George Ames and Francisco Lugo deceased.

We the undersigned jurors summoned to appear before W. H. Nosler, Justice of the Peace and acting Coroner of 5th township, Inyo county California, at the office of said Justice, at 8 o'clock A. M., on the 16th day of September A. D. 1877, to inquire into the cause of the deaths of the said Geo. Ames and Francisco Lugo, deceased. Having been duly sworn according to law and having made such inquisition after inspecting the bodies and hearing the evidence adduced, upon our oaths each and all do say that the deceased was named respectively George Ames and Francisco Lugo. That George Ames was a native of California, aged 20 years, and that he came to his death on the 15th day of September, 1877, in this county, by a gun or pistol shot in the hands of, to the jury, an unknown party, and that Francisco Lugo was a native of California, aged 25 years, and that he came to his death on the 15th day of September, 1877, in this county, by a gun or pistol shot in the hands of, to the jury, an unknown party.

All of which we duly certify by this inquisition in writing by us, signed this 16th day of September A. D. 1877.

STAGE ACCIDENT.—The northward bound stage from Aurora, starting out at 7 o'clock in the evening, on the 19th instant, with eight passengers aboard, was thrown off the grade about three miles from town. The coach turned over once and a half, and was completely demolished. All the passengers were more or less injured, W. Hickman, Hoodlum Jack and the the driver being very seriously hurt. Frank Cluggage procured wagons in town, and with a physician, proceeded to the place to care for and remove the wounded. It is stated that the driver, a man named Scott, was drunk and thus the sole cause of the catastrophe.

SHAKE-UP.—The favored few of this locality who happened to be awake a little after 1 o'clock last Monday morning got the benefit of quite a lively little earthquake. In the stillness of the night the roaring "cropped out" pretty much as in a first class affair, though the movement was but slight, and its duration probably not to exceed two seconds.

GONE BELOW.—A. W. Eibeshutz, resident partner of the firm of J. S. Rothschild & Co., left for San Francisco on thursday last, on a general purchasing trip.

SOLE TRADER.—On Wednesday last, in the County Court, Mrs. Elizbeth E. Densmore, was granted an order to carry on business as a sole trader.

LUMBER.—During the week two or three loads of lumber have passed southward through town daily, from the Smith and Stewart mills.

SCHOOL CLOSED.—The Milton school, Camp Independence, closed the term yesterday.

A NEW STOCK.—The heavy mercantile firm of C. & M. Cohn, Lone Pine, are receiving Fall goods in abundance, which, for the next ninety days, will be sold at the very lowest margin of profits for cash—facts duly announced in their new advertisement, which came to hand too late for this issue, but will appear in our next.

INCORPORATED.—The Shawmut Gold and Silver Mining Company, to operate on Kearsarge mountain near this place, have just filed articles of incorporation. Capital stock, $75,000,000. Directors, Z. E. Spaulding, Thomas J. P. Lacy, D. H. Ward, H. W. Ward and J. T. Ward.

NOTARY.—Benjamin Russel, late Secretary of the Union Con. at Cerro Gordo, having left that place, there occurs a vacancy in the office of Notary Public. The Governor has been petitioned to commission John R. Hughes as such, which will doubtless be his action in the matter.

BONDS FILED.—All of the County and Township officers elect have filed their official bonds during the past week, to the number of about thirty. In our next will give the amounts, names of sureties, etc.

PERSONAL.—Mrs. C. Cohn and Mrs. W. K. Miller left Lone Pine Wednesday last, to spend the Winter season at the Ba . We are requested to say "good-bye" for them to their friends in the valley.

THERE was an elegant dancing party held at the Court House last night, in honor of the town's Darwin guests. "Everybody was there," and the affair passed off in a manner most enjoyable.

THE threatened Indian troubles at Round Valley and Bishop have entirely blown over, through the sensible determination of the citizens to let the slayers of Jerry alone.

ON LEAVE.—Supervisor Garretson has taken leave of absence from his duties for three or four months, and has gone to New York upon business matters.

IT is now stated that Fowler's majority in this Senatorial district will amount to about 450. Singular what became of his expected 1400.

SMALL BUSINESS.—Mrs. Flora M. Pinney publishes a second statement relating to the conduct toward herself of her late husband, the notorious Geo. M. Pinney. According to these statements, which bear the impress of truth throughout, a more brutal, lying, miserable scoundrel exists not on the face of the earth than this same George M. Pinney. His scoundrelism almost surpasses belief. Yet the San Francisco Chronicle, in its vindictiveness, pronounces these statements as "imaginary, and the work of the Federal Ring, Sargent, Carr, & Co." What else could be expected of a paper claiming to be "great," yet descending to the use of such epithets as "Effigy Sargent," etc., knowing as it well does that the inference thereby intended to be conveyed was as lying and unjust as an original lie could make it. A paper that will descend to as small a business as that may well undertake to crush a little, helpless woman for similar considerations.

THE Eureka Republican of September 8 says: The Consolidated furnaces smelted 218 tons of ore yesterday and ran out 1,000 bars of bullion. This is at the rate of a little over 41 bars to the hour, and will aggregate 105,000 pounds. This is remarkable work, and demonstrates the efficiency of the present smelting system. One month's run of thirty days at this rate would produce 3,150,000 pounds of bullion.

SPEAKING of Brigham's marital relations, the Corinne Record has the following: "Amelia Folsom was the only wife that Brigham lived with at the time of his death. He forsook all for her. Upon this favorite he lavished all the care and attention the most devoted monogamist could possibly bestow upon his companion, and now we are willing to bet a new hat that she is glad the old man ate that corn."

EX-PRESIDENT GRANT declined to go to France lest his presence there might be turned by the French Republicans to the disadvantage of Marshal MacMahon's government.

IT is suggested to English and American travelers abroad not to have their letters addressed "Esquire," as foreign post offices fancy it is a name—hence delays and losses of letters.

THE American team made a total score at the 800, 900, and 1,000 yards ranges at Creedmoor the first day of 1,655; British team, 1,629.

IN requesting a waiter at Mansfield to pass him the mustard, Mr. Secretary Sherman explained that he spoke for himself alone, and did not wish to be understood as representing the wishes or preferences of the President. The mustard was passed—the waiter stating that the act, on his part, had no political significance.—Burlington Hawkeye.

The Blue Danube.

The Danube, just now the scene of the operations of Turko-Russian war, is by far the largest river in Europe. Its main stem rises in the Black Forest within thirty miles of the Rhine, and flows centrally through Europe—through Bavaria, Austria proper, Hungary, between Wallachia and Servia, and between Roumania and Turkey proper—to the sea, having a total length of the main river of 1,709 miles. It has many large tributaries—the Inn and Iser, in Bavaria; the Drave and Suave in Styria and Crotia; the Theisss, in Hungary; the Aluta, Sereth and Pruth, in Roumania—all of which, except the two first named, are navigable, some of them for more than 100 miles. The Danube itself is navigable for 1,545 miles, and with its tributaries for nearly 2,000 miles.

This magnificent river so closely resembles the Mississippi in some particulars, and differs from it so widely in others, as to make a comparison between them interesting to American readers. The Danube drains one-fourth as much territory as the Mississippi, including all its tributaries, half as much as the Missouri, and as much as the Ohio and Upper Mississippi together. It runs nearly eastward, has its sources and those of its large tributaries in the Tyrolian and Semmering Alps and in the Carpathian Mountains. Its passage through Austria and Hungary and again along the Turkish frontier, is similar to the great American river, with width, alluvial bottoms, in overflowed, sometimes, in great freshets. Its delta and mouths are exactly similar to those of the Mississippi, and have been blocked up by sand bars, now happily removed by the genius of Sir Charles Hartley. When the Danube breaks through the Carpathian mountains it presents features closely resembling the highlands of the Hudson river, though the mountain sides are much higher and more precipitous.

SAN FRANCISCO WORKINGMEN ORGANIZING.—San Francisco dates of the 13th contain the following: A meeting of Workingmen was held last evening in Dashaway Hall, with the avowed purpose of organizing a permanent political party. A number of speeches were made and it was then proposed that on Sunday next a mass meeting be held on the lots adjoining the new City Hall. The motion prevailed. A suggestion to open soup houses on Berry street was universally endorsed. Those in favor of forming a permanent organization were invited to enroll themselves, but not very many placed their signatures on the list.

A CHINAMAN was bitten by a rattlesnake at Oreana, August 28th. He was given twelve large glasses of brandy as a remedy. At last accounts the unfortunate Chinamen was at the point of death, but whether from the effects of the bite or the brandy the doctor in attendance was unable to determine.

"HAVE you Goldsmith's Greece?," was asked of the clerk in the store in which books and various miscellaneous articles were sold. "No," said the clerk reflectively, "we haven't Goldsmith's grease, but we have some splendid hair oil!"

ANOTHER libel suit for the Chronicle says the Bee. This time it is Rogers, Taxpayers' candidate for Sheriff in San Francisco, who claims to be "done to death by a slanderous tongue."

VASSAR COLLEGE graduated about fifty young ladies this year. The average age of the class was twenty years.

PROF. HAYDEN'S EXPLORING EXPEDITION.—The party under charge of Prof. C. A. White has just arrived at Salt Lake City, having carefully explored the country from Denver across the main ranges of the Rocky and Wasatch mountains to that point. Prof. White states that his investigations have resulted in the discovery of some most important phenomena, which will form an interesting scientific contribution to the knowledge of the geology and paletology of a long stretch of comparatively little known part of the West. Information from other divisions of the survey indicate that the valuable character of the entire region explored this year, when made public, will attract the attention of the public generally. The parties will all return io Washington by the first of October.—Chicago Journal, Sept. 12.

HOW PEOPLE GET SICK.—Eating too much and too fast; swallowing imperfectly masticated food; by taking too much fluid at meals; drinking poisonous whisky and other intoxicating drinks; keeping late hours at night, and sleeping too late in the morning; wearing clothing too tight, so as to relax the circulation; wearing thin shoes; neglecting to take sufficient exercise to keep the hands and feet warm; neglecting to wash the body sufficiently to keep the pores open; exchanging the warm clothes worn in a warm room during the day for costumes and exposure so incident to evening parties; starving the stomach to gratify a vain and foolish passion for dress; keeping up constant excitement; fretting the mind with borrowed troubles; swallowing quack nostrums for every imaginary ill; taking meals at irregular intervals.

GOOD ADVICE.—Cultivate your mind and heart. Be honest. Pay your debts as soon as you get money in your pocket. Do without what you do not need. Aim to possess purity of heart and decision of character. Speak your mind when necessary. Hold your tongue when prudent. Speak to a friend in a seedy coat. Cut acquaintances who lack principle. Bear with infirmities, but not with vices. Respect modesty, despise duplicity. Wear your old clothes until you can pay for new ones. Aim at comfort and prosperity, but not at fashion. Acknowledge your ignorance, and don't pretend to knowledge you haven't got. Entertain your friends, but never beyond your means.

SOME of the prominent cattlemen of this vicinity have made arrangements for trying the experiment of shipping dressed meats from this station to Chicago. A Central Pacific refrigerator car has arrived here, and it is to be loaded with about 20,000 pounds of prime beef. The car is so arranged that thirty or more carcasses can be hung up, as in a shambles, and kept at or a few degrees above the freezing point while being taken to its destination. Should this experiment prove successful, and its success depends upon the price that can be obtained for the meat in Eastern markets, it will be carried on on a large scale this Fall and Winter.—Silver State.

FOR genuine, enthusiastic economy, commend us to the Galt farmer, who killed owls without wasting ammunition. When he sees one sitting on the ground, he walks around it two or three times, and the owl twists its head off trying to follow his motions. Fact!

A MAN will carry four hundred dollars in his vest pocket, but a woman needs a morrocco portemonnaie as large as a fist, and too heavy to carry in the pocket, to escort a fifty-cent scrip, a receipt for making a jelly cake and two samples of dress goods.

"Do you know where I can get room to store a load of salt?" asked a countryman of a Boston clerk. "Perhaps my father could accommodate you," was the reply. "He has plenty of salt rheum on his hands."

A MINISTER who had twice married the same couple—divorce ensuing between the marriages—remarked that he didn't wish to add a repairing department to his business.

"AT what age were you married?" asked she inquisitively. But the other lady was equal to the emergency, and quietly responded: "At the parsonage."

SUMMONS.

IN THE JUSTICE'S COURT OF SECOND TOWNSHIP, in the County of Inyo, State of California. D. Strohmeier and F. Strohmeier, plaintiffs, vs. Wm. Wannecke and Charles Kennedy, defendents

The people of the State of California send greeting to Wm. Wannecke and Charles Kennedy, defendents.

You are hereby required and directed to appear before me, at my office in the Second Township, in the County of Inyo, in an action brought against you by the above named plaintiffs and answer the complaint in said action, on file in my office, within five days (exclusive of the day of service) after the service on you of this summons if served within the township in which this action is brought, and if served out of the township, but in said county within ten days, otherwise within twenty days.

The said action is brought to recover of you the sum of two hundred and twelve 34-100 dollars for corn sold, meals furnished and pasturage and for balance due on mule, all of which was done by plaintiffs and their assignors at the special instance and request of defendents and that the same is due and payable in gold coin of the United States.

And you are hereby notified that if you fail to so appear and answer said complaint, as above required, said plaintiff will take judgment against you for the sum of $212 34-100 gold coin, together with costs of suit.

Make legal service and due return hereof.

American Borax Production.

The principal industrial utilization of borax is in glass making and the ceramic arts, as it possesses the property, at a high temperature, of dissolving the metallic oxides and forming transparent glass, the color of which depends upon the metal used. It is also largely employed in the manufacture of enamels, glazings for earthenware, and strass. In large glass and porcelain factories of Europe its utilization has only been limited by the high cost of the product, chiefly obtained from Italy; but the discovery of the immense borax deposits in our western territory has materially removed this restriction, so that at the present time its employment is rapidly extending, and the export of the salt from this county bids fair to become a very important branch of our commerce.

Some interesting information relative to the mode of working the borax deposits of California and Nevada is given in a report recently made by Mr. Emile Durand, who has had several years experience in the extraction of the material, to the French Society for the Encouragement of the National Industry. The various compounds of boric acid commonly found are the borate of soda, various borates of lime, hayesine or ulerite, cryptomorphite and datolite. Tourmaline may be added to this list, although it is quite rare, except in the tin mines of San Jacinto, where it forms the gangue of the ore.

The principal deposits form a kind of band in the ancient volcanic soil, which surrounds the Sierra Nevada at the north and east. This region is rich in hot springs, some sulphurous, and containing in solution in their waters various salts. The borax, which is found in the saline deposits of the valleys, may have been produced by one of two causes, either by deep springs containing boric acid or borax in solution, or by the surface water of a vast basin accumulating in a reservoir and there concentrating over an unknown period. The second hypothesis is considered as the most probable, as the salts which accompany the borate of soda (sulphate, chloride, and other magnesia salts) are found in large quantities in the adjacent mountains.

The borate of lime found in these deposits is formed probably by double decomposition. It appears in crusts on the surface or in masses in the soil. The latter are of all sizes, sometimes weighing over four pounds and containing the borate in long silky filaments, or in an amorphous powder mixed with sand and soda salts. When obtained at the surface the borax is in small crystals, yellowish white in color. It has a slightly sweetish and quite agreeable taste, which is probably owing to organic matters, as it disappears after refining. A thin steel shovel with a sharp edge for cutting the herbage is used for collecting the salt, which is taken in carts to a platform placed above large wooden vats made to contain some 3,500 gallons. These vessels are filled with water, heated to boiling by the injection of steam. The borax is thrown in by shovelsful until the areometer marks 23 deg. B. This concentration would be too great if only borax were put in, but the impurities (sulphate of soda and rock salt) added, besides the mud and borate of lime in suspension, greatly augment the density. When the above degree is reached, the solution is allowed to rest, the herbage which floats on the surface is skimmed off, and the liquid is carried by long india rubber tubes into the crystallizing vessels. The latter are large tanks 9 feet 9 inches in length, about 6 feet high and 39 inches wide. The liquid cools slowly to a temperature of 77 deg. occupying about ten days in so doing. A faucet at the lower part of the tank is then opened, and the mother liquor, mud, and large borax crystals which are formed by aggregations of small crystals are removed. These crystals are washed with the mother liquor in another vessel, by agitating them with a rake in a long trough filled with water. They are afterwards kept for refining.

At the bottom of the crystallizing vat is found a deposit of borax sometimes 6 inches in thickness, which is broken up with a pickaxe. The salt is then left to dry on platforms for four or five days, and finally is packed in coffee sacks, the filled bag weighing 165 lbs.

The distance from Columbus, Nevada, the site of one of the principal deposits, to Wadsworth, the nearest station on the Central Pacific Railroad is 360 miles over a desert country. The means of transportation is a train composed of three wagons, the pole of one fastened in the axle of the preceding. Twenty-four mules are harnessed to the first wagon. In this way the load of about 30 tons is distributed on the six axles, an important precaution, as the route lies over sandy plains and marshes, where roads are unknown. When a difficult place is reached, the three wagons are separated and the whole force of mules is attached to one vehicle at a time, which is thus hauled over or through the obstacle. Generally the owner of the train conducts it, aided by one or two assistants, and in the last wagon is stored the necessary provisions, which includes both food and water, for men an animals. This journey adds about 1½ cents to the cost of the borax per pound. From Wadsworth to San Francisco the expense of transportation is 1½ cents, and from the latter point to New York it is stated to be 1½ cents additional a pound. The total cost per pound in San Francisco is about 8½ cents. The monthly production of borax in California and Nevada is estimated at 200 tons.—Scientific American.

The Cowardly Slanderers.

Of all detestable mortals that fasten themselves upon society, remarks an exchange, those whose hearts and tongues delight in traducing others and publishing to the world the foibles of their brothers and sisters, magnifying them from mole-hills to mountains, are the most to be dreaded in a community. The man or woman who comes out boldly, and charges wrong where he or she knows it to exist, commands respect in any society, but those who whisper idle rumor from ear to ear, adding to it as they go, leaving their slime wherever they wind their loathsome track, are fit only for "treason, stratagem and spoils." No man is safe where such vipers exist. No character secure from covert assults where such beings with the image of God upon them while Satan rules their every impulse, are abroad in a community. The fair fame of the noblest man or the truest woman is the mark at which the slanderer aims his poisoned, subtle darts. Envy, suspicion, malice and all the evils turned loose from Pandora's box are concentrated in the heart and on the tongue of the traducer, and the venom of the serpent is emitted in every word he utters. Such characters deserve to be frowned down, upon the first aspersion they are heard to make; contemned by all honorable citizens, and driven from all decent and respectable society.

COMFORT FOR SMALL PEOPLE.—Not long before his death, Canon Kingsley drew attention to the surprising number of small young men to be seen in a London crowd. According to him, it was a sign of the deterioration of the race. But there are two ways of looking at everything, and, for the comfort and satisfaction of small people, we would point out that it might also be taken as an indication of intellectual progress. Many—we might almost say most—of the great men of history have been of short stature. Canute the Great, for example, was a singularly small man; Napoleon, too, was little; Nelson had no height to boast of; and the Great Conde was short enough. Hildebrand—Gregory the Seventh—the mightiest of all the Popes, was also a diminutive person. Then amongst men of letters, poets and philosophers, Montaigue, the essayist, was little; so was Pope—"a little crooked thing that asks questions;" so was Dryden; so was Dr. Watts, as we all know, on the mind being the stature of man; and so was Scarron, who, alluding at once to his ill-health, and his little size, called himself an "abridgement of human miseries."—Cassell's Magazine.

"IN the sentence, 'John strikes William,'" remarked a school teacher yesterday, "what is the object of strikes?" "Higher wages and shorter runs," promptly replied the intelligent pupil.

A MERCHANT asked his Sabbath School class the other Sunday, "What is solitude?" and was answered by a boy who reads the papers, "The store that don't advertise."

A YOUNG fellow out west while courting his girl put his arm around her waist and lacerated his finger with a pin. He came near dying of lock-jaw. Let this be a sad warning.

The Siege of Gibraltar.

The most memorable, in some respects, of all the fourteen sieges to which Gibraltar has been subjected, was the last, called the "great siege," one of the mighty struggles of history, which began in the year 1779. The famous Gen. Elliot was commander of the fortress. Spain, in alliance with France and Morocco, endeavored to surprise Gibraltar; but a Swedish ship gave Elliot the alarm. The garrison comprised five companies of artillery and the whole force was less than 5,000 men. The enemy's force was 14,000. The siege began by the blockading of the port, and a camp was formed at San Roque, with the design of starving out the garrison. When the English governor resolved to open fire upon his besiegers a lady in the garrison fired the first shot. Never did a siege of war rage more furiously than did this for nearly three years. The garrison was often reduced to sore straits for food—"a goose was worth a guinea"—and Elliot tied upon himself the experiment of living upon four ounces of rice a day for a week.

Exciting stories are told of privateers that ran in amid terrible dangers, with provisions, and of the storms which threw welcome wood and cork within reach of the besieged. The rock at one time would have been taken had not Admiral Rodney, who, sailing off the strait, captured a fleet of Spanish war ships and merchantmen, and clearing the strait of besiegers, brought his prizes into port. But all danger was not yet averted; Gibraltar was again blockaded; scurvy broke out in the garrison, and Morocco relased her harbors to English ships. The enemy crept closer and closer to the fortress; but relief coming now and then enabled the English to still hold out. The bombardment was fearful to endure. The city was almost destroyed; scarcely a house habitable, and those left pierced by shot and shell. At one time the desperate garrison fell to plundering the town; Elliot shot the leader in this outrage. The long agony, full of terrific combats and frghtful privations, ended by the final abandonment of the siege early in 1784. If in that year the English had to make up their minds that they must let go their American colonies, they had at least the consolation that Gibraltar was still theirs.

KEEP STRAIGHT ALONG.—Pay no attention to slanderers and gossip-mongers. Keep straight on in your course, and let their backbiting die the death of neglect. What is the use of lying awake at nights, brooding over the remark of some false friend, that runs through your brain like lightning? What is the use of getting into a worry and fret over gossip that has been set afloat to your disadvantage, by some meddlesome busybody who has more time than character? The things cannot possibly injure you unless, indeed, you take notice of them, and in combating them give them standing and character. If what is said about you is true, set yourself right; if it is false, let it go for what it will fetch. If a bee sting you would you go to the hive to destroy it? Would not 1,000 come upon you? It is wisdom to say little respecting the injuries you have received. We are generally losers in the end if we stop to refute all the backbiting and gossiping we may hear by the way. They are annoying, it is true, but not dangerous so long as we do not stop to expostulate and scold. Our characters are formed and sustained by ourselves, by our own actions and purposes, and not by others. Let us always bear in mind that "culmniators may usually be trusted to time and the slow but steady justice of public opinion."

A WOOD teamster yesterday had some business to transact with the occupant of a room in the top story of a block on Griswold street, and as he reached the landing of the last flight of stairs his heel caught and down he rolled, bumping from stair to stair, and unable to catch hold of anything. A lawyer leaned over the stairs as he heard the noise, and shouted:

"You'll strike bottom pretty quick—don't get discouraged!"

"Oh, I know just where I am; I counted the stairs when I went up," replied the teamster.

As he landed he rubbed his bruised back, and looking up the stairs he mused: "I counted fourteen steps going up and fifteen bumps coming down. Something wrong with the architecture of the building."—Free Press.

THE story of an Oshkosh man who took up a collection at the funeral of his wife, which is going the rounds as illustrating a mean man, says the La Crosse Sun, is explained by the fact that the bereaved man is a church deacon, and for twenty years he had always taken up a collection while the choir was singing the second time. At the funeral, when the choir struck up "Old Hundred," before he thought what he was doing he got up and passed the hat as usual, to raise money to defray the necessary expenses. When his attention was called to it after the funeral, and he thought how his motive would be misconstrued, he felt as bad about it as anybody. It was not an evidence of meanness, but a case of absence of mind.

RUSSIA'S OUTLOOK.

A correspondent of a London paper, who confesses to strong Russian sympathies, draws a gloomy picture of the prospects of the armies of that nation in the war with Turkey. He asserts that, in his opinion, the Turks surpass the Russians both as private soldiers and as officers, and implies that the former have so far got the worst of the conflict. This is a bad showing for one of the first-class powers of Europe, hitherto deemed one of the most powerful nations on earth, to make against a third-class power which was deemed to be so weak as to be near its end. Russia started out in this war boastfully, almost disdaining its enemy; and the civilized world looked on and thought there could be no other issue than the wiping of Turkey from the map of Europe, if it was forced to contend single-handed against the Muscovite. The result has proven the fallacy of this opinion; and to-day the weaker power stands in the light of a victor and the mighty Empire of Russia, with all the great and extended power of its despotism, is before the world as good as vanquished by an inferior and despised foe. "The race is not always to the swift, nor the battle to the strong."

Roumania, which sent her troops to the assistance of Russia with so much confidence, is paying a bitter penalty for her zeal in the Russian cause, by the loss of thousands of men, sacrificed to Turkish bullets by Russian commanders, without the prospect of the slightest advantage arising to her from the stand she has taken.

The correspondent concludes by saying that he doubts whether the Russian attack on Plevna can succeed even after the arrival of the Imperial Guard, which comprises the flower of the Russian soldiery.

A GREAT TRAIN ROBBERY.—On the 18th instant, the East-bound passenger train which passed Cheyenne at 3 P. M., was stopped and robbed by 13 masked men at Big Springs, Nebraska, 160 miles east of Cheyenne. The robbers first took possession of the station at Big Springs, destroying the telegraph instruments and compelling the agent to hang out a red light. When the train stopped, the robbers took possession, putting the train men and passengers under guard. The express car was broken into, and the safe robbed of about $75,000. The passengers were also robbed. A freight train overtaking the express, its engine was sent to Ogallalla, from whence a report of the robbery was made. The robbers are believed to have gone north. The Railroad Company offer a reward of $5,000 for the arrest of the thieves. The affair has created an immense sensation throughout the country.

DESERT LAND.—The following instruction has been recently received from the Commissioner of the General Land Office, in relation to applications for unsurveyed desert lands, under the Act of March 3, 1877:

"If practicable, the description should be made by reference to the public survey; if not, the land may be described by natural boundaries, or land marks, if such there be; if there are none, then by such artificial land marks as it may be necessary to place, in order to define its location.

In all entries of unsurveyed land under said Act, the party's declaration must be accompanied by a diagram, showing the boundaries of the land entered as nearly as possible."

Applicants who have filed without furnishing diagrams of their respective locations should, without delay, send to the local office diagrams of their several locations.

IN the battle the Nez Perces ride up behind little elevations, throw themselves from their ponies, fire and are off like rockets. Lines of them creep and crawl and twist themselves through the grass until within range, and with pieces as good as those of the soldiers, tell with deadly aim that they are marksmen. They tie grass upon their heads, so that it is hard to tell which bunch of grass does not conceal an Indian with a globe-sighted rifle. They also climb trees and shoot from them.

THE United States Supreme Court opens the October session on the 8th, proximo. Its docket is nearly three years behind, and the accumulation of business is constantly increasing. Prominent members of the Bar contemplate urging Congress to provide a Commission of Appeals to assist in cleaning the docket and relieving the Court of its pending burden of business.

THE first telescope was probably used in England in 1608.

THE SCHOOL LAW.

In the matter of legislation needed there is no one thing more imperatively required than an amendment to the school law so as to permit a more equitable disposition of public school money. The present system may work well enough, and probably does, in the more populous portions of the State where everything is so much cheaper that teachers may be had for comparatively very small salaries, but here it works a positive hardship in more ways than one. First, the maximum sum allowed each district of from fifteen to fifty children is $500 all told, less ten per cent of the State Fund which is deducted for library purposes; then, as an average, the sum available for teachers' salaries, and all incidental expenses, may be set down at not to exceed $475. The law makes it imperative that each district shall maintain a school not less than six months in each year. The lowest figure at which a good teacher can be had to take a school for so short a term is about $100 per month. Every district of less than fifty children finds that to pay the salary only, the public money is not enough by at least $125; adding to this the cost of fuel and the commonest necessities in the way of supplies and the total deficiency will be little or no less than $200. Now, how is this to be made up? Either by begging or the levy of a special district tax. In case the latter plan is tried an election has to be ordered; said election has to be held in due legal form as in a general election, involving the expense of legal ballots, a full Election Board to sit all day, and last, but not least, some one or more persons to go around and induce favorably disposed citizens to take time sufficient to go and deposit ballots "yes" enough to carry the election over ballots "no," which latter are generally mustered in good force with very little trouble. If the "noes" have it, the expense of preparing for the election will, in nine cases out of ten, have to be borne by one or two individuals, and very often of those least able to stand it. If the "ayes" have it, then comes the expense of assessing and collecting the tax, which if charged for at usual rates cannot be but little if any less than $100. That is to say, it may cost the tax-payers between $200 and $400 to raise the net sum of $200 by means of a special election. As a matter of course Trustees will never resort to that plan until every other fails. The "every other" may be set down as but one, viz., begging. That plan generally answers the purpose, but Lord! at what a cost to the solicitors. We will drop the curtain on their experience for the present.

It is enough to say that to maintain a school under such circumstances is a constant, never-ending, humiliating, aggravation to every person public spirited or self-sacrificing enough to undertake it. It is a work only suited to book agents and lightning-rod men of many years experience—men who can stand it to be lectured ten dollars' worth for every five dollars received.

To recapitulate: The law gives each district $475 that may be applied to the maintenance of school; it demands that the school be kept not less than six months, or get no part of said $475. Then, in practice, the district in order to get the benefit of that sum is compelled to add about as much more to it, and is compelled to raise its proportion by hook or crook or as best it can, by voluntary donations, which, in fact, are but little less than forced loans on the comparatively few able and willing to give. Those not willing to give are the ones to vote no in a special tax election, and as they outnumber the others, it is rarely that the burden of raising the additional revenue can be fairly divided up by means of a special tax. Under the present law it is required that the Board of Supervisors levy a county school tax so that every district will get enough including the State money to make up the $500. That far, it is well and fair enough. But the beauty of the arrangement comes in in the division of any surplus that may remain. Supposing this surplus to be say $1,000; suppose, too, there are say ten districts in the county; suppose, next, that nine of these districts have not to exceed fifty children each, and, lastly, that the tenth one has fifty-one children—the result is, that one child is worth just $1,000 to that particular district. Now, the commonest kind of common sense and justice, instead of giving it all to that one child would be to divide it pro rata among all the districts. Were that the rule in place of the present absurd and positively unjust arrangement, the Board of Supervisors would feel at liberty, and in fact, feel it a duty to raise the county school tax so that each district, on its pro rata basis, would get from $600 to $700 each. As it is now, there are four districts in the county that will come in for a share of any surplus; heretofore there was but one entitled to the surplus. But whether it is but one or four it is still not a fair thing to make a school tax apportionment any more than barely high enough to satisfy this $500 demand of each district; otherwise, should there be say $2,000 of a surplus, that $2,000 will all go to these four districts (but one last year), in three of which there is but two or three children in excess of the maximum for one teacher. The law should be so changed that after each district has received its $500 as at present, the surplus produced by the county tax could apportioned pro rata among all. No district that cannot show an actual average attendance above fifty pupils, (or some fixed number), ought to be ranked in the preceed class, even if the Census Marshal's report should show that the district contained 100 or 500 children of school age.

THE PATENT OFFICE BURNED UP. The grand structure occupied in part as the United States Patent Office in Washington was the scene of a most destructive fire on the 24th instant. The fire originated from spontaneous combustion among a lot of non-patented chemical matter stored in the attic. Some 70,000 models were destroyed. Most of these were of the rejected class, but then also many thousands upon which patents had been granted. The loss is approximated at about $500,000, but in view of the destruction of so many valuable models it is possible the actual loss to inventors and Government combined may reach five times that amount. The building occupies the two blocks of land situated between Seventh and Ninth and F and G streets, and is 453 feet long and 331 feet wide, and 75 feet high. In it are the offices of the Secretary of the Interior, the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, the Commissioner of the General Land Office and the Commissioner of Patents. The original building was built of freestone and granite in the Doric style. Two wings of marble were added later, each of which equaled the dimensions of the main edifice. The principal entrance is on F street, directly opposite the General Postoffice and presents a very commanding appearance. The building was considered the best specimen of this style in the country, and always attacted a great deal of attention from strangers. The two lower stories and basement were used for the various offices of the different bureaus of the Interior Department enumerated above, and the large hall overhead was used for storing the models upon which patents were issued. This immense apartment, which extended around the vast building, had at least 75,000 models arranged for convenient reference, all classified and numbered and placed in cases. Nearly all of these have been destroyed and many were badly damaged in being removed to places of safety. Efforts were made during the early stages of the fire to save the many valuable relics which were exhibited in the main hall of the model-room. Among these was the original copy of the Declaration of Independence, the printing press used by Franklin, articles of Washington's wardrobe, etc. All of these were removed to places of safety. The fire was confined to the attic and upper stories, so that the damage is limited almost entirely to the Patent Office.

How mean some rich men can be is illustrated in the subjoined, from the San Francisco Exchange: Lucky Baldwin has been mulcted in damages in the suit brought against him by Catharine G. Kenney, to recover $2,000 entrusted to him for the purchase of stocks. It was proved on the trial that Mrs. Kenney was induced by Baldwin to place the money—all she had in the world to support herself and aged parents—in his hands, upon his assurance that he would make it good to her in case the venture should prove a losing one. When she called upon him again he told her that stocks had gone down, and blandly informed her that she owed him over $5,000. She reminded him of his promise to secure her from loss, but he totally denied ever having said anything of the kind. He finally offered to give her $400, and furnish herself and mother with employment at his hotel at $2 50 per day, and give them board free for an indefinite period, if she would let the matter drop. The case was given to the jury yesterday, and they at once returned a verdict for plaintiff, fixing damages and costs at $2,553. Baldwin testified on the trial that he was now worth from $6000,000 to $10,000,000.

THE pending libel suit between Congressman Page and the Chronicle was begun for a second trial at Placerville on the 18th. Eleven jurors were empaneled when the defense, not wanting any more of the pie, insisted upon a continuance, which was granted. It was stipulated that he case be continued from term to tem till after Page's return from Washington, where he now goes to attend to his official duties.

MAINE goes Republican by even a stronger majority than had been expected, in view of the disaffection which is known to exist among Republican party leaders in that State.

New Style of Ore Furnaces.

A correspondent of the Virginia Chronicle, writing from New York, August 3d, says:

Last week I visited some new furnaces, erected for the purpose of desulphurizing and roasting ores, which may be of interest to your section of the country, as I understand your circulation is large in what may be termed the mining region. This is a simple process for extracting the sulphur and at the same time reducing the ore to a state of rottenness, so that it may be easily ground into powder, when there is no trouble to extract the mineral. When I visited the furnace it had been in operation something over a week, and after the first few hours no fuel of any kind had been added, and still it was roasting at the rate of four tons every twenty-four hours. There were ten furnaces, but to all appearances should have supposed that there was but one, and each of these, be it understood, would easily run through four tons a day. I made a minute inquiry and found the cost of erecting the ten did not exceed $500, and the cost of operating was three men's labor. The same person erected twenty furnaces for a nickle mining company in this State six years ago, and the fire has never been out unless extinguished, except for repairs. He is now in the State of Virginia where he has a contract to erect twenty for a large mining company, after a full examination on their part of those in operation here. It might be well for your miners to investigate this, and especially if you are troubled with sulphite to any great extent. I casually mentioned these furnaces when on a visit to the assay office in this city, and officers are of the opinion that a revolution in roasting will be the result if generally introduced. The inventor is an old English workman, who has spent thirty-five years in erecting furnaces for making vitril, acids, sulphur, etc., and whose experience has brought about this happy result. I may take occasion to speak of these more fully at some future date, if an opportunity presents for further examination. If you should want to hear meanwhile, you have my address, and have but to request and I will place you in a position to gain every point desired.

AWFUL CARNAGE IN IOWA.—Seven Massachusetts sewing machine agents and fourteen book agents invaded this county one day last week. The Governor was immediately urged to send troops, but he said he had no military at his command, but he would send down a couple of lightning-rod men and a chromo man, who would talk the invaders to death. Then Burlington just got up and went over the river and hid in the woods until the sounds of carnage died away. And as the pale moon rose up slowly and calmly, she looked down and saw the cold corpses of seven sewing machine agents and two lightning-rod men, while the only living creature that roamed the awful field was a deaf chromo man in the wild, fierce delirum of the lockjaw.—Burlington Hawkeye.

GOV. IRWIN may think he is doing a good thing for the County Supervisors throughout the State. Up to the first of this week a number, and perhaps all, of the various Boards of Supervisors throughout the State, have been waiting in session from day to day to receive the Governor's proclamation for the judicial election, at an expense to the counties of $18 a day. Our Board has been so waiting, having no other business on hand. They have telegraphed, and the proclamation was promised last week, but it did not come. The expense to each county is considerable, and to all the counties, if all were in the same fix, as we suppose, it would aggregate some fifteen or twenty thousand dollars in a few days.—Visalia Delta.

ANOTHER FAILURE.—The McDonald & Huston furnace was started up at Mineral King, last week, and the first charge of ore was so heavy that it chilled upon the cold hearth, before it was reduced. A second effort was made, but that failed also. As to whether any further effort will be made to start these furnaces this Fall we cannot say. The Crabtree Bros. are also putting up a furnace. We understand this is rather on the reverbatory principle and may be a success.—Iron Age.

THE people of Prescott, Arizona, complain that water never was so scarce in Yavapai county as it is at the present time. All over the western part of the county the sign, "No water for horses" is seen on the wells. At John Dickson's, at Scull Valley, water is worth five cents a bucketful, and is scarce at that.

"WELL posted"—The telegraph.

The American Mule.

Another serious and perhaps fatal accident by the great North American mule is reported by the Virginia Chronicle, as follows: Dr. F. Kampf, the astronomer who established the base line for the operations in this State of the surveying and exploring parties under Lieut. Wheeler, was kicked in the forehead by a mule at Ogden, Utah, two or three weeks ago, and suffered injuries which will probably prove fatal to his life or reason, or both. The party with Dr. Kampf, which had been operating in Utah during the past Summer, being about to return to Washington, the mules were being put on board the cars, when one of them bucked, and Dr. Kampf took hold of the heel of one of its hind legs to push it in. This idea is strictly original with Dr. Kampf, and such a one as would not occur to any but a very learned man; and the result was, as might have been expected, the mule kicked him. Dr. Kampf was a man of uncommon ability. He was about to leave for Japan, being under engagement as astronomer to the government of that country. He has a wife, who resides in Philadelphia.

The same paper says editorially: "We have the sad news that one of the leading scientific men of the Wheeler Expedition has been kicked in the head by a mule at Ogden Junction and severely injured. The unfortunate gentleman was a skillful astronomer. He could calculate how much of the moon would be eclipsed ten years in advance—measure the tail of a comet flying through space—and yet, with all this vast fund of learning, he didn't know any better than to go up behind a bucking mule and attempt to push him into a railway car!"

The mule has come to be so much of a standing joke in American journalism that, no matter how sad the circumstances might be, no person killed or injured by one could possibly get any sympathy from the press.

ON the 15th the State Board of Equalization levied the tax for the present fiscal year, as follows: General Fund, 32 cents; School Fund, 25 cents; Interest and Sinking Fund, 6 cents. Total, 63 cents on each $100. Last year the rate was 73½ cents, and the assessment roll was about nine million dollars larger than it is this year.

LEWIS V. BOGY, United States Senator for Missouri, died at his residence in St. Louis on the 20th instant, of malarial fever and abcess of the liver.

THE Enterprise contains the following concerning Pierce, the man shot in Tuscarora a short time since. Pierce is interested with Gov. Bradley and Prof. W. Frank Stewart in town property in Tuscarora. In 1872 Pierce killed an old man named George Wilson, who was tending bar for him in a saloon at Carson City. It is said to have been a cold blooded murder, as the man killed was old and feeble, being almost dead with consumption. Pierce accused the old man of having taken some money from the drawer and gambled it off. The old fellow stoutly denied the theft and raised his cane, when Pierce shot him down. The money he was accused of having taken was afterward found in the old man's boot, it having slipped through a hole in his pocket without his being aware of the fact.

SENATOR CONKLING, says, rather jeeringly: "A man who goes abroad, and comes back impressed with the majesty and growth of his own country, and better satisfied with it, seems to be altogether out of fashion with a class of very intelligent and superior beings. It is thought quite large and fine to hunt out and magnify and dwell upon the deficiencies and shortcomings, real or imagined, of the American people, and blazon them to the world, and then to fall down in admiration before the grand people and the grand things of other countries."

THE San Francisco papers claim the California Senatorship for San Francisco as a right. This brings out from the interior journals the announcement that if the Bay City gets away with Mr. Sargent's successor she will come pretty near having four Senators, Jones and Sharon being credited to that exacting burg.—Eureka Sentinel.

THE San Diego News has the following: "It is said that the Government has directed Mr. Stanford to discontinue his bridge building at Yuma. The reason assigned, as we understand, is that the bridge impedes navigation, and besides, we believe, it is held that he has no rights there."

AT Camp Verde, Arizona, flour is $11 per hundred pounds; bacon, 40 cents per pound; sugar, 35 and coffee, 50 cents. The wages of mechanics are $4 a day and that of laborers $35 and $40 per month.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:
SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 28, 1878.

Cerro Gordo.—A correspondent on the hill jots down the following items of interest: "The furnace will start up on or about the 1st of October, to make a gold run. W. E. Goodrum, the furnace Superintendent, is now in the city, but will be here to start her up. Mr. Porter stated this morning that the shaft is all right below the Omega tunnel level, 200 feet from the surface; this will leave 700 feet of the shaft which has not been seriously damaged by the fire. They have been working three shifts in the shaft, and will in a few days have it cleaned out, ready for the machinery. The men are now working in ropes, for fear the false bottom of the Omega might let them down. Mr. Porter thinks he will have the hoisting works running by the 15th or 20th of October.... Parson English is but slowly recovering from his sickness caused by his sore shoulder."

A Bad Go.—For some weeks past all progress in sinking the Davis artesian well at Lone Pine has been stopped by a strata of the hardest and toughest description of cement, at a depth of 182 feet, which had been finally cut through but for one rock in which the pipe caught. After working unsuccessfully to remove the obstacle for a long time, some Chinaman insisted upon being to break it up with giant, and he was finally allowed to try the plan. The result was an explosion at a point only 86 feet down, causing the destruction of the property, and a loss of say $500 in money. The latter would not be so much considered were the vast importance of the experiment not so valuable. In view of this point, we think that if an effort was made to secure such, cash subscriptions could be had from all parts of the valley toward helping on another trial.

Fire.—The Stevens flume property, at Cottonwood, was by fire on Thursday last damaged to the amount of five or six thousand dollars. A short section of the flume was destroyed, together with about 64,000 feet of lumber and timber. Most of the latter had been got out for the reconstruction of the Union Con. works at Cerro Gordo, and this disaster will further delay matters on the hill. We are not in possession of particulars, as to how the fire originated. The loss will fall heavy upon the Colonel, who, for his enterprise and energy, has no end of well-wishers in Inyo.

In Doubt.—It would seem to be a question of serious doubt whether Mr. Curtis, present Supervisor for this district, or Mr. Westerville, elect, has the right to act as one of our county dads during the session beginning on Monday next. There appears to be no definite law upon the matter directly applying to this county; but the precedent has been that the elect assumes his duties at the first meeting after election. The Attorney General has been applied to for an opinion, and his decision will govern the action of the parties in interest.

A Big Bird.—On Thursday last A. B. Elder, with his little shot-gun, brought down from among several of the same species flying over Lone Pine, a bird of the pelican species remarkable for its size. Measured from tip to tip of wings the result was 8 feet 1 inch; from point of bill to tip of tail is 4 feet 7 inches. Save the tips of the wings, which are jet black, the bird is white; the bill about 15 inches long, and the weight 28 pounds. He is a curiosity well worthy of proper preservation.

A Skirmish.—This morning, for using considerable uncalled-for language—while "a little off" from his potations—directed toward Union men as a body, our miners and citizens generally and his assailant in particular, Supt. Hutchings of the Rex Montis received a severe thumping at the hands of Constable-elect A. B. Kitchen. He was placed in the calaboose by the Sheriff.

Taxes.—The Board of Supervisors met on Monday last to fix the rate of taxes for county purposes. After the reduction upon the assessment roll the rate will necessarily be high. The rate levied by the State Board of Equalization, for State purposes, is 63 cents per $100.

Country Fair.—The fairy season of Fall is upon us, when a little carelessness in the matter of setting up a stove might cause the whole town's destruction—should a blaze get started during one of our occasional winds. It is impossible to exercise too much care about such things.

Another Fire.—An accidental fire occurred at the ranch of Fred Alberts, on Georgia Creek, about noon on Saturday last. His stable and grainery were consumed, together with five or six tons of hay and his entire crop of barley.

Races.—Preparations are being made for a series of horse races at the Big Pine track on the 15th of next month, for purses and pools. The track, for a quarter, is said by judges to be the best in the valley.

Dance.—A big time was had at the old company quarters, Camp Independence, last night, some twenty-five couple being in attendance.

See the new advertisement of Messrs. C. A. L. Cohn, Lone Pine. They are an enterprising firm, and good people to deal with.

Bullion.—The Standard mill at Dodge shipped gold bullion to the value of $41,000 on the 26th instant, the result of ten days' run.

Going Back.—T. S. Harris and lady, with the Darwin party, start for home on Monday next.

Official Bonds.—The official bonds of the new county officers elect, to whom is confided the care of the county governmental machinery for the ensuing two years from January 1, 1878, have been filed with the County Clerk and placed upon record as follows: Wm. L. Moore, as Sheriff; Sureties—Seth G. Sneden, $5,000; P. W. Bennett, $5,000; J. D. Mairs, $3,000; Henry Levy, $3,000; A. N. Bell, $3,000; A. W. H. Smith, $1,000; O. I. Mairs, $1,000. John Crough, as County Clerk; Sureties—O. M. Parris, $2,000; D. H. Williams, $1,000; John Cullen, $1,000; R. W. Woolard, $1,000; S. Levinson, $1,000; T. K. Hutchison, $3,000; John Clark, $3,000. As Auditor—W. T. Hall, $1,000; James Kavanagh, $1,000; Richard Hessian, $2,000. As Recorder—C. P. Ekeland, $1,000; Jno. J. Gunn, $1,000; J. J. Moore, $1,500; A. C. McDonald, $500. Henry M. Isaacs, as County Treasurer; Sureties—Seth G. Sneden, $5,000; Omsi I. Mairs, $1,000; Elijah Robinson, $5,000; Thomas May, $5,000; John Broder, $30,000; H. H. Dickenson, $2,500; John Shepherd, $5,000; S. C. Gray, $2,500; Henry Fehrman, $3,000; James Jones, $3,000; D. B. Curtis, $3,000; Peter Bennett, $4,000; A. W. Eibeshutz, $10,000; Geo. W. Shedd, $10,000; Reuben Van Dyke, $5,000; J. G. Dodge, $5,000; Wm. H. Huff, $2,000; T. S. Harris, $2,000; P. W. Bennett, $3,000. R. B. Snelling, as District Attorney; Sureties—James Malone, $1,000; Joseph McDermott, $1,000; J. H. Cook, $1,000; Aaron Hood, $1,000. John A. Lank, as Public Administrator; Sureties—John Shepherd, $8,000; James N. Rose, $1,000; James Olds, $1,000; P. A. Chalfant, $1,000; Joseph Harris, $1,000; E. A. Reddy, $1,000; John Shepherd, $2,000; A. Hood, $1,000; James H Cook, $500; A. R. Conklin, $2,500; Thomas Kehoe, $2,000. As Coroner—P. W. Bennett, $1,000; P. A. Chalfant, $1,000. J. W. Symmes, as School Superintendent; Sureties—Lafayette Gill, $1,000; A. Parker, $1,000. Joseph Seeley, as County Surveyor; Sureties—John Lucas, $1,000; C. D. Begole, $1,000. John B. Westerville, as Supervisor, 2d District; Sureties—Thos. J. Goodale, $2,000; C. A. Walters, $2,000. In addition to the foregoing, the following named gentlemen have filed bonds as Constables, in the sum of $1,000 each, for the several townships—G. W. Brady, Frank Fitzgerald, R. D. Holmes, Geo. S. Drake, Jas. H. Brown, A. B. Kitchen, Jno. W. Gasper and Geo. H. Green. The last named resides at Panamint, was elected and qualified on the strength of having received a single vote.

School.—Mrs. Lowe expects to begin her school here next Monday. The school building, through her own and and Squire Schalten's persistent energies, materially aided by T. A. Gardiner and one or two others, has been remodeled and refitted to such a degree that we think it will compare favorably both in comfort and looks with the best in the county. Through the gratuitous labors of the parties referred to the extensive repairs to the building proper have all been accomplished without cost to the district. This labor account would have amounted to not less than a hundred dollars had it been charged up at usual rates. The walls are well decorated with beautiful educational maps, while the floor is filled or soon will be with Eastern made desks and seats of the most approved style and finish. A statement of the cost and all matters connected will be submitted in due time to all parties interested.

Preparing.—We have orders from two or three townships for ballots for the election of Justices of the Peace on the day fixed by law for the Judicial Election, for which our Supervisors failed to make any provision. It would be well for every township in the county to hold such election. The non-action of the Board will not affect the legality of said elections in the least, and the county will have to foot the bills just the same.

Horse Stealing.—Thursday night a couple of valuable animals, one belonging to Mrs. Mary McCall and the other to Reub. Van Dyke, who reside just below Lone Pine, were stolen. It is presumed that two men who have been working for Van Dyke, who disappeared at the same time, are the thieves. They gathered up, as accoutrements, valuable saddles and bridles. They are being pursued.

Books.—Talking about books we are reminded that we have loaned out quite a number that have never been returned. If the borrowers are through with them will they be good enough to send them home so we can lend them to somebody else? Among the rest is "Capt. Hobbs' Life in the Far West," a work so full of lies as to be quite invaluable as a text book in a print shop.

Returned.—Sheriff Passmore returned during the week from an extended trip southward. He was engaged for a time in an effort to work up the Nancy Williams murder at Darwin, and subsequently went to Bakersfield, where he contracted a dose of the fever peculiar to that locality.

Boot and Shoemaking.—Our old stand-by boot and shoemaker, Chas. Dugal, has recently purchased Mr. Walz's interest in the boot and shoe shop, in the old Inyo House, and will henceforth carry it on on his own account. Dugal is a good workman and is accommodating.

All Right Again.—For a short time past New Coso checks have been under a cloud, but we have it on reliable authority that yesterday everything was to be paid off in gold, and that no further fears need be apprehended as to the negotiability of the company's checks.

Brewery Change.—L. Munzinger and J. H. Dodge have let out the Centennial Brewery, in Lone Pine. Munzinger has the material on the ground for a new structure of the same kind at Bishop Creek.

Bring Them In.—Quite a number of books belonging to the district school library are missing, having for the most part been borrowed by children at different times for a long period past and never returned. Now that a secure book case has been provided, and arrangements made to obtain a lot of new books, so as to make it quite a generally useful and valuable little library, it is to be hoped that every one, both children and parents, will interest themselves in having these missing volumes hunted up and returned. Among the missing is one volume of McCauley's history of England, as well as one or more from other less valuable series. An effort is to be made to put this library on a permanent and useful basis. Please help.

Most a Bloody Item.—Out at Darwin one day this week Supt. Matthey, of the New Coso, and Mr. Phillips, ex-County Treasurer of Lincoln county, Nevada, had a difficulty which, for a time, gave excellent promise of a job for the Coroner. Happily, this was averted by the interference of the bystanders, after which a compromise was effected and all was serene again. As we hear it the rights of the case were on Phillip's side.

The Grain Crop.—J. R. Westerville informs us that he has closed the work of threshing for the season. His figures, including the work done by other machines than his own, make the crops of small grain for the valley as follows: Wheat, 522 tons; oats and barley, 523 tons. The total yield is about 100 tons more than last year.

Abolishing the Presidency.

A rumor comes from Washington that several numerously signed memorials will be presented to Congress next month, proposing amendments to the Constitution abolishing the Presidency, an Executive Council, a Council of State or Cabinet, to be substituted therefore, composed of seven Secretaries without any superior officer, all to have equal authority; that is, simply strike out the Presidential office, and authorize the Secretaries to have the execution of the laws and a general supervision of the Government. Four of the Council to be elected by the House and three by the Senate, from the members of their respective houses, one or all to be removed at any time by the house electing them, and all to have the rights of members in both houses. This scheme or ones very much like it have frequently been proposed but never, we believe, reached the dignity of being made the subject of Congressional debate. It is quite possible that this time it may be pushed forward to discussion, as the performances at the coming session of Congress are expected to be slightly erratic, and hence a measure like that of abolishing the Presidency would only be in keeping. If the plan were actually carried into execution, we feel safe in saying it would be the advantage to substituting seven or more Presidents for one. It often happens that one is quite as many as the people care to have at a time. Then the short term proposed and the extension of the powers of the two houses of Congress would bring about a condition of affairs which there is seldom at present. We have, during our time, had examples of the inconsistency and unreliability of Congressional action, going to show that it can no more be depended upon than that of any one man. As Congress would really be the presiding power, having authority to annul its appointments at any time, there would be a nice mix in case of an evenly balanced representation of the two great parties. Even doing away with Presidential elections would not be an offset for the possibility of a change in the executive power every few days.—Stock Report.

Turkey and Roses.—I don't mean the turkey-gobbler; he doesn't pay much attention to roses. But I mean the other Turkey, about which Deacon Green was reading aloud the other day. He had come quietly along by the brook with a new-looking volume under his arm and a city friend by his side; and they sat down in the shade close by me and read some remarkable things, of which I will give you the substance.

In the warm plains of Turkey, south of the Balkan Mountains, whose districts are covered with rose-plants set in lines about five feet apart, and tended for some years with the greatest care. At length, on some fresh, sweet morning of the early summer, and while the roses are yet wet with dew, the tender flowers are torn off by laborers, and cast at once by heaps into huge coppers, there to boil and boil for hours in water. The fragrant steam is carried along a tube, and on cooling, becomes a kind of thick rose-water. This is boiled up again, and its vapor cooled into a liquid on the top of which floats a yellowish oily scum that is known as "attar of roses." It takes about four thousand pounds of roses to make a pound of attar. Once a merchant opened a cupboard in his store and showed a visitor thirty large glass bottles in which, he said, was sixty thousand dollars' worth of the precious essence.

This quantity must have taken nearly four millions of roses in the making! Poor roses! But may be, after all, their fragrance in that form would give more and longer-lasting pleasure than could have been given by the flowers had they been left upon their bushes, where they could have cheered only the passer-by.—St. Nicholas for October.

The Kaiser's Day's Work.—The Emperor William's habits are described in the Cologne Gazette as follows: "He rises at 6 or 6:30, appears on the promenade about 8, drinks the water at the prescribed intervals till 9:30, then breakfasts, and, every other day takes a bath between 10:30 an 11:30. During the morning he receives civil and military reports, dines at about 4, generally inviting company, and then receives a report on foreign affairs, a Cabinet courier arriving every morning, and the telegraph office being open night and day. If an interval remains before the theatre, the Emperor takes an airing, and about 7:30 appears on the promenade, then attends the play, next takes tea, and about 10:45 retires to his narrow iron bedstead, unless business detains him till 11 or 11:30."

Appletons' Journal for October, presents a varied list of contents, some of the papers being specially noteworthy. Mr. Charles Carroll's "Good Bohemians" is a fresh and charmingly-written essay, with the object of showing how many of the better characteristics of the Bohemian tribe—its elasticity, wit, imagination, hopefulness, courage—are to be found in some circles everywhere. Another paper in an unusual direction is entitled "With Couture, the Painter," and describes a brief sojourn, as pupil with this famous and eccentric French artist, who lives in primitive simplicity near Paris, and both amuses and delights by his sayings and doings a large circle of eager pupils. That excellent novelette of the Franco-German War, "A Struggle," is completed, and the second installment is given of "By Celia's Arbor," by the authors of "The Golden Butterfly," which promises to be one of the most charming novels of season. There are many other papers. Julian Hawthorne continues his "Out of London" series; Mr. Austin instructs us in the methods of taming and training nightingales, and "working-bees" there is a paper on the "Wise Women of the East," being an account of what some famous women have accomplished. "M. E. W. S." passes "A Night in the Garden" to good and pleasant effect, and, in addition to the usual number of poems, a brace of humorous ones are given, under the title of "The Comic Muse." There is a well-written essay by Edgar Fawcett, on "Poetry as an Art," and a whole group of short stories, Rudolph Lindau, Nora Perry, and Mrs. Barr, being the authors thereof. The "Editor's Table" is more varied and has a lighter touch than usual.

St Nicholas for November fitly closes up the fourth volume of the magazine, and ushers in the Autumn with brisk stories, lively pictures, and such gentle thoughts as suit the time of year. Good as is this issue of St. Nicholas, the announcements upon its cover promise for those yet to come a number and variety of attractions altogether unprecedented. Not the least of the good things in view is the new serial story, "Under the Lilacs," by Louisa M. Alcott, which is to begin in the issue for November.

A Murderer's Pet Mouse.

It is a curious yet historical fact that prisoners who are sentenced for life often catch, make a companion of and train some insect or animal, which becomes the one solace of their prison hours. One of the most curious instances is that of Andersen, the murderer now in our County Jail awaiting a new trial. He some time since caught a mouse in his cell, caged him and has carefully trained him. Andersen will hold a string suspended from his fingers and in broken English command the mouse to "up like a sailor," whereupon the little animal will lay hold of the string with his feet and climb to the prisoner's hand. The mouse will also sit at command on his hind legs on a tea cup, will crawl up the prisoner's face, through his moustache and over his nose, and finally jump from the man's head to his hand, completing his performance with a grace and a bow. One of the most interesting facts concerning the history of this little acrobat is the great love it has for the prisoner. When Andersen was moved, a few weeks ago, to another and a darker cell, the mouse was lost, and although carefully sought after by the keeper, could not be found. Andersen was deeply grieved over the disappearance of his tiny companion, whom, he feared, had been killed, and even the prison officials expressed regret that the little creature should have dropped so completely and mysteriously out of the usually dull routine of prison life. Great was the joy, therefore, of Andersen, and of all in the jail, when one day the mouse made its appearance at the door of Andersen's new cell, and running in, resumed its accustomed place by the prisoner's side. It is stated that the little animal seemed as greatly rejoiced as its master over the reunion.—New Hanover Register.

Personal. Gen. Stobbs dropped in upon us early one morning last week. The General is a great talker. He gave us numerous good points in regard to Death Valley. He says he proposes to take up a ranch in that valley, and at his earliest convenience will write it up under the head of "Death Valley and Its Resources." We can assure our readers that this gem will be deathly interesting. Jim Sharp, who is a little, short, fat fellow, waddled into our office the other day. Jim is a printer. The familiar manner in which he glanced around the office would lay the "Pilgrim" in the shade. Has he at last rested on the small end of a beer-bottle, which we thought was hidden from all visitors, but Jim detected it as quickly as an old "comp" would detect a three-em quad in his hair-space box. Great disappointment! It was empty! Jim went out growling about the logginess of printers in general, saying he had come over to give us a "lift," but he'd be —— if he was going to work on empty bottles. Constable Welch seldom comes around; but when he does, it is on business. He will lose our vote the next time he runs for office if he again frightens us as he did this week. Substituting our name, instead of the real one, in a legal document, leading us to believe that our washer-woman had sued us.—Darwin News.

"Never catch me marrying a married man," said a wise little Chicago girl; "when I get married it will be to some man that doesn't need reforming."

Gen. Hood is reported to be the commander of a new brigade, more quaint in appearance than was his old brigade in the Army of Northern Virginia. The Raleigh News says: "A gentleman who was lately at the Allegheny Springs was asked if he had seen Hood's Brigade, and on answering in the negative it was pointed out to him. The gallant General has nine children; all under the age of eight years, and three pairs of them twins. They are officered by four nurses, a governess, his wife and his mother-in-law, and the corps present a fine appearance on dress parade."

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:
SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 29.....1877.

THOUGHTS.—A beautiful lady's smiles are magnets to draw metal from the purse.

Very few persons have sense enough to despise the praise of a fool.

When the loved one is absent, every beautiful thing seems her shadow.

A child's heart responds to the tones of its mother's voice like a harp to the wind.

Every base occupation makes one sharp in its practice and dull in every other.

Never court the favor of the rich by flattering either their vanities or their vices.

If the waves threaten to engulf you, don't add by your tears to the amount of water.

Individuality is everywhere to be spared and respected as the root of everything good.

Promises made in time of affliction require a better memory than people commonly possess.

Indolence is a stream which flows slowly on, but yet undermines the foundation of every virtue.

Whatever makes the past or the future predominate over the present, exalts us in the scale of thinking beings.

If the storm of adversity whistles around you, whistle as bravely yourself; perhaps the two whistles may make melody.

CLEANSING FLUID.—For washing alpaca, camel's hair, and other woolen goods, and for removing marks made on furniture, carpets, rugs, etc.,: Four ounces ammonia, four ounces white Castile soap, two ounces alcohol, two ounces glycerin, two ounces ether. Cut the soap fine, dissolve in one quart water over the fire, add four quarts water. When nearly cold add the other ingredients. This will make nearly eight quarts and will cost about 75 cents. It must be put in a bottle and stoppered tight. It will keep good any length of time. To wash dress goods, take a pail of lukewarm water, and put in a teacupful of the fluid, shake around well in this, and then rinse in plenty of clean water, and iron on wrong side while damp. For washing grease from coat collars, etc., take a little of the fluid in a cup of water, apply with a clean rag, and wipe well with a second rag. It will make everything wooden look bright and fresh.

THE FORMICA PENNSYLVANICA.—There is a general notion that only tropical countries are infested with ants that are capable of doing serious damage. This it appears, is a mistake. There is a black "carpenter ant," whose name, Formica Pennsylvanica, indicates its residence, that is capable of effecting much destruction in woodwork. The Rev. Dr. McCook has seen a rafter which these ants penetrated to an extent of five or six feet of its length, completely honeycombing it. The rafter was in the roof of a porch. The attention of the Philadelphia Academy of Sciences was called to the matter, as it is evident that such penetration of wooden structures, and especially bridges, might cause their unexpected fall. Wooden bridges need at least as frequent and thorough inspection as iron structures.

CEMENT FOR LEATHER BELTING. Take common glue and American isinglass, equal parts; place them in a boiler and add water sufficient to just cover the whole. Let it soak ten hours, then bring the whole to a boiling heat, and add pure tannin until the whole becomes ropey or appears like the white of eggs. Apply it warm. Buff the grain off the leather where it is to be cemented; rub the joint surfaces solidly together, let it dry for a few hours, and it is ready for practical use; and if properly put together, it will not need riveting.

PUT a tablespoonful of sulphur in the nest as soon as hens or turkeys are set. The heat of the fowls causes the fumes of the sulphur to penetrate every part of their bodies, every louse is killed, and, as all nits are hatched within ten days, when the mother leaves the nest with her brood, she is perfectly free from nits or lice.

SUMMONS.

IN THE JUSTICE'S COURT OF SECOND TOWNSHIP, in the County of Inyo, State of California. H. Strohmeier and F. Strohmeier, plaintiffs, vs. Wm. Wanneke and Charles Kennedy, defendents.

The people of the State of California send greeting to Wm. Wanneke and Charles Kennedy, defendents.

You are hereby required and directed to appear before me, at my office in the Second Township, in the County of Inyo, in an action brought against you by the above named plaintiffs and answer the complaint in said action, on file in my office, within five days (exclusive of the day of service) after the service on you of this summons if served within the township in which this action is brought, and if served out of the township, but in said county within ten days, otherwise within twenty days.

The said action is brought to recover of you the sum of two hundred and twelve 34 100 dollars for corn sold, meals furnished and pasturage and for balance due on mule, all of which was done by plaintiffs and their assignors at the special instance and request of defendents and that the same is due and payable in gold coin of the United States.

And you are hereby notified that if you fail to so appear and answer said complaint, as above required, said plaintiff will take judgment against you for the sum of $212 34 100 gold coin, together with costs of suit.

Make legal service and due return hereof.

CAT, OBIT.

My beautiful pet "Catty Boundy" has died, after living more than twenty years; seventeen of these he has been mine. Few cats live to this age, and not many deserve to, perhaps; but Boundy was an exception to all cats in many things besides his age.

In August, 1860, I was boarding at a house twelve miles from Virginia City, when one morning this cat came into the kitchen, and, appearing very tame and being of singular form and beauty, I at once claimed him as my pet. He was several times stolen, but from his singular color, being coal black with his face and all four of his feet snow white, and by the assistance of the daily milkman, he was soon found and brought back again.

A miner, who had taken him to his cabin on account of the mice and rats troubling him badly, thanked me for his services for the time he was there, saying, "That the next morning his cabin floor was literally covered with dead rats and mice, several of them of the kangeroo species." He seldom ate this kind of game, and when he killed birds, he would bring them in and lay them at my feet for me to pick the feathers off before eating them. Boundy possessed more than the ordinary degree of affection and intelligence and would show great sympathy if I were sick or in distress. Once, in order to show these demonstrations to others, I feigned weeping, when he got upon my lap, tried to rub my hands away from my eyes, mewing in a sad tone; when I removed my hands and laughed he instantly hissed at me, and I felt rebuked by his evident discovery and dislike of deception. What was this if not a moral sense of wrong? One day I let my canary birds out of the cage to fly around in the room. An hour or two after I happened to think that the cat was in the same room; rushing in expecting to find only the feathers of my birds, I saw they were unharmed, one of them being perched upon the back of the chair where Boundy sat quietly observing it dressing its plumage; and he often protected them from being killed by strange cats prowling around at night, by driving them away.

His greatest prowess was in being the central figure of every dog fight in the yard. From the first yell of the set-to, he would be seen in full feather, his tail, like a large sized ostrich plume, curled aloft, as he would jump on the back of the top-most dog, and with a firm grip of teeth and claws, the victory would turn in favor of the other dog in less than a minute. He never got hurt in one of these desperate encounters, yet I often time tried to prevent his joining in the fight, but was not quick enough. This was in his best days; he has for several years past been content to retire from these fierce contests, using his teeth and nails only on mice or tenderloin steaks.

He lived, like the pampered goose, thinking all things were subservient to his use, until my son's wife came out here from the East and staid a year. She could not endure a cat to sleep on the bed, much less in it, and during my absence from home for a few weeks, leaving her to keep house, Boundy found out that all women do not think alike, especially on the cat question. On his venturing to take his usual place in the middle of the white counterpane on the bed, he was instantly admonished in a very summary way that brooms and dusters are often used for other purposes than to brush furniture. When I returned and as Lyde came into the room, Boundy ran and jumped into the middle of the bed, laid quietly down, shut one eye—a peculiarity of his which at times was very amusing—as much as to say, "touch me now if you dare?" At her wordy protest, he only yawned, turned over a time or two, scratched the coverlid with an air of defiance, then tucked his head under his paw and went to sleep, evidently feeling that his quiet nap would not be desturbed any more.

About a year ago, a tumor commenced growing on the side of his neck which increased slowly until it became large and painful, and, lately, seeing he could not get well, I concluded it would be a wrong not to release him of life and misery by giving him chloroform. For this purpose I called in Dr. Stockley, who as well as myself, refused to take a life that still showed so much affection, rubbing his head against our hands with what little strength he had. He left the house about a week ago, and selected a cool place under a bunch of willows near a little rivulet, and lay down there to die. He would come out into the path at milking time, and I would take him a little to eat, but at last, he could no longer move his tongue, when he soon died, and now lies buried along with my canary birds, three of them having been killed at once by a shrike, and these, like all earthly joys and pains, yet, leave rainbow tints on the tablets of or memory. To such as are blessed with the sound of pattering little feet that "make music in the house all the day," they cannot know how some life, less human but true and constant, may be made to take a place in a heart, otherwise, still more vacant.

L. HUTCHISON.
Bishop Creek, Sept. 22, 1877.

A VICIOUS PLASTER.—A gentlemen who had an acute pain in his side, yesterday, put a mustard plaster of powerful drawing capacity over the affected region, tied it on with a bandage, and started for his place of business. When upon Main Cross he was horrified to find that the plaster had become loose, dropped many degrees below its original position, and had commenced chewing the solid meat of his ham. He thrust his hand into his pocket to remedy the evil, but could not choke the plaster off. It had established a residence there, and he could feel the skin rising into a blubber under its powerful suction. He rushed into a business house to retire up-stairs or somewhere where he could fix things differently, but just as he entered he met a number of lady friends who all seemed delighted to see him. They had some kind of an enterprise on hand and wanted him to contribute. He said he'd see them again, and they said it was an old dodge, and that he couldn't play it that way. Then they went on to explain and he writhed in agony. The plaster was getting at its work—pumping water from his system at every pore; and when he finally darted out of the store and flew down an alley with his hair standing on end, those ladies raised their hands and said, "Did you ever! Who would have thought that Mr. —— would have been so penurious."—Madison Courier.

APROPOS of the story of the Irish Bashi-Bazouks, it is related that during the Crimean war a certain well known Yorkshire baronet had lost his way between Balaklava and his camp, and meeting a zouave inquired of him, in French, the road. The zouave replied in excellent English, at which the baronet expressed surprise. "There is nothing wonderful about it, Sir X.; I was at Eton with you." The kind-hearted Sir X., not recognizing his old schoolmate, asked for further information; but the zouave shook his head sadly and went his way.

SIR HUMPHREY DAVY.—When Davy was in Sicily he was studying geology, and the rap and clatter of his hammer among the rocks astonished the Catanian peasants, who accounted him mad. They told their priest of the danger from the maniac, but Davy had seen the priest before them; his reverence quietly intimated to the peasants that it was a foreign gentleman from a far off land who was practising a penance! Davy was regarded by the Catanirns as a saint. He has since been regarded by the world as a philosopher.

A GOOD repartee is told of a scapegrace whom a mentor reminded that his aunt had paid his debts, and that he should be more submissive to the wishes of his relative. The young good-for-nothing did not take much heed of the sermon, but when his creditors were mentioned he had a real cri du caer: "Yes, yes, my aunt paid my creditors, but what has she done for me?"

THE greatest man is he who choses right with the most invincible resolution, who resists the sorest temptation from within and without; who bears the heaviest burdens cheerfully; who is calmest in the storm, and the most fearless under menaces and frowns; whose reliance on truth, on virtue and on God is most unfaltering.

A CONNECTICUT preacher says that a good congregation will praise the music, the choir, the ventilation, and the civilities of the usher, but as to the sermon, "Well, I dunno."

Signal Lights.

The New York Tribune has a most interesting article giving a full description of the way in which the Eddystone lighthouse was built on a reef in the English channel, where it has stood secure against the storms for more than a hundred years, though when the waves are high they throw their spray clear over the lantern, which is eighty-five feet in height. Other lighthouses were built on the same site before this one of Smeaton's, but they all succumbed to the storms or to fire. And now English engineers have decided that this marvel of engineering skill must be taken down, not because of any imperfection in the work, but because the insidious and insatiable sea has undermined it, has, by its attrition, worn away the rock on which the structure rests. It is proposed to carefully take the lighthouse down and re-erect it somewhere on the English coast as a monument of the skill and courage which first reared it within the very jaws of a stormy sea. A few times have we seen among men one who reminded us of Eddystone lighthouse, one who seemed invincible in strength and immovable in principle, though all the passions of the world were storming around him and the winds of envy and malice were perpetually dashing their salt waves over him. Such a man was Socrates among Greeks; such a one was Abraham Lincoln among Americans. In the darkest night, when all the skies were full of storm, after Lincoln was made President there was always a light visible when the nation turned to him. The waves of treason raved around him, but he stood ever calm and strong, and his count ymen, guided by the radience which was shed from his life, kept on their course, until they were safe. The same elements which had warred against him in vain, at last undermined his precious life, and he went down, as there is danger that the strong structure in the English channel will, sometime when the sun is shining clear, the waves are at rest, and the winds at peace. And yet, as is proposed for the lighthouse, to rebuild it upon the shore where the men of the future may come and learn what was possible in the old days to accomplish by simply chisels and hammers, without the aid of powder or of steam, so such memories as follow lives like Lincoln's remain as monuments to teach the children of men what it is possible for one great life to accomplish; and to teach them further, that the influence of a great heart like his never ceases to pulsate for good, though the heart itself by disease or by an assassin's bullet, is made to grow still. A few such lives have been given to the earth, and, though some of them went out thousands of years ago, their memories still stand as signal stations on the coast of time, and men continue to learn from them where dangerous rocks are hid, where treacherous currents flow. Our own generation seems strangely destitute of these signal lights, while the last had plenty. It is possible that the nearness of our view obscures those that toward whom we turn, or that in the light of a multitude of stars we miss the striking radiance of particular ones. It may be, out of the darkness of the past, the few lights which descend to us seem magnified in their glory; but it is not strange, after all, that, when we think of Daniel Webster, of Abraham Lincoln and Horace Greely, we grow impatient when we consider the men who would be teachers now.

THE Buddhist religion is the one most extensively accepted in the world, having, in round numbers, 340,000,00 adherents. There are not more Roman Catholics in the world than people of all other religious classes. The total number of Roman Catholics is about 200.000,000, against about 80,000,000 of the Greek Church, 100,000,000 Protestants, and 6,500,000 of other Oriental Churches than the Greek. Of the 1,400,000,000 people in the world, about 1,000,000,000 are not Christians, but, with the exception of the 6,000,000 Jews, are what are called heathens. It will be observed from this that there is still a great field left for the spread of Christianity.

MILITARY PROTECTION.

Apprehension of serious Indian trouble naturally followed the excitement caused by the killing of Indian Jerry; and, indeed, it required but a spark to have fired up a regular Indian war, with the immediate chances entirely against the whites. While there was a show of military strength at Camp Independence such a feeling of insecurity could not have come about, and as a measure of protection the citizens of Bishop undertook the organization of a militia company. At the outset this plan was met by the official statement that the California Guard was full and that the State could not furnish arms. A numerously signed petition was then addressed to the Governor of State praying for his intercession with United States authorities for the granting of arms or a small military force. We quote, as follows, the Governor's response:

STATE OF CALIFORNIA,
Executive Department,
Sacramento, Sept. 25, 1877.

GEO. C. ALEXANDER, Esq.: Dear Sir—The petition of citizens of Bishop Creek and Round Valley, Inyo county, has been received.

I have caused a copy of the petition, and names attached thereto, to be forwarded to Gen. McDowell, commanding the Division of the Pacific.

I addressed him a letter also, inquiring if he would recognize it as incumbent on him to furnish such a force as may be necessary to protect citizens from apprehended or threatened attacks of Indians.

As soon as an answer is received I will communicate further with you.

Very sincerely, yours,
W. IRWIN,
Governor.

THE PATENT OFFICE FIRE.—The loss by the fire in the Patent Office building at Washington is stated at between $300,000 and $500,000. This includes merely the actual value of that part of the building destroyed and such items among the contents which had a purely pecuniary value. The damage to the valuable models and documents is however something which cannot be appraised. Some of the latter are of inestimable value, and the greater part of the models cannot be replaced at any cost. The statement that the original copy of the Declaration of Independence was among the articles saved, gives a faint hint of what the contents of the Patent Office really were. Although a great deal was rescued from the flames, the loss is still a severe one.

IT is said that Bismark's influence and power were never greater than at present. A correspondent of The Press, of Philadelphia, says: "It has been noticed that for years he has avoided close social intercourse with the royal family, excusing himself on the ground of bad health. In every other instance, even with the Princes or Princesses of the reigning family, an invitation is always considered to be a command. Not so to the potent Chancellor."

THE note of reviving prosperity comes to us from the East. Crops are universally good east of the Rocky Mountains this year, and the railroad companies are worked to their full capacity in transporting goods both ways. There is a stronger demand for capital, which commands higher rates than have lately ruled, and the business which is being done is more careful and built on safer foundations than heretofore.

A DECISION, just rendered by the Supreme Court of the United States, is possibly interesting to a large number of litigants. The Court holds that when a creditor, after judgment obtained against him, transfers to his wife property purchased with money for which he is responsible, the transfer is not sufficient to protect the property against the creditors of the insolvent husband.

THERE are 101 banks in the State, of which San Francisco has 26, Sacramento 6, Sonoma 7, Santa Clara 6, Alameda 4, San Joaquin 4, Los Angeles, Marin, Mendocino, Santa Cruz and Solano, 3 each; Butte, Lake, Merced, Santa Barbara and San Diego, each 2, and the others 1 each. The capital of these 101 banks is $46,963,900; their deposits, $141,963,800; their cash, $21,640,600.

THE Virginia Enterprise says: The fact that Mr. Sutro was preparing to bulkhead his tunnel first appeared in the Enterprise some two weeks since. The work is still going on after the manner prescribed. Timbers for the bulkhead have been ordered and four men are at work blasting out the side drifts, and a stone cutter at the mouth of the tunnel is dressing the stone which will be required in the work.

THE PRESENT TAX LAW.

Four years ago our legislators tried to improve the law governing delinquent tax sales by an amendment by which the State might become the purchaser of all real estate and improvements thereon offered at a regular delinquent tax sale in cases when there were no other bidders—that is, the State must become the owner of just that kind of property nobody else would take at any price. No doubt it was thought that the plan would work well, inasmuch as real estate ought to be good for its taxes if worth assessing at all, and therefore it would result in a saving to have the State step in and take it in trust, as it were, and hold it until the original owner could rustle up enough to redeem it. But, however it may work in other counties where there are no possessory claims or mining properties to abandon, here, in Inyo, the improved law is a dead failure, and the sooner it is stricken from the statute book the better for all concerned.

Since 1875 the State has become the owner under this law of some 112 parcels of Inyo real estate. Of these just five parcels have been redeemed; there is not the remotest probability that any more ever will be. The State holds, or in due course should hold, recorded deeds for the remainder. The value of these deeds will be seen from this: The United States has never parted with its original title to the lands covered by these same deeds, consequently the said deeds are not worth the paper they are written on. For instance, a party finds among these parcels of land one that he may now consider worth taking up; on examining the Land Office records he will find it vacant, and can take and hold it by pre-emption just the same as if the State held no deed at all. That is about it all amounts to, this present law. It should be remarked, too, that neither Sheriff nor Recorder are allowed a cent for their services, while the expense of assessing, advertising and all that has to be borne by the county, and all for no good purpose whatever.

The way these forfeitures occur quite frequently is this: Some man comes in to find pasturage for his herds or flocks; to avoid immediate if not final payment of the tax on these he proceeds to locate any convenient piece of land he can find, caring nothing for its worth in itself; when the Assessor comes around the stockman refuses to pay his personal property or live stock tax because he is assessable for some real estate, and thereupon has his bit of desert land listed at a fair figure as his possessory claim; the Assessor has nothing more to do about it, only to turn the list of said real and personal property over to the Tax Collector as the law prescribes; after while the possessory claim is sold for the taxes delinquent upon itself and also for that upon the personal property for which the law allows it to stand sponsor; meantime the man with his flocks or herds has moved on to pastures new, and the Assessor, likewise the bit of desert land, also the tax gatherer which knew him once shall know him no more forever—and then the State gets a deed to some more of Uncle Sam's real estate, but without hurting Uncle's title in the least, and the county mourns for the many dollars of personal property taxes the law has thus aided and abetted theman in swindling it out of.

We have referred to the fact that the Sheriff and Recorder are allowed no fees whatever for making and recording these tax deeds to the State: the predecessor of the present Recorder did not believe the Legislature had any right to lay out so much work for him to do for nothing, and refused to record a single deed—and, from that precedent, not a single one of those deeds has been recorded. From these premises it must strike people of ordinary gumption that the sooner this law is amended or repealed the better.

While we shall not undertake to suggest a complete substitute, we submit that it would be better in every respect to so change the law that all property exposed for delinquent taxes should be sold for what it would bring, and that any deficit that may occur, as in some of these so-called possessory claims, be entered up as a judgment against the party delinquent, collectable the same as if a decree of Court, but without Court process. That plan would shut off the class of frauds above referred to.

IT was Senator Sherman who said in his Marion, Ohio, speech, the other night, that however desirable a return to a sound basis for our currency might be, it could not be denied that it was a severe operation upon a people or government in debt, and that experience showed that we were reaching the specie basis as fast as a just regard to the interests of the country would permit, and that to force resumption was neither just or politic. He feared that a forced resumption could not be maintained, but thought that, without arbitrary measure, resumption would take place in a comparatively short time, and would be maintained.

THE REX MONTIS MINES AND POTOSI OF INYO SERIES.

We have made frequent allusions to the successful workings of the Rex Montis during the present season and last Fall, when it began its shipments of bullion, and now having obtained from thoroughly reliable and responsible sources, some general facts pertaining to these mines, the mountain, and other undertakings contemplated and in progress by different parties, we propose to give a more comprehensive account than we have before been able to do.

These mines are situate on the north side of what is familiarly known as the Kearsarge Peak, and although in the Kearsarge district, are at the same time located entirely outside of the portion of the district before known or worked. They were located in 1863 by James F. Sharp and others, but mostly given into Sharp's care after the few first years following their discovery, who, knowing their value better than any one else, stuck to them with a full determination to win, and during the Summer season of each year, up to time of selling out to the Rex Montis Mining Company of San Francisco, he made a good living by selecting ores from these mines, and using a small hand mortar for his quartz mill. His plan was first to burn ores in a wood fire until globules of the precious stuff stood out in bold relief all over the pieces under treatment; then they were carefully taken out piece by piece and thrown into cold water; after that they were dried and then pulverized and the metalic silver, together with the undecomposed sulphates that remained, washed out, and this product again fluxed in a small crucible, a little at a time, until he would get quite a bar. This he would then cupel, in some similar crude way. It was then ready for market, if Jimmy was in haste to buy a bill of grub, but if not, he would then make it into finely finished specimen silver bricks, napkin or finger rings, which would enhance the value of his bullion product, and consequently purchase a correspondingly larger bill of goods.

It should have been mentioned that these mines are situated from 10,000 to 12,000 feet above sea level, and one of them even 13,000, crossing the entire summit of the mountain, and for this reason have not been subject to as much and continued prospecting as if they had been situated at a lower altitude, until during the last few months, since the natural product of this part of the mountain has shown itself so attractive, inspiring the owners to greater effort and more endurance so that many a camp fire could be seen on the mountain still during the whole of the past Winter. But of the old, and first locations of the mountain, Sharp's prospecting by hand mortar was all that had been done with one exception, and this by Sheriff Passmore, until the Holt era, of which we shall presently speak. Mr. Passmore leased and worked some of them for a few months only, sending his ores to San Francisco for reduction, and which averaged a little upward of $300 to the ton. He only worked into face of the mountain, however, at points where the metals showed through the immense beds of granite bowlders that cover almost the entire surface, continuing until danger prevented, and then would abandon, there being no timber within practicable reach, and it being a difficult and expensive job to construct trails to get to the same. In this way he worked the mines now known and recorded as Potosi of Inyo, No. 1, 2, 8, 9, and 11, which have not, up to the present time, been reopened, and during the many Winters intervening this rude and limited working has become almost wholly obliterated by filling up with huge rocks, and the rich ores they are known to contain entirely buried from sight. This constitutes the history of this to be notorious mineral belt, up to the time Mr. J. H. Holt came, in 1875, a man of much experience in the silver mines of Mexico, where he sojourned some five years studying this business. Coming for another company he could not give his personal attention to the matter at first, but hearing of the rich ores of the north side of the mountain, he took occasion to send some of his miners to see the deposits, to make a preliminary examination and bring away samples of the metals. Both the general description of the country formation, (in a miner's phaseology), and the test and character of the ores suited his idea (five samples showing repectively a value per ton in silver alone of $178-36, $240 76, $250 54, $977 96 and $1,502 97—assay made Sept. 14th, 1875). He at once looked up the owner and made a purchase. Commencing work immediately on something more than hand mortar scale, he purchased a good outfit of the best mining implements, placed in a supply of provissions, sent ore sacks to the miners, contracted for delivery of his ores at foot of mountain, from thence to Caliente, then the railroad terminus, by wagon, and arranged for railroad freight. And with three or four men soon shipped $4,000 worth of ore to San Francisco, for the purpose of showing conclusively the value of the mines. This showing was all made inside of one month, with three men, in the face of greatest difficulties, and from one of the number that before had been left alone, not offering the same inducements that the others before mentioned had offered Mr. Passmore. With this sample of some fifteen or twenty tons, Mr. Holt readily raised all the funds needed to go forward the next season, and made such developments as satisfied the company which he had organized, and who sent an agent to take a final look at the workings, in November of last year, when the present Rex Montis property was purchased and paid for. Thus was the new era of successful mining inaugurated again on the old Kearsarge, and all due to the good judgment, management, energy and perseverance of Mr. Holt, who has continued manager (with Mr. Walker as foreman, a man also thoroughly conversant with his department of mining business) until quite a recent date, when he was superceded by Mr. Hutchings, who is also conceded to be a very thorough miner. This company commenced operations early this season, and from the time they were first enabled to get ore from the mountain to the mill have been shipping bullion as often as once or twice a week, in constantly increasing quantities, until the last shipment, referred to elsewhere, reached far beyond any previous one—a circumstance that will naturally continue to follow, as the mine is constantly reaching a greater state of development, and more men employed. The mill facilities of the Rex Montis have been as yet, very limited; in fact, they can hardly be called by that name, consisting of an old five-stamp battery, (very shaky), six oldest style known pans, which are the most inefficient in use. But we are glad to now state that it is the intention of Supt. Hutchings to have an entire new and improved mill in readiness by March 1, 1878, with which, and the mine well opened as it must be by Spring, it will not take long for the fortunate owners to fully realize their most sanguine expectation, with good management and facilities then offered; and this is a reasonable expectation from only one of the several stratas of the Rex Montis, which embraces a width of from twelve to fifteen feet. These stratas all carry both gold and silver, and vary from a few inches up to one, two and three feet in thickness. There is no doubt but all will form in depth to make one large and continuous vein. As battery samples of ore crushed at the mill from this mine has shown an average of not less than $200 per ton in gold and silver it is fair to suppose, especially as it has shown an increase of value of ores in depth, that the Rex Montis must eventually gain a notoriety second to none in the county, or on the Pacific Slope. Mr. Holt gives assays of battery sample for the first work of the season, $140 03, while the last week of his administration, in August, was $241 90. What it has been since, although a large owner, he is not allowed to know. The reason he gives for this is because it is a "close corporation."

The formation of this mineral belt is granite, sienite and porphyry, which is held to be of most promising character; this is also accompanied with a kind of black iron slate, or black dyke, the same as is invariably found in the rich silver districts of the Sierra Madres of Mexico, where the most notorious mines of the world are known to exist. And now in view of these facts, the ores known to exist in Nos. 1, 2, 8, 9, and 11, and Nos. 3 and 4 (which have been improved to that extent this season that patent has been applied for) the present showing of that portion of the Rex Montis being worked, the increase of strength and regularity of vein and improvement of ores as depth is attained, Mr. Holt, the man who first gave life to the Rex Montis enterprise and to whose knowledge its good name and success is wholly due, has another enterprise in hand (and for which capital is invited) that he is sanguine, as well as all other mining men who know of it, will prove of a magnitude for worth and wealth even superior to the Rex Montis, and in fact second to none ever undertaken on the Coast. This is a tunnel project, to cut all the mines of this mineral belt. This tunnel right is located, or taken up, in full accordance with the act of Congress giving the right of possession to owners of the mines to all before undiscovered veins or lodes on the line thereof, for a distance of 3,000 feet, and a right in length crosswise of or at right angles with the tunnel of 1,500 feet; and it is fair to suppose that several such blind lodes would be encountered in this distance directly through the heart of so strong a mineral bearing belt as this is said to be by all who have ever seen the ground. This, "The Independence Tunnel," as surveyed, runs in almost due south course, and the veins or lodes intersected by it nearly east and west, thus crossing all mines in the mountain at nearly right angles with their course. The first mine intersected by this work is one owned by Jos. McDermott and associates; the next four are the Potosi of Inyo, Nos. 4, 3, 2, and 1. The distance to reach No. 4 would be about 500 feet, crossing some 400 feet below the surface; then No. 3 some 300 feet further on, cutting some 600 feet below the surface; and Nos. 2 and 1, say, 1,200 feet in depth; then comes in its course with the Boomerang mine, then Nos. 8 and 11, Arctic and Rex Montis, proper cutting the four last named at least 1,600 feet, and could then be pushed further on, crossing a large lode showing rich ores, which crosses the top of the mountain, owned by Mr. J. H. Cook, which it would penetrate some 2,500 to 3,000 feet below the surface workings. And while this tunnel is designed especially for the more speedy, thorough and practical development of Mr. Holt's own claims, it will be most readily seen by all interested on this steep and difficult mountain that when he gets his maps of survey completed, that his idea is entirely correct, and most practical for all companies to make use of the same for the permanent workings of their mines. For many reasons, among which we should state that the cost of working must be decreased at least 100 per cent. and as a wagon road could be constructed near the tunnel's mouth, the cost of transportation could be decreased to much greater percentage than the cost of working the mines would be. It at once does away with the necessity of pumping or hoisting machinery, so costly to construct, and keep up after its construction, in such an altitude where water and fuel must be packed; it saves the packing of provisions, wood and water up the steepest and most difficult part of the mountain to subsist the miners. And not the least advantage, the tunnel is located on a point where no boulders, which sometimes get loosened and come thundering down the mountain, can possibly come in contact with the works, and no slides of snow could ever interfere. This point is kept free from snow during the winter storms, so that the labor need not be materially hindered during the storms of Winter, although at an altitude of about 10,000 feet above sea level. There is running water within a few rods of the tunnel, and though so cold during a few months of the Winter as to freeze, there is always plenty of snow and an abundance of wood not over one-third of a mile distant. The finest water power lies at the foot of this mountain, on either side, affording mill facilities in abundance, and plenty of good wood for steam purposes when required in the reduction of the ores, which thus far have proven very free in ordinary mill process.

There have been good buildings constructed at the mouth of the tunnel (which is already commenced) and which are situated for Winter work, should the tunnel be carried on during the coming Winter. In conclusion we can only say that we consider this an enterprise affording unusual attractions and we wish Mr. Holt, who has already gained for himself a high standing in this community, all success, as he deserves, and all associates he may take into this noble work with him. These mines should have been in active operation long before this, when the whole valley would have been alive and teeming with most profitable industry, to support them, and this happy result, is yet certain to follow at no distant future.

THE PRICE OF STATE SENATORS.—The recent disclosures of Tweed has made something more than a ripple in New York. If he has stated facts as far as he has gone with his revelation, it will go hard with a great many who have figured prominently in the politics of that State. Oakey Hall had the best of reasons for leaving the country if Tweed's statements are true. Hall's complicity in the frauds committed was as extensive as his opportunities. Sixteen leading Senators, whose names are given, received an aggregate of $500,000 for passing the new charter for the city of New York. The established price for the most influential Senators was $40,000. That is the tariff according to the scale established by Tweed. Nearly all the Senators who were bribed wanted $50,000; but compromised finally on $40,000, which was little enough, in view of the exposure recently made. For men who have little reputation the sum paid was very large. But for men of good reputation and high standing $50,000 was a beggarly sum to put into the scales against ruin on the other side.

GEN. JOSEPH HOOKER has sent in to the War Department his report of the battle of Antietam, which, he says, was made out at the time, but was mislaid and never recovered until early in July last. He draws a graphic picture of a corn field filled with Confederates, with the sun glistening on their bayonets, the whole suddenly swept by canister from half a dozen batteries which he ordered to spring into position, so that "every stalk of corn was cut as closely as could have been done with a knife and the slain lay in rows precisely as they had stood in their ranks a few moments before." He, however, does not regard the battle exactly in the light of a great victory for the Federal Army—indeed, he leaves the impression that he does not regard it as a victory at all.

THE State of Virginia has adopted a queer liquor law. Every bar-keeper is required to keep a dram register, like the ticket punches on the horse-cars, by which every drink dispensed is recorded for taxation. The tax is two and a half cents on each alcoholic snifter, and half a cent for every glass of beer, which will bring into the treasury annually about $750,000. The whisky sellers kicked against the Act, but the venerable "mother of Presidents" was inexorable and fetched them to time. "Come and get punched," is now the popular Virginian invitation to drink.

DESERT LAND.—By an order of the General Land Office, dated October 1st, 1877, all entries of desert lands under the Act of March 3, 1877, are suspended, and applicants are required to furnish proofs as to the character of the lands applied for. All testimony in relation to said lands is to be reduced to writing and forwarded to the General Land Office, with the joint opinion of the Register and Receiver thereon. The investigation, so says the order, must be most full, thorough and complete, showing whether any of the lands so applied for will produce an agricultural crop without irrigation; whether any had been previously cultivated by parties residing thereon, or now resident on such lands, etc. We learn that the Register of this district will be in Benton, Bodie and Bridgeport about the 13th instant on land business, and parties having made entries under the Act had better avail themselves of that opportunity to furnish the proofs required by the new order.

THE CONVENTION CARRIED.—Secretary Beck announces that the proposition to call a Convention to revise and amend the State Constitution has been carried. The total vote of the State is 146,087—for Convention, 73,460, or 430 more than a majority of all the votes cast. This definitely settles the question. The actual majority was, no doubt, much larger, as in some counties the canvassers of the election returns erred in their interpretation of the law, and held that the printed line, "For the Convention," counted nothing unless with it was given the "Yes" of the voter. But it is not now worth while to order a recount of the vote on the subject, inasmuch as the proposition has received a majority of the lawful vote of the State. It is now devolved upon the Legislature to provide for the election of delegates and the time and place for holding the Convention; but the law requires that it shall be holden within six months after the passage of such law." This will require the Convention to sit during the ensuing year—probably in the Fall of 1878.

THE San Francisco Argonaut of the 29th inst. gives a fac simile of Bret Harte's original manuscript of the "Heathen Chinee" production, together with the corrected form in print. The thing is interesting to the completest extent, as well as is most of the fun and quaint literary specimens of that journal.

THE California mine has paid its seventeenth consecutive monthly dividend, aggregating $18,360,000. The Consolidated Virginia has paid thirty-seven dividends aggregating $32,400,000.

BRIGHAM YOUNG's biography shows that he was at one time an Ohio man. He could hardly have got and held so big an office if the case had been otherwise.

"BRIGHAM YOUNG," remarks the Philadelphia Times, "started with one wife and no fortune, and managed to save up $5,000,000 or $6,000,000 and nineteen wives."

DARWIN says he has seen a woman's feet blush. Mr. Darwin will carry his investigations a little too far some day.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:
SATURDAY, OCTOBER 6.....1877.

NOTICE.

A call is hereby made for each and every one indebted to this office to make a settlement. To personally present any considerable portion of the accounts would involve a trip expensive both in time and money, and it is to be hoped that this method of calling our friends' attention to the matter will prove effective, at a saving to us. Parties who have paid up and do not owe may skip this notice; but to the seven out of ten of our patrons who do, we send greeting.

The Tax Levy and Apportionment.

The Board of Supervisors met on Monday last, the 1st instant. Present—Chas. Meysan, President, and J. R. Westervill. The assessment roll for 1877-8 foots up $1,735,298, after equalization, and a tax of $3 00 was levied on each $100, amounting to $52,058 94. The apportionment was then made as follows:

State Fund	$ .63
Inyo Bonds	.36
Hospital Fund	.25
General Fund	.39
Sinking Fund	.12

SAGE-BRUSH LIGHTNING-BUGS.—These peculiar insects of the genus, Cimex, so familiarly known in other countries are, also, common with us, but of an entirely different type. They invade certain localities where the shrubbery is the thickest and the lunar rays hardly ever penetrate. You want to investigate their habits, go to the head of a family in the vicinity where the insects frequent and ask to see any of the young ladies; the said head quietly steps out among the trees and points in the distance to some hidden recess where a brilliant little ball of glowing fire may be seen bobbing around like a miniature comet in distress. Go there at once, and you will discover the object of your search and then you can investigate the bug. It were needless, though, to examine too closely the mild cigar or the downy moustache immediately behind the curious little blaze.

STILL FLOURISHING.—Jack Allison who was thought to have been mortally wounded in the late terrible tragedy in Lone Pine, in which young Eames and Poncho were killed, is not dead by considerable. The other evening he dropped in at a Mexican theatrical entertainment in the same house where the tragedy took place, and flourished his six-shooter around so recklessly as to bust the show up in a very brief period. No shooting occured, reports to the contrary notwithstanding. The supposed fatal shot that Allison received on the former occasion ranged around his body next to the skin instead of going square through as was first supposed.

WON A PRIZE.—We observe in the list of prize winners at the late Mechanic's Fair in San Francisco, the name of Miss Alice Rhine, daughter of Nathan Rhine of this place, for ornamental writing. From specimens of her writing we have seen, we can well say Miss Alice was fairly entitled to the premium, even there in San Francisco where there were scores of competitors, and much older than herself, she being but thirteen years of age. And the young lady is no less proficient in other branches of study.

LETTER LIST.—The list of letters remaining in the Postoffice at Independence, and uncalled for up to Oct. 1, 1877: H. H. Atkinson, W. W. Dunlap, (2); R. Garcia, P. B. Gerety, J. T. Graham, J. A. Green, Wm. Higbey, M. H. Kelley, (3) one valuable; Geo. Lowreaw, Peter Molloy, H. Mason, B. Mathiew, Nats Maunt, J. P. Robinson, Saml. Rodda, Jacob Roentgen, C. S. Thrasher, D. M. Treanor, A. Treverthen, E. Valencia, J. J. Wright.

EXTENSIVE IMPROVEMENT.—The material is being laid on the ground for a large new livery stable, by P. W. Bennett, Esq., on the lot between his law office and Rowley's store. It is to be made a complete and extensive institution, and will add considerably to the appearance of the central portion of the town.

BULLION SHIPMENT.—The Rex Montis mining company shipped on Monday last, eight bars of fine bullion weighing 895 pounds, valued at over $11,000. This is the result of the September run. It was fine bullion, the bars were well cast and the showing an ornament to any express office.

SURVEYING.—Jos. Seeley is perfecting surveys upon some of the Rex Montis series, Cook's mine, and several of Mr. Holt's, on the north side of Kearsarge, preliminary to the application for patents for the same, by the very sensible owners.

COAL MEASURE.—The system of coal measurement at Cerro Gordo, in general and wholesale transactions, includes the use of a box holding twenty bushels, which is 30 x 30 x 60 inches in size. One hundred and seventeen bushels make one tun.

THAT SCIENTIFIC EXPERIMENT.—It happened thusly: Mother—"My daughter, I do wish you would give that mirror a rest." Daughter—"Why, ma, don't interfere with my studies; I'm looking for Mars."

FRUIT.—This office acknowledges obligations to Mr. A. N. Bell, for a generous supply of luscious cling-stone peaches. Also to Mr. W. A. Baker of Big Pine, for a quantity of delicious grapes.

IN OPERATION.—The Cerro Gordo furnace was fired up on the 1st instant, and is again in steady operation.

ESTABLISHED A BLOCKADE.—For some little time past trouble has existed between O. Glover, A. W. Robinson and others in relation to the conditions of a charcoal transaction in which they were parties. A law suit grew out of this, ending in a judgment against Glover. Previous to that he had been making threats against the lives of these parties, and also against Supt. Hutchings of the Rex Montis because the latter refused to take the coal from Glover on terms dictated by the latter with little or no regard to the apparent rights of the case. After the suit he avowed his determination to make Hutchings accept his proposition if he had to do it with a shot-gun. With this object in view Glover on Thursday night went and camped on the grade leading to the Rex Montis mine for the purpose of intercepting the Superintendent, who was then here in town. Early yesterday morning while Mr. Hutchings was going up the grade on his way to the mill he was suddenly confronted by a double barrel shot-gun, behind which stood Glover with blood in his eye; he gave the Superintendent to understand that he would kill him then and there unless he would accede to the propos d terms. Hutchings discussed the mooted point with him at considerable length, trying to convince the desperate man that he, Hutchings, really had nothing to do with Glover's partnership transactions, nor under no obligations to buy charcoal from him or any one else beyond the plain letter of the original agreement in which Glover was in no wise a principal in interest. The only good this done was that Glover agreed that Hutchings might come back to town, but should on on account be allowed to pass toward the mill. Under these circumstances Hutchings could do do nothing else than come back to town and enter a complaint, which he did. Under Sheriff Steve Gregg yesterday evening started, well armed, to raise the blockade and invite Glover by means of a warrant to come down and satisfy the Court that he is really crazy, or else show cause for his extraordinary proceedings. The belief is quite general that he is crazed. We have nothing as to the situation in "Schipka Pass" since 9 last night, at which time the blockade was being rigidly maintained, two men coming down having to take to the mountain and go around "Oswald Pasha."

NEARLY SIX DAYS WITHOUT FOOD. The constitutional make-up of a Sierra Nevada mountaineer is remarkable, and his powers of endurance would puzzle the comprehension of the toughest Piute. The case in question happened last week, as follows: Wm. Beach, an extensive sheep and land owner from Los Angeles county, had occasion to cross the mountains a little north of this place in search of a new camp of one of his bands of sheep, which had managed to survive the drouth this season by ranging along the roughest and highest summits of the Sierras. He took Smith's saw-mill trail, camped at the mills and from thence expected to reach his destination in a day's ride—not thinking it necessary to overload his horse with anything like food. But in spite of his mountain experience he missed the trail made by a single mule, and after searching in vain for three days was obliged to turn back. He had at one point fired off all the loads of his pistol as a signal for aid when near what he took to be the camp. In this plight—weary, sore-footed, strength slowly, but surely failing, with no nourishment except water at long intervals, eyes dimmed with ever straining, and the brain nearly crazed with the everlasting buzzing so peculiar in high altitudes, and everlasting solitude, no one but those who have been there can imagine the desperate will, the indefatigable determination required when forced to retrace one's steps over passages where life and limb are in imminent peril. But Mr. Beach's faculties proved keen to the end and taking the safest route to Independence came back via the Kearsarge trail. Near the summit he met a Mexican, who furnished him with a little cheese and bread. This was his first food for five days and five hours. He had lost his voice and his stomach was so weak that it was only after eating a large piece of salt he was able to take proper nourishment.

PLEASANT.—It must be the acme of human happiness, or at least of all immediate earthly enjoyment, to be possessed of a barking, howling dog, whose never-ceasing yelp throughout the long night banishes sleep from all the denizens of a whole neighborhood. We know that such a man must be happy, for the reason that he allows such a brute to exist. That is what a much respected, but quite sensitive friend of ours suggests, and we think his judgment is good on the dog question.

SEVERE ACCIDENT.—Yesterday while Benigno Aguirre, living some three miles north of the Post, was driving through the fields his little daughter fell out of the wagon and was run over by one of the wheels. The child was most severely if not dangerously hurt. Dr. Blair was called at once but we have not heard his report.

RUMORED.—It is stated that M. A. Wheeler, of the original Owens Lake Silver-Lead Company, has been at Cerro Gordo on business looking toward the starting up of the old Swansea furnaces, on ores from the hill.

STAGE MATTERS.—Uncle George Smith and E. R. Miner, of the Northern Line, were in town yesterday. The last named gentleman transacted business involving the collection of $41,000 at the various offices.

GONE BELOW.—A. N. Bell, Esq., W. M. of Inyo Lodge No. 221, F. & A. M., has gone to San Francisco, to attend the Grand Lodge, which was to convene yesterday.

GONE.—Except Martin Mee, the Darwin delegation has gone, but so far we hav'nt heard of any missing spoons or other valuables.

OUR MONO LETTER.

BENTON, Oct. 3.

MESSRS. EDITORS.—The absence of Rural has given your readers something of a rest in the way of "Benton letters," which was probably highly appreciated; but now Rural proposes to tell what occurs in this part of the country regardless of whether rests are appreciable or not.

The result of the general election in this country has set some of our good folk to studying upon the problem of election manipulation, and defeated candidates call the problem decidedly knotty and are perfectly willing to let the question pass "on to the next." The judicial election is nearly at hand and considerable interest is manifest; we elect a County Judge, for which office there are three candidates—H. L. Leavitt, on the Republican ticket; J. T. Poe, on the Democratic ticket and G. W. Cross, Independent. We also elect two Justices in Benton, for which honorable and profitable position there are multifarious candidates, who may be named as follows, and as they stand in rotation so they stand as the choice of the people. The ce—James Wales, J. C. Kane, August Mack, E. R. Miner, Bermand McKenney, John Kremkow, E. P. Robinson and G. W. Rowan. All of the ab e named are supposed to be capable of acti g in the capacity of Justice, but the supposition is that the four last named gentlemen will be handsomely defeated.

MILLS AND MINES.

The Comanche and Indian Queen mills are running with reasonably good success, affording a full load of bullion for the "jerk water" every express day. The Diana would run and profit the owners handsomely under the superintendency of Mr. Aaron, if they would give him chemicals with which to operate successfully. The Diana now has a ton of quicksilver en route and that in connection with other cheaper chemicals will enable them to run at least forty days, which will place them upon a paying basis. The pipe and pumping machinery on the Comanche mine are about completed. When the water is once pumped out there will be a demand for a few miners. Col. A. G. Boley has made a discovery at or near the head of the Yellow Jacket which is pronounced by all who have visited it, as the best prospect in the country. The ledge is said to be about seven feet wide, well defined, containing coarse gold, and can be traced for two miles. Reports are favorable from the new district at the head of Long Valley, called "Lake District." James Parker has bonded his Bonanza for $40,000. Jim has a "big thing," but I think there are smaller mines in Lake District which will prove to be equally as good as the big one.

THE GRAND JURY,

Which convened in Bridgeport seemed to have a long siege, yet we have not heard the report of the first gun. We think our Bridgeport relatives prefer peace and quietness upon the subject, because of an indictment being found against the Hon. County Judge and the Hon. District Attorney. Sorry to say that our county officials have had even the eye of suspicion cast upon them.

DIED.

Thomas Golden died at his residence Sunday, September 30, about 1 o'clock P. M., Mr. Golden went to Long Valley about two weeks ago to purchase some sheep. At that time he was feeling as well as usual, but not being accustomed to riding, was consequently very tired upon his arrival in Long Valley, and sought rest in a sheep camp. That night he was attacked with spasms, but no one knows how he suffered, for he was there two days and nights before the news came and assistance could be sent him, and appearances tell of the inhumanity of the men at the sheep camp. After about nine days of intense suffering he passed away, leaving a wife and three children to mourn his loss, His remains were followed to the grave by almost the entire population, who felt it their duty to pay their last respect to their deceased friend.

PERSONAL.

Badger & Son have purchased John Howell's old stock of goods. Kremkow's new brewery in Benton is about completed. Chas. Lewis has sold out his residence, saloon and shoe shop to Mrs. Chas. Lewis, and has left for parts unknown. John Howell is going to Arizona to build a quartz mill. G. W. Cross has gone to Bridgeport and Antelope electioneering. Albert Mack has gone to Belleville. L. A. James of Bishop Creek is running J. A. Creaser's store. H. A. Ring and lady arrived last evening from the hills of New Hampshire. The Hon. Judge Decker has taken up his residence at Bridgeport, and is a candidate for the office of Justice of the Peace of Bridgeport township. L. E. Tubbs was admitted to practice last term of Court, but was not admitted until after his cases were tried, which speaks well for the Bar of Mono county. R. JACOB.

A FISH BONE BONANZA.—J. D. Baldwin, of the Eagle salt works, some sixteen miles east of Wadsworth, says that in running a drift from the bottom of their well or water shaft, last Summer, they met with many fish bones. Their shaft is twenty-six feet in depth, and is sunk in a kind of tough clay. Some of the skeletons of fish found were over a foot in length. The bones are not petrified, but remain in their natural state. Water marks are plainl to be seen high up on the sides of the surrounding hills, showing that where the salt fields now exist there was once a vast lake of fresh water, or at least of water not too salt to be the homes of fishes. The fish of the lake were probably killed by the drying up of the lake and the concentration of its slightly saline waters into a strong brine, and this pickle has doubtless served to preserve their bones for ages.—Virginia (Nev.) Enterprise.

THE other day a correspondent in Osman Pasha's camp, thinking to catch him, said, suddenly: "How are you, Crawford?" Osman looked at him quietly and said: "Doksan dogmak idum sevelmemek, Mellican man sun gunny, git!"—N. Y. Herald.

THE TRAIN ROBBERS.

Press dispatches from Cheyenne, dated on the 27th, give details of the pursuit and killing of two of the parties engaged in the late great train robbery. Of several different accounts we select the following as probably the most correct as it is the fullest:

Since the great express train robbery at Big Springs, Nebraska, on the night of September 18th, hundreds of detectives have turned their attention to the discovery of the perpetrators, and bands of armed men have scoured the conntry in search of them. It is of the early discovery of the trail and the quiet, persistent and partially successful manner in which it has been followed up, that I propose to tell. J. T. Clark, Assistant Superintendent of the road, was in Omaha when the robbery occurred, but within a very few hours after receiving notice of it he had ridden to Big Springs by special train and was soon in possession of definite knowledge concerning the robbers and their whereabouts.

OGALLALA,

The largest stock-shipping point in Nebraska, is nineteen miles east of Big Springs, and throughout the shipping season is full of desperate characters—Texan herders, gamblers, etc.,—and all sorts of deviltry is to be witnessed there at all hours. A day or two before the robbery a herd of cattle was sold to certain parties, who proposed driving them south. A few hours after the robbery six men armed to the teeth and splendidly mounted rode into Ogallala and made their headquarters with the herders of this particular lot of cattle. These were the robbers.

THEIR LEADER'S NAME WAS COLLINS,

And they came up from Texas early in the season with a herd of cattle, which had been sold to a Northern drover. They had concluded their engagement a week or so before the robbery, and were getting ready to return home, they said. They remained in Ogallala about 21 hours, purchased provisions, blankets, clothing, etc., and announcing their intention of helping the above-mentioned cattle to a point on the Kansas Pacific 200 miles southeast of Ogallala; they rode away on the 20th, overtaking the cattle a few miles out and remaining with the herd for the next three days, making only forty-five miles in that time. Here it seems that they either

BECAME ALARMED

Or pursued an original design, for they saddled up and left the cattle, riding rapidly away to the southeast. They were easily traced, and on the night of the 25th camped at a place 14 miles north of the Kansas Pacific Railway, near Buffalo, in Wilson county, Kansas. The early notice given by the Union Pacific authorities had roused the vigilance of the civil authorities, as well as the commanders of the Kansas forts, and guards of troops were distributed at different stations along the road. It happened that Buffalo was the headquarters for a detachment of the Sixteenth United States Infantry from Fort Hayes, forty miles east, under Sheriff Beardslee, of Ellis county. On the following morning, the 26th, about 9 o'clock, the party at the station saw a couple of men riding towards that place.

IT WAS COLLINS AND A COMRADE,

Who were coming in for supplies, and they were allowed to dis mount and make known their errand. The boys in blue were kept out of sight until the Sheriff had decoyed the robbers away from their horses, when they were surrounded and ordered to throw up their hands. Collins attempted to shoot, but the Sheriff covered him with his revolver in time to take a deadly aim and pull the trigger before the robber could bring his shooter to bear upon the officer. Collins fell backward with a gasp and died almost instantly. The other robber, following his leader's example, attempted to draw his weapon for action, but a soldier of the Sheriff's party

HAD HIS EYE ON HIM

And a leaden messenger from an eight-inch Colt's pierced the robber's breast and two of the desperadoes lay lifeless at the feet of the officers. The bodies were taken to the Station-house, where the Sheriff and Lieut. Allen proceeded to search them. Securely packed in belts about their waists was found eighty pounds of gold coin, nearly $22,000, which was taken, to be returned to the Union Pacific Express Company. At last accounts the bodies were at Buffalo, while nothing was known as to the whereabouts of the remaining robbers. From the best information I can obtain, however, it is believed they have become aware of the close pursuit and have now separated, each man riding alone his race for life.

AN affray occurred at Brenchley's ranch, Paradise valley, yesterday afternoon, between Mrs. Hull and Mrs. Black, both residents of the valley, which resulted in the almost instantaneous death of Mrs. Hull, who was shot in the mouth. Various rumors are afloat relative to the affair, but, as Mrs. Black was brought to town last night by her husband and will probably be examined before a magistrate to-day, we refrain from publishing any of the reports in circulation. Mrs. Hull was at the residence of Mrs. Black at the time of the shooting.—Silver State, Sept. 24.

TYPOGRAPHICAL ERRORS.—In a recent number of the English Workman, Richard A. Proctor bewails some of his typographical misfortunes. One journal speaking of his charts of 22, 434 fixed stars, made it "chart of 2,243½ stars." This mishap he forgives in consideration of the dullness of a compositor's life; but in the following he thinks a severe test of any one's good nature. He wrote of the solar spectra, "lines, stripes, and bands of the violet end of the spectra," which appeared which when printed as "links, stripes, and bonds for the violent kind of spectres."

"I THOUGHT you were born on the first of April," said a husband to his wife, who had mentioned the 21st as her birthday. "That's just what all my friends think," said his wife. "Why are they so unanimous on that point?" asked her liege lord. "On account of my choice of a husband," was the quiet reply. The subject was pursued no further.

GEN. Gchavshevadzenescheze, who was wounded in a great battle, exclaimed, "It is sweeter to die for one's country than to live to see your name spelled five hundred different ways."

THE GIANT'S CAUSEWAY.—Nothing I have ever seen in nature can equal the perfect finish of the Causeway. It is difficult to believe that the hand of man has not fashioned it. Pillar on pillar, smooth, perfect hexagons, climb up and down where you will upon it, and the same perfection of shape meets your eyes. One group of pillars has been called the Fan, since it has assumed that shape. The columns as a rule are about four feet in length and rise one above another so regularly that the tops on some form seats, and those form backs to them, and so on from the lowest to the highest. It is almost impossible to describe the beauty of the place; you have first to stand where we stood to believe it.

Stand on the hexagons with the great waves surging up to your feet, billows of blue-green water roll up and retreat, gurgling as they go from submarine hollows, under your feet, and then as you approach to peep over the rocks, rush forward again, fizzing all round you, and splashing you with foam and bits of sea-weed. Turn aside and rocks of grand and weird shape meet your view. Amongst others appears to be a monk who, with bent head, kneels in everlasting attitude of prayer. Contemplate these rocks for a few minutes and they will appear full of faces and figures fantastic perhaps and quaint, but all in keeping with the kneeling figure. Turn your back upon the sea, and what a a grand scene you have!—what cliffs, what rocks, what wonderful formation. It seemed to me, wherever I looked, my eyes wanted to remain fixed.—New Dominion Monthly.

DISPLAY.—True merit is never fond of display. Hence comes the phrase, "barbarian splendor." In the palaces of the Turk, in the halls of the Aztec, the greatest displays of history are located. There the mind lay in feebleness, full of coarse passion or childish littleness. In the heart of Africa the great traveler, Schweinfurth, found the same love of the "high style." He found a jet-black princess whose body was weighed down by over a hundred pounds of African jewelry. Her ankles, her arms, her waist, her neck, were laden with rude iron rings. The taste ran to iron at those African receptions. Thus this history of display is all inwoven with the history of barbarian life. The moment the higher faculties of mind began to be developed, splendor began to move from without inward. Decoration moved away from the tapestro, and wardrobe to reappear in the soul. True greatness has always been plain.

THE death warrant of Robert H. Crozier, convicted of the murder of Charles Silverstein, alias Montana, in an Elko bar-room last January, says the Winnemucca Silver State, has been placed the hands of Sheriff Kyle. Tuesday, October 30, 1877, is named as the day for executing the judgment of the Court. The case was sent on appeal to the Supreme Court, and that tribunal affirmed the judgment of the District Court. So there is no earthly hope for Crozier to escape the gallows unless the Board of Pardons commute his sentence.

THE Texas and Pacific Railway built 110 miles of new road during the last 12 months and increased its gross earnings thirty per cent. in the same period of time. It is 1,400 miles from the present terminus of the road at Fort Worth to San Diego on the Pacific.

IRONING HINT.—Put beeswax between pieces of paper or cloth and keep on a table close by the flatiron stand. If the irons get coated with scorched starch, rub them over the paper that holds the wax and it will all come off.

A Mortified Landlord.

A hotel-keeper who has no more sense or courtesy than to snub a worthy guest because of his poor clothes deserves to lose his custom. In the instance related below, the mortification of the offender was doubtless increased by letting him off mercifully.

Our host of the P—— House was Col. Trover. How he came to be a colonel I never knew; I only know that for the life of him he could not have told the flank of a regiment from its centre. Still he always wrote his name "Colonel," and had "Colonel," in big letters, on his sign-board.

Trover was a sycophant, and bowed low to men of wealth. Once a wealthy old farmer, from Lincoln county, went, with his light rockaway and span of horses to the college where his two sons had just graduated with honor, for the purpose of taking them home.

The party stopped for dinner at the P—— House. The older son did the ordering. He ordered the taking care of the horses, and ordered dinner for the party. The young men were dashing, and handsome, and were their father's pride. The landlord bowed to them extremely low; and in relief of the obsequiousness he paid to them, he was correspondingly brusque and churlish to the old gentleman, "their driver."

While Col. Trover was ordering his very best for the two dashing guests, a middle-aged gentleman in the yard had recognized, in our sturdy, plainly clad old farmer, no less a personage than ex-Governor Hubbard, one of the grandest men in the State, and this gentleman—Judge Kent—and the Governor had a social chat before dinner.

The father observed the landlord's manner, and so did the sons. The latter would have resented it, but the old gentleman restrained them.

"No, no," said he. "He takes me for a poor man, and so treats me roughly. Let him have the full enjoyment of his mistake at the proper time."

When the Colonel saw judge Kent, he went almost to the ground with his bow. This was truly an honor. He found the young graduates, and informed them that his friend, Judge Kent, of the Supreme Court, had arrived. Of course they would have no objections to his sitteng at the table with them?

Of course not.

By-and-by dinner was announced, and the Governor led the way into the dining-room, followed by his sons and the Judge. The landlord saw, and was disgusted. The man whom he had snubbed was going to dine with his honored guests.

"Sir," he said to the elder of the sons, "will you have your driver sit at the table with you? Will the Judge dike it?

"Well," replied the young man, with a merry twinkle of the eye, "since the Governor is to pay all the bills, I guess we'll allow him to sit with us."

"Why, Colonel," cried Kent, with a laugh, "don't you know Governor Hubbard?"

"Our father, Colonel," added one of the sons.

Poor Trover couldn't say a word. He bowed his head and fled, and sent his wife to wait upon the table.

THE circus is coming again, and once more we will have the pleasure of witnessing the cheerful spectacle of seven church members taking one little two year old child to seen the animals. "I didn't go into the circus department," said a good deacon after the last moral circus was here, "but I dropped in to look around the menagerie a few minutes with my little grandson, and—I do think the man that tied his legs in a bow knot around his neck and then crawled through the hoop was alone worth the price of admission."

GETTING ALONG.—There are different ways of getting along, as progress is sometimes called in the world. It does not always mean making a large sum of money, or being a great man for people to look at with wonder. Leaving off a bad habit for a good one is getting along; to be clean and tidy, instead of thoughtless and extravagant; to work as diligently in the master's absence as in his presence, is getting along; in short, when we see any one properly attentive to his duties, persevering through difficulties to gain such knowledge as will be of use to himself and others, offering good examples to his relatives and acquaintances, we may be sure that he is getting along in the world.

Money is a very useful article in its way, but it is possible to get along with small means; for it is a great deal of money before we can do anything. Perseverance is often better that a full purse. Many people fall behind, or miss the way altogether, because they do not perceive the simple and abundant means of getting along which surround them on every side; and it very often happens that these means are aids which can be had for the taking, but which money could not purchase.

Those who really wish to get along in the world, in every sense of the word, must have a large stock of patience and perseverance, of hopeful faith and confidence in the truth, be willing to learn and profit by the experience which every day from nearly every person with whom they come in contact; and, above all, a disposition not so easily cast down by difficulties and disappointments.

FAST-SHOOTING GUNS.—The Martini-Henry rifle, with which the Turks are armed, is the well-known Henry rifle of America, with some improvements by Martini. It is believed to be the best weapon in use by any army. It will carry accurately up to 1,800 yards (over a mile), while the accurate range of the Prussian needle-gun is not over 700 yards. As many as sixty shots a minute have been fired from the Martini-Henry gun without taking aim, and thirty shots a minute have been fired at a target with a reasonable degree of success in hitting it. Trials of fast firing, from a number of rifles, have resulted in an average for the Loper of fifty shots a minute; Martini-Henry, forty; Westley-Richards, thirty-eight; Henry, thirty-eight; Remington, thirty; French Chassepot, nineteen; Berdan (Russian), eighteen; and the needle-gun, nine. The cocking arrangements of the Chassepot and needle-guns are very slow in action. This is the kind of a weapon the Russians are driving their heavy masses in front of. It is dvident that they have not a shadow of success by direct attack. A single line of Turks can slay all the Russians that can be put before them. The Russians must develop a new system of tactics. One of our veteran infantrymen could show them more tricks in the way of encountering a deadly rifle fire than they are likely to learn for a quarter of a century.

MEASURING BY THE EYE.—Years ago, says a correspondent, when we went to school in a little weather-beaten schoolhouse, what exciting contests there used to be over the teacher's favorite exercise of having the scholars estimate, with the eye, the size and weight of different objects in the room. He would hold up his cane, and have each one tell how long he thought it was, and it was a lucky child that could come within half a foot of the right length. He would measure an urchin, and then have the scholars try to reproduce the measure on the wall. He would mark off an inch or a foot or a yard in some conspicuous place, and then see how near anybody could come to chalking the same length on the black-board. And it was astonishing how wide astray one would go. The fact is, our eyes deceive us ridiculously, even upon the commonest things. At first thought, which would you say was the taller, a three-year-old child or a flour-barrel? And could anything but actual measurement convince you that the same child is half as high as a six-footer? There an old saying, that a child two years old is half as tall as he ever will be; and after a few experiments in measuring, one can easily believe it, but not before.

CLARA MORRIS was too pathetic even for Long John Wentworth. "He never blinked an eye," says a Chicago paper, "during the performance of Miss Multon, until the latter, with that thrilling voice of misery, cried out, "For God's sake, Maurice, let my little girl know me before I die!" It was here that L. J. lost control of his iron countenance and broke down. For one brief moment his nose resembled a minature Niagara, and then with a violent effort he shook himself together, took a fresh chew, and was a man once more.

WHILE the Emperors of Germany and Austria were visiting at Ischl, a young lady desired to present the former with a costly boquet, but her courage failed her at the last moment, and she begged an officer in Prussian uniform to perform the service for her. He at once complied, gave the Emperor William the present, and returned to express His Majesty's thanks to the fair donor, who was rather surprised to see this Prussian officer then enter the Emperor's carriage and take a seat beside him. On asking who it was, she discovered that it was the Emperor of Austria in Prussian uniform.

A MASSACHUSETTS girl earned five dollars and the gratitude of neighboring farmers by killing potato-bugs. Then she took the money and bought her lover a flute. Let us draw a veil over the scene.

THE BLOOD ATONEMENT.—A lady correspondent of the San Francisco Chronicle who at present resides in Chico, Butte county, and who has had some experience among the Mormons, writes as follows concerning the "blood atonement:" This horrible and blasphemous doctrine of blood atonement is not often alluded to now by the Mormon preachers, but is as clearly taught in their former works as any doctrine can be, and that it was often acted upon does not admit of a doubt. The theory is simply this: The spirit of the Lord warns the Prophet that some men are in a spirit of apostasy, and that to kill them before they commit this sin will save their souls. This practice was the cause of Jesse T. Hartly's death in Salt Lake. He was a man of education and intelligence, and a lawyer. He was named by some one as a fit person to be appointed missionary preacher among the Gentiles. He was proposed in open convention, when all the heads of the church were on the stand, and the Prophet rose at once, with that air of judicial authority from which those who knew him best understood there was no appeal, and said: "This man Hartly is guilty of apostasy. He has been writing against the church, and has attempted to publish us to the world, and should be sent to hell across lots." The Prophet referred, as an atonement for his sins, that he should lay down his life—that he should be sacrificed in the endowment room, where such atonements are made; but Hartly proposed to be scrificed, and set out alone for the Eastern States. He was followed and murdered by order of Brigham Young and Orson Hyde. This was about May, 1854. But this is one case among a thousand perpetrated by the Destroying Angels, as the prophet was pleased to call them.

THOUGHTS ON LEARNING.—We see at the present day, many learned men, and how did they become smart? By diligent study. Every person while young should improve his talents as much as possible. Many persons who are very wealthy, let their children stay away from school every other day, because it might displease them and they do not like to see their children displeased. But by and by, when they become a little older, they will see they know nothing.

They cannot go into society because they cannot speak correctly, or, if persons begin to talk about anything that concerns education, they will know nothing about it; then they will be laughed at. This shows how necessary it is for a person to learn when he has the opportunity to learn. But many a poor boy, whose parents cannot afford to give him a good education, would become smart men, indeed had they the opportunity. Even some of the presidents of the United States were very poor, but by the help of teachers and by perseverance they became more and more advanced in the different elements of an education, and finally became elevated to the highest office of the country. Thomas Jefferson, at the age of seventeen, could not as much as write his own name; but by applying his judgment, he became a most learned man.

We are never too old to learn; for when a person is young, he can apply his talent more than when he is old, because the faculties of his mind are fresh and can be easily developed if he has the will to learn. Thus, we see what an important thing it is to learn as much as possible, because we will shed many a bitter tear for neglecting it when we had the opportunity.

RAIN IN MEXICO.—"When I was in Mexico," said Bijah, looking out of the window, "I saw it rain just about this hard for fourteen consecutive days."

There was an awful silence for a minute, and then a vagrantish looking old man, who had stepped in to sell some toothache drops, spit on his hands and said:

"I also used to live in Mexico, and I remember that shower. That was nothing, however, to one you have probably forgotten. It began raining one Monday and continued right along for twenty-eight days. I was then living on a prairie, and the water rose and rose until it finally stood forty-eight feet deep all over my land."

Bijah looked at him with scorn and contempt, and sarcastically inquired:

"How did you escape?"

"I climbed a pole forty-nine feet high," was the quiet answer. "I got my feet wet, of course, but we must put up with some discomforts in this sinful world."

The old janitor was so mad that he wouldn't even take a bottle of the drops on trial—no cure, no pay. He said he'd rather die of toothache than to patronize a man who wouldn't tell the truth when it hankered to be told.—Detroit Free Press.

MATRIMONIAL EPISODE.—A youth of twenty walked into the parsonage with a lady of forty, to whom he insisted upon being united, notwithstanding advice to the contrary. "He will have me!" asserted the spinster. And, sure enough, he would; and there was no obstacle which could legally justify a minister's refusal to perform the ceremony, they were soon married, if not mated. The youth's last argument in favor of an immediate union was, that he had been to the expense of hiring a buggy to bring his lady to the minister, and so much money would be just wasted in case of no marriage! Which proved that, young as he was, he had an eye to what is generally called business.

IT may be well enough to give credit to whom it is due; but as a rule, one had better insist on having the cash down.

NOTES ON TAXATION.

The following notes are based on the report of State Controller W. B. Brown:

The total amount of State and county taxes is $11,749,000, or about $14 for every person, and more than $80 on the average for every voter who went to the polls last election.

Of the $11,749,000 paid in State and county taxes by California, San Francisco contributed $5,537,000 or 47 per cent. of the whole amount.

Nearly half of the income of the State Government is applied to the Common Schools; out of the $6,715,000 of the estimated expenses for the two years ending June 30, 1879, $2,828,000 are put down for Common Schools. Each county is required to levy its own school tax, but by levying a State tax in addition, the wealth of the metropolis is made to contribute largely to the schools in the poorer counties. Of all the taxes in the list, this is the one which does the least discredit to the State.

MIXING THE MODELS.—Some enthusiastic but unreflecting persons in their endeavors to save some of the models from the Patent Office fire neglected to keep them separate. The result is an indistinguishable mass of levers, cranks, cut-offs, treadles, artificial legs, saturated with whooping cough mixtures and sprinkled over with fly-powder. The most erratic inventor never dreamt of a wilder complication, and the most pains-taking searcher would be puzzled to distinguish in it a baby-jumper from a cow-catcher. This is part of the matter reported saved. Of that which was destroyed, although irreparable loss has been sustained, it is comforting (to all but the inventors), to reflect that it is limited in extent if not in quality, and that about nine-hundred and ninety-nine out of one thousand models and descriptions merely presented so much disappointment and lost time. That is about the proportion.

RUSSIAN monitors stationed at Odessa received orders to go after some Turkish monitors, and endeavor to draw them into a fight. The commanders of the vessels declared the orders impossible of fulfilment, and an investigation being made, it was ascertained that, owing to their peculiar construction, the heat in the engine rooms of the Russian boats became so great when under way that the crew was utterly overpowered. In case of inclement weather certain air holes had to be closed to keep out the water, and then the heat became suffocating. The decks are so hot in warm weather that they cannot be walked on without double-soled shoes, and the concussion from the enormous guns is so terrible that almost the whole crew have trouble with hearing, and some have, at intervals, lost it entirely.

THE Israelites in England are collecting subscriptions in aid of their brethren in Bulgaria, who have been robbed and oppressed by the Russians. They call on Jews all over the world for assistance, and particularly on the Union of American Hebrew Congregations. The Jews, 600,000 strong in Hungary, have already responded to the appeal. In Russia the persecution of the Israelites is continued, with nearly all its ancient cruelty. They are not permitted to reside in many of of the greatest cities. Kief and Novgorod, as well as Moscow, are forbidden to them, and even in the rural districts they are burdened with multiform exactions.

RETURNS from the election in Colorado, which took place October 2, are very tardy and meager. Stone, for Judge of the Supreme Court, nominee of both parties, was without opposition. There were no other nominees on the State ticket. The women suffrage movement was defeated in Denver. The Republicans elected Styles, Mayor, by thirty-one majority, and all else, except one Alderman in the fifth ward, and Coroner.

THE carpet-baggers of Mississippi are gradually leaving the State, owing to the ruinous falling off in the facilities for stealing. One of them left not long ago by hanging himself on the road below Meridian, and the people are now leaving their ropes out at night with the hope that others will steal them and follow his example.

DURING the present year the Cerro Gordo Freighting Company have purchased from the farmers of Los Nietos Valley alone 11,305 sacks of grain, or 678 tons, and in the neighborhood of Anaheim an immense quantity of grain was purchased for the use of this company.

THE JUDICIAL ELECTION.

Wednesday next is the time designated by law for the election of judicial officers throughout the State; in conformity with the law the Governor has proclaimed that the said election be so held in every county in the State; in conformity with law (itself a Constitutional requirement), the Board of Supervisors of every county in the State, save one, have issued their respective proclamations to the same effect; the exception is this county of Inyo, of course. In this county the only officers to elect are Justices of the Peace; the same is also true of a majority of the others.

The motive which actuated our Board of Supervisors in declining to order or provide for this election was a good one, without question; we do not impugn it in the slightest degree, notwithstanding we are satisfied their action or non-action, rather, in the premises was quite a serious error; it is not one beyond remedy, however. The idea was that as it has been such a common thing to have appointed Justices in this county in default of elected ones, that it would hardly be thought a departure from practice to ignore the regular election for the purpose and appoint by default. That plan would effect a saving of some seven or eight hundred dollars in election expenses, and much time in the aggregate to voters, and yet every thing go on with appointed Justices quite as well as by incurriug all that expense and trouble to formally elect. That is very likely true; but it would be just as correct in practice, just as legal and quite as advisable to so ignore the regular election for county officers other than judicial, leaving the Board to fill all vacancies thereby occurring, as is now proposed for Justices of the Peace. If legal to run the county government by that method in the one case it would be no less so in the other. But it would not for a moment stand the test of law in either case—and should not for reasons too obvious to need specification, except that we might remark that not even the President himself has the right to deprive the people of a State, county or township of the right to choose their own officers as designated by law. That is a right standing above the control of any officer or set of officers. This, of course, applies only to our so-called regular elections, being such as are provided for by our State Constitution, of which this election, special for choice of judicial officers, is one. The failure of the Governor in the first instance, and of Boards of Supervisors in the second, either one or both, to issue proclamations calling such elections cannot at all affect the legality of such elections if otherwise held and carried on as the Codes direct. This fact was clearly enunciated by our Supreme Court in the matter of Kenfield against Brown for the State Controllership. Hence, no doubts need be entertained but what every person elected Justice of the Peace next Wednesday is just as legally entitled to his office as if the proclamation had been promulgated in due form. And should the Board be so unwise (which we do no not assume or expect) as to refuse to canvass the vote they will be mandamused and compelled to do it.

We lay stress on this matter chiefly for the reason that unless this election is held and sustained there cannot be a legally qualified Justice in the county—that is, that the Board have no power to appoint to fill vacancies created by their own failure to order a constitutional election designed expressly to prevent such vacancies. It is a mooted point whether such appointments under any circumstances will stand the test of law, but we make no issue on that except on the grounds above stated.

In many respects a community could better dispense with a Board of Supervisors even than with township magistrates. There never was a time when a set of sensible, resolute Justices were more necessary to the peace and well-being of this county than right now.

There is another point of law involved to be noted: no printed Great Register or Supplement has been provided, consequently all those who voted by certificates at the September election, of which there were nearly four hundred in all, may be debarred from voting; their certificates are on file in the Clerk's office, so that they have no evidence at hand to show their right to deposit their ballots. We think, however, they may be allowed to swear their votes in, as it is not their fault these conditions, not contemplated in the Codes, exist.

THE WAR ENDED.—Dates of the 10th state that Chief Joseph and all his band surrendered a few days since to Gen. Miles, at Snake Creek on the Yellowstone. So ends the Nez Perces war. This was the immediate result of a very severe battle a day or two previous, in which the losses in killed and wounded were heavy, and about the same on both sides. Gen. Miles is astonished at the desperate bravery and soldier-like qualities of those Indians.

OUR INDIANS.

It is our candid belief that a company of U. S. troops should be sent here at as early a date as practicable to to re-occupy Camp Independence. The relations existing between the whites and Indians are decidedly of an anomalous character; that is, neither desire war, yet both are doing what they can to be ready for such an undesirable contingency, both, in a certain degree inviting it; about this there need be no mistake. Accepting the opinions of different persons with whom we have conversed as well as the statements of our correspondent to be found in another column—a man of sound judgment, in no sense an alarmist, and well acquainted with the Indian character—we are constrained to say that an Indian outbreak is liable to occur at any moment in the upper end of the valley. Any drunken man, white or red, can spring war upon us in a moment, almost. Not only can do it, but is liable to do so, for the reason that, as our correspondent states, the Indians feel much encouraged at their successful defiance of the whites in the matter of Jerry's murder, and in numerous other things, trifling in themselves, but no less significant as showing their increased independent and defiant attitude toward the whites. This change in their manners dates from the withdrawal of the troops from this Post. But it is nothing more than was anticipated by very many persons. We do not for a moment doubt but the citizens of this section could of themselves eventually "clean out" every Piute in the valley and surrounding mountains. But the man that assumes to say that this can be done without the loss of numerous valuable lives, and the destruction of a vast amount of property, talks like a parrot, because he talks without thinking. But however that might be, there is not the slightest need to try it. The simple moral effect of a single company of soldiers at this Post, or the organization of a well armed and uniformed militia company will surely put an immediate end to all these mutual distrusts between the races and obviate every danger of a general outbreak. We believe the Post ought to be re-occupied for that reason, even if but for the Winter. We believe furthermore that at some point, whether at Camp Independence or some other more to the eastward a permanent military station should be established, and that the commandant should be vested with supervisory powers over all the Indians of the district, secondary, of course, to the civil authorities in certain particulars. Something of the kind is needed for the welfare of both Indians and whites. Without it trouble of some kind, if not actual war, is sure to follow sooner or later. There never was a time when these Indians would be more formidable as enemies than at present. There never was a time when they were any more "Indian" in heart than now, notwithstanding their advances toward civilization. There never was a time when whisky was more likely to develop the worst traits of their hearts.

ANOTHER WAR WITH MEXICO, PERHAPS.

In spite of all protestations on each side, that only peace between Mexico and the United States is desired, the drift of events appears to be toward war at no very distant period. And the great trouble, or aggravating cause is located along the Rio Grande River; on both sides of it, on the Texas side in the cattle and horses and other tempting subjects for loot, and on the Mexican side a horde of miserable thieves, robbers and murderers, who look upon these objects of their cupidity as legitimate prizes. Our Government has made efforts to effect an agreement with Mexico, by which our troops could cross the river into Mexico in pursuit of these thieves and robbers without giving national offence. But Mexican pride will not consent. It would be considered an invasion of her territory, a desecration of her soil and nationality. But yet she has not been able, by her own troops, to prevent such raids into our territory, and the despoiling our people of their property, and often of their lives. One reason why she has not been able to keep the line of the Rio Grande free from free-booting over it upon American soil, has undoubtedly been the enmity of leaders who have long held command in Tamaulipas, to the American Government and people, and who have protected the thieves and robbers instead of returning them to Texas for trial and punishment.

It is believed that Presidet Diaz is really desirous of preventing those raids, because, if for no other reason, that he desires recognition from our Government. And knowing that Canales is unfriendly, and, like many another Mexican fool, would gladly involve his country in a row and war with us, Diaz has ordered his own troops to the Rio Grande borders, for the purpose of preventing aggressions upon our territory. But for some cause—perhaps the reason is that his troops have not arrived—the raids across the river continue, and lately, Lieut. Bullis, with a detachment of American troops, crossed the river into Mexico in pursuit, it is reported, of Indians who had crossed and recrossed the river, it is supposed for the purpose of cattle-stealing. According to latest reports, the Lieutenant and his troops had been checked and apparently beleagured by the Mexicans, and that some of our officers were crossing the river for the purpose of relieving the Lieutenant and his forces. It was also reported that the Mexican commander had ordered his troops to follow the Americans and see that they committed no outrages upon Mexican soil, or to see that they retire peaceably across the Rio Grande.

What such orders and movements may result in, it is impossible to foretell. With purposes on both sides to preserve the peace and prevent any collision between the forces thus placed, an accident, or the act of a malignant individual, the wounding or killing of a member of either force, or a much less cause, might bring on a collision and lead to events of the most lamentable nature.

ALL SORTS.

It is said that unmilitary men imagine that soldiers are always fighting. One of the Duke of Marlborough's generals dining with the Lord Mayor, an alderman who sat next to him said, "Sir, yours must be a very laborious profession." "No," replied the general, "we fight about four hours in the morning, and two or three after dinner, and then we have all the rest of the day to ourselves."

The Pioche Record says that among the recent escapes from the Salt Lake Territorial Prison was Idaho Bill, a fellow who flourished quite extensively through this part of the country and down in the neighborhood of Pioche some three or four years ago. He is reported to be the boy saved by John D. Lee from the Mountain Meadows massacre.

Congressman Chittenden publishes a letter claiming that specie payments should be effected by the banks and not by the Government. He says, whenever Government shall authorize the conversion of greenbacks into interest paying bonds, bank notes will be at par with gold, and we shall have all the substance of specie payment, without the name.

In the case of the United States vs. Charles J. Backius, Receiver of Public Moneys and Disbursing Officer at Marysville, Judge Sawyer has rendered judgment against the defendant for $1,000. The action was brought to recover $2,945 61, alleged by the Treasury Department to be the amount short in his accounts.

The New York Times criticises adversely the alleged fact that Gen. Howard, in pursuing Captain Joseph and his Indians, gets no adequate support from Gen. Terry or other commanders of adjoining military departments. It attributes to his inefficiency the failure to check and disperse the hostiles.

Nearly all sick animals become so by improper feeding in the first place. Nine cases out of ten the digestion is wrong. Charcoal is the most efficient and rapid corrective. It will cure a majority of cases, if properly administered.

The Conference of the M. E. Church at Oakland made its appointments for the year on the 19th.

THE Texas Pacific people have come out definitely, and have announced their candidate for the Speakership. This comes from those who profess to know Tom Scott's plans for the Winter campaign. The Texas Pacific people are after a subsidy of $150,000,000, and profess that they have the influence of the Administration to help them on in the scheme. They announce John R. Goode, of Virginia, as their candidate, and claim that they will be able to elect him. This scheme is only a second edition of the original plan of securing a republican organization of the House formed in the Spring. The Southern men are really masters of the situation in the House, and are amply able to secure Goode's election, if it will help the Texas Pacific project.

TURKISH soldiers are taller than the Russians, and will average at least five feet and ten inches. They wear full beards, but have their heads shaved, or their hair cut very short.

Congress and Silver.

Some time ago the Chicago Inter-Ocean addressed a circular letter to the various members of Congress asking them to indicate their position on the subject of remonetizing silver, and received replies from 197. Of these, 131 favor repealing the law of 1873, and restoring the "dollar of our fathers" to its old place in the coinage, 15 favor remonetization with conditions attached, 18 are opposed to remonetization, 61 are undecided, and two decline to answer. These answers represent every State, and include 31 Senators and 166 Representatives. Of the latter, 131 advocate the measure, and 13 oppose it. The whole number of Congressmen is 369, and the proportion of those who responded to the inquiries of the Inter-Ocean is more than half of that number. Thus a pretty fair indication of the tone of Congress on the silver question is given. If the remaining 172 Senators and Representatives unheard from are divided in the same ratio as those from whom answers have been received, there is no doubt of the passage of Jones' silver bill. Only 54 more votes are needed, and they are almost certain to be received from among those Congressmen who have not expressed an opinion one way or the other. It is hardly possible that the whole strength of the silver party was developed by the Inter-Ocean's inquiries. But whatever the result may be, it is certain that Congress will adopt measures looking to the restoration of silver as money under limitations if not in full, and there is hardly a doubt but that the law of 1873, which demonetized silver, will be rescinded. That is the least which can be expected.

Now let us consider the bearing which the enlargement of the circulating functions of silver will have upon the mining interest. At present silver is rather a commodity than money. When bullion is produced by a mine it is shipped to market under an uncertainty as to what it is worth or what it will bring. The effect of this is morally injurious and tends to weaken confidence, and the imposition of a heavy discount item in the accounts is not calculated to help matters. Silver is now selling in the open market at less than green-backs. It is well understood that the latter are soon to be redeemed in full, without reservation or equivocation, notwithstanding all the clamor of misguided inflationists; while the people are not yet satisfied that the feeling of Congress is in favor of silver remonetization. As it is, silver is sold at five to six per cent. discount, as compared with gold. This difference in the value of the two metals is equal to the percentage of profit which is accepted as ample in some kinds of business. By adding to the value of the product of the silver mines this percentage, it will make just the difference in many cases between a self-sustaining property and an assessment claim. It may even result in putting certain companies on a dividend-paying basis. The whole people of this coast are directly interested in having silver restored to its former condition as money. Even those who do not believe theoretically in a double standard, are ready to admit that its adoption would be a great gain to this part of the country, and will favor the step from prudential and practical motives, when they might under other circumstances discountenance it. There certainly is no one who would not like to see a tax, which in the case of the two bonanza mines alone amounts to something like $150,000 a month, removed from our mines. It is almost as bad as the direct export tax levied by Mexico upon silver, and which did so much to retard mining enterprises and developments. When it is authoritatively known that Congress will remonetize silver, if only under limitations, the value of our silver mines will be greatly enhanced. There is all the difference in the world between taking hard cash out of a mine and extracting a product which is changeable in quotations, however valuable intrinsically. —Stock Report.

NEW OFFICERS OF THE STATE GRANGE. A portion of the morning session of the State Grange yesterday was occupied in finishing some secret business of the preceeding evening, after which the Grnge proceeded to the election of officers for the ensuing two years, which resulted as follows: Worshipful Master, I. C. Steele, of Pescadero; Overseer, B. R. Spillman of Sutter; Chaplain, Mrs. Jennie C. Carr, wife of the State Superintendent of Public Schools; Secretary, Amos Adams; Treasurer, C. J. Cressey; Steward, N. Carr; Assistant Steward, J. Woods; Lady Assistant Steward, Miss Maggie Carr of Sonoma; Outside Gate-Keeper, T. T. Hoeper of Collinsville; Ceres, Mrs. J. B. Webster, of Alameda; Pomono, Mrs. Manlove of Sacramento; Flora; Miss Louisa Strentzell of Contra Costa. The election occupied nearly all the day, and the evening was devoted to the installation of the newly-elected officers, the ceremonies being conducted by Past Master Hamilton of Guenoc, Lake county, who is a member of the National Grange. The special business will be taken up today, last evening having witnessed the conclusion of the routine work.—S. F. Chronicle.

DESERT LAND.—Some of the land locators doing business with the office at Eureka do not seem to have a very clear idea of the requirements of the law, especially the Desert Land Act. One of the plainest provisions to be complied with is that the land sought to be taken up shall not have been preempted nor occupied under the Homestead Act, and the applicant has to swear that such a condition of facts does not obtain. Notwithstanding the above, a certain, party, who evidently was not posted, hired a surveyor last week, ran his lines through a cultivated field, the boundaries just escaping a dwelling-house and barn, paid $30 in surveyor's fees, and posted off to town to file his application, where he ran square up against the oath. Of course he could not take it without committing perjury, and that section of desert land, in consequence, remains undisturbed. Those who desire to make our barren wasts bloom and blossom into cultivated fields will do well to study the provisions of the law befare paying out fees and investing coin in the speculation.—Sentinel.

COME AGAIN.—This week Visalia was visited with Inyo's officer and Inyo's horse thieves. The former after the latter. The objects of the officers search were found on Main street. In fact the parties met face to face. The officer looked at his warrant and then at the men. It occurred to him he had better get an "official first" fixed to that warrant and then "meet again." So he left his men with a hope of meeting again and while performing and following the statute to his utter astonishment the men had fled, not having time to take their stolen horses with them. The officer gave as reason why he did not arrest thom "that he was not armed." We presume not. Inyo has good officers over there and next time she had better send them out.—Visalia Times.

There were no regular Inyo officers after those thieves; otherwise, otre de modo.

DIED.

At Bishop Creek, Inyo c unty, Cal., October 7, 1877, at the residence of her parents, Joel and Lav na Smith, NETTIE P., wife of Jerome B. Hoover, in the nineteenth year of her age.

Carson Valley papers please copy.

She was conscious to the last, and reconciled to her fate. During her confinement of six weeks she never murmered a word of complaint, and with looks of love she breathed her last.

The angel Death on sombre wings passed by;
Turning aside from bending forms
More ripened for the harvest time,
Plucked from out the dearest home of love
T e fairest and most cherished flower.
For seven months a happy bride,
Full of life and joyous hopes serene—
Bid fair to live a long and useful life.
Death came and claimed her for his own
And stilled her heart and throbbing pulse,
Closing her gentle eyes on all below.
Once more arrayed in bridal robes
They bore her to the lone and silent grave—
'Twas only the earthly form; her soul
Had winged its way to Heaven.
Of her, most truly may be said:
"None knew her but to love her"
Though gone from sight, she loves us still,
And we shall meet again, no more to sever.

UNITED STATES LAND OFFICE,
Independence, California,
October 13, 1877.

TO ALL PERSONS WHO HAVE MADE ENTRIES at this office of Desert Lands, under the Act of March 3, 1877:

Whereas, by order of the Hon. Commissioner of the General Land Office, dated October 2d, 1877, all entries made under said Act above named are suspended, and this office required to give notice by publication, in a newspaper published nearest the land, to all parties interested, of such suspension, and to appoint a time and place of hearing proofs as to the character of said lands, to reduce such proofs to writing and to forward the same to the General Land Office with our joint opinion thereon;

Now, therefore, in pursuance of said order, Notice is hereby given that a hearing will be had and proofs taken in each case at this office for all Desert Land entries made up to date, beginning on Monday, the Twenty-Ninth Day of October, 1877, and will continue from day to day until proofs shall be completed. "The investigation made must be full, thorough and complete, showing whether any of the land entered under said Act will produce an agricultural crop without irrigation; whether any had been previously cultivated by parties residing thereon, or non-residents, and whether any has to be protected from overflow by levees; whether entries have been made by parties other than the real applicants."

SHERIFF'S SALE.

BY VIRTUE OF AN EXECUTION ISSUED OUT of the District Court of the Fourth Judicial District of the State of California, in and for the city and county of San Francisco, in the suit of Ira P. Rankin and Albert P. Brayton, comprising the firm of Rankin, Brayton & Co., plaintiffs, against the Potosi Mining and Smelting Company, a corporation, defendant, upon a judgment rendered in said Court on the 24 day of October, A. D. 1877, for the sum of Six Hundred and thirty 22 100 ($630 22-100) Dollars in gold coin of the United States, besides costs amounting to the sum of Nine 50-100 ($9 50-100) Dollars, duly attested the 24 day of October, A. D. 1877, whereby I am commanded to make the amount of Six Hundred and Thirty-nine 72 100 ($639 72-100) Dollars in gold coin of the United States, besides accruing costs and interest, I have levied upon all the right, title and interest of the said defendant in and to the following described real property, to wit:

All the right, title and interest which the Potosi Mining and Smelting Company, a corporation, now have or had on hand on the 2d day of October, 1877, in and to that certain tunnel and mining ground situated at the old or Lower Town of Cerro Gordo, in Cerro Gordo mining District, Inyo County, California, and known as the Potosi Tunnel and Mining Ground, together with all the rights of way and all the improvements, and all the appurtenances belonging to or in anywise appertaining to said Potosi Tunnel and Mining Ground.

Notice is hereby given that on Friday, the Second Day of November, A. D. 1877, between the hours of 9 o'clock A. M. and 4 o'clock P. M., to-wit: at the hour of 1 o'clock P. M. of that day, in front of the Court House, in the town of Independence, county of Inyo, State of California, I will sell all the right, title and interest of the said defendant, the Potosi Mining and Smelting Company, a corporation, in and to the above described property, or so much thereof as may be sufficient to satisfy judgment and all costs, at public auction, to the highest bidder or bidders, for cash in hand in gold coin of the United States.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:
SATURDAY, OCTOBER 13.....1877.

WILL HOLD ELECTIONS.—Up to date we have supplied ballots for the election of Justice's at Darwin, Lone Pine and Independence, and expect similar orders in a day or two from some three or four other townships. Every township in the county ought by all means to elect a good Justice of the Peace. Such officers can do more, if people will properly sustain and encourage them in doing just their simple duty, to check crime and disorder, than all other county officers combined. And it is highly important our peace officers begin to assume their full powers and authority in fetching disturbers of the peace up by a round turn at as early a date as possible. By so doing numerous bloody affrays may be prevented; not only that, but the risk of some vigilante operations rendered less probable. Here, for some time past there has not been a week but the pistol or knife is called into requisition to settle some trifling matter; not a week but we hear of the death or severe wounding of men in these affairs. People begin seriously to contemplate the advisability of appealing to other means than the law to render life here a little more secure. It is to be sincerely hoped nothing of the kind will ever need to be done, but if we do not mistake the signs of the times, there is danger of it. Elect good Justices in every township, aid them in their duties, and then it is possible this "carnival of crime" may be checked before it gives us the character of semi-barbarians.

THE BODIE STANDARD.—Our neighboring county of Mono has been supplied with the long felt want of a newspaper—one bearing the above title, which made its first appearance at Bodie on Wednesday last. It is a weekly, of the exact size of THE INDEPENDENT, published by Frank Kenyon, and presents an appearance extremely creditable, as to the get up and contents. The Aurora Herald is announced for next week; and besides, Belleville is to have a paper soon. The wave of prosperity evidently sweeping over our northern country is bound to overflow in this direction, and we are sincerely glad to "make a note on't."

INDIAN RAID.—Last Sunday, during the temporary absence of Mrs. Arcularius from home, near this office, some mahalas took the liberty of going into her house and helping themselves to a number of articles, including a quantity of groceries, children's wear, etc., to find which they ransacked things generally. It is very rarely indeed, that our Indians give occasion for accusations of this kind, but various circumstances tend to prove beyond doubt it was some of them that did this.

REX MONTIS.—According to a rumor which we have so far been unable to authenticate, a very rich and extensive strike of ore has been just made in the Rex Montis. The Superintendent, however, has gone to San Francisco, with some parts of the broken water-wheel for the purpose of getting it repaired, and probably to induce the company to build a new mill—one able to do the work required.

IMPORTANT.—Parties interested in desert land applications will observe the notice elsewhere, from the Register and Receiver, of the time and place for hearing proof of the character of the land applied for. It is a matter which must be attended to, though in point of fact there is scarcely an acre of ground in the valley which will produce agricultural crops without irrigation.

BENEFIT.—The Mexican Hall, Lone Pine, is to receive a benefit to-night at the hands of a show company now performing there. The object is a worthy one, as the hall was erected by patriotic Mexican citizens for the general use of everybody in holding celebrations, etc. The building is in debt, and the sum realized by the benefit ought to help considerably.

IMPROVEMENT.—Jos. Fernbach of the Pioneer Brewery of this place, has perfected plans for a large and entire new structure, to take the place of the buildings now in use, and it is stated that work will soon be begun. We hear of several more equally important improvements in contemplation, to which reference will be made at some future time.

CAUTION.—We are requested to specially call attention to the card of Caution, published elsewhere by Messrs. Harris & Rhine. Those having business relations with the firm will heed the instructions therein concerning correspondence, while the statement must be read with interest by all.

PISTOLS FOR TWO.—There was a "right smart chance" for a row at Walter's Brewery on Sunday last, but the guns were finally put up and the matter quieted. Upon another occasion a knockdown or two made things lively for a time.

HAVE not as yet realized any very extensive responses to the "notice" published last week at the head of our local column. We were in earnest about that little matter, and would like to have each individual concerned attend to their part of it, right away.

DENTISTRY.—People with aching jaws and troublesome molars will be glad to learn of the return of Dr. Stoeckley, whose card is published this week. The Dr. ranks A 1 in his profession.

FOR SALE.—An opportunity is offered, by calling upon or addressing Mr. Stoutenborough, at Bishop, to purchase a number of fine Merino rams. See advertisement.

WILL the author of "Benton Tit Bits" please forward names, and tell us what it's all about?

SHOOTING AT GEORGES CREEK.—About 2 P. M., last Monday, some sort of a difficulty took place between Aaron or "Hickey" Hood and William Twaddle, or "Rattling Jack," at the camp of the latter near Shepherd's place, Georges Creek, resulting in Hickey getting a ball through the chest. There were none present except the two men, and their stories differ in some material points as to the immediate cause or circumstances of the shooting. Hickey was there on a friendly visit, however, and after drinking together a number of times, Twaddle drew his six-shooter and fired two shots over Hickey's head, then a third one which struck just below the right nipple and coming out about an inch to the right of the back bone, ranging downwards from point of entrance, and inflicting an ugly looking wound, but one not at all likely to prove fatal. Hickey was also armed but it appears did not shoot, though it is said he made the first demonstration. Hickey ran to the school house near by and reported himself shot, while Twaddle proceeded to surrender himself to John Shepherd, who brought him to town. The District Attorney went down to see about it, but Hickey positively refused to prosecute, saying it was nothing but a drunken row and no use to bother about it. Twaddle was accordingly discharged, and immediately assumed the position of nurse to Hickey, who sends word to the "boys" that he will "soon be up to see 'em." Next.

ANOTHER SHOOTING.—A shooting occurred at Bishop Creek on the 9th instant, in which the malicious deviltry of the would-be murderer sticks out most prominently. Wm. Moore, a vagabond from all accounts, and whose wife is now in the County Hospital because of his worthlessness, shot Mr. J. A. Ames with the full intention of killing. Fortunately, the weapon was only a small Smith & Wesson seven-shooter. The ball entered anterior and above the left ear, and ranged forward without penetrating the skull, lodging above the outer angle of the left eye, whence it was extracted by Drs. Middleton and Wainright. At last accounts Mr. Ames was doing well. Moore was immediately arrested by Constable Brown and taken before Justice Alexander. It did not appear that the prisoner had any provocation whatever for his murderous act, having scarcely a speaking acquaintance with Ames. He was committed to jail here to answer to the next Gtand Jury. Just before the shooting Moore had once or twice stumbled against Ames, who told him to keep away and get sober. Moore went out of the saloon, and shortly after Ames did the same without reference or thought of what had occurred. Moore was sitting on the edge of the porch but raised up and blazed away without a word.

GYPSIES.—Our locality is now honored with the presence of a band of Gypsies, the first, we believe, of that singular people who have ever visited this county. There are two families and have a good outfit of horses, wagons, etc.

GRAND JURY DRAWN.—A venire for thirty Grand Jurors was drawn yesterday, returnable November 5, the first day of the November term of the County and District Courts.

THE NEXT LEGISLATURE.—The election returns received at the office of the Secretary of State indicates the complexion of the next Legislature to be as follows: Senate—Democrats 28, Republicans 11, Independents 1. Assembly—Democrats 54, Republicans 24, Independent Republican 1, Independents 1. Joint ballot—Democrats 82, Republicans 35, Independents 3. Total 120.

IT was supposed that the Hon. John Morrissey had abandoned the ring years ago. It seems, however, that he and Tweed are in for a bout. There is one thing sure, that the reputation of neither of them will be injured by the fight in which both are now engaged in New York. They are giving a literal representation of pot calling kettle black.

MILK AND LIME-WATER.—Milk and lime-water are now frequently prescribed by physicians in cases of dyspepsia and weakness of the stomach, and in some cases it is said to prove very beneficial. Many persons who think good bread and milk a great luxury frequently hesitate to eat it for the reason that the milk will not digest readily; sourness of stomach will often follow. But experience proves that lime-water and milk are not only food and medicine at an early period of life but also at a later, when, as in the case of infants, the functions of digestion and assimilation have been seriously impaired. A stomach taxed by gluttony, irritated by improper food, inflamed by alcohol, enfeebled by disease or otherwise unfitted for its duties—as is shown by the various symptoms attendent upon digestion, dyspepsia, diarrhea, dysentery and fever—will resume its work, and do it energetically, on an exclusive diet of bread and milk and lime-water. A goblet of milk may have four tablespoonfuls of lime-water added to it with good effect. The way to make lime-water is simply to procure a few lumps of unslacked lime, put them in a stone jar and add water until the lime is slacked and of about the consistency of thin cream; the lime settles, leaving the pure and clear lime-water at the top.

Grange Resolutions.

Among the resolutions adopted by the State Grange on the 3d were several on the late labor strikes and the Senatorial contest as follows:

Resolved, That we deprecate and deplore all strikes and acts of violence, such as have of late resulted from a conflict between capital and labor. We emphatically deny that the Grange organizaton has, as its enemies have asserted, been in any way responsible for such consequences by its principles or acts; but we hold that these conflicts have resulted from such evils as the Grange has always protested against and labored to remove. In advocating retrenchment and reform, public and private, the Grange never has urged, nor intended to urge, the reduction of the well-earned wages of the employes of capital; but we have desired less extravagance, extortion and corruption among those in authority, and among the managers of our vast moneyed corporations, which, while they have been unquestionably a power for good, have too often been a power for corruption, oppression, and the restraint of personal liberty. Furthermore, it ever has been and ever shall be our purpose, by restraining extravagance and corruption in high places, and by protecting the interests of laboring men and women, to stimulate industry and to increase the profits of all labor, that the poorer classes of our people especially may enjoy better returns for their work and greater comforts in their homes. We do not advocate the interests of capital as against labor, or labor as against capital, but we seek, in all enterprises, that harmonious union of the two which will secure the most equitable distribution of natural agents and profits between capital and labor.

Resolved, That we, and those we represent, as farmers and taxpayers, cannot witness without deep solicitude for the result, the contest for United States Senator, soon to be decided by our State Legislatore. We are aroused to the truth, that without any reference whatever to party bias, the industrial classes of our own and other States have vital interests depending on the character and motives of the men who represent us, either in our Legislature or Congress. This truth we must not, we cannot, for the future ignore. Hence we demand, in behalf of the people who have so much at stake, that hereafter each man who represents us in any legislative body or any position of trust shall bear well, before election and in office, the old-time test of our fathers, "Is he honest, is he faithful, is he capable?" And to this we would add a test question peculiarly needed by the times: Will he be the true friend of industrial interests, rather than the mere slave of capital or party?

We, therefore, urgently request our legislators to choose that man among the many candidates for the honorable and responsible position of Senator, who will best stand these tests, when faithfully applied, that they will select no man who may, to their knowledge, seek to purchase the position by money or any bribery, nor one who is known to be the tool of any corporation or class. We particularly urge upon our fellow-Patrons who will be members of that body, and our Legislative Committee who attend that session, to scan carefully the merits of each candidate, add to give their support to none but such as deserve our confidence.

Tehachepa Marble.

Considerable has been said of late in relation to a quarry of splendid marble recently upened near Tehachepa, just outside the borders of our own county. The following, from the Alta, will give a good idea of the probable value of the property, as well as some other points of interest connected therewith:

During the past week a small consignment of specimens of marble has been received by Mr. C. R. Merrill, the agent of the mine, at 425 California street. The specimens show that the marble is the pure carbonate of lime crystallized, without iron stains or exhibiting the presence of any deleterious substance whatever. It has a very slight blue tinge that is scarcely noticeable. Its cohesion is good, though the marble is less hard to work than granite. This marble comes from a quarry about five miles west of Tehachepa, Kern county, on the line of the Southern Pacific Railroad. The mine was discovered in 1874, by Dr. Brink, of Bakersfield, and located in 1876. It is now being worked by private parties. The ledge has been partially opened, and there is in sight over 6,000 tons of marble. The ledge is a solid one, It is 200 feet wide, and to the depth it has now been worked (26 feet) there are no dry seams or flaws. Solid blocks can be taken out as large as it is possible for the railroad to carry. Blocks from fifteen to twenty feet wide by twenty-five to thirty feet long can be procured without the least difficulty. This is the only solid ledge of building marble near to good transportation that we have in our State. There are ledges in El Dorado county, Owens' Lake Valley, Monterey county and near Columbia, but the difficulties of moving the marble to a convenient place of shipping are too great to make their working profitable. The quarry in Kern county is connected by a broad and well-built road with the railroad station. It is all down-grade between the two points. This renders the freightage very light. The Railroad Company offer great advantages in prices of freight, with the result that the marble can be laid down in this cit, at fully ten per cent. less than the cost of Italian marble.

For building purposes this marble will doubtless meet with a wide and well deserved favor. It takes a fine polish and is as fully as strong as granite. Larsen and Sheerin, well-known quarrymen of this city, have examined the marble and pronounce it first-class. This opinion has been confirmed by a number of architects. For monumental purposes, it answers every requirement. We may expect to see Tehachepa marble soon occupy a prominent place in the beautifying and construction of buildings in our city.

THE Labor and Greenback parties of of Pennsylvania have united.

OUR PETS—THE REDSKINS.

ROUND VALLEY, Oct. 8.

MESSRS. EDITORS—All quiet along the line—no white man has yet been butchered since Jerry's death. Still our pets assume a defiant attitude and the treacherous devils are liable at any time to make an attack. After the murder of Jerry the Round Valley settlers acted very coolly and deliberately (with one or two exceptions), made no fuss nor threats. The redskins may take this indifference on the part of the whites as cowardice, and thereby become so emboldened as to go a little further—chop up a white man and see if the community will quietly submit. It is rumored that our "noble red men" have threatened the lives of certain white men.

Their wrath is slow, but pretty sure. They had for years cherished a wish to spill Jerry's blood. The act was finally consummated. We are aware of their treacherous, bloodthirsty nature. How they exult when butchering even their own brothers and fathers. Although they have commingled with the whites for years, the "savage" still lurks there and when infuriated with whisky they are dangerous brutes in a community. What is to be done? There are none here in favor of war. Home and family is dear to all, but it is evident that in order to subjugate Mr. Indian, we must show a bold front—organize and procure suitable arms. A resort to arms may never be necessary, but a company of well drilled and equiped volunteers in our midst may have the desired beneficial effect. It is claimed that these Indians have been humored and petted too much through Owens Valley, while a good "dubbing" occassionally would be more suitable to their coarse nature.

Years ago when the Piutes worked for two bits a day, and low diet, or a whole week for an old shirt, or an old pair of breeches, Mr. Lo was then a good Injun, and quite serviceable to the pioneer farmers who had no money and but little of anything except elbow grease and pluck. But of late years two, four nor six bits will not satisfy them—nothing less than a dollar a day, and our young, smart, "like 'm whisky" bucks demand one dollar and a half. The breech-clout is no longer seen. The redskins are now well fed, well clad, well armed and well supplied with whisky. This treatment is too good for an Indian—beyond his appreciation. Being that they appear to have outlived their sphere of usefulness, and that white labor can be obtained as cheap, and farmers ought now be able to pay white laborers decent wages. Would it not be advisable to discontinue employing Indians, and engage white labor entirely? Let us shut off Mr. Indian's base of supplies. Let him fall back on taboose and again don his breechclout. His feverish brain will thus cool off and the "savage" in him be so subdued that in due course of time they may again become manageable cattle.

But the fact is these redskins are such dear pets with the farmers! They will sometimes hire a white man when their pet Indian is on a spree or on a murdering expedition! However, the white laborer must not expect as high wages as the treacherous midnight assassin! If we are white men why not employ our fellow men and thus discourage the red devils? By so doing we will strengthen our own ranks and in the same ratio weaken the enemy's.

Hundreds of able bodied white laborers have, this Summer, traversed these valleys seeking employment; but how often have they asked in vain on account of us having our pet Indians around us. This Indian question deserves attention, still "too much talk no good," but prevention is better than cure. If we persist in largely employing the Indian element and refuse work to white men, it seems that we deserve chastisement. JINKS.

How to Run a Waterfall.

The Yosemite Fall has dried up. The Bridal Vail, Nevada and Vernal falls are nearly extinct. The beauty of the Valley has departed for the present. —Ex.

Some enterprising person ought to introduce the approved Eastern and foreign mode of conducting a first-class waterfall. The proper plan is to build a dam above each of the falls and shut off the water at hours when the exhibition is unattended. Then when the bloated tourist doth appear, turn on the water at say four bits a head, or families and parties at five dollars a dozen. Season tickets might be sold at a corresponding reduction. The available points for viewing the scene should be enclosed with a neatly whitewashed fence. In connection with this arrangement advertising space on the cliffs could be let at high terms for select notices, such as "S. T. 1860 X," "Use Sozodont only," "Read the S. F. Chronicle, the only Live Paper west of the Rocky Mountains," "For United States Senator, Mark L. McDonald," etc. In this way a fair competence might be secured to the projector of the scheme and the esthetic taste made to subserve utility. There are several dollars in it.—Stock Report.

DEFIANCE.—The Defiance furnaces furnaces will again be started up Sunday or Monday morning—depending upon the receipt of wood and coal in sufficient quantities—and for the present will run upon Coso Con. ores. —Darwin News, Oct. 6.

THE Richmond Whig wants Randall elected Speaker, because he is the man of the North who has never been deaf to the voice of the South.

Measuring Coal.

A friend has written us a request to publish the system of measuring coal at Cerro Gordo, Darwin and Eureka. Desired the number of cubic inches constituting a bushel of charcoal; or the exact size of a box which will contain ten bushels for instance. Will the Eureka Sentinel and Darwin News interview their furnace men and enlighten us.—Inyo Independent.

In compliance with the above request, we interviewed a number of leading furnace men yesterday with the following results: It is well to premise our statement by informing our Inyo friend that considerable dissatisfaction prevailed some years ago among the coal men relative to the way in which the article was measured, and after much complaint, the system now in use was fixed upon as the standard. At Eureka Consolidated, a box holding 82 bushels is used in measuring from the cars. Enough sacks are taken by the receiver to fill the receptacle even full, and on this basis the average of the car load taken. In unloading from teams at the rack, a box, two feet square, holding eight cubic feet or five bushels of charcoal, is used instead, and, after a sufficient number of sacks, say a dozen, have been measured and their contents found, the load is averaged by the same rule as on the car. The sacks of coal are taken from different parts of the load, in order to prevent the coal men from putting the largest in any certain place. There are 2,748 cubic inches in a bushel of coal, and, although not exactly correct, a box 34 inches square and 24 inches deep will hold ten bushels, near enough for all practical purposes. As coal does not pack closely, it is obvious that the smaller the box in which it is measured the more the coal men gain, hence the adoption of the 82-bushel box, which gives room for the coal to pack, and in consequence is a more just standard, all of which will, we hope, prove satisfactory to Inyo coal and furnace men.—Eureka Sentinel.

The Sentinel has our thanks for the above. We last week published the statement of a friend in relation to coal measurement in which he stated that a box 30 x 30 x 60 inches was the measure in use at Cerro Gordo for twenty bushels of coal. It will be seen that this agrees very closely with the Eureka system, the difference being in favor of the seller in the former or Cerro Gordo system.

A CARD.

To the Good People of Bishop Creek and Vicinity: I extend my thanks and gratitude for your assistance during my wife's illness, and sympathy for me in my great loss. Also, I am especially grateful to Dr. Middleton and Miss Millie Hilton, for the constant help of their willing and unwearied hands, as well as their heartfelt sympathy for the deceased one.

J. B. HOOVER.

Grand Enterprise.

One of the greatest enterprises ever started in Inyo county has been inaugurated by Mr. J. H. Holt, late Superintendent of the Rex Montis Mining Company, operating near Independence. It is no less than a tunnel, to be run in from the north side of Kearsarge mountain, for a distance of 3,000 feet, which, when completed, will cut through eight known ledges and probably several blind ones. This tunnel will tap the different ledges to a depth of from 150 to 2,800 feet, and will reduce the present expenses of mining the rich ores in this mountain at least 100 per cent, in transportation of ores, wood, water and supplies, and obviates the necessity for hoisting, which is a great desideratum in mining. Mr. Holt has four or five mines of his own which this tunnel will open, and it will also open the mines of Joseph McDermott, the Boomerang, Rex Montis and Arctic Companies, the three latter to a depth of 1,400 feet, as also the mines of J. H. Cook to a depth of 2,800 feet. The operations carried on by the Rex Montis Company, their successful working of the ores and shipments of rich bullion during the past year, and the fact that the ledges, so far, in this mountain have increased in size and richness of the ore as depth is obtained, is sufficient guarantee that the tunnel project of Mr. Holt is just what is needed to make all the mines in the Kearsarge mountain paying institutions. The ores are gold and silver-bearing, assaying from $40 to $7,000 per ton, and no trouble is experienced in working them up to 75 and 80 per cent of the assay by free mill process. The tunnel site was located in 1875, and work commenced about the middle of last August. Buildings have been erected and other arrangements perfected so that active operations can be kept up during the entire year. We have seen a large number of specimens of the ore from these mines and if we know anything at all about ores, we must pronounce them first-class, being similar to the Comstock ores. The formation of the mountain is granite, sienite and porphyry accompanied by black dyke, same as the Comstock—favorable to lasting veins. At the mouth of the tunnel wood and water are plentiful and this project will save the great expense of packing, heretofore necessary. The attention of capitalists is directed to this important undertaking, and, upon investigation, we are satisfied they will conclude it is a good venture. Mr. Holt came into Inyo county to operate in mining in June, 1875, and through his indefatigable efforts and good judgment as a miner, the Kearsarge properties, embracing the Rex Montis mines which had long lain idle and dormant, were brought from their lethargic state, and now promise to soon take rank with the best paying mines of the Pacific coast—Darwin News.

TAXABLE PROPERTY.—There are 46,578 acres of land taxed in Mono county. Value of real estate, except town lots, $156,415; value of improvements, 101,350; value of city and town lots, $3,820; improvements thereon, $44,395; value of personal property, $304,125; amount of money on hand, $7,226; total, $617,330. The assessment roll of 1878 will at least show an increase of one hundred per cent.—Bodie Standard.

WORK BEFORE PLAY.—A wealthy man risen from the ranks, was asked how he became rich. He replied: "My father taught me never to play till all my work for the day was finished, and never spend money till I had earned it. If I had but half an hour's work to do in a day, I must do that the first thing, and in half an hour. After this was done, I was allowed to play. I early formed the habit of doing everything in its time, and it soon became perfectly easy to do so. It is to this that I now owe my prosperity."

THIERS was always known as a skeptic; but he left behind him a paper containing a number of detached reflections on his own life and on politics. In it he sets out by observing that for some years past, and especially since he has lived in retirement, he has thought much about religion, and has become convinced that it is the basis of every organized society. He will, therefore, die believing in a God, one and eternal, the Creator of all things, whose mercy he implores for his soul.

AND now it is said that Ben Butler is preparing to blow the Administration sky high during the extra session. His line of attack will be the investigation of the doings of the Commission which fired Packard out of the Governorship of Louisiana. Butler can't see why Packard, who received the most votes, should be declared not elected, while the State of Louisiana is given to Hayes. It begins to look as though we might have some fun at the meeting of Congress.

A CANDIDATE for office in Tulare county, during the late campaign, made a speech in an agricultural neighborhood. In the course of his remarks he alluded to the farmers as the "bulwarks of the country." At the election the candidate got scarcely any votes in the neighborhood. The reason was given by an old farmer, who said the orator had intimated that they were "calves."—Fresno Expositor.

POLITENESS.—Many a man, raised from poverty and obscurity to wealth and honor, can trace his rise to civility. It is sure to reproduce itself in others, and he who is always polite will be sure to get at least as much as he gives. We believe it was Maculay who defined politeness as benevolence in small things. The French, who are nothing unless satrical, declare politeness to be the zero of friendship's thermometer.

FRIENDS AND FORTUNE.—With a clear sky, a bright sun, and a gentle breeze, you can have friends in plenty; but let fortune frown and the firmament be overcast, and then your friends will prove like the strings of a lute, of which you will tighten many before you will find one that will bear the stretch and keep the pitch.

BAIL FORFEITED.—The San Francisco Stock Exchange has this item: "E. P. Raines, indicted for connection in the gold bar case, whose bail was forfeited a few days since, is conducting mine operations on a large scale in Arizona. If he is wanted very bad by his bondsmen, they ought to know where to find him."

A ROUGH towel or a piece of flannel is better to wash the face with than a sponge. The roughness cleanses the pores of the skin, and if a little soap be applied will remove those little black specks, which trouble many people.

BEFORE they are married she will carefully turn down his coat collar when it gets away, but after that she'll jerk it into position like throwing a door-mat out of the window.

A WITNESS on the stand, in reply to a question as to what the character of Mr. —— was for truth and veracity, said' "Well," I should say that he handled truth very carelessly."

AT THE CATTLE SHOW.—Gentleman, with solemnity: "Miss Florence, do you love beasts?" Lady, with vivacity: "Am I to consider that a proposal?"

A COQUETTE is a rose from which every lover plucks a leaf—the thorns are reserved for her future husband.

ZEALOUSLY keep down little expenses, and you will not incur large ones.

TIME never sits heavily on us but when it is badly employed.

CERTIFICATE OF CO-PARTNERSHIP.

KNOW ALL MEN BY THESE PRESENTS, That we, John Dugan and John Blair, residing in the valley of Bishop Creek, county of Inyo, in the State of California, do hereby certify and declare that we have organized and formed ourselves into a co-partnership, and we covenant and agree each with the other to be co-partners, for the purpose of carrying on and conducting the business of Milling, in the 4th township, county of Inyo, State of California, under the firm name and style of DUGAN & BLAIR.

That the principal place of business of said co-partnership is situated in Bishop Creek Valley, county of Inyo, and State aforesaid.

That the names of all persons interested as partners in such business are above stated and signed hereto, and that such partnership will continue and be in force until further notice by us.

In witness whereof, we have hereunto set our hands and seals, this 15th day of September, A. D. 1877.

[SEAL] JOHN DUGAN,
[SEAL] JOHN BLAIR.

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, County of Inyo. } ss.

On this fifteenth day of September, A. D. one thousand, eight hundred and seventy-seven, before me, George C. Alexander, a Notary Public in and for said Inyo county, personally appeared John Dugan and John Blair, known to me to be the same persons whose names are subscribed to the annexed instrument, and who acknowledged to me that they executed the same.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and affixed my official seal, at my office in the said county of Inyo, the day and year in this certificate first above written. [SEAL]

GEO. C. ALEXANDER, Notary Public.

Mr. Evarts' Conundrum.

Mr. Evarts has been in a most playful humor ever since his trip to the New England States. The press of the country teems daily with his bright witticisms and bon mots. At the Cabinet meeting last Saturday, Mr. Evarts was even more numorous than ever. His wit bubbled and welled and gurgled up like a spring of fresh, cool water. The other honorable gentlemen laughed and laughed till their sides fairly ached, and still Mr. Evarts' fund of humor was not exhautted.

"Why," said he, planting a fresh chew where it would do the most good, and handing the pouch back to Gen. Devens, "why is the hen immortal?

"Come, now," said the President, smiling benigantly, "come, now, no politics to-day."

"Oh, but your honor," remonstrated Mr. Evarts, rising and instinctively reaching for a volume of reports that lay on the table. "There isn't henny politics in this, but may it please the Court, it's a joke. Why is the hen immortal?"

The Cabinet sank at once into a profound study.

"Why—is—the—hen—immortal?" slowly repeated Gen. Devens. "Because she never dies! He, he, he, he!"

The Cabinet groaned dismally, and Mr. Evarts said "No."

"Oh! I know," cried Gen. Key, gleefully, clapping his hands, "I know. Because she can't climb a tree!"

This cast a deep gloom over the circle and the President remarked that he would have to cut down the erring brother's wages if he was not more considerate of his associates' feelings.

Mr. Evarts again shook his head.

Secretary Sherman was the next to break the awful silence.

"Because," said he, "because her customs syndicate an eggistence of——"

"No, no," interrupted Mr. Evarts. "That's not it at all. It's a short answer."

"Give us the first line, and then it'll be easier to guess," suggested the warlike McCrary.

"Well, all right," said Mr. Evarts, "because her son—There now, you ought to guess the rest easy enough."

"Because her son believed in Civil Service?" quickly put in Mr. Schurz.

They laughed heartily at this felicitous hit at the poor bird, but Mr. Evarts still shook his head.

"Well, we give it up," they all cried in a chorus.

"Give it up, eh?" said Mr. Evarts. "Why, it's as easy as rolling off a log. A hen is immortal because her son—"

At this moment Mrs. Hayes came in and invited the Cabinet into the blue room to take a glass of water with her. So Mr. Evarts' conundrum is still before the country.—St. Louis Journal.

AFTER the Orsini affair Gen. Espinasse summoned the Parisian editors to his office and said: "I warn you that I am neither a writer nor fond of journalists, and am decided to run the press militarily. You can go." He was killed at Magenta, and, having been a lifelong friend of M. Fould, people were reluctant to announce his death. At last they broke the sad news to him, as gently as might be, and M. Fould said with deep emotion, "That's one saphead the less; I always knew that would be the end of him."

"A DISTRESSED mother" writes to a newspaper for advice, which she gets thusly: "The only way to cure your son of staying out late o' nights is to break his legs, or get the girl he runs after to do your housework."

Health and Flour.

A correspondent of the Chicago Tribune makes the following points: People are waking up to the fact that wheat is incomparably the royal grain, but that in our process of preparing it for food, it has been the most fearfully abused substance in the world. The term "Graham" is a misnomer, and ought to be no longer used—it means anything and everything—it is simply a cover under which is palmed off the poorest and vilest of all wheat preparations. The current "recipe" for "Graham" is third-rate flour mixed with bran. Any man who knows the vast difference there is in wheat food, knows how very far such a flour is from being the sweet and palateable food, sound, ripe and full-grown wheat is capable of yielding. Dealers who handle, and the thousands of persons who eat "Graham," know nothing whatever of the beautiful flavors of the pure, ripe, unadulterated grains.

Phosphorus, which is generally furnished to the system in wheat, is the great pabulum of the nerve tissues, and nerve force underlies and is the motive power of all the functions of the body. The system can no more digest without nerve power than an engine can run without steam, and the same can be said of every other function. This is wherein the whole wheat is most valuable, and wherein white or bolted flour is lamentably deficient. The latter does not supply nerve food—for 196 pounds of ripe, plump wheat contains over four times as much of this vital food as the same weight of white flour does—so that to get the necessary normal amount of mineral food there is in 196 pounds of wheat one has to eat over four barrels of white flour, and thus tax the system to digest over four times as much starch as nature ever intended. Is it any wonder, therefore, that digestion so commonly gives out, that dyspepsia and constipation, with all their attendant evils, are so constant and prevalent?

Several of your correspondents make mention of what they call "attrition flour." During a recent visit to Boston I found this flour much in use, and highly regarded. It should be called cold-ground (or disintegrated) whole wheat flours—although that hardly expresses it—for the astonishing part of it is that the bran portion of the wheat is reduced to an even fineness with the rest of the flour. This is a new, and indeed a great achievement; there is nothing like it in the whole history of flour as food. The cold grinding, or reduction without the use of millstones, completely protects the food elements from any injury; and this even fineness of the bran portions of the wheat furnishes all that part in which the vital elements reside in a condition eminently promotive of digestion and assimilation, without irritation to the most delicate stomach; and furthermore, it adopts a whole-wheat flour trade, the purposes for which white or bolted flour has heretofore been exclusively used. Hence, not only bread, btscuit, gems, etc., but doughnuts, cakes of various kinds, pie-crust, crackers of all kinds, and the whole range of cooked foods of which flour is a component part, can be made of flour containing all the food elements of the wheat.

CURRENT FASHIONS IN JEWELRY.—Silver jewelry has been and continues quite the rage in England, and the earrings made in this metal are certainly more artistic than their golden brethren; which seldom include the delightfully graceful and becoming "tassel" earrings, of which there are so many various patrons in silver. The lighter the workmanship of silver, the more becoming are the ornaments. Very pretty designs are daisies looped together by the stalks, a necklet of looped daisies to match, with pendant of one large marguerite; or silver fuchsia bells with necklet of fuchsia leaves, and pendant of two or three blossoms. Filigree jewelry in gold and silver, is becoming fashionable again; but, though inexpensive, it so easily gets broken or discolored that it can scarcely be considered good value.

TURKISH women do all their shopping at the doors of the stores in Pera, and the merchant—generally a Greek or an Armenian who speaks Turkish—must go to the carriage window with the things they wish to purchase. An ordinance of the minister of police prohibits a Turkish woman from entering any store in the Frank quarter.

A THREE-YEAR-OLD little girl at Rochester, N. Y., was taught to close her evening prayer, during the temporary absence of her father, with, "and please watch over my papa." It sounded very sweet, but the mother's amusement may be imagined when she added: "And you'd better keek an eye on mamma, too!"

A YOUNG urchin went into a hat store and told the clerk that he wanted a cap, at the same time putting two cents on counter. He was informed that the cheapest cap in the store would cost twenty-five cents. "What," said the youngster, "them's big enough for a cannon. I only want one for a pistol."

A GUILELESS boy was deluded the other day into picking up the handle of a galvanic battery. He yelled lustily until they "shut her off," and in describing his sensations he said he could taste green persimmon all over himself.

"MOTHER, mother, I saw the Prince of Wales out driving, and he spoke to me." "What did he say, my darling?" "He said, "get out of the way, you dirty little blackguard."

ONE of the greatest wonders in this world is what becomes of all the smart children.

BANCROFT, THE HISTORIAN.—George Bancroft has the reputation of being one of the most thoroughly educated of living Americans. When he was a student at Gottingen, he learned the Oriental languages from Etchborn, ancient history from Planck and Heeren, natural history from Blumenback, and Greek and Roman antiquities from Dissen. He afterwards heard the lectures of Wolf, the famous Homerist, Hegel, and Schleiermacher. He has been intimate with Humboldt, Varnhagen von Ense, Cousin, Schlosser, Goethe, Benjamin Constant, Manzoni, Chevalier Bunsen, Niebuhr, and a host of dead celebrities. One of the things of his youth was a small volume of poems, enthusiastically describing the scenery of Switzerland and the ruins of Rome. He published the first volume of his "History of the United States," forty-three years ago, and the work is yet unfinished. He is still at work on it, and hopes to live to complete it, and he probably will, as he is of robust constisution and in excellent health, and was seventy-seven on October 3. Those who know him regard him as one of the youngest old men of their acquaintance.

IT was a little hard on the boy, for he meant well and had a sincere admiration for the girl. They were sitting at the tea table with a company of others, and as he passed her the sugar he murmured in an undertone, "Here it is, sweet, just like you." The compliment was a little awkward, to be sure, but he meant it, and it seemed more than cruel when in a moment later she had occasion to pass the butter to him, she drawled, "Here it is, soft, just like you."

FAST RUN.—Probably the fastest run for any considerable distance ever made on a railway in America, says the Railway Age, was that achieved on the Canada Southern road one day last week, when the distance between St. Thomas and Amherstburg, Can., 111 miles, was covered in 109 minutes. It is said that one mile was made in 54 seconds, which would be at the rate of 70 miles an hour—a speed that has been attained in England, though probably not for years.

A GENTLEMAN gave a party in honor of a distinguished missionary lately returned from his field of work. The ladies appeared in very decollette dresses, and as his host feared the style might shock his reverence, he apologized to him for it, saying that fashion demanded it. "Oh, I don't mind it at all," replied the missionary; "I have been ten years among the savages."

A TEASPOONFUL or more of powdered borax thrown in the tub while bathing, will communicate a velvety softness to the water and at the same time invigorate and rest the bather. Persons troubled with nervousness or wakeful nights, will find this kind of bath a great benefit.

WHEN he was a young man he rushed into a burning building and gallantly dragged her out by the hair of the head. They were married the next Winter, and now she rushes in and drags him out by the hair of his head whenever she feels like it. Such is true love.

THESE new style paniers do away with newspaper bustles, and a journal must run on its merits.

J. E. PARKER. P. A. CHALFANT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

PERFECTLY CLEAR.

There is presumably an important meaning to the annexed instructions received by the local land officers this week, but it is a difficult matter to point it out. We copy exactly as follows:

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
General Land Office,
Washington, D. C., Oct. 5, 1877.

Register and Receiver, Independence Cal.—GENTLEMEN: You will give public notice that all entries of land, under act of June 8, 1872, heretofore patented under Chippewa Half Breed Scrip locations, must be made within 30 days from date of such notice.

Very respectfully,
J. A. WILLIAMSON,
Commissioner.

Our land owners interested in claims paid for in Indian scrip will, from the complete ambiguity of the foregoing, not find it necessary to do anything at all until further notice and instructions are given. The general idea seems to be that the Commissioner intends investigating the alleged fraudulent issue of Indian scrip, after the plan pursued in inquiring into all desert land locations, but even this purpose is not at present made clear; hence those interested will be compelled to await developments.

AT last the people of Los Angeles are wakening up to the necessity of combined and comprehensive action on the overpowering railroad question, mainly through the efforts of the Express. It is high time, but we have no tears to shed over the cinching which they are getting and which that community so eminently deserves. We are of course referring to their failure to make that one of the most prosperous cities in the Union, by their utter and suicidal neglect of the Los Angeles and Independence road. Had they lent it a helping hand at the right time no such a bitter experience as now could have overtaken them.

DESERT LAND.—The Receiver of the Eureka Land Office is in receipt from the Commissioner of instructions pertaining to desert lands, as follows: "You will continue to receive applications for strictly desert lands. Applications must be accompanied by undoubted proof of their desert character." Our Independence officers have received no such instructions as the foregoing, but the character of the country is essentially the same as that in Eureka District. However, why is it that the Commissioner professes to have power to abrogate and suspend the action of an absolute law of Congress?

DENVER, Col., glories in a Court which could award the custody of a child to a brutal father, despite his formal confession that he had been guilty of adultery and of acts of physical brutality toward the mother and child, and despite the scene presented in Court of the child clinging to the mother, whose agonized cries sent through the rough crowd of spectators a thrill of sympathy which could hardly be kept within the bounds of respect for the cold and formal decision of the Court.

SOME journals report that Jay Gould and Sidney Dillon, who have been in the West three weeks, have perfected arrangements for a railroad hence to San Francisco under one management. The programme embraces the Erie, Great Western or Grand Trunk, Michigan Central, North Western or Rock Island to Omaha. Gould has for years been aiming at such a stroke.

THE AMOUNT.—The sum which the depositors of the Pioneer Loan and Land Company, San Francisco, have lost is $1,350,000. The thieving and swindling which is now going on is monstrous. Nothing can do the culprits justice save a rope properly applied and well pulled.

THE elections in Ohio and Iowa show the transfer of the former State entirely to the hands of the Democrats. Bishop, Democrat, has been elected Governor by a plurality of 25,000 votes. In Iowa, Gear, Republican, leads Irish, Democrat, by about 30,000.

BILL DAVIS, the prize fighter, who has been on the Virginia City police force, shot and killed Louis Ash on Monday night of last week. He has been held for murder, and will make a good subject for a hanging operation.

THE Sacramento Record-Union appears in an enlarged form and an entirely new dress, presenting a very handsome appearance. It is a good newspaper and ably represents its own side of all questions.

BIG dog show in San Francisco, October 26, at which $5,000 is to be distributed as premiums.

MR. MEYSAN'S VIEWS.

Supervisor Meysan addresses us a lengthy communication in justification of the course of the Board in not ordering or providing for the judicial election in this county. That event is now past, so it is hardly worth while to occupy much space in discussing it at the length demanded by Mr. Meysan's article. However, it will be of interest to note its salient points. He claims that "the present Board of Supervisors acted in good faith on the following grounds:"

"At the time that the present Board of Supervisors was informed of the Governor's proclamation for the judicial election it was too late to comply with the requirements of sections 4064, 1149, and subdivision 3 of section 1116 of the Political Code; and considering that if the Board had ordered said election without complying with the above specified sections [to furnish Great Registers and election blanks, as therein required] said election would have been illegal, and it was impossible, after the Board received, or was informed of said proclamation, to have had the aforesaid supplies printed in time for said election, and considering the impossibility of complying with the entire requirements of law in ordering said election, the Board had either to fail to publish said election proclamation, or to provide the necessary blanks, etc., [which could not be done for the reasons stated]. Of the two alternatives, the Board decided to favor the county finances by not publishing said proclamation, saving the county about $1,300."

Had Mr. Meysan confined his excuses for the non-action of the Board in this matter to the reasons implied in the last sentence, viz., a desire to save the county what the Board deemed an unnecessary expense, the motive, at least, would have been commendable, whatever might have been thought of the propriety of such an assumption of authority. But all respect for the action, so to call it, ends when defended on such flimsy grounds as the preceding. It is perfectly immaterial at what time the Board was "informed" of the issuance of the Governor's proclamation, or whether that proclamation had been issued at all, either as affecting the legality of this regular judicial election, or the plain duties of County Boards in preparing in due time for an election that they knew the Constitution had made mandatory to take place on the certain date prescribed by the Legislature. As a matter of literal fact County Boards have had ever since the year A. D. 1873, to prepare for this identical election, so far as they could be aided in so doing by knowing the exact date of its occurrence, and that it "must be held throughout the State," as provided in section 1042 of the Political Code. But our particular Board need not have begun their preparations for the important event quite so far back as that. It would have been amply in time had they begun to prepare a little at the very date they decided in fact that they wouldn't hold any judicial election this year; that was at the August term this present year. Pursuant to that intent it was ordered that only enough copies of the Great Register should be printed to satisfy the strict legal requirements of the September election only, instead of for both, as had been the rule heretofore, requiring but the preparation of a supplement to make that important part of the work complete for the October election also. The saving by not ordering the extra copies then was about $25; the supplements subsequent would probably have cost $75 or $100 additional. And, while touching upon the matter of the saving that was to be made by not having any judicial election this time, estimated by Mr. Meysan at $1,300, we will say that we think he is a little out in that also, particularly if the usual number of original Great Registers had been ordered in August: Per diem of 17 Election Boards, supposing every precinct to have held the election, at $30 each, equal to $510; Great Registers and supplements as above, $125; all other requisites in the way of blanks, etc., $45, placing the total cost at $680. Yes, there would have been a few dollars for advertising the proclamation, and mileage and a day's wages for the Canvassing Board, and postage, but we will offset all that by the assumed certainty that at least three out of the seventeen precincts would have held no election, and therefore presented no per diem bills. Then, if we take the correct view of the case, the saving was not $1,300.

The Governor's proclamation was promulgated on the 15th of September, giving him a margin of two days over the legal limit of thirty days prior to the set day of election. The same was filed in the Clerk's office here on the 21st of September, leaving a margin of thirteen days above the ten usually required to distribute blanks, etc., to the several precincts—giving time for three publications out of a possible four, right here in our own superior weekly home journal, the subscription price of which is only $5 per annum. It so happened likewise that all the usual and necessary blanks, though not ordered, were received here from San Francisco in ample time, but, pursuant to orders made by the Honorable Board in anticipation, were immediately bundled up and sent back whence they came.

Hence, we conclude, first, that Mr. Meysan has taken some pains to mislead himself about the "impossibility" part, as presented by himself; second, by default of election, but three townships in the county can now have a legally qualified Justice of the Peace for the next two years, save through a special act of the Legislature; third, that the total saving by not ordering this election will not be much in the aggregate—scarcely as much as the $500-penalty section 4086, P. C., says may be imposed upon "Any Supervisor who neglects or refuses to perform any duty that may be imposed upon him," etc.; fourth, that our Board of Supervisors had no option but to order this election according to the plain mandate of the law; fifth, that they have laid themselves liable for neglect of duty; sixth, that that is enough on this branch of the subject; seventh, that Mr. Meysan offers a financial point or two in this letter we may refer to next week, being a further exposition of his views of this matter.

A CHANCE FOR IT TO BEGIN.—There must be nearly or quite 1,500 United States soldiers on Mexican soil. They have gone there to pursue Mexican brigands to their fastnesses. How will the Mexican people like it? They have declared through their newspapers that such an act on the part of United States soldiers would be esteemed a declaration of war and be met accordingly. The temper of the whole Mexican people is in open hostility to any such proceeding, and this sentiment is so intense that the swarthy chieftain who is now called President of that country is in imminent danger of losing his seat because he favors a course of justice toward the Rio Grande thieves. It does not take much to awaken a rebellion in Mexico, and if, as is likely, some chieftains envious of Diaz and hostile toward the United States call for volunteers to "drive out the invaders," it is possible that within the next month volunteers will be needed in Southwestern Texas; and if they are once called for, or if the idea is once fairly awakened that such volunteers are needed, we may count upon a very lively Winter in that direction; and if the exodus once begins it will mean that some of the richest mines and loveliest lands in the world will be added to the great North American republic before the weather grows very warm in the Spring.

WHAT a splendid opportunity a war with Mexico would afford California to get rid of her hoodlums. In case of hostilities California should insist on her quota of volunteers being 20,000. That number of hoodlums would be sufficient to capture Sonora and Lower California and hold them, in spite of any force Mexico could raise. Say what else you please, but the hoodlum is a good fighter. In the event of war give him the first chance.

THE Mexican authorities of Matamoras have openly set the extradition treaty with the United States at defiance by releasing five murderers demanded on requisition by the governor of Texas. The banks of the Rio Grande are patrolled by Mexican and Texas troops, and a collision is imminent. There is great excitement in Texas and Louisiana at the prospect of war.

THREE hundred tramps are now encamped in tents and under trees between Sonoma and Santa Rosa. They have no visible means of support and commit many depredations. They are bound together as a regularly organized body, and the neighboring people are becoming alarmed at their daily increasing insolence. Their numbers are constantly increasing in the ratio of about twenty per day.

THE San Francisco Chronicle, in the course of an interview with Mr. Wigginton, reports him as follows: "On being questioned regarding his legal contest with Pacheco, Mr. Wigginton said that he would go to Washington convinced that he was elected, and with full confidence that he would get his seat."

IN connection with the issue of fraudulent navy pay certificates, the United States grand jury have found two indictments against William B. Carr. He has been admitted to bail in $3,000 on each indictment. George Hearst J. B. Haggin are his sureties.

THE Chinese have secured 32,000 square feet at the Paris exposition, and the United States exhibitors are beginning to fear that the Mongolians learned more from the Philadelphia show than we did ourselves.

THE San Francisco Water Commissioners have decided to recommend the Blue Lakes and Mokelumne river scheme for supplying that city with water. The cost will be $13,500,000.

IT is stated that Senator Booth has determined to oust Georgie Gorham from his position as Secretary of the United States Senate, and that Senator Sargent does not object.

THE Stockton Insane Asylum is overcrowded and the Napa institution will be in two years more.

HAND-SHAKING.—Gen. Grant complains that the people have worn him out with constant hand-shaking since he visited England. His experience in this respect has been perhaps greater than that of any public man of the present day, and his views on the habit may be accepted as conclusive. He says:

"In 1865 it was awful with me. I thought I could hardly survive the task. It not only makes the right arm sore, but it shakes your whole system, and unfits a man for writing or attending to other duties. It demoralizes the entire nervous and muscular system. None but a strong man could go through so much as I did in 1865. If Mr. Tilden, who, you know, is old and not very strong, had been elected, he would have been obliged to decline the hand-shaking business to a great extent because I don't think his system would bear the strain of the amount of it that would have been expected of him."

JOSEPH C. DUNCAN, manager of the San Francisco Land & Loan Society, has absconded, and a warrant for his arrest has been issued, on a charge of over-issuing, which has involved the concern in failure. Thomas Gray, the president, said he knew nothing of the affairs of the bank, never had anything to do with them, was hired at a small salary to set in the bank a certain number of hours a day. This is the scoundrel whom Maj. Jack Stratman was convicted of libeling in 1869, and sentenced to six months imprisonment. The charges of Jack Stratman have thus proved true.

SENATOR SARGENT has informed his Nevada county friends that he will not return to California at the close of his term of office. He is going to locate in Washington and resume the practice of the law before the United States Supreme Court.

THE Virginia Enterprise says that national politics now stand exactly as they did twenty years ago—thoroughly Democratic, only that slavery has in the meanwhile been abolished.

AFFAIRS in El Paso county, Texas, are still serious and threatening, the entire lower portion of the country being in possession of a Mexican mob.

DEATH OF HARRY MEIGGS.—The death of Harry Meiggs at Lima, Peru, on the 29th of September, is reported by telegraph and generally credited. Meiggs was one of the California pioneers and in many respects one of the most remarkable men of the age. Ever since 1854, when he absconded from San Francisco he has been under a cloud; but as time and better fortune favored him the cloud has become less gloomy and more and more fringed with a silver lining. Most of our old citizens had forgotten the forger and absconder of 1854 in admiration of the man who waked up Chile and Peru from their sleep of centuries, and by his astounding railway enterprises transformed them into active and flourishing States. In 1874 the Legislature of this State passed a bill enabling Meiggs to return to this State at will, without incurring the risk of prosecution for his crimes of twenty years before. Gov. Booth refused to sign it, on the ground that no poor man could ever secure such immunity, and that a rich one in this country should not by law be accorded such advantage over the poor. But the two Houses, by the necessary two-thirds vote, passed the bill over the veto, and Mr. Meiggs might have returned had he wished. He died in the sixty-eighth year of his age, after satisfying all his pecuniary obligations in this State and constructing a railway system for Chile and Peru which is the wonder of the world.

IT has been suggested that an Act of Legislature, to postpone the collection of State and county taxes until July next, would be a very acceptable measure to the agriculturists of Southern California. Many of them will be compelled to advance money in the shape of taxes which they will require for the purchase of seed for their grain fields, and if the State could postpone the time of collection, it would help to relieve the embarrassment which many of them will otherwise experience. The dry year has been very severe on most of them, and the State ought to take this fact into consideration. With this accommodation, some of our farmers would be enabled to plant much wider areas of grain than they could without it.—Los Angeles Express.

THIS, from a Russian paper—the Tiflis Messenger—will be of interest to Americans, and especially to those who are old Comstockers. The Messenger reviews Mark Twain's "Roughing It," and says of the author: "Mr. Twain entered the federal Congress as a Representativ e from one of the Western States, after he had lost most of his property by investing in steamboats and mining stocks. One of his finest steamers blew up, through the carelessness of a drunken engineer; while the mines, like most Western speculations, failed principally for the want of drainage and proper machinery to extract the gold."

A CHLORINIZING contrivance called the Howell roaster has been introduced in the Grand Prize mill at Tuscarora. We presume it is the invention of John Howell, a well-known mill man, formerly of Austin, and who when last heard from by us was at Tuscarora. The rich sulphuret ores from the lower levels of the Prize will be treated in the roaster.—Austin Reveille.

THE Russian army is very scantily supplied with bands, the men marching to the music of their own songs. We should think that when a man has been compelled to listen to a Russian song he would want to fight somebody, if he had to walk one hundred miles to find the man.

ALL SORTS.

The devolopments in the Bonanza mines continue more and more a surprise as the bonanza itself is explored and developed. The News says there appears to be absolutely no end or boundary to it. Those mines have been most admirably managed, the Superintendent keeping his explorations at least two years ahead of his ore developments, and not waiting to work out one section of ore before finding more. There is so much ore in sight in those mines, and accumulated at the various mills that without increased milling facilities there is not work enough for the men employed in them, consequently quite a number are being discharged.

The total number of acres entered under the "Desert Land Act" is about three hundred thousand, two-thirds of which are in California. Commissioner Williamson is of the opinion that very few fraudulent entries have been made; but in view of the sweeping allegations of fraud, he considers it advisable to make the suspension and investigation.

There will be a convention of school superintendents and representative teachers held in San Francisco or Sacramento soon, for the purpose of suggesting to the members of the Legislature changes in the school law, and preventing the adoption of any injurious measures to the advancement of education in the State.

There is a giant living in Rome, New York, who is seven feet four inches high and weighing 600 pounds. The lasts that his shoes are made on measure seventeen inches high, twenty-two inches long and twenty-nine inches around the instep. He ought to have a good understanding.

It is now definitely ascertained the next Legislature will stand as follows: In the Senate—Democrats, 28; Republicans, 11; Independents, 1. In the Assembly—Democrats, 54; Republicans, 24; Independents, 2; Democratic majority on joint ballot, 44.

An agent who went to Australia three years ago to search for Arthur Orton in order to disprove his identity with the Tichborne claimant, writes to the London Standard that the undoubted Arthur Orton has been discovered, under the name of George Crosswell.

At a meeting of merchants who suffered losses by the late riots at Pittsburgh, a committee of three was appointed, with power to employ counsel, to represent all parties having losses, the expenses incurred to be divided among claimants in proportion to the amounts involved.

The troubles on the Mexican border are increasing, and war is threatened. An armed body of 400 Mexicans have possession of El Paso in Texas, and threaten to massacre all Americans. The Mexicans claim that El Paso county belongs to Mexico.

The teller in the Branch Bank of Montreal, at Toronto, has absconded with $10,000. He was well known in social circles and believed to have been a heavy speculator. The loss to the bank, it is presumed, will be heavy.

Quartermaster Gen. Meiggs, in a communication just published, states that portions of the roof of the Capital and a large portion of that of the General Postoffice in Washington are liable to conflagration.

The Pioneer Land and Loan Bank of San Francisco, has gone into liquidation. The officers stole the money and fled, and the poor depositors have to pocket the loss of their little savings.

Gold Cardiff, the pedestrian who begun to walk 1,500 miles in 1,000 hours, August 26th, in London, successfully finished his task.

Congressman Wren, of Nevada, will rally under the banner of Conkling and Blaine, and against the Administration.

THE Carson Appeal of September 30, says: Last week a little surprise party was tendered to the peaceably inclined citizens of Bodie. A party of roughs took it into their heads to jump town lots, and they started in by barricading the town in true Parisian revolutionary style. The jumpers were of the worst type of human nature, but lacked one of the qualifications requisite to success—pluck. A merchant of the camp, for the purpose of ascertaining the degree of courage that was concentrated in the jumping party, at about dusk threw a Chinese bomb into their ranks, and the thing exploded with a deafening noise. The jumpers, believing that a howitzer had been discharged into their midst, drew their six-shooters, but not a single man fired. The lack of nerve on the part of the jumpers somewhat encouraged the officers of the law, and they made a raid on the lawless crowd, of which thirteen were arrested and taken to Bridgeport and confined in jail. The citizens of Bodie are fully determined that should any further demonstration of this nature be made in the camp they will resort to measures that may not prove very acceptable to the undesirable and rough element that congregates there now.

THE magnitude of photography as an industry has received striking illustration from the figures presented at the last session of the Berlin Photographic Society. During the past year 40,000,000 cartes-de-visite were produced in Germany; the number of photographers employed was 3,000, and the quantity of nitrate of silver used was about 9,000 pounds.

THE U. P. HIGHWAYMEN.—By a private letter from San Francisco yesterday the news was received that the two Union Pacific car robbers recently overhauled and killed by the detectives were none other than Tip Orndorff and E. P. Rains, both well known in this town and throughout the coast. We very much doubt the correctness of the information, as both of the fugitives have been, according to Eastern papers, already identified, one as a cattle man from Texas, and the other as a well known desperado, who has resided in that part of the country for a number of years. Only a week ago the Stock Exchange announced that Raines was in Arizona engaged in mining speculations and can be found in that locality whenever wanted. Orndorff, although a sporting man, has always had a fair reputation for honesty, and has never been implicated in any transaction heretofore that would make him amenable to the law. Raines, on the contrary, has been under a cloud, and his record is not altogether clean. We are inclined to believe that there is a mistake in the news, and hardly think its truth will be confirmed.—Eureka Sentinel, Oct. 12.

THE American Exchange and Review says that in the United States a fire breaks out every hour in some portion of the country, and that though many are extinguished in their incipiency, they destroy an average of $300,000 a day. The tables compiled by the insurance Chronicle for 1875 and '76 show that the aggregate loss in the United States and Canada in those years was $16,000,000. In two years only the unaccountable sum of $160,000,000! Statistics tabulated by Mr. Oakley, President of the National Board of Underwriters, show that in the thirteen years embracing 1859 to 1872 the insurance companies doing business in the United States paid losses in the United States and British America, in round numbers, to the amount of $235,000,000. These figures, enormous as they are, represent, you will observe, only the amount of losses paid by insurance companies. The loss not covered by insurance was undoubtedly as much more.

PRINCE BISMARCK appears to be a thoroughly impartial person. A military friend gave him an elaborate disquisition the other day on the deeds, errors and chances of the Russian and Turkish armies, and, when he concluded, asked the prince plainly what he thought about them. Bismark answered with this laconic sentence. "I think that each army is getting the thrashing it deserves!"

ROAD TO DARWIN.—Col. Sherman Stevens paid this place a visit from Inyo county, Monday, after having rode across the mountains from the Owens river valley, to investigate and examine into the principles of James' single-track railroad. He effected an arrangement with Mr. James for its introduction in Inyo county, intending to build a road from Owens lake to Darwin.—Visalia Iron Age, Oct. 11.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 20.....1877.

THE TELEPHONE.—"Via down the Flume," we are in receipt of the following private note from an electrician of some note in Inyo: "By a little judicious application and a dose of physic, I have mastered the Telephone; propose to manufacture one of the latest style—an improvement on Prof. Bell's patent. It will work successfully over a 50-mile line without any battery—the current being established by the breath. Preserve all the instruments, as I want the magnets and insulated wire. If you connect a line at your house be sure and make a No. 1 ground connection, for if our several strong breaths (after a dose or two of Irwin's whisky) are not sufficient to generate a current we will hitch on the batteries, and in case that fails we can connect a few lightning bugs at either end and establish a friction battery midway in the lava beds. Yours, scientifically."

EPICURES.—Much of the regular food of our Piute natives, it will be admitted, wouldn't go down among white epicures—such as ground grass seed, winnowed flies and pulverized worms from Owens Lake, rabbits, piñon, roots, bulbs, etc. But their greatest delicacy need not be shunned by any race which so highly esteems oysters, mussels, and shrimps, it being a species of clam found in abundance at the river. It does not differ in size and appearance from the hard-shell clam of the rivers of the Western States, but has a much lighter and smoother shell. The taste, prepared after the manner of fried oysters, is delicious. The Indians occasionally abandon refuse bones and stale bread and make a feast of these, which they call in their vernacular, as near as can be presented in print, "koloragh."

THE HOLT PROPERTY.—Work on one of the Holt ledges, the Potosi No. 4, has progressed until the opening, made on the end of the ledge and increasing rapidly in depth as distance is reached, amounts to a cut and tunnel 60 feet in length. Two feet of ledge matter is shown at the face, containing a strata 7 to 12 inches of the richest description of silver ore. We have a specimen of chloride so soft that it is readily punctured with the thumb nail, and some pieces of the same show, besides, splotches of free gold.

NEW BUILDINGS.—Besides the new stable now in course of construction by the Bennett Bros. and the large brewery building mentioned last week, there will be erected during the Winter a two-story frame building, for a merchandising house, on the corner adjoining the Headquarters saloon, by the Mairs Bros. Arrangements are also under headway for the building of a hotel on the old Inyo House site.

THE KEARSARGE.—Supt. Gray has struck in the new Kearsarge tunnel soft ground, in which progress is being made at the rate of two feet per shift. It is thought to contain a strata from the main ledge, as it is intermixed with quartz giving low assays in silver. The tunnel is in a distance of 300 feet, there remaining about 100 feet to run to strike the ledge.

LONE PINE.—The election for Justices at Lone Pine resulted in the re-election of W. H. Nosler and Charles Keppler to act in that capacity for a couple of years. R. L. Peterson, who was defeated in the contest, was admitedly the best Justice in the county, and probably for that reasen got beat.

SOMETHING NEEDED.—A good custom mill, run by a competent man and fitted to work the free milling ores of Kearsarge district, is among the institutions now required in this vicinity. It would prove a paying concern, and thoroughly stimulate the work of prospecting and developing mines.

TROUT.—Following is the wording of a section of the California game law, of interest just now: "Every person who, between the fifteenth day of October, in each year, and the first day of April in the following year, takes or catches any trout is guilty of a misdemeanor."

THE Darwin News has withdrawn its proposition to sell, the proprietor now announcing that it is not for sale. Although dull at present, it states that the southern portion of Inyo never had brighter prospects before it for the future than now.

BENTON.—At the judicial election in Benton, Mono county, the votes cast for County Judge panned out as follows: Poe, 26; Leavitt, 10; Cross, 85. For Justice of the Peace, Robinson got 65; Miner, 63, and Jas. Wales, 66.

SCALES.—The Cerro Gordo Freighting Company have put a set of Howe platform scales in front of Cohn's store, Lone Pine. They weigh accurately up to ten tons, and are becoming indispensible.

SWANSEA.—It is stated that Mr. M. A Wheeler is negotiating for the purchase of the San Benito lead mine, Cerro Gordo, with the view of reconstructing and starting up the Swansea furnaces.

T. H. BIRDSALL, agent for the Giant Powder Company, was in town during the week, taking orders from miners and merchants. He is a brother-in-law of County Treasurer Isaacs.

THE recent important strike of rich ore in the Rex Montis was in a new opening on another ledge, the Boomerang, distinct from any of the principal workings.

INDEPENDENCE.—The vote for Justice in this township was: Jos. Schalten, 42; Rowley, 24; and C. A. Walters, 5, electing the two first named.

TAXES.—The time for the annual gathering in of taxes is almost at hand.

ASTROLOGY.—We feel somewhat reluctant about telling the story, but as the truth is bound to leak out finally we will take the advantage offered now and state facts, at his expense. Mr. St. Leger Clarence Fitzhugh Jones, a young man of somewhat less than medium size and effeminate features, becoming inspired by the example of nearly all our young folks in having their future life foretold by the Gypsy women in town last week, concluded to get his fortune marked out in advance, as prognosticated by the stars. A practical friend suggested an idea which was subsequently carried out. At the expense of his downy moustache and with the aid of scientific hairdressing, a bottle or two of eu de cologne and a complete theatrical make-up, he appeared at the Gypsy tent in the guise of a dainty miss of sweet sixteen. Having crossed her palm with silver the curtains of the future were drawn aside and his career unfolded. First—A dark-eyed man would win her hand, as against an auburn-haired rival. Supreme happiness was to follow, and she (he) would be blessed with six dark complexioned children. But a cloud was to cross her (his) path, and a tragic ending of all these joys take place, in the death of husband No. 1. We have omitted the little details of fortunate investments, losses, heiritages and one thing and another, and pass on [Second] to the advent of husband No. 2, who differed from the first in the matter of personal description. By this union, which, however, was to be far from a happy one, there would be an issue of three children. But in the course of time this matrimonial partner quietly kicks the bucket, and after a short period of mourning [Third] No. 3 comes on the stage of life. She (he) lives happily ever afterward and has five more children, and the result must be that Mr. St. Leger Clarence Fitzhugh Jones (which is not exactly his name) will in the course of his life be delivered of fourteen children.

THE MEXICAN HALL BENEFIT.—The wind storm of Saturday evening last had the effect of postponing the performance announced to be given for the benefit of the Mexican Hall, at Lone Pine. It was held, however, on the Monday following. The total receipts amounted to $70 00, including donations as follows: Macarter & Phillippay, $2; W. K. Miller, $1; J. Largo, $1; Agustin Pisano, $2; A. B. Elder, $2 80; A. Kersting & Co., $2 50, and THE INYO $3. Deducting the expenses of $19 50, there remained to the benefit of the hall the sum of $50 50. Our reporter states that the entertainment was a success, and the ball which followed an enjoyable one.

MINES BONDED.—The Hindoo, Chattanooga, American and Chickasaw mines, situated on the western slope of the Argus range, about 10 miles south of Darwin, have been bonded in the sum of $10,000, to Mr. C. P. Purinton. The owners, F. S. Wallace, A. A. Riddle and George McConnell enter into an agreement in addition, giving the party who proposes to purchase a further right to operate after a possible failure to carry out the purchase contemplated in the bond, whereby he can work the mines for a time and then pay a greater price.

RACES.—There is to be sport at the Big Pine race track on the 30th and 31st instants, as will be seen by reference to to the advertisement. The purses of $50 and $30 offered by the Jockey Club of that place, augmented by the entrance fees, represent but a small part of the financial interests invested in the matter, as there are main bets already made on the horses which will enter, and pools will bs sold for the benefit of those disposed to speculate on the outside.

THE OTHER SIDE.—We are in receipt of a communication from Mr Glover, which fully and no doubt truthfully sets forth his side of the story—or the facts which lead to his presenting a shot-gun at Mr. Hutchings on the hill. It is now evident that Glover has been vastly more sinned against than sinning in the matter. He makes no attempt to palliate the shot-gun business, however, but sets forth that he was badly treated all around.

POKER.—There is a regular game of Piute poker in constant operation in the lot between Rowley's store and the Aldine saloon. The place has become a rendezvous for Indians, whose tricks and games are past finding out. Much silver changes hands, however, and the braves and bravesses manifest a sublime indifference as to whether they win or lose—to all appearances.

AT SUMNER.—Through a private note we learn that V. A. Gregg, Esq., with his family, has removed from Santa Cruz to Sumner, where he proposes to practice his profession, and in which he has the capabilities to take a high place.

UNION CON.—The furnace is running splendidly. The new hoisting works are in operation, running the cage down about 500 feet, leaving some 300 feet more of the shaft to be cleaned out and retimbered.

NEW BUILDING.—L. Lasky has just finished a new business place in Cerro Gordo, to be occupied by his store and a saloon. The latter is in charge of Freedman, better known as "Boston."

RICH.—Some of the selected specimens of ore from the Holt mines are richer than the stuff which passed as currency in the palmy days of White Pine.

NOTARY.—John R. Hughes has received from the Governor his commission as Nortary Public, to reside in Cerro Gordo.

THE Masonic Lodge will hold an important stated meeting to-night, for work.

CARD.—Attention is invited to the card of A. T. Villegas, of Darwin, published elsewhere.

ELECTRICAL.—The local telegraph wire which formerly connected Camp Independence with this office has been taken down, with the exception of that part running over the highest houses of the main street, ending at the Masonic Hall. The batteries and instruments at THE INDEPENDENT office had been disconnected, leaving the end of the remnant of the main line and that of the ground carelessly lying apart. Things were in this shape when the flurry of rain and cold snap came on about 9 o'clock Saturday evening last, and within a few minutes the proprietors of this high toned family journal had experienced a new experience. While sitting in his private office, pensively meditating upon the idiocy of attempting to successfully run a newspaper in a country without railroad or telegraph, our junior became aware of a disturbance of some sort. There were little lightning flashes, balls of fire shooting around and a sound comparable to a Chinese Newyear. The atmosphere seemed densely charged with electricity, and the wire had become the means of attracting considerable thereof, and of turning it loose among the rubbish of an editorial room. Probably it would not have made so much fuss about it could the current have found the other end of that wire leading to the ground, but our junior didn't attempt to connect them. He simply called on the senior and asked him to go up stairs, and break down the wires, adding a word of caution about the business. Our mechanical senior took a steel chisel without a handle to it, and broke one wire. Then he tackled the other and instantly assumed a horizontal position on the floor. He has now a higher regard for even small doses of lightning, and knows more than he did about telegraph wires and thunder storms. Had there been no one in the office at the outset a conflagration would have been the result.

THE SURRENDER OF JOSEPH.—So Joseph has surrendered at last, after leading the troops a pretty dance over the country, and making a fight that would have given any white General a national reputation. Gen. Miles is entitled to the credit of having trapped and cornered the Nez Perces, and though his own losses in the final struggle were terribly heavy, the end gained is worth the worth the sacrifice. We hope, now that Joseph and the remnant of his band have submitted, that some well-informed statistician will undertake to exhibit the precise difference between the amount expended upon this bloody war, and the amount that would have been required to do justice to the Nez Perces in the first instance. If we remember right no more than sixty thousand dollars were demanded for the extinction of the claims of settlers to the lands which belonged by treaty to these Indians. That sum Congress with its usual stupidity, refused to grant and the direct consequence of that refusal has been a war which probably will cost at the very least a million dollars. Moreover, the Nez Perces will have to be provided for after all, and as the United Stated Government was notoriously in the wrong with regard to them, it cannot treat with harshness. The gallant stand made by the Nez Perces, and the extreme difficulty with which they have been subdued, may serve to show the country how much wiser and better it would have been to retain their friendship and respect by treating them honestly at the beginning. —Record-Union.

MINING VENTILATION.—The following interesting information about ventilation in Comstock mines is from the Virginia Enterprise: Connection was made last evening about 4 o'clock between the Gould & Curry, on the 1900-foot level, and the joint winze on the Savage line. This gives a fine circulation of air at that depth, the draft being southward through the Curry and up through the joint winze. It is a very important connection, as it opens up in the Curry mine, for cross-cutting and prospecting, 460 feet of new ground. Before this connection was made the drift was fearfully hot, the heat at the face being 126 degrees, Fahrenheit. The benefit derived from such a connection is not instantaneous; on the contrary, when the opening is first made the miners get out of the place as soon as possible, as the heat and smell are such as to be unendurable, and frequently produce asphyxiation. It is the same air that the men breathe before an opening is made but when it is set in rapid motion it appears to acquire some new and noxious quality. But for this the miners might drill ahead a great number of feet when drifts are being run to make such connections. A drill hole so run, however, would so sicken the men that they would be unable to work. When a connection is made it is is desirable, therefore, to knock out as large a hole as possible with the last blast, then retire for some hours until the foul air shall have passed out of the drift and level.

WHAT TO DO WITH ASHES.—As many fires are caused by the careless stowing away, or rather throwing away, of ashes—as is shown by not a few "modern instances"—we take pleasure in publishing the the following directions for safely disposing of any ashes likely to contain fire, the instructions being furnished by Chief (K. B.) Brown: Procure a large gunny sack, into which shovel the ashes as they are removed from the stove or grate—stopping any holes there may be in the sack with old rags or wads of paper—then place the sack containing the ashes in an old willow basket, tea chest, or some such convenient receptacle, after which shove the whole under a bed in some rear room. Some reliable man should occupy the bed in this room every night, as in case any of the ashes should contain live coals he would be likely to ascertain the fact much sooner than any outside parties. N. B.—The man so employed should not be one that is a sound sleeper.—Virginia Enterprise.

A YOUNG man sent sixty cents to a firm in Michigan, who advertised a recipe to prevent bad dreams. He received a slip of paper on which was written: "Don't go to sleep."

Esmeralda Items.

We quote the following interesting Aurora items from the Esmeralda Herald of Saturday last:

Things are very lively in Aurora at present. Business is brisker than it has been in a long time, and the corners of everybody's mouth are turning up. Cobb's hotel is completely filled and he has had to press his two large residences across the street into his service. The reason for this is that the mines in the county, which, for some years past, have lain neglected, are being reopened and San Francisco capitalists speak freely of their confidence in these mines, and are eagerly watching developments which they will not be slow to take advantage of. We have learned that some of them have experts in the county getting all the information possible.

The Junieta mine, known as the Del Monte, is to be opened shortly. The owners of this mine are Messrs. D. O. Mills, John F. Boyd, Cook Bros. and I. N. Graves. These names alone indirate that the work will be pushed energetically. This will give employment to the Antelope mill which has been lying idle for some time, as the mill (20-stamp) is owned by the same Company.

Surveyors Garrard and Tagliabue of Bodie, made a temporary survey for an elevated tramway from the mine to the Standard mill, on Thursday, and found the distance to be about 2,400 feet. We could not ascertain at this writing whether it would be built this Fall or not.

The Greeley Bros.' four-stamp mill is going to start up next week on some ore from the Halsey mine, on Aurora Hill. A shaft has been sunk 60 feet in this mine and they are now drifting and find $25 ore in great abundance.

In Bodie lumber is selling at from $50 to $60 per M. At the mills near Bridgeport it is selling at $20, the freight to Bodie being $25 per M. The aggregate capacity of the two mills is now only 15,000 feet a day of 12 hours. In the Spring it will be increased to 20,000. In the meantime the demand is far greater than the supply, hence large shipments are made from Carson.

Two bars of bullion, valued at $2,000, arrived last evening by the Benton stage, consigned to Wells, Fargo & Co., San Francisco. They were from the Diana mine at Benton.

J. M. Meredith will early in the Spring erect a two-story brick building on his lot, on Pine street. It is now covered by a wooden structure which will be removed. Mr. M. has already contracted for the brick.

The eignt-stamp mill owned by Messrs. Meredith, Kimball and Buckley, is running on ore from the Kate Rogers mine of Bodie. There are about 25 tons of the ore on hand, and it is expected to average about $75.

J. B. Hiskey left Aurora Thursday evening for Silver Peak, to take charge of the Silver Peak and Red Mountain Gold and Silver Mine, as Superintendent.

S. C. Cobb is erecting a large and commodious barn on Main street. It is to be fifty feet long and twenty-four wide.

The "oldest inhabitant" cannot remember when there was a death from natural causes in Aurora, and no fatal accident has accurred since '71 or '72.

THE Nevada City (Cal.) Transcript is responsible for this singular coincidence: A gentleman told us a story yesterday, which, to say the least, is very singular. If his reputation for truth and veracity was not above reproach we should "copper" the story. He says several years ago, while standing on Main street, in this city, wondering how he could make a raise of some coin to liquidate a few small bills he was owing, he saw in front of him a five-dollar gold piece, and, on picking it up, he saw near by two ten-cent pieces, which, of course, he picked up. Just at that moment a man came by and found a two-dollar-and-fifty-cent piece, which he handed to our informant, thinking that he had dropped it, whereupon he thanked him. Our informant then went and paid the money out with as much gusto as though it was his own. A short time ago this same gentleman went to Grass Valley again, and, while riding along the street on horseback, espied a five dollar piece. He got off his horse and picked it up, and while doing so found two ten-cent pieces. Just at that moment a man came by and picked up a two-dollar-and-a-half piece and handed it to our informant, who thanked him. He says the story is true, and that he is ahead just $15 40. It is the most singular story we have heard for a long time, finding the same amounts of money in each town and under the same circumstances. We will bring the man to the front if desired.

DAN DE QUILLE is responsible for the following: Not long since a member of the Austin Sazerac Lying Club straightened out, and was to all appearance dead. The club turned out in full regalia to bury him. When the grave was reached the man awoke from his death-like trance and clamored to be let out of his coffin, swearing he was not dead. The faces of the brethren beamed with satisfaction. "He's a good one—a most worthy member, and true to the last," said they, as they planted him in his narrow home.

IN TOWN.—We had the pleasure of meeting Judge John T. Poe, our worthy County Judge, who is a candidate for re-election. He was shaking hands with his many friends hereabouts. Also Paul W. Bennett, Esq., of Independence, who was called hence on legal business in the District Court. He was accompanied by R. M. Briggs, Esq., Register of the Land Office, whose residence is also in Independence. Mr. Briggs has tendered his resignation but without avail as it has not yet been accepted. The reason given for resigning is that his extensive law practice occupies his time more remuneratively. He may locate in Bodie next Spring. —Bodie Standard.

FOR ten days' run the Standard Company shipped to San Francisco on the 15th, two bars of bullion: No. 29, $21,034 60. No. 39, $20,788 04. Total $41,822 64.—Bodie Standard.

THE COLORADO BRIDGE.—The decision of the Cabinet concerning the controversy between the Texas-Pacific and Southern-Pacific railways, as to the latter's bridge and road over the Colorado reservation, is a manifest victory for the Central Pacific. It was based upon an argument that, although Congress alone has power to grant the right of way over public lands, yet it is neither the duty nor interest of military or civil power to interfere to preserve any improved means of access to a military reservation. The practical effect of the decision will be to give the California Company free permission indefinitely to run its trains over the bridge and across the reservation, as Congress is not at all likely to interfere.

"OLD UNCLE DAN" is the title of an excellent new song, by Horace Dumars. Thousands of songs have been published in America, within the last few years, but few ever contain merit enough to become very popular. The above song, is a gem, in fact, one of the sweetest negro melodies, ever put before the music loving public. Sung nightly with immense success, by Milt. G. Barlow, of minstrel fame. Price 40 cents per copy. The title page is illustrated, and contains a fine view of a Southern plantation scene—can be obtained from any large music dealer, or from the publisher, F. W. Helmick, No. 50 West Fourth Street, Cincinnati, O.

THE Langhorne, Pa., Beacon pointedly says: "Were a man to go to bank and get a little accomodation—for instance, a couple of hundred dollars for thirty days—he would have to pay a dollar or two for it. Were he to object to paying on the plea that it cost the bank nothing to lend him money, and that the currency would probably be idle any way if he didn't take it, he would be set down as a fool, without ceremony. Yet, similar objections are made by sensible people when a newspaper asks pay for little services rendered."

What Pays?

IT PAYS EVERY MANUFACTURER, MERCHANT, Mechanic, Inventor, Farmer or Professional man, to keep informed on all the improvements and discoveries of the age.

IT PAYS the head of every family to introduce into his household a newspaper that is instructive, one that fosters a taste for investigation, and promotes thought and encourages discussion among the members.

THE SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN, which has been published weekly for the last thirty-one years, does this, to an extent beyond that of any other publication; in fact it is the only weekly paper published in the United States devoted to Manufactures, Mechanics, Inventions and New Discoveries in the Arts and Sciences.

Every number is profusely illustrated and its contents embrace the latest and most interesting information pertaining to the Industrial, Mechanical and Scientific Progress of the World; Descriptions, with Beautiful Engravings of New Inventions, New Implements, New Processes and Improved Industries of all kinds; Useful Notes, Suggestions and Advice by Practical Writers, for Workmen and Employers, in all the various arts, forming a complete repertory of New Inventions and Discoveries; containing a weekly record, not only of the progress of the Industrial Arts in our own country, but also of all New Discoveries and Inventions in every branch of Engineering, Mechanics and Science abroad.

The Scientific American has been the foremost of all industrial publications for the past thirty-one years. It is the oldest, largest, cheapest and the best weekly illustrated paper devoted to Engineering, Mechanics, Chemistry, New Inventions, Science and Industrial Progress published in the world.

The practical Recipes are well worth ten times the subscription price, and for the shop and house will save many times the cost of subscription.

Merchants, Farmers, Mechanics, Engineers, Inventors, Manufacturers, Chemists, Lovers of Science, and People of all Professions, will find the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN useful to them. It should have a place in every Family, Library, Study, Office and Counting Room; in every Reading Room, College and School. A new volume commences January 1st, 1877.

A year's numbers contain 832 pages and Several Hundred Engravings. Thousands of volumes are preserved for binding and reference. Terms, $3 20 cents a year by mail, including postage. Discount to Clubs. Special circulars, giving Club rates, sent free. Single copies mailed on receipt of 10 cents. May be had of all News Dealers.

PATENTS. In connection with the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN, Messrs. Munn & Co. are Solicitors of American and Foreign Patents, and have the largest establishment in the world. More than fifty thousand applications have been made for patents through their agency.

Patents are obtained on the best terms, Models of New Inventions and Sketches examined, and advice free. A special notice is made in the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN of all Inventions Patented through this Agency, with the name and residence of the Patentee. Patents are often sold in part or whole, to parties attracted to the invention by such notice. A Pamphlet, containing full directions for obtaining Patents sent free. The Scientific American Reference Book—a volume bound in cloth and gilt, containing the Patent Laws, Census of the U. S., and 142 engravings of mechanical movements. Price 25 cents. Address for the paper, or concerning patents, MUNN & CO., 37 Park Row, New York. Branch office, Cor. F and 7th sts., Washington, D. LEGAL.

TO APPLICANTS FOR DESERT LAND—NOTICE.

UNITED STATES LAND OFFICE,
Independence, California,
October 13, 1877.

TO ALL PERSONS WHO HAVE MADE ENTRIES at this office of Desert Lands, under the Act of March 3, 1877:

Whereas, by order of the Hon. Commissioner of the General Land Office, dated October 2d, 1877, all entries made under said Act above named are suspended, and this office required to give notice by publication, in a newspaper published nearest the land, to all parties interested, of such suspension, and to appoint a time and place of hearing proofs as to the character of said lands, to reduce such proofs to writing and to forward the same to the General Land Office with our joint opinion thereon;

Now, therefore, in pursuance of said order, Notice is hereby given that a hearing will be had and proofs taken in each case at this office for all Desert Land entries made up to date, beginning on Monday, the Twenty-Ninth Day of October, 1877, and will continue from day to day until proofs shall be completed. "The investigation made must be full, thorough and complete, showing whether any of the land entered under said Act will produce an agricultural crop without irrigation; whether any had been previously cultivated by parties residing thereon, or non-residents, and whether any has to be protected from overflow by levees; whether entries have been made by parties other than the real applicants."

The Borax Mines of Nevada.

Many of the most wonderful and valuable discoveries and inventions, both ancient and modern, have been accidental. Notable instances will be readily called to mind by the intelligent reader, not only of the discovery of gold and other mines of great value, but also the germs of such great and useful arts and inventions as printing, steam, electricity, and various kinds of mechanism. Among the modern and indeed recent discoveries of great value to mankind, one in our country is particularly noteworthy. It is that of the discovery of a mine or vast bed of borax, by which a most useful and necessary article, instead of being an expensive luxury as formerly, is rendered so cheap as to bring it within the means of all classes.

This remarkable discovery was made in Esmeralda county, Nevada, some four years ago, by a young man who was prospecting for gold and silver mines. While thus engaged, traversing mountains, cañons, and valleys on horseback, he saw, in the valley known as Teel's Marsh, what appeared to be a vast bed of white sand, resembling dry sea foam. The appearance was so novel and singular that he dismounted and descended to prospect the object. Upon arriving at the place, he found it to be the bed of a dry lagoon with the appearance of having been dry for centuries. Walking cautiously over the place, he found the surface to be soft and clayey, and often sunk ankle deep. After an examination of the curious clayey deposit he put several handfuls into his pockets, mounted his horse, and returned across the mountains to his home in Columbus. There he handed the contents of his pockets to an assayer, who, after analysis, pronounced it the richest sample of borax he had ever seen. This fact at once created great excitement, and no little expense attended the necessary claiming, etc., on the part of the fortunate discoverer. It soon proved to be an enormous lagoon or deposit of crude borax, two and a half miles wide, and five or six in length. It was more than one man could properly manage, so a brother was sent for, and the two (now widely known as the Smith Brothers, of Nevada and New York) worked with a will, sparing neither time nor money until the whole deposit was their property, and its wealth being developed. They at once obtained boilers, tanks, crystallizers, etc., from Chicago, and commenced operations. The result is that, in the course of three or four years, the brothers have perfected an immense establishment and are producing an enormous quantity of a chemically pure article of borax, which stands first, and is in demand in every household, to whom it is supplied by grocers and druggists throughout the country. So important has this new industry become that the eminent house of W. T. Coleman & Co., New York and San Francisco, some time ago became the sole agents for the article, and they are now pushing its sale in all parts of the world. We are indebted to them for the foregoing particulars.

The most wonderful part of our story is that the vast deposit of borax in Teel's Marsh reproduces itself every two or three years, so that the supply will continue inexhaustible. This fact (and the additional one that the article has been put at the lowest figures) must prove a great benefit and blessing to the people, for borax has become indispensable for many purposes, being much used in the arts, the household, and as a hygienic remedy. Indeed, the uses of borax are so varied, and its properties so valuable, that those who have thus cheapened its production—by discovery and improved preparation—are entitled to rank among the few who have bestowed lasting benefits upon mankind and the world.—Scientific American.

Steilacoom.

Steilacoom (Washington Territory), though unknown to general fame, has some historical importance. It was from it that General Harney dispatched Lieut. Pickett, since famous as a Confederate commander, to seize San Juan Island, which the British Columbians claimed for themselves.

Many stirring anecdotes of those days are related by the enthusiastic pioneers, and with honest pride they dwell upon the integrity, spirit, and bravery of that fine type of the American soldier, the veteran general, and the gallant nonchalance of his young officer, who, when told by the pompous British commander that if he did not quit the island the English fleet would land its soldiers and capture his miserable excuse of a fortification, replied that the threats could in all probability be enforced, but that many a red-coat would deck its bastion ere they were fulfilled. His careless bearing, easy indifference, and genial hospitality, prevented, undoubtedly, the Britons from overcoming a prudent inactivity, and this led to our late quiet possession of the place through the gracious assent of his Germanic majesty. When the island was occupied conjointly by British and American troops, and magistrates were appointed by both nations to mete out justice to all, the judicial dignity of the Britons was so shocked by the action of their American cotemporaries on the bench that they were compelled to retire from the association through fear of ridicule. The English magistrate appointed to the island circuit being impressed with his own importance appeared in court in faultless attire, and wearing the most fashionable gloves. His Yankee confrere, who was appointed apparently for the special purpose of contrast, appeared in an old suit of rusty gray, a collarless flannel shirt, and his large and horny hands never knew any covering other than a coating of clay. British dignity could scarcely stand such company, and it was only a severe sense of duty that made the English justice bear with the association. The last straw, however, was heaped on one day, when the American judicial came into court with unkempt hair and beard and the inevitable old suit, but arrayed, ye gods! in a brand-new pair of glaring-yellow kid-gloves, through which the hands seemed to have sprawled. When he took his seat on the bench, to the disgust of the other, and held his hands with fingers outstretched, the audience in the court roared with laughter to such an extent that no business could be transacted. This attempt at imitation or mockery was so evident that even the Britons could not suppress their laughter; and the result was, that the English magistrate retreated from the bench in a fit of disgusted anger, and vowed he would never again sit with such a boor. He kept his word; so the American residents were tried thereafter before their rude though just and fun loving justice of the peace. This was what they aimed at; so American diplomacy had gained another victory.—From Appletons' Journal for November.

THE mine owners of Gold Run have concluded to discharge all the Chinese in their employ, and work their mines in the future exclusively with white labor at reduced wages. The wages paid miners is to be $35 per month and furnished with board and sleeping apartments. It is said Mr. Stone, Superintendent of one of the old Gold Run mines, is now working the men he employs on this layout, and the miners working the Hayward mines at You Bet are hired on the same terms.

Two men were riding in the cars on the Danbury Railway the other morning, when one asked the other if he had a pleasant place of residence. "Yes," was the reply; "we have seven nice large rooms over a store." "Over a store! I shouldn't think that would be a quiet place." "Oh, it is quiet enough. The folks don't advertise." "An! I see," said his friend in a tone of relief. —Danbury News.

IN about two weeks there will be petitions started in every city, town and hamlet in this State, for the purpose of getting signers asking relief from Congress in regard to Chinese immigration. It is intended to procure if possible 300,000 petitioners, and have the California Representatives present the monster petition. The Caucasian Lodge in this city is the originator of the movement.—Chico Record.

MOTH-PATCHES ON THE FACE.—Add about one teaspoonful of powdered borax to a basin of water when washing the face morning and evening; or a more convenient way would be to keep a quantity dissolved in a bottle of water, and pour it in the wash-basin as often as needed. Twice a day is often enough to use it, and the moth-patches should slowly disappear in about ten days or two weeks.

THE people of Washington Territory have taken preliminary steps in the matter of applying to Congress for admission into the Union. The area of the Territory is estimated at 70,000 square miles. Three years ago the population was set down at 40,000, but the immigration since that period has probably brought it up to near 60,000 at the present time.

THE steady advance in the price of silver is most cheering news to the Pacific coast, where the silver crop is steadily increasing. The price of silver in London has been strengthening for several months. The re-monetization of the silver dollar will this week be one of the current topics at Washington.

COST OF THE SUTRO TUNNEL.—The estimate of the monthly sum each company benefitted by the Sutro tunnel would have to pay, under the terms proposed by Mr. Sutro, has unnecessarily alarmed a few timorous individuals. There is not the remotest possibility of the terms referred to being acceded to. The cost of the tunnel has been greatly overstated by Mr. Sutro, as can be very easily demonstrated. On the 1st of January, 1875, the total progress made in the tunnel was 8,079 feet. In the ensuing thirty-two months up to September 1st, 1877, the progress made was 9,811 feet, making the total length of the tunnel at that date 17,890 feet. The expenses of the company during the thirty-two months referred to were less than $25,000 per month. Admitting that they averaged $25,000 per month, the total actual cost of the 9,811 feet run during those thirty-two months was only $800,000, or a fraction less than $81 55 per foot. This includes the cost of all materials used, machinery purchased, etc. Accepting the cost per foot of the work during these months as a fair average of the cost of the whole work, the total cost of the tunnel, when completed to the Comstock, a distance of 20,170 feet from its entrance, should not exceed $1,644,763 50. Adding to this the sum of $355,136 50 for preliminary surveys, first cost of machiney—most of which was purchased in Europe at low figures and some of which was paid for in stock—buildings, terminus, etc., we have a grand total of $2,000,000, which is a very liberal allowance. What has become of the balance of the $3,000,000 which it is claimed the tunnel has cost? That is a conundrum which the Tunnel Company must answer satisfactorily before the total cost of the tunnel can be determined with sufficient certainty to base upon it the monthly amount to be paid the Tunnel Company, if the terms proposed by Mr. Sutro are acceded to. —Virginia Chronicle.

IT is estimated that the famine in India will cost the Indian Government £15,000,000, or $75,000,000, for relief alone. This is a much larger sum than was estimated by Mr. Fawcett, in a rather despondent speech recently delivered at Salisbury. He thought that it would not cost less than £10,000,000, and might reach £14,000,000. The conclusion he drew from the facts was that there could be nothing in store for India but bankruptcy, if these enormous expenditures are required to relieve the famine stricken people every few years. The last famine was in Behar in 1872-3, and it necessitated the outlay of £8,500,000. But the amount paid out for relief is perhaps the smallest part of the loss. The Indian Government loses the rent due by the starving.

INSENSIBLE TO BEE-STINGS.—The village of Fritztown, this county, possesses an anomalous character known by the name of "Tommy," who is said to be insensible to the pain which usually attends the sting of bees, yellow-jackets, wasps and hornets. He can take honey from bee-hives and bumble-bees' nests without either stupefying or destroying the bees. He destroys all the hornets' and yellow-jackets' nests that he can find, and although frequently covered by the insects, which have alighted upon him in swarms, he has never been known to flinch. Upon getting hold of a hornet's nest he empties it by shaking the hornets out of the aperture.—Reading Times.

M. OFFENBACH'S delicacy of ear is well known, and it is possible that the following story, which is now going the round of the Paris clubs, may be true. He had lately dismissed a very sharp valet, and on being asked for a character of him, replied in very laudatory terms: "Why, then, did you dismiss him?" it was asked. "Well, you see," said the master, "he always use to beat my clothes outside my door, and I never could get him to do it in time."

"AFTER all, you were only a circus artist," said a prosperous equestrian's daughter to a well-known and clever actress now retired from the boards, on meeting her behind the scenes the other day. "You were a member of my father's circus company." "Yes," replied the elder lady with dignity: "but there are grades even in a circus, and your father used to chalk my shoes."

THE amount to Central America consisted of $17,000 in Gold coin and $50,081 in Silver coin; while the amount to China consisted of $412,500 in fine silver, $204,600 in Trade Dollars, $133,500 in Mexican Dollars, $4,600 in Gold coin, and $1,300 in Gold dust. For the past seven months, we have been shipping from $4,500,000 to $7,000,000 in Treasure per month.

A CORRESPONDENT of the Tuscarora Review reports a big strike in the Hussey mine at Cornucopia, which, he says, has created quite an excitement in camp. The ore is largely impregnated with native and wire silver.

THIERS and MacMahon were decorated, in '36, by King Leopold, of Belgium, at the same time; Thiers for services rendered on the occasion of Anvers, and MacMahon for brilliant conduct during the siege.

A RENO hotel keeper is the patentee of a bedbug destroyer, and when his guests are shown to their rooms they are handed a box of the powder and an air-gun.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 27.....1877.

THE Sitting Bull Commission managed to get an interview with that redoubtable warrior at last; but he told them that it was his (S. B's) experience and unbiased conviction that the Americans were thieves and liars of the first water, and he wanted nothing more whatever to do with them, and they would confer a personal and tribal favor on him if they would just be good enough to immediately pack themselves off and never bother him any more unless he sent for them, etc. Scratching their heads awhile over these rather polite remarks by Mr. B. so as to take in their full import and undisguised meaning, the Commissioners finally made up their minds that their high embassy was not the biggest kind of a success, and that they would so have to report the facts to the old man Bull, S. B's Great Father at Washington. The affair has spread a deep gloom over out-of-business Indian Agents all over the country. Some think it would be a good idea to snatch S. B. for libel and trust to a packed jury to convict him, but most people think it would be impossible to get such a jury without exhausting the Indian Agent corruption fund, which is not to be thought of with a Democratic majority ready to do business in Congress.

SENATOR JONES' bill for the coinage of silver dollars, introduced a few days since, provides that the weight of the silver dollar be 112½ grains, and exchangable for silver bullion upon the same terms and conditions as gold bullion is deposited for coinage under the existing law. The bill also provides that no charge shall be made for coining standard bullion into these dollars, and proposes to make them legal tender for all sums in payment of all public or private debts, excepting such as under existing contracts are expressed therein to be otherwise payable. And this reminds us how much more learnedly the country newspaper editor could discuss these great financial problems, involving billions, if he could only get hold of one of these dollars now and then to give him a realizing sense of the momentous nature of the issue as affecting his own interests. But still he can "jis' cuss," if he don't discuss.

WE have received no complete report of the result of the judicial election throughout the State as yet. Following is a partial list of Judges elected, and their politics, an important matter, this last, of course: Tulare, Clark, Independent Democrat; San Francisco, Davis Louderback, Republican, Police Judge; and Robert Ferrel, Democrat, Municipal Judge; Los Angeles, Stephens, Democrat, County Judge; Yuba, S. M. Bliss, Democrat, County Judge; Sacramento, M. S. Horan, Republican, Police Judge; Solano, John M. Gregory, Democrat, County Judge; Amador, A. C. Brown, Democrat, County Judge.

MONO COUNTY ELECTION.—The Bodie Standard, of the 24th, gives the official returns of the Mono County Judicial Election, by which we learn that Leavitt has a majority of two over Cross, the next highest, and is therefore elected. The vote stood: H. L. Leavitt (Rep.), 128; G. W. Cross (Ind.), 126; J. T. Poe (Dem.), 85. In Benton the vote for Justices stood: E. P. Robinson, 65; E. R. Miner, 63; Jas. Wales, 66. For Judges, Benton polled 121 votes, all told, to 86 for Bodie.

MRS. BELLE LYNCH of the Ukiah Dispatch, was assaulted and brutally beaten by one Carothers. The man has had provacation sufficient to induce him to murder seventeen thousand men, but his attack upon a woman was dastardly. Nevertheless, the madame didn't claim to be a woman in assuming to foully slander Carothers' wife, therefore, she got licked as a man not as a woman, and it's all right.

A TERRIBLE explosion occurred in a coal mine at Hight Blantyre, near Glasgow, Scotland, on the 22d by which a very large number of persons lost their lives. At last accounts there were yet 233 men buried up in the mine, many of them still living, but so far within the works it must take days to reach them, so there is scarcely a shadow of hope for any them. It is a soul harrowing affair.

THE Louisville Courier-Journal recalls that Cassius M. Clay killed a young man named Turner nearly 20 years ago, and says: "Turner was a candidate for the Legislature, and in a political discussion forced the fight on Clay—a thing that was never hard to do."

THE Sick Man of the East is getting worse-ted.

INYO FINANCES—THE LEGISLATION REQUIRED.

To Inyo people, by far the most important legislation required at the hands of the ensuing General Assembly is enactments of some kind correcting our county financial system. This duty will of course devolve upon our Representative elect, S. P. Moffat, Esq., in whose ability to manage the matter we have full confidence. For the end in view, i. e.: the extinction of the bonded and floating debt, ready payment of current expenses and last, but not least, the reduction of taxes (if possible), several plans might be presented—such as a general funding bill, under which the whole debt could perhaps be consolidated and bonds issued to the amount and sold, the proceeds to liquidate present demands, or by means of an increased proportion of the tax applied to the benefit of the delinquent funds. The whole subject is one which should invite the best thoughts of all our citizens, including those who hold paper representing the indebtedness as well as all tax-payers who have to finally pay the same, in order to reach a conclusion as to the best plan of restoring the county credit.

Under the old regime, before the adoption by law of the present Expense Fund system, the county would long before this have been hopelessly bankrupt. But by that means the whole debt has been kept comparatively uninincreased, while it now remains to further correct the apportionment and see if we cannot assist some of the arrearage accounts by means of transfer, without seriously affecting any portion of the whole. We shall proceed to show how we think it can be done.

From the forthcoming report of the County Auditor it appears that the total indebtedness, after deducting the amount of cash and redeemed warrants in the hands of the Treasurer, is $88,014 92, not including accrued interest. This amount is due and payable from the several funds as follows:

Road Poll Tax	758 00
Bonds (payable in 1892)	32,500 00

This exhibit, however, will be changed and somewhat reduced upon the surrender of the redeemed warrants now in the hands of the Treasurer, but for present purposes it is unnecessrry to take the fact into consideration.

In the tax levy made by the Board of Supervisors for the present year the rate was fixed at $3 00 for each $100 of taxable property as assessed, and apportioned to the several funds thus:

Inyo Bonds	.36
School Fund	.05
Old General Fund	.39
Sinking Fund	.12

The total footing of the assessment roll for the current fiscal year is $1,735,993, and the tax to be collected therefrom amounts to $52,079 79, of which the sum of $3,339 90 has already been collected, apportioned and paid out as far as practicable. From the experience of the past two years we can expect that about 12 per cent. of the tax will be delinquent, or rather not paid at all, so that in round numbers only about $46,000 of this year's taxes will be collected. This will place into the several funds, in round numbers, the following amounts:

State Fund	$ 9,660 00

From these statements and estimates there appears a fair prospect that the outstanding indebtedness of some of the funds will be redeemed at a sufficiently early date, the exceptions being the Bond, General and Hospital funds, With the present ratio and apportionment the Bond indebtedness will diminish yearly in such proportion as to insure its entire extinction by the time the principal falls due. It remains, then, to devise means for the relief and payment of the indebtedness of the old General and the Hospital funds. By maintaining the levy and apportionment of the present year, not taking into calculation any increase of taxable property, the indebtedness of the General Fund will be extinguished in about eight years. As there appears to be no feasible plan for its relief at present, we may expect to endure its burdens for the coming two years at least. Perhaps by that time the condition of affairs may be so changed that a legislative act would fix it.

The Hospital fund presents the most vexatious appearance of all, and something must be done to settle its condition. The present levy of 25 cents is the maximum limit of the law, and unless we resort to some special legislation, or levy an annual hospital poll tax the indebtedness will continually increase. Warrants are three years behind hand, and as the scrip is worth but about 50 cents on the dollar, it follows that the county not only pays double for everything but it is practically piling up interest on interest. The present expenditure for hospital purposes exceeds by about $1,500 the annual revenue, not including the accrued interest, which amounts to about $900 annually. Now, then, suppose we adopt the speediest means of relief to this fund, and levy an annual $2 hospital poll tax. This would come in the greatest measure from those who oftenest demand county assistance while sick, its collection being enforced under the existing law holding employers responsible. The plan would yield a yearly revenue of about $2,000, which would at least prevent the present ruinous increase of this indebtedness.

That portion of the present special road law imposing a road tax on all alike, is claimed to bear unjustly upon all localities surrounded by toll roads, and should therefore be so amended as to exempt such from that particular tax. Let the equities of the case be as they may it is extremely doubtful if such an amendment, being special in a law that must be general or nothing, would stand the Constitutional test. Should the present law be repealed in toto on account of this asserted unjust feature, and substituted by one to maintain roads by a general property tax, it would surely be no less unjust in effect, since it unduly increases the burden of the property holders in such localities while totally exempting the larger but equally interested class of simple poll (i. e. not property) tax payers. Most of the roads in the southern portion of the county have been permanently repaired, leaving only the main one leading to Darwin which requires much attention. This could be readily provided for by about the same levy now made for the General Road fund. In fact, unless the road poll tax law is repealed we cannot expect citizens to bear the burden of an additional hospital poll tax, but they would cheerfully pay the latter if relieved of the former. Such a plan would certainly regulate our financial matters to a good effect.

THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE.

In his special message to Congress the President makes no allusion to his policy, or the questions that divide parties, further than to say that he defers until the beginning of the regular annual session any reference to them. He says that, no appropriation having been made for the support of the army for the present fiscal year, a suspension of payments to the officers and men has been rendered necessary for sums due them for services rendered since the 30th of June last. Notwithstanding this the army has been constantly and actively employed in arduous and dangerous service, and has discharged its duty with fidelity and courage and without complaint. He, therefore, thought it necessary for Congress to be convened in advance of the regular session. He urges speedy action and suggests the propriety of making the necessary appropriations for the support of the army for the current year at the present maximum numerical strength of 25,000 men, leaving for future consideration all questions relating to an increase or decrease. The amount of the appropriation recommended is $32,436,764 98. He also says there is required for the navy $20,013,861 27. There will also be needed $262,562 22 to defray the unsettled expenses of the United States Courts for the last fiscal year, and an appropriation to repair the damage recently done by fire to a part of the building of the Interior Department.

The President recommends the attention of Congress to the propriety of adopting, at the present session, the necessary legislation to enable the people of the United States to participate in the advantages of the international exhibition at Paris in 1878 and in which this government has been invited by the French government to take part. The Department of State has received many letters from various parts of the country expressing a desire to participate in the exhibition and numerous applications of a similar nature have also been made at the United States Legation at Paris. The French government has expressed its earnest desire that the United States should participate in this enterprise and space has hitherto been, and is still, reserved in the exhibition building for the use of exhibitors from the United States to the exclusion of other parties who have applied therefor. As the time is growing short the President recommends that Congress take action on the subject at its present session. He also recommends a small appropriation to pay the expenses of a Commissioner to the International Prison Congress, to meet at Stockholm, Sweden, in 1878.

IT is reported that the Czar of Russia always consults spiritual mediums before he orders an important movement of the army.

IT is thought that the special session of Congress will continue until the regular session begins in December.

OUR INDIAN POLICY.

The noble red man who visits Washington to have a talk with his Great Father, rarely confirms Goldsmith's line, "Man wants but litttle here below." As a rule his wants are numerous, and he presses them upon the President with a persistency which a civilized beggar could not outdo. The last war-like mendicant at the White House is Spotted Tail, who appears to surpass all his predecessors in impudence. Not only does he want "a great many things, including wagons, cattle, and big school-house," but he is particular about the breed of the cattle and insists that they shall not have long horns, but short horns. Then he wants "forty dollars apiece" for all the braves with him, "to buy things for their women and children, and a trunk apiece to carry their clothing in," and having observed that white men wear overcoats, the sly old fellow winds up his begging speech by suggesting that, as cold weather is coming on, the Government might present each of the Indians with one of these comfortable garments. A traditional feature in our Indian Policy is to bring a horde of painted savages to Washington two or three times a year, and have the President receive them, as though they were the princes and potentates of the earth. It would seem, however, that when the President and a majority of the Cabinet members assemble, as they did, to hear such talk as that of Spotted Tail, the performance has become so broad a farce that it is time to stop it, for the sake of the dignity of the Government, if for nothing else.

THAT SILVER REPORT.

With regard to that weighty report of the Silver Commission, elaborated by Senator Jones to the extent of six hundred or a thousand pages according to various rumors, news comes from Washington that the Senator expects to present it in a completed state at the present session of Congress. The dispatches state that there will be no change in its conclusions and recommodations as published last Winter, but he has made the historical and argumentative portions much better than was at first contemplated. Considerable space will be devoted to contrasted statements of the excellencies and defects of the paper system of currency, and ground will be taken that as compared with the metallic system or even with the bi-metallic system, if the latter is hampered with legislative restrictions on free coinage, etc., the paper system is most logical, cheapest and best. This is undoubtedly what gave rise to last Summer's reports that Jones had become a convert to paper money. He says, however, that while assuming the above positions, he is not a particle less ardently the advocate of the adoption of the bi-metallic system, with free coinage and unlimited legal tender, and safeguards for the protection and preservation of the previous metals, as the sole currency of our country. It appears therefore, as far as can be judged from the dispatches, that the question of paper is only used by Senator Jones as an alternative to force the conviction upon Congress and the people that it must be resorted to if the bi-metallic scheme falls through. This appears to be rather a desperate expedient, but of course the Senator knows what he is about.

THE EXTRA SESSION.

Washington dispatches represent that the Republicans in Congress are weakening on the proposition to set themselves up against the President's policy and that more moderate counsels are obtaining among them. Really, during the extra session it does not make much difference as to what political moves, may be made by either side—that is, aside from what it may work for or against political interests—as the members were called together to perfect certain legislation for a fixed purpose and not to manufacture political capital. This idea of their duty and proper course seems to have worked itself into the heads of the members, and the probabilities now are that only such legislation will be enacted as is absolutely necessary to keep the wheels of government greased so that they may run smoothly, and that after making the required appropriations Congress will adjourn, and let politics, railroad and currency legislation and other matters not properly belonging to the extra lie over till the regular session in December. In case this course is pursued, the extra session will not last over two weeks or such a matter.

THE longest tunnel ever constructed for mining purposes is the Rothshenberger tunnel, for draining the mines of Freiburg, Saxony. It was commenced in 1844, thirty-three years ago, and the work has been unremittingly carried on ever since. It is to be 31½ miles long, and will strike the Freiburg mines 400 feet below their lowest level and will keep those mines clear of water so that they can be profitably worked.

AN OAKLAND TRAGEDY.—On the evening of the 15th, in Oakland, a young man named Frank Ogden shot, and probably, fatally wounded a horse jockey known as Doc Starr, because the latter had attempted to outrage Mrs. Wm. H. Miller, young Ogden's mother. From the published accounts there is but little doubt but Starr got nothing more than he had fairly earned. Mrs. Miller is the step-mother of Miss Lillie Miller, a young lady who taught school in this vicinity a year or so ago, during which she gained the high esteem of all who made her acquaintance. Young Ogden gave himself up to the authorities, and, after a hearing of the case, was discharged on $5,000 bonds to await the result of Starr's wounds. Miller on hearing his wife's story, went to Starr's bed-room, and attempted to finish him with another shot, but was prevented by parties present. The particulars of the affair has caused no little feeling in Oakland circles.

WHEN will wonders in telegraphy cease? A physician in Salem, Massachusetts, exhibited before an audience to whom he was lecturing on diseases, an instrument for feeling the pulse by telegraph. He not only showed his hearers his machine, but he put it to a practical test. In order to explain the variations of the pulse in certain diseases, the lecture room, by means of a common wire, was placed in telegraphic communication with the city hospital of Boston, which is distant from Salem fifteen miles. Then, with the apparatus referred to, the pulse beats of various patients were received and converted by means of a delicate electrometer into a vibrating ray of magnesium light which was thrown upon the wall.

OUR Mormon friends have used as an argument in favor of polygamy the statement that the number of females in existence preponderates over that of the males. And although this assertion has been frequently and sufficiently refuted before it is especially interesting to note that according to the report of that big gun of the Mormon church, George Q. Cannon, the male births in Utah itself exceed those of females by about eleven per cent. To this the Salt Lake Herald adds, by way of appendix, that the last decennial census of the United States showed the males to exceed the females by nearly half a million, the comparative numbers being, males 19,493,565, females 19,064,806; and in the Western States and Territories, the males outnumber the females 2½ to 1.

GEN. CROOK, in a telegram received by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, reports the safe arrival at Omaha of the Sioux Indian chiefs on their way home, and adds: "They are particularly anxious about copies of their Washington speeches. Please have them (the speeches) sent to the Red Cloud agency with all possible dispatch." The department will probably comply with this request, the speeches having been stenographically reported in accordance with the unanimous request of the Indians when in Washington, who expressed an earnest desire to have all the words put down "all the same as white man."

GEN. MILES, who has conquered Chief Joseph, was in command of Fortress Monroe when Jeff. Davis was confined there, and it was he who ordered the Confederate chieftain put in irons. He was a volunteer officer, a carpenter by trade, and became a regular army officer after the war, being placed in command of a negro regiment. He is a Brevet Major General. His rank in the regular army is that of Colonel.

CHIEF JUSTICE FRENCH, of Arizona, has departed somewhat from the usual method of setting grand juries at work. He charged them plainly to admit evidence tending to disprove or explain away the criminal character of the evidence for the prosecution. A general adoption of this plan would result in a great saving of the county funds.

THE following is a recent decision of the Land Office and is of interest to owners of mining claims and claimants to titles: An appeal should be made in writing, fairly and specifically stating the points of exception to the decision appealed from. A frivolous objection, not based on reasonable grounds of exception, properly stated, should not be permitted to delay for months the final action in a case.

CERTIFICATE OF CO-PARTNERSHIP.

KNOW ALL MEN BY THESE PRESENTS, That we, Louis Munzinger, residing in Bishop Creek Valley, county of Inyo, John R. Hughes, residing in Cerro Gordo, county of Inyo, and August Walke, residing in Oanche, county of Inyo, in the State of California, do hereby certify and declare that we have organized and formed ourselves into a co-partnership, and we covenant and agree each with the other to be co-partners, for the purpose of carrying on and conducting the business of Malt-Making and Brewing, in Bishop Creek Valley, county of Inyo, State of California, under the firm name and style of MUNZINGER, HUGHES & CO.

That the principal place of business of said co-partnership is situated in Bishop Creek Valley, county of Inyo, and State aforesaid.

That the names of all persons interested as partners in such business are above stated and signed hereto, and that such partnership will continue and be in force until further notice by us.

In witness whereof, we have hereunto set our hands and seals, this 23d day of October, A. D. 1877.

[SEAL] L. MUNZINGER,
[SEAL] JOHN R. HUGHES,
[SEAL] A. WALKER.

Witness—FRANK E. HOYT.

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, County of Inyo. } SS.

On this twenty-fifth day of October, A. D. one thousand, eight hundred and seventy-seven, before me, D. P. Macarter, a Notary Public in and for said Inyo county, personally appeared Frank E Hoyt, known to me to be the same person whose name is subscribed to the annexed instrument, as a witness thereto, who, being by me duly sworn, deposed and said: that he resides in Cerro Gordo, county of Inyo; that he was present and saw John R. Hughes, personally known to him to be the same person described in and who executed the said instrument, as a party thereto, sign, seal and deliver the same; and that the said John R Hughes acknowledged in the presence of said affiant, that he executed the same, and that he, the said affiant, thereupon subscribed his name thereto as a witness.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my [SEAL] hand and affixed my official seal, at my office in the county of Inyo, the day and year in this certificate first above written.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:
SATURDAY, OCTOBER 27.....1877.

KEARSARGE.—Supt. Gray has determined to let a contract to extend his present 300-foot tunnel a distance of 500 feet more. The object is not only to open out a known body of ore at the bottom of the shaft in the old lower tunnel, or rather to strike 160 feet beneath it, but to tap the back ledges of the series—the Cliff—at a depth of 800 feet. Work on this is to be continued through the Winter. Messrs. Frank and Gray have expended a vast amount of money on the Kearsarge, mainly directed toward opening up the mines, in order to be absolutely certain of keeping the mill in constant operation after starting it up for good.

CORRECTION.—It is far from the desire of any honest newspaper to do any man an injustice, be he high or low, through a misstatement by either itself or a correspondent. Statements coming from authoritative sources, even backed by a generally accedited rumor, sometimes go wide of the mark. A case in instance seems to be that of County Judge J. T. Poe, of Mono, who, it was stated, had been indicted by a late Grand Jury of that county for gambling. In a communication under date of 19th instant, Judge Poe denounces the rumor and statement as absolutely false, so far as he was concerned, and asks a correction. We accord it with the greatest pleasure.

RACES.—Some leading spirits in town have undertaken to get up a series of races at this point, on Christmas and two or three days following. The mile track is to be placed in thorough order, and heavy purses will be given for trotting, best two in three, and mile and repeat running races, with something on the programme to accommodate those running a shorter distance. Due announcement will be made when all the preliminaries are arranged.

BISHOP.—Times appear lively on Bishop Creek, as usual after a heavy crop. Another store is to be added to the lower town, and Mr. Sneden has a large lot of lumber on hand with which to erect a business house, but we are not informed what kind. Billy Hutchings has just completed and opened a new saloon.

THE PIUTE MILL.—A contract has been let to A. B. Kitchen of this place to pack ore from the mines to the Piute mill, situated about 8 miles from Bishop Creek. The owners, having completely repaired the mill and opened up the mines in good shape, calculate upon a paying run of four months.

SUPPLIES.—The new buildings at the Rex Montis mine have been provisioned for a force of twenty men for the four Winter months, from J. S. Rothchilds & Co. The experiment of working a mine from 40 to 75 feet under snow is not a small undertaking.

ACCEPTED.—The resignation of R. M. Briggs, Esq., as Register of the Land Office, has been accepted—to take effect November 1st, or upon the appointment and qualification of his successor. No mention is made as to who the aforesaid successor is to be.

VAQUERROS.—A youth, riding a scrub horse after the manner of a vaquerro on a mustang, was this morning saluted by a younger scion of the same house—"Sock 'em to 'im, —— you, can't you make 'im put on a little more style!"

TEACHERS' CERTIFICATE.—Among many others who have just been granted State Certificates by the State Board of Education, we notice the name of Mrs. Vonach, of Visalia, a former resident and teacher in this county.

BELLIGERENT AGAIN.—For having indulged in an effort to knock a man down, Constable-elect Kitchen, on Tuesday last, enhanced the coffers of our county school fund and the peace officers in the sum of $25.

MILL MACHINERY.—Among the heavy freight landed in town during the week, was two new improved pans for the Rex Montis mill, together with shoes, dies, retorts, pullies and a Stephenson automatic ore feeder.

TO MEET.—It is understood that the Board of Supervisors will meet on Monday next, to canvass the returns of the Judicial election. The next regular meeting occurs on the Monday following, November 5.

M. E. CONFERENCE.—At the late Methodist Episcopal Conference, the Rev. L. Case was again assigned to the "Owens River work." Mr Case has earned the well wishes of everybody in the section.

SPORT.—It is announced that there is to be given a series of races at the Taboose track, beginning November 28. The programme will soon be made public.

SOLD.—The "Around the Horn" property, Darwin, was sold at Sheriff's sale on Saturday last to John Lubken of the Germania Brewery, Lone Pine.

LUMBER.—The material for the new brewery building and the Mairs' structure, now accumulating at their respective places, looks like business.

BIG PINE RACES.—On Tuesday and Wednesday next comes off the races at the Big Pine track, advertised elsewhere.

ANOTHER NOTARY.—Gov. Irwin has appointed Charles H. Phillips a Notary Public for Inyo county, to reside at Lookout.

PREACHING.—Rev. M. W. Pratt will preach in this place, at the school house to-morrow evening, beginning at 7:15.

DITCHING ENTERPRISES.—Of the several extensive irrigating enterprises talked of some time ago, active work has been prosecuted on but two, viz: the Fish Slough canal by Gillette & Rickey, and the North Side canal by Kiplinger, McNally, Owens and Judge Alexander. The first mentioned, as its name indicates, takes water from the big springs known as Fish Slough, but is intended to irrigate lands lying on the east side of Owens river two or three miles below the Bishop Creek bridge. The second takes water from the river at a point about half a mile above said bridge, and like the other is on the north side and is intended for the extensive tracts of rich black sage brush land further down the river, nearly opposite the mouth of Bishop Creek. For a good portion of their length the two run parallel to, and quite near each other, the Fish Slough having a few feet greater elevation but is only about half as long as the North Side. This last will have a total length of eleven miles, nine of which are now so far finished as to carry water. It is to be much enlarged over present dimension so as to carry the full amount of the water claimed, which is 5,000 inches. The two together will redeem a large expanse of the idle lands in that section, and altogether are enterprises bound to exert a most prosperous influence upon both owners and the general community. With the abundance of water these canals will afford these lands will produce alfalfa and almost any other crop equal to the very best anywhere else in this or any other valley. Yet without this water they are absolutely worthless. Secretary Schurz himself could never dispute their fitness for entry under the Desert Land Act. But, as before intimated, under the impulses of that much-abused law these very lands will in due time afford scores of most valuable farms and homes. We would look upon it as quite a misfortune for this section were that law repealed, as more than one Congressional idiot, it would seem, is bound to have done at the earliest possible date.

INDIAN TROUBLES.—Some three weeks ago, so we are told, a large number, probably all, of the Armagoza Indians came into the Inyo range opposite this place with the view of gathering piñons, stating that everything was dried up in their section, and in consequence they must all inevitably starve to death if they staid there. Their arrival and purpose soon became known to the valley Indians, whereupon, our informant states, the latter gathered in force and, after pow-wowing awhile, notified the invaders that they must leave at once and not stand on the order of their going either; no matter whether they starved to death or otherwise, they could have no piñons or anything else edible to be found upon any portion of their preserves. As they made it appear that they were not only able but fully determined to enforce their order, even at the point of the bayonet, so to speak, if need be, the starving Armagozas had no option but to snatch a handful or so of piñons and wend their sorrowful way homewards again. It is said there were about three hundred of them, big and little together. Accepting this story as true in its essential parts, wouldn't this be a splendid chance for the "Great Father" (bah!) at Washington to do something charitable and decent in the way of looking after these helpless creatures, the "Nations wards?"

PERSONAL.—We were favored on Saturday last with a visit from Dr. Middleton, the well-known practitioner of Bishop. He has been there at his old stamping ground for some two or three months, after a sojourn in Arizona. At Greenwood City, in that Territory, he had gained an enviable professional practice and was rapidly recovering his impaired health. It seems that the Doctor's style didn't exactly suit a certain rough and desperado there, who employed a ruffain to assassinate him. The little job was attempted and the result was the final extermination of both noxious principal and his cowardly agent, but in the affray the Doctor received first a bullet in the right eye, which destroyed the sight and laid him at death's door for weeks. During this time he had the untiring assistance of Gov. Safford, Bill Leet and D. P. Pierce, the latter a well-known mill foreman formerly of this section. Now, having returned to Inyo and after devoting his energies to the care of the sick at Bishop for a time, he proposes going to the Bay to secure scientific treatment of his visual organ. It is to be hoped that he may safely return.

MACHINERY.—There has all Summer been a steady arrival of agricultural implements of all sorts, showing the solid progress made by our farming interests; and the import of machines still goes on, the kind varying with the season.

LEASE.—Geo. H. Hardy has leased from J. B. White his farm adjoining and northeast of town, for one year, beginning January next.

NOTARY.—J. L. Greeley has just been appointed a "Notorious Public," for Mono county, to reside at Bodie.

"DON'T Make a Noise," is the title of a new Schottische just received from the well-known music house of Sherman, Hyde & Co., San Francisco. The melody is arranged from the popular comic song, "Don't Make a Noise, or else you'll Wake the Baby." It is decidedly taking. Sent to any address, upon receipt of 35c. in currency or postage-stamps. Address Sherman, Hyde & Co., San Francisco, Cal.

CONGRESS met on the 14th of this month and organized by electing the former Speaker of the House, Randall, of Penn., Speaker for the 45th Congress. The vote stood, for Randall, (Dem.) 149; Garfield, (Rep.) 132. On assuming the duties of office, Randall delivered a short, carefully worded and conciliatory speech. There was but little political buncome, a very guarded indorsement of the Policy of the Administration, and an appeal for a patriotic effort to subordinate party interests to those of the country. After some caucusing it was decided that Pacheco's name should be placed upon the roll pending the contest with Wigginton, but it is believed that, notwithstanding Pacheco's proper credentials, Wigginton will be admitted.

CONGRESS.—Washington dispatches of the 21st give these items:

Sparks, of Illinois, will introduce a resolution condemning all subsidies and will press it to a vote. It is intended to reach both the Texas Pacific and Mississippi levee schemes.

Cox, of New York, will introduce a general Amnesty bill, incidental with that debated last Winter by Hill and Blaine.

Bills amending and repealing the Desert Land Act will be introduced by several members from the Pacific coast.

There is an increasing pressure in favor of a short session, but it is still extremely doubtful if an adjournment be had before the latter part of November.

During the last week the President received a petition from the merchants of New Orleans strongly indorsing the appointment of Judge King as Collector of that port. The President is represented as saying that in view of this indorsement he has no reason to withold his nomination from the Senate.

THE FAULT OF OUR JUDICIAL ELECTIONS.—It has long been apparent that a great mistake was committed in separating our judicial from the general elections, and that the only practical effect of the change is to insure a particularly light vote at the elections for the judicial officers. There is, however, a grave danger in this light vote, and it is that when men have remained long enough on the Bench to acquire a reputation, they are certain to have made many enemies from among the criminal classes. Now it is a well-known fact that enmity is a very sharp spur to action, while friendship is often rather listless and apathetic. Consequently we have a right to expect that the enemies of judicial candidates will employ all their energies in working against them, while their friends, affected as usual by the prevalent political indolence, will be very apt to absent themselves from the polls. In this way the community incurs the grave risk of having its criminal Judges imposed on it by the votes of the class they are called upon to deal with most severely, and when criminals elect Judges, it is not to be expected that they will choose the sternest. The great importance of a trustworthy judiciary demonstrates the necessity of bringing to bear upon its selection all the better kind of public opinion that can be elicited; and experience proves that this can only be done by putting the judicial elections with the general elections.—Record-Union.

How delighted the average worldly editor is if he can ascertain that the defaulting bank Cashier or President, the swindling confidence man, or the absconding rascal was a deacon or Sunday school teacher. The last instances are Deacon Gilman and Deacon Duncan. Now Duncan was not a deacon at all. He taught Sunday school, it is true, but was probably no worse for that. It is true that most of the most pronounced and startling vallainies are perpetrated by professors of religion, i. e. deacons, and we have puzzled ourselves over the inquiry whether deacons become criminals, or criminals become deacons. We have finally settled the question upon the hypothesis that when a business man in good society determines to turn rascal he deliberately joins the church, teaches Sunday school and passes the contribution plate as a cloak to cover his rascality. It does not, therefore, follow that all professors of religion are bad, but it does knock overboard the proverb that all "deacons are good."—Argonaut.

IN one way or another, the Lee Monument Association of Virginia are constantly seeking to increase their fund. During the Summer a ball at the White Sulphur Springs, in behalf of the fund, added considerable money to it. And now it is proposed to exhibit the models for the monument at the State Fair on November 1st, and charge an admission fee to see them. The association has also decided to appoint twenty-five judges to choose the best model.

SO FAR as heard from Clark is a small majority ahead, with chances in his favor, from the precincts not heard from. McNamara and Neil are elected Justices of the Peace, for Visalia township. A number of voters did not attend the polls is the only reason we can give why Redd was not elected. There was probably one-third of the voters of Tulare county who did not vote. Hon. J. B. Campbell received nearly a unanimous vote of the entire county.—Tulare Times.

IN some parts of the world the days are four months long, and when a lively boy six years old accompanies his parents to church for the first time he thinks he has struck one of these days sure.

He—clear across the room in a chair. She—sitting pensively on the sofa. He—sings: "Thou art so near and yet sofa!" She—in reply: "Oh, why so chair-y of your love?"

A young man woke up the other night and saw a ghost in his room. Seizing his six-shooter, he approached it, and found it was his collar, which happened to be standing on the floor.

APPLETONS' JOURNAL for November presents a striking series of contrasts in the subjects of some of its papers. There is an illustrated article on the scenery, the towns, and the people, of Puget Sound and Washington Territory and an eminently picturesque description of the curious places and odd people on the Volga, in far-off Eastern Russia; then a new contributor describes in a fresh and dramatic manner life in the art-studios of Paris; while Mr. Julian Hawthorne depicts the great English volunteer gathering at Wimbledon. In addition, there are two short stories of New England life, and one of New York society; while a second paper on phases of far-Western life describes the attempt to civilize a youthful Blackfoot Indian. The article, however, that will be likely to attract most attention is Mr. Burlingame's "Dead Magazines," an account of the American magazines and reviews that at one time flourished, but which time has left as wrecks on its shores. "A Talk about Thiers" is full of excellent gossip pertaining to this famous Frenchman; and Mr. De Costa has a pleasing and valuable paper "Concerning Autumn." Mr. Reinhart gives us an illustration to one of the poems, a well-executed frontispiece, the subject being antique and the treatment eminently artistic. The serial stories, "By Celia's Arbor" and "Cherry Ripe," are continued, and the editorial departments are as readable as usual.

THE WAR IN ASIA.—It now appears that the victory obtained by the Grand Duke Michael over Mukhtar Pasha was mainly due to the fact that the Russians had more than two men to the Turks' one. The Russian army in Asia has, in fact, been doubled, while the Turks have been diminishing their forces by sending every man they thought they could spare into the valley of the Danube. The Grand Duke is now said to have seventy-five thousand men, while Mukhtar Pasha has but thirty thousand at the outside. Nor is it probable that the Porte can send him any reinforcements, every battalion being necessary for the defense of the Bulgarian positions. Thus the numerical superiority of the Russians is telling at last, and unless some weather change should speedily occur, preventing further operations, there seems no reason why the Russians should not yet reach and capture Erzeroum. Mukhtar Pasha shut up in Kars with the remnant of his army would be exposed to the fate of Bazaine at Metz. Forty thousand men could no doubt so invest the fortress as to make escape hopeless, and the remaining thirty-five thousand could march rapidly upon Erzeroum, certain to encounter no formidable resistance on the way. In short, it looks as though the Turkish cause in Armenia was well nigh past recovery, and that nothing but the heavy setting in of winter can save the Porte a great disaster in that region.—Sacramento Record-Union.

IRRIGATION BY PUMPING.—We have never seen so good an illustration of the possibility of accomplishing effective and cheap irrigation by pumping as at St. Agnes' Academy in this city. A small one-horse power Rider compression engine costing complete with pump $338, supplies water at the rate of 1,000 gallons an hour at a total cost for fuel and oil of but fifteen cents per day. It requires no more care than a common coal stove, and does work so very cheaply that it is strange it is not more used by farmers for pumping purposes. We give it this free advertisement as information for our readers, who may desire to profit by it, because we believe it cannot be excelled for cheapness by any other engine or motive power. At the Academy a tank of 2,000 gallons capacity rests on top of the building sixty feet above the ground which is kept constantly full by the engine, while another tank outside elevated ten or fifteen feet, with a capacity of 6,000, is kept filled for irrigating on the grounds, pipes being laid over the premises, conducting the aqueous element.—Stockton Independent.

THE CASE OF ROVER.—"The transcript on appeal in the Rover case has been filed with the Clerk of the Supreme Court. The case will be set for hearing some day this term. We learn that the transcript is a voluminous document and would make a large volume if printed in book form. We suppose this appeal will virtually decide the fate of Rover, and be the final winding up of this celebrated case. If the Supreme Court reverses the judgment we suppose the case will be dismissed and Rover set at liberty; if the judgment is affirmed then he has but one course left, and that is an appeal to the Board of Pardons; but from the indications of the present temper of that Board, and under its new departure, he can not have much hope for clemency from that quarter."—Silver State.

PROFESSOR VIRCHOW'S EELS.—A notice was recently published by the German Fishery Society, asking for information regarding the reproduction and development of eels, as well as for living specimens, which were to be sent to Prof. Virchow. The professor, however, knew nothing about this notice, and went on a journey to Russia. Meantime hundreds of letters, and dozens upon dozens of packages containing live eels, were left at his house, so that when he returned for a day or two he found it full of the slippery animals, and one of the servants frantically endeavoring to divest herself of a tight boot she had got half on with a lively eel squirming about her toes. Her shrieks were awful. The professor now states that he does not want any more. —London Examiner.

THE Salinas Index says: We are informed that in many places in the hills, where the prospects were more than flattering during the Summer, there is no mast to speak of this season, the acorns having all dried or shriveled up. This will work an unlooked for hardship upon hog men, for they had placed great confidence in the mast of this Fall, as being the only thing that would take their stock through until green feed appears this winter.

DARWIN ITEMS.—Captain Messec, who came over from Lookout last Tuesday, informs us that he went through the differect workings of the Modoc Company's mines and says they are looking splendidly, in fact that reports in regard to their good appearance are not at all exaggerated. He says the course of the ore-vein or ledge is well determined, and the same is found running into the hill toward the Minnietta Belle, on the south side of the hill. Both the Modoc and Minnietta are running tunnels to tap this ledge at a great depth, and these tunnels, when completed, will so facilitate the work of extracting the ore that we may soon look for an output of bullion that will astonish even the Comstockers. After having lain idle for some time for repairs and supplies, both furnaces of the Modoc are now running to their full capacity. As the cold weather approaches their springs, that furnish them water, are sending forth an increase of that fluid.

The Defiance furnaces shut down last Monday evening, after making a successful run of nine days on Coso Con. ores. Some of the bullion assayed as high as $260 per ton. We believe Mr. Gorman is making arrangements to start up again soon on other ores. He is proving himself to be the most successful smelter on the coast.

Everything going along smoothly and successfully at the Emigrant mine, water increasing and mill producing well, and ore increasing in quantity and quality. One of the finest specimens of chloride ore we have ever seen was brought in by Mr. Taylor, Supt., last Tuesday. Its weight is about 175 pounds, and will average over $100 per ton. It is to be seen in the show window of Dr. F. P. Howard's drug store, Main street.

On the 14th instant the Minnietta Belle shipped, per W. F. & Co., 3 bars fine bullion valued at $3,500. Same date the Emigrant shipped 2 bars, valued at $1,250.—Darwin News.

A MISAPPREHENSION.—"My husband is my idol," observed Mrs. Rubyrock to Mrs. Batterystamp, at a recent hen convention in this city. "Well" returned Mrs. B., "if he's any more idle than my old man I'd jest like to see the shape of him. Why, my husband is that lazy that if he saw a twenty-dollar piece a 'laying in the big road, he'd lay down alongside of it and go to sleep till I came along to pick it up for him." The other woman said that was not her ideal of what a man should be.—Austin Reveille.

TREATMENT TO BARREN TREES.—A gentleman who has had considerable experience in fruit raising gives the following as his method of forcing barren trees to become productive: "Some fifteen years ago I had a small apple tree that leaned considerably. I drove a stake by it, tied a string to a limb and fastened it to the stake. The next year that limb blossomed full and not another blossom appeared on the tree and, as Tim Banker said. 'That sot me thinking,' and I came to the conclusion that the string was so tight that it prevented the sap returning to the roots; consequently it form fruit buds. Having a couple of pear trees that were large enough to bear, but never blossomed, I took a coarse twine and wound it several times around the tree above the lower limbs, and tied it as tight as I could, The next Spring all the top above the cord blossomed, as white as a sheet, and there was not one blossom below where the cord was tied. A neighbor, seeing my trees loaded with pears, used this method with the same result. I have since tried the experiment on several trees, almost with the same result. I think it is much better than cutting off the roots. In early Summer, say June or July, wind a strong twine several times around the tree, or a single limb, and tie it, the tighter the better, and you will be pleased with the result; the next Winter or Spring the cord may be taken off."

SECRETARY EVARTS told a friend the other day—thus records a letter in the Graphic—that he had just received a letter from one of his daughters to this effect: "Dear papa: Thank you very kindly for the donkey you sent me, but he's so lonely. Won't you soon be home, papa?"

BARNUM is said to have remarked, as he looked at a California artist's painting of a cow, "Good gracious, do you mean to tell me that's from life? If there is really such a strange beast in existence, I'll have it for my show, if it costs ten thousand dollars."

TO KEEP PIANO-KEYS WHITE.—Piano keys that have become yellow will lose much of the color by leaving them open, as keeping them closed too much is the cause of their being yellow.

WHEN a Texas mother falls out with her child's teacher she lassoes him and throws him to the ground. The boys always, in for a little fun, then holds him while the old lady gives him a bull-dose.

A GOOD authority says that if a glass fruit jar is set upon a folded towel thoroughly soaked in cold water, boiling hot fruit may be poured in without breaking the jar.

BACK in Missouri, when they find a man with gold in his possession they kill him for a Union Pacific train robber.

THE Polish ladies are said to be the most beautiful women in the world, and to retain in middle life all the fresh beauty of girlhood.

OREGON says it doesn't want any more Massachusetts old maids for wives. It's got enough of its own now.

THE largest tree in Kentucky is a burr oak near Frankfort, 39 feet round at the roots and 141 feet high.

What Pays?

IT PAYS EVERY MANUFACTURER, MERCHANT, Mechanic, Inventor, Farmer or Professional man, to keep informed on all the improvements and discoveries of the age.

IT PAYS the head of every family to introduce into his household a newspaper that is instructive, one that fosters a taste for investigation, and promotes thought and encourages discussion among the members.

THE SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN, which has been published weekly for the last thirty-one years, does this, to an extent beyond that of any other publication; in fact it is the only weekly paper published in the United States devoted to Manufactures, Mechanics, Inventions and New Discoveries in the Arts and Sciences.

Every number is profusely illustrated and its contents embrace the latest and most interesting information pertaining to the Industrial, Mechanical and Scientific Progress of the World; Descriptions, with Beautiful Engravings of New Inventions, New Implements, New Processes and improved Industries of all kinds; Useful Notes, Suggestions and Advice by Practical Writers, for Workmen and Employers, in all the various arts, forming a complete repertory of New Inventions and Discoveries; containing a weekly record, not only of the progress of the Industrial Arts in our own country, but also of all New Discoveries and Inventions in every branch of Engineering, Mechanics and Science abroad.

The Scientific American has been the foremost of all industrial publications for the past thirty-one years. It is the oldest, largest, cheapest and the best weekly illustrated paper devoted to Engineering, Mechanics, Chemistry, New Inventions, Science and Industrial Progress published in the world.

The practical Recipes are well worth ten times the subscription price, and for the shop and house will save many times the cost of subscription.

Merchants, Farmers, Mechanics, Engineers, Inventors, Manufacturers, Chemists, Lovers of Science, and People of all Professions, will find the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN useful to them. It should have a place in every Family, Library, Study, Office and Counting Room; in every Reading Room, College and School. A new volume commences January 1st, 1877.

A year's numbers contain 832 pages and Several Hundred Engravings. Thousands of volumes are preserved for binding and reference. Terms, $3 20 cents a year by mail, including postage. Discount to Clubs. Special circulars, giving Club rates, sent free. Single copies mailed on receipt of 10 cents. May be had of all News Dealers.

PATENTS. In connection with the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN, Messrs. Munn & Co. are Solicitors of American and Foreign Patents, and have the largest establishment in the world. More than fifty thousand applications have been made for patents through their agency.

Patents are obtained on the best terms, Models of New Inventions and Sketches examined, and advice free. A special notice is made in the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN of all Inventions Patented through this Agency, with the name and residence of the Patentee. Patents are often sold in part or whole, to parties attracted to the invention by such notice. A Pamphlet, containing full directions for obtaining Patents sent free. The Scientific American Reference Book—a volume bound in cloth and gilt, containing the Patent Laws, Census of the U. S., and 142 engravings of mechanical movements. Price 25 cents. Address for the paper, or concerning patents, MUNN & CO., 37 Park Row, New York. Branch office, Cor. F and 7th sts., Washington, D. C. n342t3

TO APPLICANTS FOR DESERT LAND—NOTICE.

UNITED STATES LAND OFFICE,
Independence, California,
October 13, 1877.

TO ALL PERSONS WHO HAVE MADE ENTRIES at this office of Desert Lands, under the Act of March 3, 1877:

Whereas, by order of the Hon. Commissioner of the General Land Office, dated October 2d, 1877, all entries made under said Act above named are suspended, and this office required to give notice by publication, in a newspaper published nearest the land, to all parties interested, of such suspension, and to appoint a time and place of hearing proofs as to the character of said lands, to reduce such proofs to writing and to forward the same to the General Land Office with our joint opinion thereon;

Now, therefore, in pursuance of said order, Notice is hereby given that a hearing will be had and proofs taken in each case at this office for all Desert Land entries made up to date, beginning on Monday, the Twenty-Ninth Day of October, 1877, and will continue from day to day until proofs shall be completed. "The investigation made must be full, thorough and complete, showing whether any of the land entered under said Act will produce an agricultural crop without irrigation; whether any had been previously cultivated by parties residing thereon, or non-residents, and whether any has to be protected from overflow by levees; whether entries have been made by parties other than the real applicants."

Local hits are always good, be they stolen from an adjoining county and State, so much the better, it shows enterprise in the reporter. But there are times when names should not appear, even though it might add to the joke. Well, for the subject matter. As a prefix we need not state that attorneys are universally temperance expounders in Mono county. Seldom is one found who will wet his lips with that which takes away the senses of a man. One honorable exception was found some time since at B. He had gotten away with an important suit, and had jollified during the evening until he became a little sleepy, and had take a chair in front of a large stove in the office of the hotel of that place and dropped off to sleep. An intoxicated individual approaching him profered a soda cracker, which was accepted. The attorney aforesaid, being thus rudely awakened, proceeded to fill his dudee for a smoke. Mistaking the cracker for tobacco, he crumbled it up, filled his pipe and lighted it. After igniting half a bunch of matches, and not getting much smoke, he begn prospecting for the cause, when the discovery was made that a California soda cracker had been substituted for the weed of Old Virginia. Now, this reporter sat calmly looking on at the proceeding, but had nothing to do with the putting of it up, only to join in the general laugh at the expense of the party so badly sold, but the cold, black eye of the attorney detected a smile on our countenance and he hurled the remainder of the cracker at our head. The next day he had not forgotten the matter and exacted a promise at our hands that we wouldn't make a note of it. Neither do we intend to.

It has been a question unsolved by many how the doctors of the tribes of Indians got their sheepskins. We of late have heard of several executions for inability to bring about a cure among the Piutes, and now we have the particulars at hand of how they elect a successor in case of the death of a medicine man or woman. All the adult members of the tribe are called together; a white round stone is provided for all except one and that is black; these are put into a sack together and passed around, each hand drawing out one of the pebbles; the one drawing the black one is thereafter to act as medicine man or woman, as the case may be, for women as well as men have to take their chances of drawing. The doctor elect must then qualify himself the best he can, the more the better, for he will have a longer lease of life, because, on the death of his third patient, he is put to death in a summary manner. Sometimes shot, again stoned to death, and at others burned. This mode knocks medical schools in the shade completely, and is the manner pursued by the Indians hereabouts.

The glad feelings which has pervaded Aurora for some weeks past has communicated itself to the ground we walk upon—which is frequently found shaking its sides with suppressed mirth. On the mornings of the 14th and 22d inst. there were numerous slight vibrations.

P. W. Bennett went from here to Bodie with his own team on Thursday and returned. On leaving Bodie they gave him a cigar which was so long he could not reach to light it—so he says.—Esmeralda Herald.

THE funny man of the Yuma Sentinel says that Huntington met Scott the other day, and after alluding to the bridge across the Colorado, thus delivered himself in the classic language of the Pacific: "I'm a son-of-a-gun from Bitter Creek; I'm a wolf, and this is my night to howl! I've two rows of upper teeth, and narry tooth alike! The folks on Bitter Creek are bad; and the higher up you go the wus they are, and I'm from the head waters."

"CLEOPATRA'S NEEDLE," during all the thirty-four hundred years since it was hewn out of the granite-beds of Syene, never encountered such a remardable adventure os now, Taken down from its second place at Alexandria—cradled in a new cylindrical vessel designed especially for it—floated past the Pillars of Hercules, and far out on the "unknown seas"—cut adrift in a fearful storm, and left as a compassless vessel of the Pharoahs, to be borne whither the great ocean currents might carry it—then found again, and safely drawn, let us hope, to its new home,—is there anything more strange or picturesque in the history of any human monument? The faith of Mr. Dixon, the contractor, in defiance of the declaration of a captain who appears to have been both timid and wanting in judgment—since, if the gale overtook him on approaching Cape Finisterre, why did he not put into the port of Vigo?—has been singularly justified. Within a few hours after he declared his belief that the floating obelisk was not lost, came the news that it had been verily found. We have a special reason for rejoicing, since its loss might have jeopardized the securing of its fellow for our own city. And if the great, heavily-freighted craft had continued to drift on the open ocean, as dangerous to vessels in the night as any rock or reef, it would have become a new flying Dutchman—a mysterious terror of the sea. It will reach England, enriched for all time by a fresh association, as marvelous as it was unexpected.—N. Y. Tribune.

DARWIN ITEMS.—Times are getting lively over at Snow's Cañon, as we are informed by a private letter from there, dated the 22d inst. Three poker games were in full blast the night previous in which one chap got away with $200. Some sixty men are employed by the Sheldon Company in building roads, trails, a mill, getting out wood and laying water-pipe. It is expected that the mill will be running in a few weeks.

The Emigrant shipped yesterday 96 pounds of fine bullion, valued at $1,600. The last shipment to San Francisco proved to be 992 fine. Since the 8th inst. (the date on which the Modoc furnaces started) they have shipped every other day 10 tons of bullion, which runs in value from $350 to $450 per ton. They have been running on lower grade ores this month than in September, in order to get it out of the way, although there is a large quantity of high grade ore (a good deal of it free-milling) on hand. Mr. Guptill, the Superintendent, was in yesterday, and says the furnaces and everything else is running in fine style, the expenses having been materially reduced since the late change was effected. When some of our other companies do the same thing, stockholders may expect similar results, not before.—Darwin News.

A CANINE BULLWHACKER.—Willie Burgress who drives a team of sixteen oxen, hauling wood, has a valuable assistant in an intelligent dog. The animal is of no particular breed, but possesses remarkable sagacity. It knows exactly what position the team should keep and how the oxen should go, and runs by their side and barks at them and bites their heels when they are going wrong. The cattle seem to understand what the barks and bites mean, and they obey them as intelligently as they do the command and lash given by their human driver. The sight of a dog driving an ox-team is not a new one to the writer of this. In the early days of White Pine there was a man engaged in hauling ore down from Treasure Hill to what is now Hamilton, who used for that purpose two ox-teams, one of which he drove himself and the other was driven by his dog—a large yellow cur. The road wound with many curves down a steep mountain, but all that the man found it necessary to do was to attend to the brakes of both teams and guide the front team, while the rear team was kept in the road by the dog, which gave his orders by barks and enforced them by bites.—Austin Reveille.

WHAT IS SEEN AT COREA.—The Japanese mission that lately visited Corea report the houses of the poorer classes as being but six or seven feet high. Salt fish, tobacco and straw sandals are the chief staples of local trade; and the houses devoted to government purposes are of brick, and of mean construction. The walls of the town are composed of brick, earth and stones, and the highways are wretched. The inhabitants wear undyed clothing, and a very long sleeve is a mark of superior rank. The hats are broad-brimmed, and tied under the chin with a ribbon. Etiquette requires that they should be kept on the head during salutations. The hair is worn long, and fastened on the top of the head with pins. The dress of the women resembles that of Europeans, but the members of the mission did not see any. They are jealously guarded from view. The soil is generally poor, and an old tree is seldom seen. All trees reaching a suitable size are cut for firewood. The only mines worked are of iron, but others of copper, gold and silver exist. The horses are exceedingly small, and the main articles of exportation are the skins of cattle and pigs.

IF two-thirds of the savings banks, life insurance companies and trust fund institutions, now calling themselves by such fancy epithets as Safety, Security, Fidelity and Hope, would change their titles to Risk, Doubt, Fraud and Smash, the names would be more appropriate.

A NEW YORK correspondent thinks it will soon be possible to live in that city at reasonable rates. A great many new apartment houses have been built which offer suits of five or six rooms at $25 to $30 a month.

TURNING THE TABLES.—There is a story of a noble lord who once gave his friend a golden snuff-box, in the cover of which an ass's head was painted. Not much flattered by this present, and wishing to turn the tables on the author of the joke, the recipient took out the ass and inserted instead the portrait of the lord. The next day at dinner, he, as if by accident, put his box on the table. The lord, who wished to amuse his guests at the expense of his friend, made mention of the snuff-box, and aroused the curiosity of those around him. A lady asked to see it. It was passed to her. She opened it and exclaimed, "Perfect! it is a striking likeness. Indeed, my lord, it is one of the best portraits of you that I have ever seen." The lord was naturally much embarrassed at the joke, which he of course thought was so hard upon him. While he was reflecting upon the offensiveness of it, the lady passed the box to her neighbor, who made similar remarks about it. The box thus went around the table, each one expatiating upon the resemblance. The nobleman was much astonished at this course of things; but when it came to his turn to look, had to join in the laughter, too, and confess that his friend had got the best of him.

THERE are eight metals more valuable than gold, as the following will show. None of them are found on our farm, though. It may be worth while to mention that the first four are never sold by the pound, but their value is quoted for the sake of comparison: Indium, $2,522; vanadium, $2,510; ruthenium, $1,400; rhodium, $700; palladium, $653; uranium, $576; osmium, $325; iridium, $417 44; gold, $301 45. Indium, which was only discovered in 1863, is found only in the zinc-blendes of Freiburg, and is a white metal of rare brilliancy, but practically, of little value. Vanadium is a native of New Mexico and Peru, where it exists in the lead ores, under the name of vanadite of lead. Ruthenium, rhodium, palladium and iridium are all precipitates of platinum, and are all very hard metals, the last being insoluble in acids, except when oxidized. None of these metals are found in quantity, or free from other metals; nor are they useful in the arts like silver and gold; nor could they be coined into money, for that matter, without infinite trouble, so that there is very little danger of their superseding gold and silver for any useful purpose.

MECHANICAL CURIOSITY.—A monk of the Benedictine monastery at Raigern, between Brunn and Vienna, has completed a mechanical curiosity in the shape of a self-moving terrestrial globe, 1.4 meters in diameter. A combination of wheels gives it a motion similar to that of the earth, and when once set going it will revolve for three weeks. At the north pole of the axis are dial plates, on which the days, months, etc., are indicated, and over these is a small globe, by means of which the motion of a planet round the sun is exhibited. The larger globe sets the smaller one in motion by the agency of twelve wheels.. The construction of the mechanism took more than ten years' patient application, and was only completed after numerous experiments. As regards geographical details, the map on the globe is carefully drawn, and shows all the latest discoveries. The steamer routes, railway and telegraph lines, and the deapths of the ocean are all distinctly shown. The maker of the globe is a self-taught mechanic and artist, who, during the past thirty years, has adorned the monastery with numerous examples of his skill and ingenuity.

YOUNG ladies, if they only knew how disgusting to men slovenliness is, and how attractive are displays of neatness and taste, would array themselves in the simplicity and cleanliness of the lilies of the field; or if able to indulge in costly attire, they should study the harmonious blending of colors which nature exhibits in all her works. A girl of good taste and habits of neatness can make a more facinating toilet with a shilling calico dress, a few cheap ribbons and laces, and such ornaments as she can gather from the garden, than a vulgar, tawdry creature who is worth thousands, and has the jewelry and wardrobe of a princess.

THE importance of the naval engineer nowadays is illustrated in the case of the new barbette ship Temeraire, of the British navy, which has thirty-four engines on board, exclusive of the powerful pistons and cylinders that propel the ponderous vessel. The capacity of these alone is equal, it is said, to 7,000 horse power. There are also feed engines, steering engines, starting engines and capstan engines, engines to pump with and engines to hoist with; there are even engines to aid in working the guns, to assist in torpedo services, and for turning the magnet machine that gives out the electric light.

THE subterranean telegraph wires in Germany have proved highly satisfactory. The conductibility of the buried wire, instead of decreasing, has, on the contrary, somewhat increased, and no fault in the insulation has made itself apparent. It is believed that in the long run the buried wires will prove the cheapest. Posts and insulators, constantly demanding renewal, are thus dispensed with.

"FAR be it from us to doubt the word of a brother editor," says the La Crosse Sun, "we believe them all to be truthful men; but when the Durand Times says that the water is so low at the mouth of the Chippewa that catfish have to employ mud turtles to tow them over the bar, we feel as though the editor must be away and some local minister is filling his place."

THE Shah of Persia one day expressed a longing for a Krupp cannon in the presence of the Russian Minister, who at once informed the Czar of the Shah's desire. The Czar who was anxious to gratify the Shah, by return mail as it were, sent one of the monster cannon—a 300 pounder—to his ally. The gift was landed at Enreli, on the Caspian sea, but it took a mouth's labor by a regiment of the Persian army to get the cannon to Teheran. Arriving there a day was appointed to fire it. The Court and almost the entire population of the city assembled. Bang! went the cannon, away scampered half the multitude, and down tumbled the minaret off one of the city gates, near which the gun had been placed. But there was another disaster. In an hour's time a messenger arrived from a village five miles away, and reported that its inhabitants were bewailing the loss of their mosque. The cannon ball from the cannon had struck the building and ruined it. The Shah was so dismayed by the effect that he never permitted the cannon to be fired again.

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 3.....1877.

COMING ELECTIONS.—On November 6th New York will elect a State Secretary, Controller, Treasurer, Attorney General, Engineer, seven Justices of the Supreme Court, and both branches of the Legislature. On the same day New Jersey will elect a Governor; one-third of the Senate and a full Assembly. Connecticut elects eleven State Senators and a full House. Massachusetts elects a full State ticket. Minnesota, on the same day, will elect State officers and Legislature. Pennsylvania has to choose a Supreme Judge and a State Auditor and Treasurer; Maryland elects a Controller and Legislature; Virginia will elect State officers and Legislature; Wisconsin the same; Mississippi ditto. Nebraska, on the same day, choses county officers, two Regents and a Chief Justice; Illinois elects county officers. On December the 5th, Georgia will elect a full Legislature, and vote on the proposed new Constitution.

EFFECTS OF TIMBER WASTE.—Colonel Playfair, British Consul General of Algiers has sent to his government a report which offers some striking instances of the injury done to a country by the reckless destruction of forests. He states that the principal cause of the decadence of the entire region of Tunis and Algiers is the exhaustion of the soil is directly owing to tree felling. Meteorological observations have been carried on in Algiers since 1838. During the first twelve years of the intervening period the rainfall averaged 32 inches annually, during the second twelve years it had decreased to 30.8 inches, and during the last fourteen years it has been but 25.5 inches. The decrease became apparent after the first serious clearings of wood in 1845, and during 1875 so exhausted had become the soil that a famine seemed imminent in Western Algeria.

VASQUEZ' GHOST.—Two reporters, one each from the Argus and Mercury office, spent Friday night in Vasquez' cell in the county jail at San Jose, and in long accounts solemnly aver that from 11 P. M. to 4 A. M. the cell door was beaten, the cell shaken, chains clanked and unearthly screams were heard, etc. Finally a conversation was raised out between the ghost and one of the prisoners in an adjoining cell. The Mercury man says he was thoroughly mystified, while the Argus man believes the whole thing to be a trick. While the sounds prevailed they intently watched, but could see nothing in the corridor, and gained no glimpse of any person near their cell door, although they had a dark lantern and were fore-warned to be on the lookout. The claim has for some weeks been made that Vasquez haunts his old cell.

ABOUT 3 o'clock in the afternoon of the 29th ultimo a number of convicts employed in the shoe shop of the Nevada State Prison made a desperate attempt to regain their liberty. The Deputy Warden, Capt. Matthewson, gave the alarm to the sentries, and, although held by the crowd of desperadoes, told the guard to fire and not spare him. The order was instantly obeyed, and one prisoner named Johnson was so riddled with shot as to be likely to die. M[illegible] got a shot in the arm for his unparalleled heroism. Gannond, of the guard, was badly cut.

AMONG the resolutions adopted by the State Teachers' Convention is one to the effect that in the rural schools of California too many studies are prescribed for children in the primary grades. This is a fault which can be found with public schools of every description in this State and everywhere else. Instead of confining the attention of pupils to main, essential studies, a futile effort is made to teach them everything. Many a death or doctor bill originates in the cramming process of our public schools.

ALEXANDER H. STEPHENS is again a rugged mountain of health, about the size of a dried herring, and a picture of hope for those who think they have been ordinarily or even severely sick. It is to be hoped that he will live to the next centennial, in order to show sick people what this country and seven-column paragraphs could do.

SENATOR McCreery, of Kentucky, has introduced a bill "to repeal the bankrupt law and all acts amendatory thereof." He referred to its obnoxious provisions, and argued that its repeal was demanded by honesty and fair dealing.

THE Italian papers gives us the startling piece of information that "ex-President Grant has been elected an honorary member of the Philharmonic Society of Scotland, in quality of first trumpet-player."

THE LATE ELECTION.

The Supervisors, pursuant to section 1279, Political Code, met last Monday to canvass the returns of the late judicial election in this county. Mr. Garretson being absent from the State on leave the Board of Canvassers necessarily consisted of but two member, namely, Chas. Meysan, Chairman, and John R. Westerville, a new member. Of course, under such conditions, nothing could be done in case of a division upon any question. This was unfortunate, since, by reason of the inability of the Board to decide one point at issue, some unpleasant results may follow: that is, an additional incentive is given to the next Grand Jury to inquire into the proceedings or lack proceedings of the Board of Supervisors relative to this same judicial election. If such inquiry is made, as it probably will and should be, it is extremely likely indictments will be found against all the members of the late Board for willful neglect of duty.

At this canvass it was found that but three townships had held elections. These were: Darwin, Lone Pine and Independence. The returns from all were found full and correct, and of themselves, neither afforded tenable grouds for rejection, therefore, in order to find grounds upon which to declare the Lone Pine election null and void it was necessary, so Mr. Meysan decided, to go behind the returns and pass upon the action of the Election Board. Mr. Meysan proceeded to do this, and to settle the question by resolution in the following words and figures:

"According to the evidence appeared before the board, resolved, that the returns of the Election precinct No. 3 be rejected on the following ground:

1st. That no Election notices of any kind was posted in said precinct before or during the progress of the Election.

2d. That the polling place was not designated as prescribed by Sec. 1132 of the P. C.

3d. That the poll was not open at the time prescribed by law.

4th. That the judges was members of the same political party.

5th. That the said Board of Election did not comply with the requirements of Section 1149, 1209 and 1147 of the P. C."

This resolution was virtually carried by this vote: Meysan, aye; Westerville, no. So far, then, Mr. Meysan has secured one leading, probably, the sole object, of all this travail, which was the defeat of one of the Justices elect who is and has been for some time past personally and officially exceedingly obnoxious to the honorable member. So that is the way it comes that Mr. Meysan's own precinct is to be minus a resident Justice except such as he as a member of the Board may have a voice hereafter in illegally appointing. We shall here raise no question as to the powers of the Board of Canvassers to void an election in this manner, nor attempt to show why this act was an assumption of extra-judicial powers. We shall merely submit that if any of the points of Mr. Meysan's resolutions are well taken as against the legality of the Lone Pine election, they are each and all, with one exception, proofs of Mr. Meysan's own unwarranted neglect of official duty, or, with equal propriety, illegal acts, through which these illegal acts of omission adduced in his resolutions became quite unavoidable. In view of this obvious fact, is it not a most ridiculous and ungrateful assumption on his part to try in this manner to saddle the penalty of his own neglect upon his own people? "How sharper than the fang of a toothless serpent is the bite of a venomous child!" Here, Lone Pine's own representative son (or father) first makes it impossible for her to do everything strictly as the statutes provide, then he flings it in her face that she has flagrantly violated the letter of the statutes, and must be punished therefor. Looking at it critically, most people will conclude if punishment is to attach to a community for enforced neglect of legal requirements of election details, particularly in not voting for the right man, something of the same kind might justly fall upon the party who made such conditions unavoidable. That is to say in paraphrase of a certain scriptural quotation, "Whoso stickleth for the law shall get stuck by the law." Mr. Meysan now stickles tenaciously to both letter and spirit of the law in order to accomplish what is generally conceded to be a purely personal end; but a short time previously he knowingly violated or ignored one of the plainest Constitutional and statutory mandates; then, for the body of which he was a member, he asserted powers above the Constitution itself; now, of others, he exacts the most rigid adherence to mere statutory details, not of vital importance, the strict fulfilment of which his own acts had rendered practically impossible. Here comes in the sub-text: "Whoso stickleth for the law shall get stuck by the law." Mr. Meysan was quite right in exacting a fulfilment of the plain letter of the law: why need he and late colleagues be so very much surprised if called upon, as we presume they will be, to show cause for their own short comings, through which comes his own cause of complaint? We here again assert our belief that the Board of Supervisors were actuated by creditable motives in deciding not to call any judicial election; we also are just as well satisfied that the mistakes in Precinct No. 3 were quite as honestly but far more excusably made. If a penalty attaches for the one set of errors why not other? This last is a question for the Grand Jury to decide, as intimated in section 923, Penal Code, which commands said jury to "inquire * * into the willful and corrupt misconduct in office of public officers of every description in the county," and (sec. 905, ib.) will be so instructed by the Judge of the County Court. So the mistaken ideas of economy acted upon by our late Board of Supervisors is likely to entail some individual tribulations upon themselves, as it is certain to cause material embarrassment upon every township thereby deprived of its most important officer—as a body, the most important to public welfare of any in the county. The penalties for a willful or corrupt neglect of duty on the part of any Supervisor, or other county officer, may be (sec. 4086, Pol. Code) $500 fine, and (sec. 661, Penal Code) removal from office, either one or both. This is the boat that Board placed themselves in for their neglect of duty, however well intentioned their motive.

We may state here the requirements of the several sections cited by Mr. Meysan as grounds for voiding the Lone Pine election: Sec. 1149 requires that at least four copies of the Great Register and election notices shall be posted near the polling places; 1209, that all rejected ballots shall have the causes of rejection endorsed on their backs; 1147, the Election Board must appoint two clerks before opening the polls.

The fault for the nonconformity to the first of these requirements and all of the preceding save, perhaps, that relating to the hour of opening the polls, is clearly chargable to the original neglect of an unmistakle duty of the Board of Supervisors themselves, therefore for the very member who was chiefly responsible for their cause to now voluntarily advance them as special pleadings to govern the action of his own court looks, altogether, like a most remarkable case of fine hair-splitting—so fine we can but look upon it as rather of a dangerous tendency.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:
SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 3.....1877.

PERSONAL.—Capt. I. G. Messic, of Panamint, paid our sanctum a visit on Monday last. The works of the surprise Valley M. & M. Co., have been entirely closed down for the Winter, two men being left in charge. None of the expected ore bodies have been so far developed in the sinking which has been going on so long in the Hemlock and Wyoming mines, though the ledges are still very powerful ones. It is certainly to be hoped that the company will resume sinking next season.... Messrs. Bennett and Briggs returned from their Mono trip last Sunday; the latter gentleman has been afflicted with the epizoo for the past week....Mr. and Mrs. P. Reddy are home again from Darwin and San Francisco....H. Levy, wife and infant also returned.... W. T. Grant is in town; no reference to chickens or Missouri this time.... Wilkie Darling, formerly of Virginia, and Dick Wilson, and old official of Esmeralda and Mono were also here ....John B. White is in town, and has placed us under obligations for news-items furnished.

RACES.—The Big Pine races, announced for the 30th, were postponed until the following day, when four horses started: "Stanley," entered by Chas. Schuman, got away with the race and coin. The pony race was set for the next day, but through some miscue, the ponies, "Dashaway" and "Croppy," sailed out without the word, so the race had to be run over on the following day, Dashaway coming out winner by some feet, while Croppy didn't, but which he might have done, his friends claim, but for his politeness in giving his opponent so many feet start. Subsequently the same two entered and started for a 440-yard race without riders. At last accounts the ponies had got to the foot-hills, Croppy ahead, and both running smoothly.

RELIGIOUS NEWS.—The recent M. E. Conference of Nevada thought best to suspend Rev. Geo. Jennings for "inefficiency," notwithstanding that the reverend gentleman warmly asserted, while the matter was under discussion, that "he could preach longer and louder than any other member of that Conference." He has taken an appeal. Neither Revs. Pratt or Case desired a regular work or district this year, the latter, at his request, being "located" at Bishop, while the former was given carte blanche to labor in any field he chose, and for the present will renew his former work in this section, where he is receiving a warm welcome from old acquaintances everywhere.

FLOURING MACHINERY.—For some time past T. D. Lewis has been engaged in fitting up a very complete flouring mill at his fine place at Bishop. But for the accidental delay in the receipt of the "smutter," due some weeks since, the mill would now be turning out flour the general market. This important addition to the machinery passed through here to-day. This mill is designed in every respect to work as perfect as any of its capacity in the State.

LETTER LIST.—Following is the list of letters remaining in the Postoffice at Independence and uncalled for up to Nov. 1, 1877: John Bennett (2), Juan Burnbelz, D. Cooper, Saml. Cohn, Thos. W. Carroll, John F. Connall, C. A. Cochran, T. E. Elliott, Thos. Fulton, John H. Jones (2), Miller & McNeal, A. Miller, P. H. Moulten, Thos. Ogden, John Potts, J. J. Rand, John Reiley (2), J. R. Riley, Mark Rine, Saml. Rodda, Lewis Rosenstein (2), Justo Gatis, Mrs. H. C. Warner.

THANKS.—Dave Naylor, of Big Pine, places us under obligations for a lot of "little potatoes," as he sends word, "that were too small to sell." There is not one of the lot that is smaller than a quart cup, and altogether are the finest we have seen. We infer they are of the new local variety known as Bell's Seedlings—anyway they are just the sort any spud raiser might be proud to copy after.

LIQUOR HOUSE.—Elsewhere will be found the card of Frank, Dallemand & Co., of San Francisco, importers and wholesale liquor dealers. Mr. Dallemand is now visiting the various parts of Inyo in the interest of his house, but more especially with the object of introducing two of their celebrated Kentucky brands—Grangers Mill Old Bourbon and Jefferson County Hand Made whiskies.

MINING SALE.—The Cerro Gordo Consolidated S. M. Co., have sold to the Cuervo M. Co., the Cuervo mine and such portions of the St. Louis, Capital and Grand Mines as are covered by the present location of the Cuervo, situate in Darwin. The Cuervo company execute a note for sixty days for $50,000, secured by mortgage on all their property, including furnaces, etc.

GAME.—Dillon says ducks and geese are becoming remarkably plentiful down along the river, while, from other parties, we learn that deer and grouse were never more plentiful than since the late storms, all along this slope of the Sierras. Give the little trouts a rest, and try the venisons and fowls awhile, you fellows.

SHORT.—By virtue of misplaced confidence in a tramp sub., THE INDEPENDENT appears this time minus numerous valuable observations on current events it otherwise would have contained.

BOOTMAKER.—Mr. Walz has returned from a trip to Virginia City, and resumed the business of bootmaking and repairing. See his advertisement.

NOTICE.—Property-owners are notified that in the matter of taxes a payment of more than $5 in silver don't go.

Homicide at Darwin.

At Darwin, on the night of the 28th ultimo, W. F. Welch shot and killed one Antonio Mesquita, a Mexican, under circumstances as follows: Welch, Constable and night-watch, was notified that the Mexican was in Boultinghouse's saloon flourishing a knife, and liable to hurt some one. Welsh went to the saloon and took the knife from him. What followed is best told in the words of J. J. Berwick's testimony before the Acting Coroner, as follows:

Mr. Boultinghouse told me to go and tell Welsh that he had better come and arrest deceased, or deceased might kill him (Welch). Welsh was going up street when the deceased followed him. Welch told him to go away from him; Welch went off the third time; deceased again followed him up, saying, "You ——, I will kill you," and caught Welch, at the same time grabbing for the knife; then I heard a shot; I went up to the office and said, "I believe you got him." He said, "I guess so; he came mighty near getting me."

Welch's statement:—Mr. Berwick came to Reddy & Wilson's saloon, last night, between 9 and 10 o'clock, and told me there was a Mexican in Boultinghouse's saloon brandishing a large knife, threatening to kill. I went down and took the knife away from him; when I left the saloon he followed me out; he overtook me, and told me he wanted his knife; I told him I would give it to him in the morning; he said, "you ——, you give it to me now," at the same time catching hold of me; I pulled away from him, and told him to keep away from me, and not to follow me; he grabbed me, and tried to get his knife from me; I tussled with him for some time until I thought he was liable to get the knife from me; I put my hand in my right hand in my right hand pocket, and pulled my pistol out; if he got the knife he would kill me with it; so I shot him twice, so I thought in self-defense. I am Constable of the 6th township, and was in the performance of my duties when this occurred. I believe he would have got the knife from me if I had not shot him.

Other witnesses who were in the saloon, and were cognizant of the Mexican's operations before Welch's arrival, were unanimous in the belief that he (Antonio) was seeking a fight, and would certainly kill Welch if the opportunity offered: and in that belief public sentiment entirely exhonerates Welch, and doubtless, far beyond what the public is likely to do from the foregoing imperfect recital of the main facts. A Coroner's Jury, summoned, we presume, by Justice Gould, consisting of the following named citizens, viz., T. S. Harris, Martin Mee, J. B. White, M. M. Boze, Mat. McDonald, John O'Connor, A. A. Riddle, W. W. Saylor and J. B. Derre, rendered a verdict as follows:

We, the Jury, duly empaneled and sworn to inquire into the cause of the death of Antonio Mesquite, do find that his name was Antonio Mesquite, a native of the State of Sonora, Mexico, aged about 30 years, and that he came to his death by pistol shot wounds inflicted by W. F. Welch, Constable of the Sixth Township, County of Inyo, while the said Welch was in the performance of his duty as such officer. And we do further find said Welch fully justifiable in the act.

BENTON, Oct. 30.

MESSRS. EDITORS—We are enjoying a fresh breeze from the mountains which we do not often enjoy here in August, and which we have not enjoyed at any time during the year for about two years. In fact we will not know until we hear from Alaska whether or not the weather clerk has not dealt us out Alaska weather and Alaska Benton weather. Snow having fallen in the the mountains the extreme cold weather has set saw-mill men to thinking of abandoning the business for the season. Notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather the keep dropping their regular quota of stamps, thereby producing the metalic substance which we all seek and love, and which purchases every person place or thing (for sale) that can be known or mentioned. The Indian Queen mill has just completed one of the most successful and profitable runs of thirty days within our knowledge of milling, for a four stamp mill, having crushed 120 tons of ore assaying in value $188 17 per ton, thereby producing $22,579 90 worth of silver. Their average chlorination being 93¾ per cent. and the assay amalgamation 94 per cent. thereby producing $1,661 64 more than the 80 per cent. guaranteed. This successful run is owing to the roasting furnace, being White's patent with Howell's improvement, which we believe to be unparalleled in the history of roasting furnaces, together with the proficiency of the Superintendent, Mr. Howell. However, the above mentioned run was made under the direct superintendency of Mr. Will Adams. The Indian Queen mine like the Diana is being worked on what we call the tribute system. The Superintendent thinks this the most profitable. The Diana mill is producing a reasonable amount of bullion, having shipped this month $14,500, and unsurpassed in the sage brush country for fineness, assaying about 997 fine. The Diana mine is looking up; a rich and extensive body of ore was struck recently in the 350-foot level; the stock is not on the market now. Mr. John Robinson is just in from Lake District, where he has been developing a Bonanza; he states that owing to this Alaska snap Lake District is almost depopulated, but feels confident the mines there will bloom and produce next Summer. Parties here talk of building a road from Benton to the Lake District mines next Spring.

FOR ARIZONA.

Mr. John Howell has sold his store to Badger & Son, and is emigrating to Arizona; his teams left here yesterday under the conductorship of Mr. Andy Waterberry. Mr. Adams left this morning on the stage and goes by San Francisco, and Mr. M. Carry will soon follow. We are sorry to loose Mr. Howell and the other named gentlemen, for they made many warm friends in their business careers here. Mr. H. leaves considerable unsettled business, we believe, in the hands of Mr. Rowan.

PERSONAL.

Cross & Rowan is the name of a new firm engaged in yachting on Salt River. We are all sorry that Judge Decker would be a Justice of the Peace at Brdgeport if he could, but could not. J. C. Mitchell is acting in the capacity of a collector, consequently A. L. Greely was in town a few days ago. There came near being a divorce case in Judge Cross' Court last week, and the dark shadows of matrimony appeared, but neither occurred. A first-class case of elopement occurred last night in which the gay and festive Thomas Richards was the hero and Miss Belle Hart the heroine. Mr. Richards has shown considerable skill and ability by the way in which he has covered his tracks and Miss Hart has proven herself equal to the perilous undertaking, as there can be no trace had of the "morantic" couple.

RURAL JACOB.

COUNTED IN.—Elsewhere some reference is made to the canvass of the vote of the three townships that held elections on the 17th ultimo, wherein it is stated that Lone Pine was counted out but not specifically mentioned that the others—this place and Darwin—were duly counted in, as was the case, and certificates to their Justices elect were ordered to be issued.

PREACHING.—Rev. M. W. Pratt will preach in Lone Pine at 11 A. M., at George's Creek at 3 P. M., and Indpendependence at 7:30 P. M., one week from to-morrow, November 11.

LECTURE.—Rev. L. Case, State Deputy I. O. G. T. will deliver a lecture relating to temperance matters, in the school house at this place to-morrow evening, beginning at 7:15.

THE town looked really lively last night. The saloons and a great many men were full, while a fight and a pistol shot or two added zest to the scene.

CARD.

THE PUBLIC AND ALL CONCERNED, ARE hereby notified that, since commencing business in Darwin in the butchering line, I have never had a partner in that business, and am not responsible for any debts contracted by any person claiming to be a partner with me in such business. I am and will be responsible only for debts contracted by myself, and will pay no others.

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 3.....1877.

HOT WATER FOR TIRE SHRINKING OF WHEELS.—The expansion of tires by hot water, though not claimed to be new, is believed by the author to be much superior to the ordinary method of using fire. As applied on the Moscow Nijni Railway, an iron tank, one-fourth filled with water, is fixed near a stationary boiler, a steam pipe from which is led through it, capable of heating the water to 212° Fah. Into this the tire is plunged by means of a portable crane, and after an immersion from ten to fifteen minutes, is taken out and immediately placed on the wheel. Three men only are employed, who will fix from twelve to fourteen tires in a day of eleven hours. The allowance for shrinking (the difference between the diameter of the skeleton and that of the tire) is 0.75 millimeter to a meter. This is ascertained by gauges of great accuracy, and, if deviated from, the tire will be either loose after cooling or too small to get on the wheel. When fire is used, the tire can never be heated equally or cooled equally in all parts, and in consequence is sure to be more or less oval in form, which is not the case in hot water. The above railway made a comparison between the two, the results of which are given. It appears that, during a six years' trial of fire-shrunken tires, 37 per cent ran loose and 5 per cent were broken; while during a three years' trial of water-shrunken tires less than 1 per cent ran loose, and only a single tire was broken. The liability to breakage in the former (produced by the irregularity in form) is much insisted on by the author as being, of course, more dangerous and costly than the loosening of the tire. —Scientific American.

OUR neighbors of Wilmington are moving in earnest towards having the harbor dredged so that medium-sized vessels can reach the wharf. The subscriptions for this purpose amount to $5,218.45, and others, both in town and in the country, have promised to aid. Colonel Crocker, of the Southern Pacific, has also signified the willingness of the Company to do everything possible to forward the improvement. This looks like business. When a people resolve in earnest to help themselves, we always look for something to be done. With the addition of $100,000 from the Government, quite a snug harbor for such vessels as are needed in the coast trade can be secured.—Santa Monica Outlook.

DAILY COST OF MINING.—The timbers used to put under ground, and prevent the caving of the mines of the Comstock, cost $17,000 a day; the fire-wood, mostly consumed by steam engines, $6-000; candles burned in the mines, $10-000; the quicksilver lost, $2,000; and the ice needed to cool the water for drinking in the hot lower levels, $1,000 a day. The Consolidated Virginia alone uses ice daily to the amount of $180. Over two tons of bullion, containing 40 per cent. in value of gold, is produced, valued at from $160,000 to $170,000. —Virginia Enterprise.

Ex-Surveyor-General Gardner.

The action of the State against ex-Surveyor-General Robert Gardner, and ex-officio Register of the State Land Office, began on Monday in the Sixth District Court before Judge Denson, without a jury. The action was commenced in December, 1876, but issue was not joined until August, 1877, owing to the fact that the State failed in its several attempts to file a complaint which would stand before a demurrer or motions to strike out. The last amended complaint was filed July 23d, 1877, when defendant demanded a bill of particulars, which plaintiff furnished. Defendant's answer being then filed, it proved to be a general denial of the charges of the State, in which it is set out that Gardner as Surveyor-General and as State Land Register: First—Failed to charge and collect fees due to the State. Second—That he failed to pay over fees which he did collect. The aggregate of these sums is about $75,000. The State in its complaint charges all the fees against Gardner, leaving him to show how much he did pay over. Gardner alleges that the real sum of all his fees was $57,241 28; that he paid over to the Secretary of State and to the State Treasurer the whole of said sum as and at the times required by law, except such sums as the law authorized him to expend for extra clerical labor, map-making, travelling expenses, register's certificates, desks, tools, etc. Gardner denies every act alleged against him and all wrong doing charged, and is very urgent that the trial shall now go on to final judgment, and says he is confident he will show himself innocent. Counsel for plaintiff are equally certain they can show Gardner in the wrong. The difference between the sums set out in the complaint and the answer is accounted for by the claim of the State that Gardner should have collected fees for every application to purchase lands and for patents; and for certificates, etc. Whereas it appears on the the books that many such were not paid for, and some were paid and returned; also, that the sum total of the entries of transactions for which fees are marked as received exceed the sum Gardner paid over, and that a large part of the expenses charged by Gardner to the fee fund were not allowed by law. The action on trial is against Gardner as Surveyor, and his bondsmen, Edgar Mills and Mark Hopkins, and judgment is prayed for against each for $10,000, being in all $30,000. Another action in the same Court is against Gardner alone as Land Register, and is for the same alleged malfeasance. This is because, as Land Register, Gardner's bondsmen for him as Surveyor cannot be held—that is, the Register really has no bondsmen.

As the books and records in the Surveyor-General's office would be in use in the trial constantly, and to remove them would practically suspend business there, Judge Denson has transferred his Court to the Capital building for the purposes of this case. Friday was spent in calling off and offering in evidence, one by one, the applications for the purchase of school lands in San Francisco District. These are 7,102 in number, and about one-fourth were called off in evidence, Attorney-General Hamilton, his deputy, John T. Carey, and special counsel P. Dunlap represent the State. Henry Edgerton, Tubbs & Cole, A. P. Catlin and Blanchard & Van Fleet represent the defendant. The case will probably last a week, and will bring out many of the matters investigated by the State Land Commission.—S. F. Bulletin. Nov. 1.

THE first spikes of the Pembina branch of the Canada Pacific railroad in Manitoba were driven a few days ago with elaborate ceremonies, Lord and Lady Dufferin each driving a silver spike with a silver hammer.

Proposed Legislation for This Coast.

Mr. Sargent will endeavor, during this extra session, if any similar appropriations are granted, to secure an appropriation to complete the Appraisers' building, and by the prompt expenditure of about $200,000 for that purpose save the Government at least $12,000 per annum. He will also, when general legislation is resumed, reproduce and urge the passage of the few measures for which he failed to obtain action last year, including his bills amendatory of the bankrupt law, restoring forfeited land grants to the public domain, and for the equitable distribution of the remainder of the Geneva award.

Mr. Booth will give renewed attention to his bills for the local taxation of railroad land grants, and, providing that canceled mortgages shall not invalidate pre-emption claims; and both Senators will labor to promote the passage of some measure to relieve the California savings bank from discriminating Federal taxation.

Mr. Page intends to introduce a bill on the latter subject, (all such measures requiring to be originated in the House) and will re-introduce his bill, which obtained a favorable report from the Banking and Currency Committee last Winter, in regard to the circulation and reserves of national gold note banks. He will also re-introduce his bills for the sale of timber and grazing lands, though probably with some important changes in their provisions as to the size of the tracts and the methods of sale, which he has not yet fully matured.

OTHER MEASURES OF PACIFIC COAST INTEREST.

The Silver question, it is now conceded on all hands, will be the subject of early contention and probable action during the coming session of Congress; and the prevalent opinion in Washington is that the so-called "Silver men" will command a majority in both Houses and pass some measure for the remonetization of the "dollar of the fathers."

Senators Sargent and Booth and Representative Davis are all strongly opposed to taking any action on the subject at the present time; but the other members of the delegations express themselves more or less in favor of the adoption of the dual standard. Mr. Page is outspoken in maintaining that the old silver dollar should be revived and made a legal tender for all debts, public and private.

The views of the various gentlemen referred to on this subject will be given by your correspondent hereafter more in detail.

Among the other matters of especial Pacific Coast interest which will come up for action this Fall and Winter, may be mentioned the Texas Pacific bill; the question of transferring the Indian management to the War Department; the report of the Commission on the proposed reorganization of the army; the Pacific Railroad sinking fund bills; the report of the Postal Commission on plans for improved mail facilities, and, undoubtedly the everlasting McGarrahan claim, with, perhaps, also, the Santillan bill in another of its protean shapes. Of all these and other live topics of local importance, the readers of the Bulletin will, as in the past, be kept fully informed.—Cor. S. F. Bulletin.

The Unemployed.

Accounts of extreme destitution reach us from all parts of the country on account of the difficulty of obtaining employment. Foreigners are unable to comprehend why it is that in a country with thousands of millions of acres untouched by the plow there should be idleness and starvation. Col. Ingersoll, the eminent orator, when asked for a solution of this paradox, gave a sensible and characteristic answer. "In my judgment," he said, "they must cultivate the soil. Farming must be made more desirable. It must be elevated in its character, so that those who work the land will have an honest pride in their business. They must educate their children how to cultivate the soil. They must not be educated simply to be ministers or lawyers or doctors, but they must be educated to be farmers. It must be understood that education is as necessary to till the soil as to follow any other business or profession in the world. We must get rid of the idea that a little education unfits us for labor. There are to-day hundreds of graduates of Harvard and Yale and other colleges who are agents of sewing machine companies, solicitors for insurance, clerks, copyists, in short, performing menial service. They seem to be willing to do anything that can be done in a house or in a town, but avoid farming as they would a leprosy. Every young man educated in this way is simply ruined. What little good sense he had is educated out of him. It is a thousand times better to have good sense without education than education without good sense. Give your sons an education that will be of real use. Let them be taught to help themselves; that it is disgraceful to be an idler, that only the useful are honorable."

WHEN the boys were paying ten cents last Summer for a telephone with which to amuse themselves, they did not foresee, nor did their parents, that this was the beginning of an institution destined to grow into one of the wonders of the world. Even at this early day, the telephone is the means of communication between distant cities, and the project is mooted of laying it by cable under the sea to connect us in vocal contact with our friends on the other shore. When it gets properly under way our words will literally go to the world's end.

Ideas for Constitutional Lawyers.

All suggestions growing out of the Constitutional legislation of other States are in order now, in view of the probable early revision of our own organic law. Among the most advanced Constitutions adopted of late, we find to be that of Colorado. It embraces a great many improvements upon our procedure, together with some innovations which we are disposed to think ill-grounded. Among the improvements may be noted the following: The State is absolutely prohibited from allowing sectarian or religious teachings in the schools, and from aiding sectarian schools in any way. In elections ballots are numbered when deposited, the number being at the same time set down against the voter's name in the poll list. This renders fraud almost impossible, and in cases of contested elections affords a direct and easy way of ascertaining the truth. No person can be imprisoned for the purpose of securing his testimony, longer than may be necessary in order to take his deposition. If the jury disagree in a criminal case, or the judgment is arrested after verdict, or reversed for error of law, the accused is deemed not to have been in jeopardy, and consequently may be tried again. This is a very important amendment to our procedure, under which a criminal may escape altogether if the jury cannot agree. An invaluable preventive against legislative fraud is provided in the clause which gives the Governor the power to disapprove of any item or items of any bill making appropriations of money. In such case the items disapproved become law. It can be seen at once how much better a method this is than that of our present Constitution. The Governor has the authority to adjourn the legislature if the two branches cannot agree upon the time of adjournment. Thus he may be able to shut down upon a bad or extravagant legislature. No bills are allowed to be introduced after the first twenty-five days of the session. There are many other interesting features in the Colorado Constitution, and we will refer to them at some length hereafter. County Boards of Equalization, a mining commission, long judicial terms, stringent provisions against special legislation, distinctly specifying various matters with which the legislature shall not deal—are noteworthy. As a whole in fact this instrument exhibits more judgment and sound reasoning than almost any of the modern Constitutions, and it is particularly valuable in that there has been an evident determination to take a safe middle course on all difficult and doubtful points.—Record-Union.

A Rich Silver Mine.

We have recently examined some remarkable specimens of silver ore from the mine of Todos Santos, near Batopilas, Chihuahua, Mexico, which is now being worked by Messrs. Mitchell, Ford & Co. This mine forms one of probably fifty which exist within a radius of five miles around the vicinity. It has been known some twenty years, but was abandoned and re-opened in 1875, since which time it has yielded some $75,000 worth of ore. At present, however, the ore extracted is of astonishing richness, yielding 12 ounces of silver to the pound, and in some cases a hard dollar to every ounce. The specimens exhibited to us were nearly solid silver, nodules and filaments of the metal being interspersed so thickly with the pure white quartz. The mine is situated nearly opposite that of the Batopilas Silver Mining Company, across the Batopilas river, and in the Sierra Madre Mountains at some 1,600 feet elevation, or 2,500 feet above the level of the Gulf of California, from which it is distant about 250 miles. Owing to the almost total absence of machinery—absent because of the inaccessibility of the locality—ore yielding as high as $200 to the ton is thrown aside as non-paying. The rich ore after treatment in the rude adope furnaces of the country gives silver 993 fine. It is run into bars worth about $1,000 and $1,200 a piece. The cost of transportation of ore to New York is 12½ per cent, inclusive of the 5 per cent. Government duty.—Scientific American.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 10.....1877.

BECAUSE of certain strikes in Great Britain, some proprietors sent to America and imported a large number of workmen, with whom their agents entered into contracts to work at certain rates. Of course, this did not appease the native striking workmen. They acted differently from those on a strike in Philadelphia and, perhaps, elsewhere, who attempted by force, by assaults, and even by murder, to prevent workmen from outside their organizations to succeed and supplant them. Those English workmen appear to have relied upon persuasion and argument, and other influences, to so far prevail upon the imported workmen, that they have concluded to make common cause with them. So that the strikes not only continue, but are made more powerful by such additions.

IN the death of Senator Morton the country has lost one of its best friends; a man of gigantic intellect and unswerving integrity, whose life was wholly devoted to the nation's welfare. Both parties acknowledged and admired his sterling abilities and honesty of purpose. He was a power in the Senate, which was the dread of his political opponents and the pride of his party. A gloom has been cast over the country by his death, and it will be long before another rises to fill his place in the Senate, whose halls were never graced by a superior statesman.

PARTIAL returns from the leading Pacific Coast mines for nine months show a yield of $36,000,000 from thirty-six mines. To this should be added the placer mines and a large number of small quartz mines in Southern California and Nevada and Idaho, with all the product of Arizona making about $50,000,000 for three-fourths of the present year, or an equivalent of $66,000,000 for the entire year—this is a pretty good showing for a new country and a dry season.

OLE JOHNSON, the ring-leader in the recent State Prison break, died of his wounds October 29. The Carson Appeal thus speaks of his death: About 5 P. M. Johnson died of his wounds. He was sentenced for murder in the second degree for 25 years, and had served two years of this time. He was the ring-leader in the movement, and although it seems uncharitable to say so, met with his just deserts. Under the present management the public need fear no more breaks.

ZACK CHANDLER has at last settled the question which has been discussed so much for the last two years, but which up to the date of Zack's speech remained unsettled, as to whether the world is growing better or worse. Zack says it is growing better day by day. How glad we are that the problem has been solved, and, just as it has.

THE United States Senate will probably, after the 4th of March, 1879, be divided politically as follows: Democrats, 45; Republicans, 29; Independent and doubtful, 2.

A GENERAL amnesty bill and one to repeal the iron-clad oath will be introduced in the House by Cox.

DAN VORHEES has been appointed Morton's successor in the United States Senate.

INDIAN MATTERS.

About ten days since the leading chiefs of the several Piute tribal subdivisions throughout the valley gathered at Georges Creek for the purpose of holding a conference among themselves, and also with the whites, relative to situation as between the two races. Among others of the Indians present were Captain Joe Bowers, the ever reliable friend of the whites, and several Captains from Big Pine, Fish Springs and Bishop Creek. Making their wishes known to some of the whites they were advised to ask in as many of the citizens of Georges Creek as could be got together, to which invitation, C. M. Joslyn, John Kispert, John and Jas. Shepherd, and in short nearly all living in that vicinity, responded. Captain George acted as interpreter. Captain Joe talked long and earnestly to his people as to the utter folly of their entertaining thoughts of hostility to the whites, saying that the latter, with a few exceptions, were the Indians' friends and protectors; that while the Indians could burn and destroy some property and kill some of the whites, it could be but a short time till every Indian would in turn be killed. There was, he said, not the slightest need for anything of the kind. He begged that it be agreed by the Indians and whites both, that if an Indian killed a white person, or attempted any outrage of any sort that he be given over to the whites at once for punishment according to law; that if a white man killed an Indian that the whites would deal with him as if it was a white man who had been the victim. Others made speeches of precisely the same import while all give an eager assent to the entire proposition. In the course of this talk an Indian from the upper end of the valley explained the situation in that section, and the cause of the mutual uneasiness among the people of both races. He said there was a brother-in-law of Jerry, about whose murder by his own people so much has been said, who was doing all he could to make mischief, so as to induce the whites to avenge Jerry's death; that this Indian was in the habit of telling the whites directly or by inuendo, that the Indians were preparing to go to war with the whites, and intended to drive them all out of the country or die in the attempt, and, therefore the whites ought to start in at once and kill Jerry's murderers; that there were about four white men [whom we could name in part, but shall not for the present—EDS.] about Bishop Creek who were doing all they could to aid this bad Indian in provoking hostilities; that, unless the good white citizens of that section and the good Indians together, did not act together and with moderation in case of some actual or reported outrage by these bad whiteman or some drunken Indian, he was much afraid a great trouble might be spung upon all. He said it was a lie without mitigation that any Indians in this valley, except this brother-in-law, had the least desire in the world to try to hurt the whites in any way. Many of his people now had good houses, farms, horses, cattle, clothes and money, and wanted to be and to live like white people, and it was ridiculous in the extreme to suppose they wanted to give up all these and be killed or driven into the mountains to die, as would be the case if these bad whitemen were to have their way. They had met here so that the whites might understand what they felt, and what they feared, and to ask all good white people to help them to prevent a possible great misfortune, that might be precipitated by any bad white man or Indian. Not only that, but they were anxious that "some paper talk"—newspaper publication—be made of their feelings and sentiments so that all the white people might know about them.

The foregoing is a mere, and very likely, imperfect synopsis of what these red men said and felt on this occasion. As we learn from other sources the chief cause of their meeting grew out of the operations of a white semi-desperado and one or two of his friends at Bishop Creek a few weeks since. This man, it seems, rode up to an Indian's farm and proceeded to help himself to what he found in a way that no white man could brook for an instant. The Indian owner remonstrated, whereupon, the white brave immediately pulled his revolver and begun to blaze away at the Indian and his mahala; one ball cut through the Indian's hat, grazing the scalp, that being about the sum of the damage from the shooting. Soon after a party of Indians mounted their horses and ran the white brave to his home in the valley, determined to kill him if possible. To prevent this, other citizens arrested the man, whereupon the Indians went home. Soon after, this man made his escape and started down the valley but was again brought back in the interest of his own and the general safety. Some of his friends felt outraged at the course pursued by those who had taken an active part in the matter, having been mislead as to the real facts in one or two important details, and thereupon made some threats and demonstrations that for a time bid fair to produce some very serious results among neighbors. Fortunately, before any of the threatened blood was spilled, a better understanding was arrived at, ending in the man making some sort of a pecuniary restitution to the Indian whom he had tried to kill. This incident shows on what a tender thread peaceful relations between the two races hang. It is a conceded fact with all that these Indians not only do not want war, but are in mortal dread it may occur, yet, that if it does occur, they intend to fight and to die, if need be. And it is just as certain that no white settler possessed of a grain of sense or humanity is any more anxious to provoke hostilities than they. It is a self-evident fact that nothing desirable whatever is to be gained thereby. Still, it is no less true, or believed to be true, that this brother-in-law above referred to, and some three or four white men are liable at any time to do something to cause bloodshed, or open war, either for revenge or hoped for opportunities of plunder. This is the particular dread entertained by these chiefs, and the reason of their conference. Captain Joe's proposition, given at the outset, was cordially endorsed by all present, and now, it only remains for us to add, that they all most respectfully ask the whites not to get excited or alarmed at the act of any individual mischief maker, to act with moderation in any event, and it will all be well.

To show still further their feelings or fears in the matter, we will have to extend these remarks still a little further. The Indians want to hold their usual yearly fandango. They are hesitating about doing so for fear the gathering might be misunderstood. It is customary on each of these occasions for all in attendance to make a small deposit to defray expenses of the next fandango. This deposit, or "bank" is held in trust by the band who is to give the next one. Each depositor is allowed a small drawback in certain contingencies, and now for the purpose of dividing up this bank as well as to dance, they want to hold the regular fandango this time at Camp Independence, the place appointed last year. Joe says if it comes off as usual he wants the whites to understand it is all right, and wants us to make this "paper talk" with that object also.

MORE INSTRUCTIONS.—Secretary Schurz still continues to worry over the desert land act, and has sent out some more instructions, the sum of which we have given in these columns heretofore except that it is now required in addition that "inquiry be made whether the applicant kuew the character of the land before entry was made, and if so, for how long a period; whether he himself paid the first installment or if it was advanced by another person; by whom and whether he has conveyed, assigned or mortgaged, or agreed to convey, assign or mortgage the land and upon what consideration." Local Land Officers are furthermore specially instructed to obtain testimony as to the character of land from other persons than those applying to enter them.

THE ELECTIONS.—Our news in relation to the Eastern elections on the 6th is of the same date, and sums up by reports as follows: New York, Democratic, by some 20,000; John Morissey beats John Kelly's candidate; Pennsylvania, doubtful, with the chances in favor of the Democrats; Massachusetts, largely Republican. The Democrats lose in Connecticut and Wisconsin. The New York Senate is Republican, the Assembly Democratic, and Tammany comes out ahead.

OF all the millions out of which Wm. M. Tweed swindled the city of New York, he has now not $5,000 left. The total of his legal expenses was $40,000. His escape from Ludlow street jail cost him $60,000. He gives the total of his losses since 1871 as $1,203,150 from depreciation of real estate, and his total payments as $1,490,500. The old man's ill-gotten wealth has certainly not done him much good. He reveled in luxury for a time, only to sink into disgraceful poverty in the end.

GOVERNOR HAIGHT is an open and avowed candidate for the distinguished position of United States Senator. We can only guess what the ex-Governor's chances are among those whose business it is to make Senators, but we will undertake to say that his election would be immensely pleasing to the vast majority of the people.

PIUTES ON THE WAR-PATH.—Men chopping wood on the eastern side of Mono Lake, for the mining companies of Bodie, have been threatened by Piute Indians in that vicinity, who swear by the "Great Father" that they will shoot every "white squaw" among them if they do not quit work, clear out and leave the aborigines in sole possession. What has given rise to this sentiment, people are at a loss to conceive, unless it be the chronic jealousy of the red-skins on beholding the rapid growth of the white population, and contrasting the difference between their own debased condition with the continually increasing comforts and luxuries of the white settlers. If a little sense could be hammered into the clouded intellect of these red brothers, and some of their chronic laziness thrashed out of them, they might some day be able to comprehend the laws of nature sufficiently and grow ambitious enough to induce them to work for a living like the rest of mankind, instead of frittering their time away in gambling and stretching their lazy carcasses in the sun's warm rays.

It is to be hoped the threats of these worthless creatures may prove but idle talk, yet it will not do to let it pass and take no preventitives against an attempt at their fulfillment. Let all be on their guard, yet careful not to arouse the drowsy creature who is growling in his sleep. Throw a biting dog a bone rather than a stone. Let this be the motto of all.—Bodie Standard, Nov. 7.

HUGO RICHARDS tells a good story of two friends who were attacked by Indians in the dark and bloody days of Arizona, which illustrates the strong propensity in some people for a joke no matter how serious the surroundings may be. They were both on mule back and the Indians right at their heels, letting the arrows fly past them thick as a swarm of grasshoppers in Kansas. One of the mules could outrun the other, and its rider became alarmed for the safety of his friend, who was exerting every nerve to the utmost tension, spurring, whipping and yelling at the animal to urge it along, but it was doing its best and could not keep up. The foremost man looked back, saw the peril of his friend, and in a frenzy, bordering on despair, sang out: "Joe, why don't you come along?" Joe, whose legs and hands were flying in the air like the arms of a runaway windmill in a storm, could not let the opportunity pass, and as an arrow flitted by his ear, which, if possible increased his exertions, he exclaimed: "Do I act like a man that was throwing off?"—Prescott Enterprise.

THE Vicksburg Herald estimates that the Union forces threw two hundred tons of shot, shell, and lead into that city during the siege.

IF Sitting Bull is as much of a diplomatist as he is a fighter, he has learned that he must keep the peace, now that he has elected to remain in Canada. The refusal of the Sioux chief to return peaceably to the United States has brought from the Canadian Government a serious warning. The officer commanding the Northwestern Military Police has informed Sitting Bull, after sundry attempts to shake his decision, that he must not cross the line with hostile intent, that if he did he would have the British as his enemies. The British Government is bound to preserve the neutrality of its border. The Commission, therefore, though it has failed to allure Sitting Bull to his reservation, has provided that he shall not go on the war-path without a fire in the rear.

THE Mexican Government has issued a decree permitting free shipment of gold and silver coin on foreign vessels from one port to another in the Republic, upon reliable sureties being furnished by those who wish to take advantage of the act. This move indicates a more progressive spirit on the part of Mexico. When it is followed by a removal of all restrictions on the shipment of the precious metals, whether as coin or bullion, to points outside the Republic, the mining interests of Mexico will revive and there will be a chance for those who have sunk money in Mexican mining ventures to get it back again.

THE State Grange is to have one or more meetings in Sacramento, this Winter, for the purpose of preparing such laws as the farmers desire, and urging their passage.

GEN. JOHN C. FREMONT had his household effects sold under the Sheriff's hammer, in New York, a few days since. He is said to be reduced to extreme poverty.

BENJAMIN NOYES, a prominent insurance man of Washington has been placed under arrest for refusing to answer questions of the Insurance Commissioner.

SHERIFF'S SALE.

BY VIRTUE OF A DECREE AND ORDER OF sale issued out of the District Court of the Sixteenth Judicial District of the State of California, in and for the county of Inyo, in the suit of Frederick H. Castle, plaintiff, against L. Lasky and Betsy Lasky, defendants, upon a judgment rendered in said Court on the 7th day of November, A. D. 1877, for the sum of Sixteen Hundred and Sixty-five 09-100 ($1,665 09-100) dollars in gold coin of the United States, besides costs amounting to the sum of Twenty-two 30-100 ($22 30-100) dollars, and attorneys' fees amounting to the sum of One Hundred and Sixty-six 50-100 ($166 50-100) dollars, duly attested the 9th day of November, A. D. 1877, whereby I am commanded to make the amount of Eighteen Hundred and Fifty-three 89-100 ($1,853 89-100) dollars, in gold coin of the United States, besides accruing costs and interest, I am commanded to sell the following described real property, to-wit:

Lots Number 5, 6 and 8 and fractional 18 feet front of Lot Number 3, all situated in Block Number 8, all of said lots situate, lying and being in the town of Lone Pine, county of Inyo, State of California, as the same now appears on the plat of said town of Lone Pine, on file in the Recorder's office of said Inyo county. Also, one lot in the town of Cerro Gordo, in said Inyo county, being 100 by 150 feet, and being the lot in said town on which the store of L. Lasky is situated. Also, all the right of the parties defendant in the land described as the southwest quarter of the northeast quarter of Section Number 9, and the southwest quarter of the northwest quarter and the north half of the southwest quarter of Section Number 10, all in Township Number 16 South, Range Number 35 East, Mount Diablo Base and Meridian, containing 160 acres of land, all lying and being situated in the county of Inyo, State of California.

Notice is hereby given that on Monday, the Third Day of December, A. D. 1877, between the hours of 9 o'clock A. M. and 4 o'clock P. M., to-wit: at the hour of 1 o'clock P. M. of that day, in front of the Court House, in the town of Independence, county of Inyo, State of California, I will sell all the right, title and interest of the said defendants, L. Lasky and Betsy Lasky, in and to the above described property, or so much thereof as may be sufficient to satisfy said judgment and all costs, at public auction, to the highest bidder or bidders, for cash in hand in gold coin of the United States.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:
SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 10.....1877.

A FARCE.—The thing approaching nearest a ridiculous farce that has fallen under our notice for some time will be found in that portion of the Supervisors' proceedings touching the late election in Lone Pine, when taken in connection with preceding facts connected therewith, to wit: That by the neglect of an unmistakable duty on the part of the Board itself in the first instance, it was put beyond the power of not only the Lone Pine electors and Election Board but all others throughout the county, to strictly comply with every incidental detail in preparing for and in conducting a constitutional and stautory election that should have been but was not ordered and provided for by said Board of Supervisors, but, by said electors, was held and conducted to the best of their ability notwithstanding, and on the day fixed by statute, and as per official notification from the Governor of the State. Yet, to vent what we have reason to believe to be a purely, narrow, personal spite, the Chairman first vests his office with full judicial powers to go behind the certified returns and thereby find pettifogging reasons for adjudging said township election illegal, then to gravely resolve himself into a sworn witness before his own tribunal that he might prove the non-execution of certain specified acts, then again to resume the ermine, and upon such testimony formally adjudge and decree that as said electors had not complied with law, no bills based thereupon would be allowed. The beauty of the transaction is obvious when it is understood that he makes himself a witness to prove omissions squarely within his own official knowledge, facts that must have been of record and of possible execution but for his own previous neglect of official duty. But what is the use of pursuing this matter further? We will undertake to maintain, however, admitting the legality of said election at all without the prescribed order of the Board of Supervisors which was lacking, that by an action at law the Board could not only be compelled to count the Lone Pine vote and issue election certificates accordingly, but also to allow the bill of its Election Board. Why this is not now tested will appear hereafter.

INDICTED.—Moore has finally been indicted by the Grand Jury for the shooting of Ames, at Bishop Creek not long since. The operation of finding the indictment was a laborious one. The first instrument submitted to the Court, prepared by our worthy District Attorney, indicted the man who received the bullet; the document was remanded for correction. Prior to the reception of the next one the attorney for the defense presented the Court with a few punctuation marks, thus: , , ; : — which he desired the representative of the people to make use of. When the second document was read the defense demurred again, on the gronnd of general ambiguity, but the Court overruled the motion and set the trial for Thursday next.

IN BAD HEALTH.—Mr. I. N. Townsley, well known to many of our readers as a former book agent in this section, has just returned from Bakersfield where for some months past he has been laid up with sickness, by which he was utterly incapacitated for business, and comes here in the hope of regaining his shattered health. This, in addition to his pecuniary losses by by those Eastman Bro's bilks, has born quite heavily on Mr. T's fortunes.

FOOT RACE.—The way Judge Schalten, Charley Miller, Gardner and some other well-known citizens made tracks last night was simply huge. They desire to be interviewed on the subject of watching a crazy man, who is located in the brush above town. Besides giving an interesting account of the aforesaid foot-race, they will probably advise our legal authorities of the fact that the lunatic in question ought to be attended to.

CROWDED OUT.—It may be said that, in the non-mention of a certain would-be matrimonial episode which occurred in town during the week, at the expense of one of our county officians, we are missing a good thing; but the fact is that (in the rush of other matters) we haven't time or space to do the subject justice.

APPOINTMENT.—P. Reddy, Esq., has been appointed assistant District Attorney. It is pretty well conceded that an assistant in that important office is somewhat needed. We do not understand, however, that Mr. R. proposes to assume the general duties of the office.

RACES.—The programme for the coming races at the Taboose course is given in the advertisement elsewhere. The track is now occupied with many horses in training, and the event portends a great success.

THE COURTS.—We can give no report of Court proceedings this week. The work has been mostly preliminary and transacted in chambers, with decisions under advisement.

PLENTY TO DO.—The Grand Jury have several rather knotty questions to wrestle with, and consequently have not yet completed their labors.

A NEW CONCERN.—County Treasurer Isaacs will occupy the new Mairs building, soon to be erected, in the merchandising business in which he proposes to engage.

THE LECTURE.—State Deputy L. Case delivered last Sunday evening, to a goodly audience, quite an interesting, valuable and temperate temperance lecture.

ANOTHER assessment of 50c per share has been levied on the stock of the New Coso mine, amounting to $50,000.

SCHOOL TAXES, ETC.

ROUND VALLEY, Nov. 5.

MESSRS. EDITORS—When Aristotle was asked how did the educated man differ from the uneducated, he answered, "As much as the living differs from the dead." A few years ago the great philosopher Carlyle stated that England contained a population of 30,000,000, 29,000,000 of whom he said, were fools! Being fully convinced of the "power of knowledge" and that the juveniles should have the advantages of early education the Round Valley school trustees decided to have their dilapidated school house repaired and fixed up snug and cosy wherein the little jokers may comfortably wrestle with their big spelling lessons, the multiplication table and other complicated studies—tough business for the little fellows to transact. An election was held to ascertain whether the people of this district were in favor of a tax sufficient to repair the school house—Tax, yes, carried—but some of the very penurious claimed irregularities in the election proceedings; and they swore a "blue streak" that they wouldn't pay a cent. To avoid cavil, another election was held, wherein no crookedness was discovered, consequently, these small souled people have had to submit, and of course will soon have a chance to pay their taxes like little men.

The Assessor having completed his labors has delivered the roll to the Board, finds taxable property (including dogs, sheep, French, etc.,) to the amount of $150,000 in this district. In addition to the tax several gentlemen, who had little or no taxable property, have kindly donated over $55. Several hundred dollars will thus be raised, and we hope that our worthy trustees, with the valuable assistance of Mr. Olds, one of the most accommodating and public spirited men in the country, will endeavor to make a creditable and comfortable school room, which will also be a convenient building for other purposes occasionally.

The man in the moon may think that a school district which represents the above amount of taxable property, should have, at least, one good substantial public building, besides a school house, where its people may often assemble and treat themselves to a variety of recreation; but it is yet too soon to mention recreation, edification, harvest feasts, etc., when some of our dear people would sooner have half a dozen teeth extracted, at one sitting (free gratis) than to contribute one dollar for educational, or any other laudable purpose. "Verily, verily, I say unto thee" man is a money-making machine!

The assessment roll having been delivered to the Board of Trustees, who acted as a Board of Equalization, we should all now take warning that the duly elected Round Valley School District Tax Collector, Mr. Orson Vaughn, will soon circulate in his official capacity and demand of willing and unwilling tax-payers "dos leedle dings."

We are glad to note the arrival of an affable gentleman, Mr. Buck, and experienced teacher from the East, who will soon commence to teach the Round Valley school.

JINGO.

PROSPECTING FOR WATER.—Messrs. Lank & Kehoe, something like six weeks since commenced a ditch on the land which is generally known as the "Bradley Ranch" and running the same in a due east and west course towards a cluster of springs, but have now stopped for the present, on account of the lateness of the season. The original survey commences at a point without depth and runs a length of 700 feet to its maximum of 21 feet; this depth could not, however, be attained, as a quicksand made its appearance on the floor of the ditch at a distance of say 50 feet from the end, which obstinately opposed labor, and the greatest depth realized is only 11 feet. The ground for fully 30 feet in circumference having settled down in the vacuum made by the uplifting of the sand, the nature of which would be difficult to describe, but a pole can easily be thrust into it for a depth of 6 feet without finding anything like a solid bottom. For the benefit of the curious the firm furnishes us with a slab of granite, which has all the appearance of a worn out mortar, such as is now used by the Indians in grinding their seeds, which was thrown out by the force of water through the sand when at the depth of eleven feet. It weighs fifteen pounds, and may have been cotemporary with the mastodon whose skeleton was found but a few miles from the same place. The width of the ditch at the top is three to four feet, and two and a half feet at the bottom; cost of labor and material about $200, with a result of 40,000 gallons per diem. The proprietors of this ditch are very sanguine that their operations next season will be crowned with still further success, and at the same time express the opinion that with an outlay of a few hundred dollars their neighbors need not be altogether short of water during the Summer months.

PERSONAL.—To make mention of all the notables who have been in town during the current week would be too much of a task in the line of "Personals."

Proceedings of the Board of Supervisors.

Board met in regular session, Monday, November 5. J. R. Westerville and Chas. Meysan, Chairman, present.

Bill of Mono county for survey of Inyo-Mono boundary line passed to next regular term, awaiting result of request submitted for Mono to file map of said survey.

After action upon certain bills, Board adjourned till 9 A. M.,

TUESDAY, Nov. 6.

Whereas, on the 15th day of August, 1877, the Board of Equilization passed and entered of record the following order: "Whereas, the taxes on the property of the Defiance Mining Company were unpaid for the year 1875, and, whereas, the State Board of Equilization, by their order duly filed herein directed the Tax Collector of Inyo county to avail himself of the provisions of section 3806, Pol. Code, and pass said unpaid tax to the delinquent list for 1875-6 without sale, it is hereby ordered that the Assessor enter up said unpaid taxes upon the assessment book of this year, 1877, against said Defiance Mining Company:" And, whereas, the said Board of Equilization of Inyo county in making said order exceeded their jurisdiction:—It is hereby Ordered, that said order be rescinded and expunged from said record, and that the Clerk and Tax Collector are hereby ordered to strike out and erase from the assessment book for 1877 the entry therein by the Assessor in relation to the amount of said unpaid tax for the year 1875-6, and the Tax Collector is hereby directed to refer the same to the State Board of Equilization.

So ordered, and indorsed by the District Attorney.

[The following proceedings extend through to the close of business on Friday evening, the close of our report, the Board being in session to-day]:

Bill of W. H. Lee, a Constable for Kern county, $144, rejected.

Application of P. A. Chalfant for a duplicate for warrant No. 202, lost, granted.

Bill of John Schulte for rent of room for holding election, October, 1877, rejected on the ground that the polling place was not designated as prescribed by section 1132, Political Code,

W. J. Phillippay, in relation to the bill of I. W. Hunt, connected with said election, being sworn, testified as follows:

I did not see any notice of election, and did not know there was going to be an election until the night before the polls were opened. It was after sunrise before I came to the store. Mr. Hunt was just going to his breakfast. I don't know how long after that before Peterson came to me and wanted to know if I was going to let them have the room. I told him, no. It must have been 8 or half past 8 o'clock before the polls were opened. I knew of no polling place being designated.

Supervisor Meysan sworn.—I have paid particular attention several days previous to the election, and during progress of the election, and if there was duly election notice, or notice designating the polling place, and there was no notice in all the town of Lone Pine; and that the polls were opened between half-past 8 and 9 o'clock—about a quarter to 9; and that on the 17th day of October, 1877, the sun rises at 10 minutes past 6.

Mr. Meysan then moved that Mr. Hunt's bill for election services be rejected on the grounds that the polling place was not designated as prescribed by section 1132 of the Political Code, and that said Election Board did not comply with the requirements of sections 1143, 1160 and 1209 of said code.

So ordered, and the bill rejected.

Resignation of Henry Bachman, Constable, Lone Pine township, tendered and accepted.

The Trespass Law.

A recent decision of the Supreme Court, in the case of Sutherland vs. Sweem, of Fresno county, in relation to the no-fence law, is fraught with much importance to all those counties in which the said law is in force. The Expositor says:

"The case in point, it will be remembered, originated in the taking up by Sweem of some cattle belongtng to John Sutherland. The cattle were proceeded against before Justice Thompson, under the provisions of the trespass law, the suit being "in rem." The decision of the court is to the effect that suits cannot be conducted before a Justice of the Peace 'in rem,' as a Justice's Court does not have jurisdiction in equity, and the attempt to confer such power by the Legislature is unconstitutional; the District Court alone, under the Constitution, having such power."

The effect of the decision will be that so much of the law as allows a Justice of the Peace to adjudicate cases where the owners of the stock taken up are unknown, is null and void. But suits for damages can be maintained in Justices' Court when the owners of stock taken up are known, or suits against the stock can be conducted before the District Court in the same manner as in the Justice's Court.

This practically nullifies the law, and renders nugatory the protection sought under it by farmers against wild cattle. It will, therefore devolve upon the next Legislature to enact a remedy in the shape of an amendment, which will give the protection desired. We shall now have a chance to test the sincerity and reliance to be placed in our immediate representatives. Mr. Fowler who attained some reputation when he was in the Senate before, as an opponent of the bill, may now distinguish himself as its champion. The proclivities of Mr. Adams will also have an opportunity of manifesting themselves in an unmistakable manner. The Democratic platform upon which they were elected, and which they cordially and unhesitatingly endorsed, is explicit in its utterance on this point. It is to be presumed that they will not shrink from carrying out a line of policy so distinctly set forth.

Although at the time of the adoption and endorsement of the platform it was not considered probable that any action in the matter would be required at the hands of the next Legislature, and it was even thought by those who were deemed over prudent that it would be sufficient to guard against hostile legislating, it will be observed that the resolution relative to the no-fence act, while it expresses disapprobation of its repeal, is also opposed to any amendment that will render it less effectual in protecting the farming interests than it was. It is by implication favorable to any amendment that will render its protective provisions more effectual, inasmuch as it is expressly opposed to any act that will render them less so. If this position is tenable, and that it is so we think will be accorded by every thoughtful and logical mind, it follows by the same inferential process that it is no less the solemn duty of our representatives if the no-fence act is unconstitutional or technically at variance with the fundamental law and therefore practically void so far as protection to agriculture is concerned, to enact a law that will afford that refuge and impunity from the ravages of predatory cattle, without which farming in Kern valley may as well be abandoned. The resolution fairly and clearly commits the representatives elected upon it to the principle of protection by statue. The means employed to carry out this principle, so long as they be adequate—so long as they accomplish the purpose for which they were devised—is not material. The no-fence law as it was passed was a crude and ill-advised piece of legislation at best. It was passed in a hurry; it was the result of compromise and concession. It was the best that could be done at the time, and it has indirectly served some good purpose. But in its practical application in this county it has fallen far short of what was expected of a protective act. It should now be amended or, better be replaced by an act that will give the desired measure of protection. The extraordinary progress made by the county, even under the imperfect and impractical enactment to which we refer is sufficient to prove to the most incorrigible, the general beneficence of such a measure.—Southern California.

INKSTAINS may be removed from collars, etc., by the application of a little lemon juice, citric acid, diluted muriatic acid, oxalic acid, or tartaric acid; or by means of chlorine water or solution of bleaching powder. The linen should be free from starch and soap, and should be afterwards thoroughly rinsed in warm water before using soap. Marking inks are variously removed by ammonia water, solution of bleaching powder, chlorine water, dilute iodine tincture, or cyanide of potassium—this latter is very poisonous.

THE clam of the Atlantic Coast has acclimatized itself to the bay of San Francisco. The clam always was a sociable cuss; but his more exclusive and uncommunicative cousin, the Atlantic oyster, refuses to either affiliate with the Pacific animal of that name or to bring up a family in Pacific waters. He is a mere sojourner on these shores.

A LONDON mining paper, in referring to the Millionaire miners of the Pacific Coast, says: At a time when mining is so much decried in certain quarters, it is well to point to the fact with which we started, viz., that the majorities of the millionaires of to-day in the United States have been, or are, miners.

SHERIFF'S SALE.

BY VIRTUE OF AN EXECUTION ISSUED OUT of the District Court of the Sixteenth Judicial District of the State of California, in and for the county of Inyo, in the suit of Thomas Passmore, plaintiff, against John Willett, defendant, upon a judgment rendered in said Court on the 24th day of October, A. D. 1877, for the sum of Six Hundred and Thirty-one 67-100 Dollars, in gold coin of the United States, besides costs amounting to the sum of Twenty-four 60-100 Dollars, duly attested the 26th day of October, A. D. 1877, whereby I am commanded to make the amount of Six Hundred and Fifty-six 27-100 ($656 27-100) Dollars in gold coin of the United States, besides accruing costs and interest, I have levied upon all the right, title and interest of the said defendant in and to the following described real property, to-wit:

The southeast quarter of the southeast quarter of Section No. 33, and the south half of the southwest quarter, and the northwest quarter of the southwest quarter of Section No. 34, all in Township No 13 South, Range No. 35 East, Base and Meridian of Mount Diablo, situate, lying and being in the county of Inyo, State of California.

Notice is hereby given that on Friday, the 23d day of November, A. D. 1877, between the hours of 9 o'clock A. M. and 4 o'clock P. M., to-wit: at the hour of 1 o'clock P. M. of that day, in front of the Court House, in the town of Independence, County of Inyo, State of California, I will sell all the right, title and interest of the said defendant, John Willett, in and to the above described property, or so much thereof as may be sufficient to satisfy said judgment and all costs, at public auction, to the highest bidder or bidders, for cash in hand in gold coin of the United States.

J. D. BLAIR,
Coroner and Acting Sheriff, the Sheriff being disqualified to act, he being a party to said action.

What Pays?
IT PAYS EVERY MANUFACTURER, MERCHANT, Mechanic, Inventor, Farmer or Professional man, to keep informed on all the improvements and discoveries of the age.
IT PAYS the head of every family to introduce into his household a newspaper that is instructive, one that fosters a taste for investigation, and promotes thought and encourages discussion among the members.
THE SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN, which has been published weekly for the last thirty-one years, does this, to an extent beyond that of any other publication; in fact it is the only Weekly paper published in the United States devoted to Manufactures, Mechanics, Inventions and New Discoveries in the Arts and Sciences.
Every number is profusely illustrated and its contents embrace the latest and most interesting information pertaining to the Industrial, Mechanical and Scientific Progress of the World; Descriptions, with Beautiful Engravings of New Inventions, New Implements, New Processes and improved Industries of all kinds; Useful Notes, Suggestions and Advice by Practical Writers, for Workmen and Employers, in all the various arts, forming a complete repertory of New Inventions and Discoveries; containing a weekly record, not only of the progress of the Industrial Arts in our own country, but also of all New Discoveries and Inventions in every branch of Engineering, Mechanics and Science abroad.
The Scientific American has been the foremost of all industrial publications for the past thirty-one years. It is the oldest, largest, cheapest and the best weekly illustrated paper devoted to Engineering, Mechanics, Chemistry, New Inventions, Science and Industrial Progress published in the world.
The practical Recipes are well worth ten times the subscription price, and for the shop and house will save many times the cost of subscription.
Merchants, Farmers, Mechanics, Engineers, Inventors, Manufacturers, Chemists, Lovers of Science, and People of all Professions, will find the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN useful to them. It should have a place in every Family, Library, Study, Office and Counting Room; in every Reading Room, College and School. A new volume commences January 1st, 1877.
A year's numbers contain 832 pages and Several Hundred Engravings. Thousands of volumes are preserved for binding and reference. Terms, $3 20 cents a year by mail, including postage. Discount to Clubs. Special circulars, giving Club rates, sent free. Single copies mailed on receipt of 10 cents. May be had of all News Dealers.
PATENTS. In connection with the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN, Messrs. Munn & Co. are Solicitors of American and Foreign Patents, and have the largest establishment in the world. More than fifty thousand applications have been made for patents through their agency.
Patents are obtained on the best terms, Models of New Inventions and Sketches examined, and advice free. A special notice is made in the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN of all Inventions Patented through this Agency, with the name and residence of the Patentee. Patents are often sold in part or whole, to parties attracted to the invention by such notice. A Pamphlet, containing full directions for obtaining Patents sent free. The Scientific American Reference Book—a volume bound in cloth and gilt, containing the Patent Laws, Census of the U. S., and 142 engravings of mechanical movements. Price 25 cents. Address for the paper, or concerning patents, MUNN & CO., 37 Park Row, New York. Branch office, Cor. F and 7th sts., Washington, D. TO APPLICANTS FOR DESERT LAND—NOTICE.

UNITED STATES LAND OFFICE,
Independence, California,
October 13, 1877.

TO ALL PERSONS WHO HAVE MADE ENTRIES at this office of Desert Lands, under the Act of March 3, 1877:

Whereas, by order of the Hon. Commissioner of the General Land Office, dated October 2d, 1877, all entries made under said Act above named are suspended, and this office required to give notice by publication, in a newspaper published nearest the land, to all parties interested, of such suspension, and to appoint a time and place of hearing proofs as to the character of said lands, to reduce such proofs to writing and to forward the same to the General Land Office with our joint opinion thereon;

Now, therefore, in pursuance of said order, Notice is hereby given that a hearing will be had and proofs taken in each case at this office for all Desert Land entries made up to date, beginning on Monday, the Twenty-Ninth Day of October, 1877, and will continue from day to day until proofs shall be completed. "The investigation made must be full, thorough and complete, showing whether any of the land entered under said Act will produce an agricultural crop without irrigation; whether any had been previously cultivated by parties residing thereon, or non-residents, and whether any has to be protected from overflow by levees; whether entries have been made by parties other than the real applicants."

How She Escaped a Railroad Accident.

There was a nervous, fidgety sort of a lady on the K. and D. M. passenger train coming east the other day, and as the cars pulled up to Monroe she discovered a lot of coffins on the platform. She had been imagining all kinds of disasters on the way from Des Moines; had seen herself torn to pieces, the remnants collected and buried, and had suffered enough real agony to carry her through a half dozen railroad accidents. The sight of the coffins was the last straw which broke the back of the camel—her shawl she wore, and she resolved that if she didn't say something she should die. Leaning over she grasped a commercial traveler in the seat in front by the arm:

"Young man, what are all those coffins for?" she asked.

The commercial traveller was busy footing up orders, so he replied briefly:

"To bury people."

"Yes; but what do they have so many for?"

"Unhealthy country—lots of doctors," said the drummer.

"You can't deceive me, young man," said the female in hysterical tones, "there has been an accident."

The drummer nodded.

"And lots of people have been killed."

Another nod.

"And plenty torn to pieces, maybe beyond recognition?"

Nod number three.

"My good gracious! and some burned to death and their remains gathered up in a scoop shovel?"

Another bob of the drummer's head.

Before she asked the next question she prepared to faint.

"Oh, my, I feel—feel—so weak. When did it happen?"

"About ten years ago," said the drummer, as he started for the smoking car.

The woman straightened back in her seat with a click like unto that made by the opening of the blade of a jack-knife which has a stiff spring, and made a wild claw for the conductor who was passing. She caught him. She held him. She called his attention to these coffins, and asked him what they were used for. There is only one answer to that question. The drummer gave it, and the conductor responded in like manner.

"There has been an accident on this road?" said the excited female.

"Not for years—not on this road," said the conductor.

"You are sure?"

"Dead sure."

"But one is liable to happen."

"It might happen to the train behind us."

"Yes'm."

"Oh! thank heaven I am just ahead of the accident."

And she fell on the conductor's neck and wept, and the blushing fellow thought he would rather stand seventeen collisions and a blow up than to pass through the smiles and snickers of the passengers.—Keokuk Constitution.

A MAN may be supposed to save money and lay it by for sickness or other purposes; but he cannot do this unless his wife lets him or helps him. A prudent, frugal, thrifty woman is a crown of glory to her husband. She helps him in all his good resolutions; she may, by quiet and gentle encouragement, bring out his better qualities; and by her example she may implant in him noble principles, which are the seeds of the highest practical virtues.

ALWAYS win fools first. They talk much; and what they have once uttered they will stick to; whereas there is always time, up to the last moment, to bring before a wise man arguments which may entirely change his opinion.

Hoag's Muffled Mare.

A sprinkling of horsemen gathered at the hard half-mile track outside of Seneca Falls, lately, to look on a trot between three ordinary horses owned in the neighborhood. Between the heats Mr. Milton Hoag, keeper of the Hoag House, drove on the track with a bay mare muffled to the ears in a discolored Summer blanket. The mare was booted and harnessed to a mud-stained rough-looking skeleton wagon. Hoag drove the mare in at a shambling walk. She looked like a rheumatic-stricken beast as she passed the stand, and the assembled horsemen laughed as her driver turned around and exclaimed: "Boys, have your timers ready when I get 'around!" At this the mare started and was soon throwing her legs out in a wonderful manner. The hoofs on her forelegs were turned under like fish-hooks, and her hind feet darted forward with the speed of lightning. She had Flora Temple's stride, without getting as low down. The muffled mare skimmed around the upper turn of the track like a mile a minute engine around a curve, and she came down the back stretch with the swoop of a pigeon without a beak.

"Heaven and earth!" exclaimed Deacon Obadiah Latham, who was never known to use a profane ejaculation before, "did any of you, gentlemen, ever see a mare trot like that before? There's no minister's horse there. Here she comes. Get your watches ready."

And she did come, with the fastest quarter of pattering hoofs ever heard on that track, or probably any other, to a wagon, with a driver weighing two hundred pounds.

Mr. George Haight, Mr. Joshua Hinkley, and other Judges in the box, all owners of fast trotters, started their timers carefully as the mare rattled by.

"Let her go, Milt," shouted Deacon Latham.

Milt looked pale but determined. He had evidently never driven a trotter fast before; but he was in for it, and let her go.

"George, you take the last quarter while I take the half," shouted Mr. Hinckley to Mr. Haight.

"All right," replied Mr. Haight.

The mare glided around the half-mile track with the speed of a Coney Island Railroad dummy, eager for a smash up. As she passed under the string. Hinckley shouted: "Half-mile in 1:10;" and Haight: "She made the quarter round the turn in thirty-three seconds." The other timers corroborated them.

"That mare can beat all the trotters in the world," said an old Long Island horseman who was present.

To the writer he said, "She is a California mare without a record. She is a seven-year-old bay, with tremendous muscle in her shoulders and quarters, large lungs, and points that I think will make her the wonder of the trotting world. John Splan saw her in California, and started East with her to beat Rarus and other flyers; but she was taken sick in Omaha, and Hoag's brother, who is interested in her, brought her to Seneca Falls. She is now almost recovered, and is called Lady Hoag."—Buffalo News.

A PRIVATE soldier of Co. G, Sixteenth Infantry, who was one of the detachment which headed off Collins and Potts, the train robbers, at Buffalo, Kansas, says the soldiers really did the work. When the robbers came to the Station, Corporal Eddy endeavored to impress the thick-headed Sheriff Beardsley with the idea that these men fully answered the description of two of the gang, but his reply was, "Oh, them ain't the men." Eddy, however, led his men up to the unshrinking couple, who resisted and were killed. The gallant Sheriff was then seen madly urging his steed with whip and spur, yelling a yell worthy of Chief Joseph, exclaiming at the top of his voice, "Shoot him; he's playin' possum on you. You soldiers don't know them thar kinder varmints as I does." Arriving at the scene of the conflict he dismounted from his foaming charger and riddled the body of the poor robber, who had been lying dead on the ground for full five minutes.

To cure vertigo or dizziness, arising from dyspepsia, eat food that is easily digested, avoiding pastry and fat meat. Sometimes it is occasioned by costiveness, and in this case the remedy is to keep the bowels open with gentle physic. Avoid coffee, ardent spirits, late suppers, and go to bed and rise early. Take plenty of outdoor exercise.

Crozier's Execution.

A Winnemucca paper of October 30, gave the following details of Crozier's execution at that place:

Robert H. Crozier was executed here between 4 and 5 o'clock to-day, for the murder of Charles Silverstein alias Montana Charley, in a dance-house affray in Elko last January. He exhibited extraordinary nerve, and walked to the scaffold apparently less concerned than the Rev. Trousdale, the officers, and others who were admitted to the jail-yard. The death warrant was read by Deputy Sheriff Burns, who then asked if the doomed man had anything to say, Crozier said: "I say this, my friends: I am shortly to be launched into eternity for a crime I did not commit—a murder I did not commit. I die believing there is justice beyond the grave—a tribunal where there is no corruption, and where money is not required. I lose my life because I had no money. I hope for a better life. I say, my friends, steer clear of my course. The ways I followed brought me to this doom. I hope you will all profit by my fate. This, my friends, is all I have to say." Rev. Mr. Trousdale made an impressive prayer, and, joined by Crozier, sang, "I'm going home to die no more." Crozier then walked around the scaffold and shook hands with all present, and stepped upon the trap. He gave some directions to the officers, after which his arms and legs were pinioned, the rope adjusted on his neck, and the black cap pulled over his face. In an instant the trap fell. No motion of the limbs or body was perceptible after the fall. In fifteen minutes Dr. D. H. Johnson said respiration and the pulse had ceased, and R. H. Crozier was pronounced dead. The neck was dislocated and the Doctor said the suspension of feeling had been instantaneous. Crozier was a native of Alabama, aged forty-eight years, and came to the Pacific Coast from Texas in 1853. His father, who is still living, was twice elected City Marshal of San Francisco.

A LARGE LANDHOLDER.—Probably the largest landholder in America is ex-Governor Abner Coburn, of Maine. Incredible as it may seem, he is the owner of not less than 693,000 acres, divided up as follows: Maine, 450,000; Canada 135,000; Wisconsin, 35,000; Dakota, 35,000 Michigan, 20,000; Minnesota, 18,000. His latest purchase is that of the tract in Dakota, and was taken of the Northern Pacific Railroad in lieu of stock, in which he invested some $600,000. His agent, Mr. Whipple, has just returned from the West, whither he has been to look after Mr. Coburn's interests, and see about the last purchase. He reports the land in Dakota as among the finest held by the Governor. He says it is well adapted to growing cereals, and fine crops of wheat have been harvested in the vicinity the present season. One of the causes of the failure of the Spragues was land speculation. They purchased from Mr. Coburn, six years since, a tract in Maine, for which they were to give $1,400,000, and upon the same advanced $500,000. The land was well timbered, but the Spragues could not keep it, and Mr. Coburn has now come into possession again, while the Spragues are out the amount advanced. The Governor is said to be besieged with beggars of both high and low standing, and there is scarcely a day passes but he receives letters asking aid to help build seminaries, churches, and charitable institutions. He is reported as giving away upwards of $100,000 per annum. Mr. Coburn is probably worth $6,000,000.

OFFICIAL VOTE OF OHIO.—The official figures of the late vote for Governor show 556,060 votes cast, which is 75,879 votes less than for Secretary of State in 1876, and 103,589 less than for President. Bishop's plurality is 22,520. Bishop's vote was 271,625; West's, 249,105; Bond's (Workingman), 12,489; Thompson's (Prohibition), 3,836; Johnson's (Fusion), 16,912. The majority against the judicial constitutional amendment was 213,582.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 17.....1877.

THE Helena Herald says: "From the time of the Nez Perces outbreak in Washington Territory, to the surrender at Snake creek, Montana, the victims who met their death at the hands of Joseph's warriors numbered 247. Of these 179 were soldiers and 68 were citizens. The number of wounded is estimated to reach upward of 300. It is believed that several prospectors on their way from the Black Hills to Montana, who were killed in the Clark's Fork country, are not included in the total of killed reported. We think it safe to say that at least 550 soldiers and citizens were killed or wounded by Nez Perce bullets in about four months from the commencement of hostilities."

THE Turkish power of resistance seems to be drawing to an end. The Turkish army in Armenia has been almost annihilated, and nothing now prevents the Russians from over-running the whole of Asia Minor. Osman Pasha is shut up in Plevna, cut off from all supplies and hopes of succor, and will have to surrender shortly or risk a desperate battle in an attempt to cut his way through the Russian lines.

CALIFORNIA capitalists are directing their attention to the Black Hills for new fields wherein to invest their money advantageously. During the past few days some of the most valuable mining property in that region is represented to have passed into the hands of Haggin & Tevis, these gentlemen having been persuaded to do so by Janin, the mining expert, sent to examine the property for them.

THE Bulletin has instituted a comparison between the rain-falls of several seasons covering a number of years, and shows that, when the rains set in in September or early in October, a dry Winter invariably follows; but when the rains do not commence earlier than the 27th of October the reverse is true. If this rule is infallible, we may look for copious rains during the approaching Winter.

THE House has passed Bland's silver bill, which provides for the coinage of silver dollars of 412¼ grains of standard fineness as provided in the act of January 17, 1839. The Senate is regarded as sure to pass the bill, and little expectation is entertained of the President vetoing it.

IT is now hinted that the "accident" to the daughter of Senator Blaine was really an attempt at suicide, owing to disappointed love. It makes no difference whether it is the daughter of a Senator or a Sioux chief, human nature is the same.

THE Pope is dying. His physicians say he may linger for a week, but that he cannot recover. The Italian government has posted troops around the Vatican to prevent any pillaging that might follow on the death of the Pope being made public.

NEW VOLUME.—The Darwin Mining News began its third volume last Saturday. Bro. Harris speaks confidently of its assured success in the future, and with its usual close attention to local affairs, undoubtedly deserves it.

EARL BEACONSFIELD is soon to make a speech opposing the opening of the Dardanelles to Russian and other war vessels, which, it is thought, will provoke a revival of last year's agitation in England.

WHILE some of our political economists are howling for the dollar of our forefathers, it were well that they pray for some of their sense. Any previous application for copyright on this joke?

CHANGED HANDS.—Mr. Paul Weber sold the Arizona Enterprise published at Prescott, to John H. Marion an Alfred H. Weber. The Enterprise will therefore continue its able career.

ANOTHER NEW PAPER.—Belleville is now represented by a newspaper of its own—the Times. It began publication a week or two ago, but has somehow forgotten us. Please X.

ON the 24th of November it was one year since the Consolidated Virginia mill started up. The engine has made over 26,000,000 revolutions since that time.

A MOVEMENT is on foot among the white cigar makers of San Francisco to bring to that city the unemployed white cigar makers of New York.

ACCORDING to the Surveyor General the area of the State of California amounts to 100,500,000 acres.

THE army bill has passed the House. Army reduced to 20,000. This piece of business is disgraceful.

TEXT BOOKS FOR CALIFORNIA.

As the text book question is certain to be renewed during the coming Legislature it is to be hoped all who may feel any interest in the matter (and there are but few who do not) will take the first opportunity to give expression to their individual wishes in relation to it, to the end that Legislators may have proper backing in what they may deem best to do about it. There are many excellent reasons why we think the antiquated McGuffey series of readers should give place to the newer and more progressive Pacific Coast series, between which two series the issue is raised.

According to a former report of the State School Superintendent of public schools, the yearly cost to the State for text books of all kinds is no less than $180,000. Every cent of this large sum goes to the profit of Eastern firms, draining our home interests just that much for nothing, if we take into consideration the fact that less than that sum would furnish a better book made in our own State, by our own authors, manufacturers and laborers—a work that would give employment to a large number of our boys and girls as well as grown people, and do no little towards a solution of the "hoodlum," and "what shall we do with our boys and girls?" question.

After quite a thorough perusal and examination of the several books comprising the Pacific Coast series of Readers, published and manufactured by the San Francisco firm of A. L. Bancroft & Co., we do not hesitate to say:

1st. That they are better adapted to the wants of our progressive system of education than McGuffey's Readers, which are antiquated in matter and methods, and which have been in use in all the schools of this State without change for seven years, and that their substitution will infuse new interest and life into that department of education; and

2d. That their introduction into the public schools on the terms heretofore offered and accepted by the State Board of Education, to wit: even exchange for McGuffey's, book for book, a new book for an old, will involve no expense whatever, but, on the contrary, will be a positive financial benefit to the State; and

3d. That the publishers of the Pacific Coast Readers are equitably entitled, at the hands of the State of California, to the contract which was given them by the State Board of Education, in December, 1874, in fulfillment of which they incurred a large outlay in good faith, which was set aside by the Courts on a mere technicality, thus inflicting a heavy loss upon said publishers; and, further, that

4th. The industrial interests and financial prosperity of the State imperatively demand that every kind of manufacture employing white labor shall be fostered, and, especially, that the large amount of money now sent East for text books shall be kept within the State.

In view of these facts, as well as numerous other incidentals connected with the history of the operations of those Eastern houses in forcing their claims upon the people of this State, we are constrained to say that we hope the Legislature, soon to convene, will enact such laws as will secure the substitution of the Pacific Coast in lieu of the McGuffey Readers in our public schools, provided, of course, that the publishers of the former will renew their former offer, viz: to give their Readers in even exchange for McGuffey's, now in use. If parents, teachers and others interested in home manufacture, as well as home educational interests, will take occasion to give expression to their wishes in the matter, as before stated, the whole question can be soon settled and satisfactorily, too, without doubt, should such effort induce the proposed change.

A SYNDICATE, of which ex-Secretary McCullough is to be President, and composed of the firms of Drexel, Morgan & Co., L. Von Hoffman & Co., Winslow, Lanier & Co., and others, has been formed for the purpose of buying defaulted State bonds, with a view to suing on them.

THE SENATORSHIP.

From statements in some of our exchanges we conclude that ex-Gov. Haight has finally consented to become a candidate for the United States Senatorship. The Sonoma Democrat, referring to this matter, says: "We have arrived at the conclusion that Governor Haight is the most available person upon whom the Democracy can unite for that position."

"We believe that every one who wishes well to our State, unless it be the candidates and their particular friends, would receive the positive announcement of his consent to be a candidate with pleasure, and without depreciating any of the many eminent and worthy men who have been mentioned in connection with this high office, we think the election of Governor Haight ought to be a foregone conclusion."

Other papers indorse his candidacy in unusually warm terms. Among them we may mention the Examiner, Napa Register, Napa Reporter, Kern County Gazette and some others of the same school of politics. Among Republicans and Republican papers there is probably not one but would as warmly indorse Governor Haight, not for his partisan bearings, but for his honest conservative manhood, statesmanship, unquestioned ability and purity of character. His record in public life has shown him to be the peoples' friend. He stood by them in every contest between them and the great monopolies. His election now would be a most fit acknowledgement, on the part of the people, of his worth, because of his final defeat through the powerful efforts of these same corporations, aided by the lukewarm support (to use no stronger term) of some prominent Democrats, who found him too honest or too independent to be used. Another thing—should Governor Haight be elected United States Senator no legislator that votes him Senator need ever be afraid of being accused of having done so through corrupt considerations of any sort. On that account as well as many others he would be a credit not only to our State, but the entire coast. He is no stock gambler—if he was he should not be trusted with so much as a constableship.

THE recount for the Shrievalty in San Francisco has been a good thing. It has shown that, notwithstanding all the talk about corruption in local political circles, there has been at least perfect squareness so far as the actual deposit and count of the votes are concerned. In this recount it has been shown that many clerical errors are liable to creep into every canvass of ballots, and that it is out of the question to expect absolute accuracy. Still, as the errors nearly balance each other and favor neither contestant, it is quite certain that there has been no intentional fraud. The result exhibits the following differences from the official returns: Nunan's official vote was 16,237; recount, 16,219—a loss of 18. In one portion of the precincts he gained 23 votes, while in the remainder he lost 41; Rogers, official, 15,961; recount, 15,973—a gain of 12. He gained 52 in certain precincts, and lost 40 in the others. So Rogers' net gain by the recount was 30 votes—leaving Nunan a majority of 246.

ANNA DICKENSON is dangerously ill of congestion of the brain at Elizabeth, New Jersey. The many admirers of this talented lady in every part of the Union will learn this intelligence with regret. Her intense study and foolish efforts to achieve recognition as a tragedienne when she had already long enjoyed prominence as a public speaker and lecturess, have doubtless brought about this untoward result. REPORT OF THE LAND COMMISSIONER. The Commissioner of the General Land Office, in his annual report, says: The sales of public lands for cash are about 100,000 acres more than those of the previous year, while the number of acres entered under the homestead and timber-culture laws is 785,123 acres less. There were certified for railroad purposes 700,791 acres. Total disposals of public lands 478,822,152 acres. Public surveys nave been extended over 713,572,737 acres. There were surveyed the past year 11,242,928 acres at a cost of $215,942. The consolidation of all offices of Surveyors-General into one is recommended; also the abolition of the contract system and the appointment of a Surveyor-General, who may appoint the assistants required to personally make surveys. A large number of grants for railroads have expired by limitation and it is regarded that important action should be taken by Congress either to enforce the forfeiture of grants or extend the time for the completion of roads. Should the latter course be pursued claims of bonafide settlers upon lapsed lands should be protected. It is recommended that Congress withdraw all lands chiefly valuable for pine timber from the operations of the homestead and pre-emption laws and from sale except for cash; also that the Secretary of the interior be authorized to sell timber from public lands in mining districts; also, to sell timber upon any unsurveyed land, not mineral, when needed for actual settlement before public survey; also, that a law be enacted providing for the care and custody of timber lands unfit for agriculture, and for the gradual sale of timber, and for the perpetuation of the growth of timber on such land. Legislation authorizing the seizure of timber cut from public lands without resort to the tedious process of the Courts is also recommended.

THE New York Tribune in commenting upon the present aspect of political matters, very pertinently says: "The talk about the President abandoning his Southern policy has started up again with greater vigor than ever since the elections. The persons who are indulging in it would confer a boon if they would come down to particulars, and tell just how the 'abandoning' is to be done. Are the people to be put back in the South and the outrage mill set in motion again? The South is more quiet than it has been since the war, and so long as it remains so it is just as sensible to talk about reviving Julius Cæsar as reviving the old policy. The Southern problem is disposed of, and the sooner the Republican party stops wailing about it and goes to work, the sooner will they regain party ascendency." We could put even better language than this into the columns of the Tribune by saying, the sooner will our common country regain everything that militates in favor of prosperity. Why will party leaders sink country into party? We do not object to political parties. They are a necessary consequence of our form of government. They always will exist. But we do object to any policy and party that looks to party aggrandizement irrespective of the consequences to the country at large. It is because this is done, that our country is in such a condition. For one we would not advocate any party politics when we see it pursuing such an unpatriotic course. Always give us that party that rises superior to partisan power, and pursues the happy, patriotic policy that tends to the general good of the whole nation.

EXCELLENT PROSPECTS.—Scarcely a week passes that we do not hear of some new find in this mining section. Yesterday we went to see one of the best, so far as developed, of any yet brought to our notice. It is the El Monte mine situated in the same mineral belt as that of the Defiance, Cuervo, Hidalgo, Promontorio and other important mines in this district, and situated some two miles easterly from Darwin. The mine is owned by Joseph McEvoy, was discovered some three years since, but the work of development only commenced some two months ago. An incline shaft has been sunk upon the ledge to a depth of 70 feet, following the foot-wall, and in fine ore from the surface to the bottom. We found upon the dump about 100 tons of splendid ore, all taken from this shaft, which gives some idea of the strength of the ore vein, no drifting having been done. The ore is good grade, assaying from $40 to $180 in silver and carrying from 30 to 60 per cent. lead. A road is now being built, down an easy gulch, to connect with the road in the Darwin flat, which will facilitate the delivery of ore to the furnaces at very little expense. We do not think we exaggerate in the least when we say that the El Monte is one of the best prospects yet struck in Darwin, and congratulate Mr. McEvoy upon his good fortune in his mine, if properly worked and attended to. We shall watch the El Monte with much interest. —Darwin News.

JUDGE DENSON, of the Sacramento District Court granted a nonsuit in the case of the People vs. Robert Gardner, ex-Surveyor General, and his bondsmen, on the ground that plaintiffs had not made out their case. AURORA ITEMS.—C. J. Dunlap, County Assessor, has returned from his visit to Marrietta, Belleville, Columbus and Silver Peak, and speaks very flatteringly of the business aspects of these towns. Of Marrietta he says it is a thriving little camp and improving rapidly. The mill owned by the Endowment Company is crushing ore worth about $40 per ton, which they are taking out of their mine. During the quarter ending September 30, 906 tons of ore was milled, which resulted in a gross yield of $34,358 16. This nets the company about 10 per cent., which will be increased as soon as certain prospecting they are doing is completed. Belleville has only one mill running, in which 7,137 tons of Northern Belle ore were crushed during the month, yielding $312,228 95. In Columbus the General Thomas mill is running on tailings. The thirty-stamp mill, in Silver Peak, is running but ten stamps. The Silver Peak & Red Mountain Company have a great quantity of rich ore in sight; they expect soon to get thoroughly and systematically to work, when great results may be anticipated.

NEW LOCATIONS—ESMERALDA TO THE FRONT.—H. M. Yerington, George Daly and Captain J. W. Haynie have made several locations on Last Chance Hill during the last few days, among which we enumerate the Wide West, 1,000 feet, situated immediately east of the "Real Del Monte" patent, Wide West, No. 2, 1500 feet; Wide West, No. 3, 1500 feet and Wide West, No. 4, 1500 feet, all lying parallel with and adjoining the patented ground. Each of these claims is 200 feet in width, and all have been accurately surveyed by A. Garrard. The Del Monte people mean business, and before long we hope to see the good old times of this camp return. Since Sunday last, Mr. Geo. Daly, Superintendent of the Real Del Monte property, has been in town attending to the company's affairs and making arrangements for the commencement of work. All the old ore chambers have been thoroughly examined by him, and he expresses himself as confident that judicious prospecting, with a liberal expenditure of coin, will disclose the continuation of the wonderful rich deposits of early days.—Esmeralda Herald.

A FEARFUL FALSIFIER.—Last week a man named C. L. Simmons preferred a charge of murder against himself and delivered himself up to the Justice of the Peace at Golconda. The Sheriff, District Attorney and Coroner were telegraphed for, but no corpse could be found after a two-days search, and finally "Jimmy the Blacksmith," who was supposed to have been killed, walked into Battle Mountain. Simmons is now held upon a charge of forgery. There is no doubt of his having robbed "Jimmy the Blacksmith" at the time he caught him on the road between Iron Point and Stone House.—Silver State, (Nev.) Nov. 8.

SHERIFF'S SALE.

BY VIRTUE OF AN EXECUTION ISSUED OUT of the District Court of the Sixteenth Judicial District of the State of California, in and for the county of Inyo, in the suit of Joseph Seeley, plaintiff, against The Potosi Mining and Smelting Company, defendant, upon a judgment rendered in said Court on the 5th day of November, A. D. 1877, for the sum of Three Thousand, Nine Hundred and Twenty-seven 09-100 Dollars, in gold coin of the United States, besides costs amounting to the sum of Two Hundred and Ninety 29-100 Dollars, duly attested the 13th day of November, A. D. 1877, whereby I am commanded to make the amount of Four Thousand Two Hundred and Seventeen 29-100 Dollars in gold coin of the United States, besides accruing costs and interest, I have levied upon all the right, title and interest of the said defendant in and to the following described real property, to-wit:

All the right, title and interest, which the Potosi Mining and Smelting Company, now have or had, on the 12th day of April, A. D. 1877, (being the day on which the attachment in the above entitled action was levied) in and to that certain tunnel and mining ground, situated at the old or lower town of Cerro Gordo, in Cerro Gordo Mining District, county of Inyo, State of California, and known as the Potosi Tunnel and Mining Ground, together with all the rights of way, and all the improvements, and all the appurtenances belonging to or in anywise appertaining to said Potosi Tunnel and Mining Ground.

Notice is hereby given that on Monday, the 10th day of December, A. D. 1877, between the hours of 9 o'clock A. M. and 4 o'clock P. M., to-wit: at the hour of 1 o'clock P. M. of that day, in front of the Court House, in the town of Independence, County of Inyo, State of California, I will sell all the right, title and interest of the said defendant, the Potosi Mining and Smelting Company, in and to the above described property, or so much thereof as may be sufficient to satisfy said judgment and all costs at public auction, to the highest bidder or bidders, for cash in hand in gold coin of the United States.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:
SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 17.....1877.

THE RESULT.—The per diem warrants drawn by the late Grand Jury amounted to $940. As the grand inquisition was in session eleven days, it is presumable that a great many things were investigated; but the tangible result was the finding of an indictment against Moore for an assault to commit murder; the adoption of a few stereotyped resolutions regarding the county hospital, the need of a new roof on the Court House and the necessity of some ventilation for the county sweat-box or jail. Moore was arraigned in the County Court, and after a trial lasting two days, was discharged on the same day the Grand Jury dissolved. He was acquitted on the ground of insanity—a conclusion unavoidable under the evidence adduced. Adding the above $940 to the cost of Sheriff's mileage and fees of trial jurors, the people have the sum of $1,100 to pay simply for the legal part of it—not mentioning the preliminary expenses of arrest, examination, commitment, transportation, jailer's salary and board of prisoner. Grand thing, this costly criminal system; nice joke on tax-payers, was this crazy vagabond. And now the close finds the defendant quartered upon the people in the county hospital, the Board of Supervisors having just voted $200 or more to get his wife away from it. The unfortunate victim, the complaining witness, is also there, in a dangerous condition.

GO UP.—Independence is already a compact town of large wooden buildings. Large wooden buildings continue to go up, and in about the twinkling of an eye some night they'll all go up—in a blaze. Then, in the hot ashes, with half the people bankrupt, we will hear of some one willing to lead off in the matter of getting water-works or a protective fire department. Miraculous good luck cannot last always, and the most pious thing we can do for the present is to organize a company, get an engine, hose, and put in a couple of cisterns. Of course the better plan would be a system of water-works, with fire-plugs, hose-reels and all that sort of thing; but that is out of the question now.

RUNAWAY.—Since Sunday morning last Tom Webb, of the Pioneer meat market, has less confidence in the steadiness and moral integrity of his span of mules than he ever had before. From the shop door they started out on the jump, as well as on their own hook. Turning up Market street they made things buzz in a wild effort to get out of the country. An hombre attempted to head them off, which resulted in one of them taking the interior of a China wash-house; the other passed on upon the outside, leaving the wagon at the point of divergence.

FIRE.—Monday night last a lot of rubbish on the roof of a shed joining the residence of Mrs. Wallace caught fire, probably from some of the sparks. It blazed up lively for a moment or two, but was fortunately discovered and subdued in time to prevent a serious fire. Had it occurred during the wind of the night before we doubt if it would have possible to stop the flames befor the destruction of half the town.

MINING SALE.—M. A. Wheeler, Esq., owner of the Swansea furnace property, has purchased the San Benito mine, Cerro Gordo, from L. Lasky of Lone Pine. The San Benito is among the oldest locations as well as one of the richest galena mines on the hill, and the sum paid therefor, $17,000 as reported, is but a small fraction of its true value.

THE GRAND JURY.—Henry Giles, Jos. Harris, J. L. Bodle, G. W. Blazer, S. W. Modie, Geo. M. Clark, H. Huckaby, Elihu Smith, Juan Mesa, J. H. Dodge, C. D. Begole, G. H. Palmer, C. N. Young, G. L. Cornell, Lafe Gill, John Baxter, Robt. Trigg, R. H. Runkle, H. Malone and F. B. Austin, Foreman.

STOLEN.—Sometime during the night preceding Friday some thief stole a saddle mule tied near Bennett's new stable, and belonging to Dick Runkle. Jim Moffit was deputized to pursue the thief, and will certainly bring him back in some shape if he is to be found.

JUST SO.—A local Mrs. Partington remarked the other day, with vivacity, that there was a marriage in high life on the trapeeze, and that the bride had been furnished an elegant trouser. Her hubby said that was a proper thing for the fair one to have, under the circumstances.

BREWERY.—The Bavaria Brewery and Malt House, at Bishop, Messrs. Munzinger, Hughes & Co., proprietors, will be in complete running order in four or five weeks. The malt house is completed, and work rapidly progressing on the main building.

FOREST FIRE.—For several days past there has been an extensive fire raging in the mountains—as near as can be judged from here—just above Big Pine. From its appearance at night it has evidently spread over a vast area of timber.

REV. MR. PRATT.—We are informed that Rev. Mr. Pratt has gone to Honey Lake Valley on business, but proposes to return here in about three weeks and enter regularly upon his duties as volunteer circuit preacher.

FOR CONSIDERATION.—The problem of buying a ten-dollar Christmas present with seventy-five cents of available cash, will presently present itself for the elucidation of the brave Young-man-who-goes-to-see-his-girl.

ADJOURNED.—The District Court was adjourned for the term yesterday morning, Judge Reed starting for his home in Kern county in the afternoon.

Proceedings of the Board of Supervisors.

Our previous report of the proceedings of the Board of Supervisors closed on Friday evening last. On Saturday and Monday following, when the Board adjourned for the term, the following additional business was transacted:

Bill of R. L. Peteson for $37 50 for Justice's fees diminished one dollar and six bits and ordered paid.

Hugh S. Enloe was appointed a Justice of the Peace for the 4th township.

Petition of certain citizens of Lone Pine, asking that the road between sections 4 and 33 be ordered closed, was rejected.

On Monday the following communication was sent to the Grand Jury:

SUPERVISORS' ROOMS,
Nov. 12, 1877.

To the Hon. Grand Jury of Inyo Co.: In the matter of your request of November 10 as regarding the legality of our public highways: according to section 2619 of P. C. [Penal Code?], we have such roads throughout the county connecting with granted toll roads.

Mrs. Lewis, matron in charge of the County Hospital, submitted a statement and petition to the effect that Mrs. Wm. Moore, a county charge in the hospital, was a permanent invalid, and desirous of being provided with means for removal to her friends elsewhere [Oregon, we understand].

Ordered, that the matter be submitted to Supervisor Westerville, with discretionery powers to draw on the Expense Fund for the amount adjugded necessary to effect the removal as requested.

Allowed for Supervisors' services—Meysan, $54 40; Westerville, $56 00.

COUNTY COURT. — Judge Hannah's Court has been occupied most of the time in correcting or awaiting proceedings of the Grand Jury, which latter submitted their final report yesterday. Wm. Moore having been indicted for an assault to commit murder, was duly arraigned on the 8th, and the trial set for the 15th. Prisoner being unable to pay counsel, the Court appointed Messrs. Reddy & Conklin and S. P. Moffat as his counsel. Still, friends of defendant, knowing with what great vigor the District Attorney, who was alone for the prosecution, would snort out the bottom facts in a case of this and other sorts, expressed some distress for the prisoner because Bennett and Briggs were not also included among his defenders so as to remove every possible doubt of the formidable peoples' champion proving too acute for the defense. Unlooked for, though, as it might appear from these assumed apprehensions, all the friends of defendant, supposing there were any, vented sighs over fifty-seven feet long when the verdict of acquittal, because defendant was crazy as a bed-bug, was rendered by the jury without leaving their seats. The verdict was rendered yesterday afternoon, the trial being opened the day previous. In sober truth, as we are told by some who were present during the hearing, the plea of insanity as entered by counsel for defense, was by no means so merely technical as many supposed, having a real foundation in fact; such being the case, and with counsel so abundantly able to make the most of it, the verdict will pass unquestioned — nevertheless, it would, perhaps, inure somewhat to this crazy Mr. Moore's welfare if he would go somewheres else than Bishop to work off his next crazy attack by pistol practice. There are some people who don't enjoy being shot at by an acquitted crazy man but very little. Ames, the man assaulted and shot, was so far recovered from his hurt as to appear here some days since as the prosecuting witness; he was "so glad" he went on a roystering drunk which so affected his lame head as to immediately develop a somewhat dangerous case of erysipelas in it, causing him to be sent to the County Hospital, where he has since remained totally unable to appear in Court. By reason of this conduct, cross-grained free-thinkers don't hesitate to say that that original indictment as prepared by the District Attorney, reported by the Grand Jury, sent back by the Court, and generally understood to be an indictment of the shootee instead of the shooter, was not so badly conceived after all, and should have been tried on its merits same as the other. It is but right to mention that Mr. Reddy, of the defense, refused to go into trial for some days because the prosecuting witness, upon whose evidence he seemed to rely to sustain the plea of insanity, was not present, and did not consent to begin the hearing until it was established that the said witness could not be brought in.

NEW MILLS.—Among our new advertisements will be found the announcement of Mr. E. G. Edson, who has charge of the new Lewis flouring mills at Bishop. We are in receipt of a sample sack of the flour, with a request to test and report upon the same, but as our camp cook of '49 is out of practice and our chef de cusine of the present hasn't got around to it yet, there has been no trial made in time for mention this week. But to all appearances and according to usual tests, the article is superior. We bespeak success for the new enterprise, more especially if it will supply the market with good, fresh corn-meal, cracked-wheat, buckwheat, oatmeal, etc. The mill has the new vertical type of burrs, the work of which is spoken of in high terms of praise by such authorities as the Scientific American.

RACES.—The coming season of sport at the Taboose track, advertised elsewhere, has also been duly announced through the medium of double-sheet posters—only, in those the single dash of one-fourth mile, for purse of $100, was inadvertently omitted. The purse will be duly hung up as advertised. We understand, also, that there has been arranged a grand sweepstake running race for the fifth day, between "Croppy," "Pinto," Johnny Lucas' horse, "Black Croppy" and "Red Jacket," for $500—money up. The fun begins on the 28th instant, and from all that we can learn there will be a big turnout of fast horses and sporting men.

DISTRICT COURT.

Hon. Theron Reed, Judge.

District Court met in regular term Monday, November 5.

The following cases were disposed of as stated up to the 16th, the close of our report:

Thos. W. Hill vs. A. W. Robinson; continued for the term.

Margaret Lewis vs. Richard Lewis, referred to Court Commissioner; report received, approved and decree granted.

Jos. Seeley vs. Potosi M. Co.; judgment for plaintiff.

R. A. Loomis vs. C. L. Jackson, default entered, and referred to Court Commissioner, report received, and decree of foreclosure granted.

Ellen Porter vs. Wm. Porter; default entered, and referred to Court Commissioner, report received, approved and decree granted.

Mary McKeown vs. Terrence McKeown; dismissed at plaintiff's request.

Jos. Eudey vs. Eclipse G. M. & Q. C. Co; referred to U. S. Circuit Court of California.

California Furniture Manufacturing Co., vs. R. L. Peterson; by consent, judgment entered for plaintiff in the sum of $300.

Fannie Sherrer vs. Carl Sherrer; referred to Court Commissioner.

Harris & Rhine vs. Jos. Rowan; referred to Court Commissioner, report received, approved and decree granted.

Union Con. M. Co., vs. Thos. Passmore, Tax Collector; judgment for defendant.

On motion of R. M. Briggs, that W. H. Nosler be admitted as an attorney to practice in this court, the following committee of examination was appointed: R. M. Briggs, Paul W. Bennett and A. R. Conklin.

Upon the application of H. W. Woods, for the intervention of Henry Kramer, in the suit of Jos. Eudey vs. Eclipse M. Co., ordered that the matter be referred with other papers to the U. S. Circuit Court.

Harris & Rhine vs. Eclipse G. M. & Q. C. Co., petition for transfer to U. S. Circuit Court granted.

John Broder vs. same; same order.

William Johnson vs. John Gunn, et als; judgment for defendant as prayed for in answer.

S. W. Modie vs. S. W. Bauer, et als; decree in accordance with complaint.

Jas. Shaw vs. S. G. Sneden, et als; referred to Paul W. Bennett to take testimony in relation to interests due the respective parties.

State of California vs. J. F. Dillon, et als; continued for the term upon consent of District Attorney.

Fred'k L. Castle vs. L. Lasky and B. Lasky; judgment for plaintiff in the sum of $1,665 09 and ten per cent for attorney's fees, amounting to $166 50 and costs.

L. Lasky vs. Potosi M. & S. Co.; on motion of plaintiff's counsel, R. M. Briggs, cause dismissed without prejudice.

V. G. Thompson vs. J. B. White; continued for the term.

Julius Roeper, jr. vs. R. L. Thomas; non-suit moved, and briefs to be submitted.

Jos. Seeley vs. Thos. Passmore, Sheriff; verdict for plaintiff for $600 and interest from date of seizure.

James Cunningham admitted to citizenship.

L. Munzinger vs. John Lubkin, et als; referred to Court Commissioner to take testimony, to be reported in this Court in chambers in twenty days.

Jos. Le Cyr vs. A. C. Townsend; judgment for plaintiff in the sum of $97 50 damages and costs of suit.

G. W. Chesley vs. E. A. Reddy, et als; continued for the term.

J. Silva and F. Silva vs. Dorgan M. Co.; judgment for plaintiffs.

HOLIDAY RACES.—We are in receipt of an outline of the plan arranged by our local turfites for the coming races, at the Independence track, commencing on Christmas and continuing for three more days. First day—trotting, best two in three, mile heats, for purse of $150; running, single dash of one-half mile, for purse of $100. Second day—single dash one-fourth mile, for purse of $75; single dash one-half mile, for saddle horses, purse of $50. Third day—running race of one mile and repeat, for purse of $150. Fourth day—single dash one-half mile for second class horses, for purse of $75; single dash of one mile, for $100. Entrance fees 10 per cent; three or more to enter and two or more to start. Such is the general plan at present; it may be changed somewhat before the affair is regularly announced, and the amount of purses increased. Much of the interest will center in the trotting race, for which three or four new sulkies have been sent for.

GOOD FOR CHARLEY.—Mr. C. R. Barry, of this place, now a student at the Santa Clara College, was awarded the first honors of his classes in algebra and geometry, for October.

SEVERAL days ago Hon. Tom Fowler said that, though we professed to not believe his pledges as the friend of a no-fence law during the canvass, he would prove that he was in earnest and wanted a no-fence law in full force. He also asked why we lacked faith in him on this issue. The answer was that in cases where he had been a trespasser he had resisted the law and avoided paying damages. Now that late decisions from the Supreme Court have substantially set the law aside, Mr. Fowler will have a chance to redeem his pledge.—Visalia Delta.

MAJOR W. W. HUDSON, of Tejon, arrived in town last Friday evening. He reports that a good rain fell in the Tejon country about three weeks ago and that, on Thursday and Friday of last week snow fell all day, melting as it fell. Grass is growing and furnishing feed for stock and they are doing very well.—Kern Co. Gazette, Nov. 10.

THE last girl to whom Butler proposed said: General, I love you for your piety, but I would not always want to feel that you looked at me as if I were a sawbuck.

DISCOVERY OF PETROLEUM IN FRESNO COUNTY.—From Deputy Sheriff Witthouse, who has just returned from a trip to the Coast Range, we learn that J. D. Janes of Visalia has dug a well 18 feet deep near the Posa Chine, in the bottom of which there is now 8 inches of oil. The oil burns freely, and the owner is sanguine of finding a large deposit of it. He is now preparing to bore down sufficiently deep to make a thorough test of the matter.

In the vicinity of the oil discovery some Mexicans are opening a coal mine, the vein being four feet wide with other smaller veins dipping toward the main one. They are running a tunnel, and with a good prospect of developing a large body of bituminous coal. This portion of the Coast Range contains probably the finest deposits of cinnabar in the State, and with the discovery of coal, coal oil, and valuable medicinal springs, the region, though barren and uninviting as a place of residence will probably become an important section of the county.—Fresno Republican.

RESTING SPRINGS.—The well-known Mining Surveyor and Civil Engineer, Mr. John Goldsworthy, who has recently returned from the new mining camp of Resting Springs, informs us that that place is not as generally supposed, in San Bernardino county but is over the line in Inyo, and way down in the acute angle formed by the Inyo county line and the Nevada State boundary. It is almost directly east of Panamint and Death Valley, and the new road being laid out from San Bernardino to the new camp runs west from Resting Spings until in the vicinity of Panamint, when it turns and runs almost due south to Cajon Pass. Our neighbors of San Bernardino have got their grasp well fixed on this new trade, and hope by a well planned system of roads, etc., to control it. Just at present it is making times lively in San Bernardino.—L. A. Republican.

THE Los Angeles Herald advises poor people not to emigrate thither, and says it is "a section exclusively for persons with some means, gumption and elbow grease."—That's honest and true. The same may be said of most parts of California. There is no demand here for more laborers. We have enough and to spare. California is "God's country" as to climate; and there is room here for immigrants with means, energy and shrewdness—Alta California.

The Telephone.

Last night a telephone connected the Grand Opera House with the Atlantic and Pacific Telegraph Company's office on California street, Gen. D. D. Colton's house and the Union Club. A Chronicle reporter visited the office of Telegraph Company, and there listened to the strains of the opera. It was not necessary to listen intently to hear the strains, as the instrument transmitted the sounds with fidellty. All notes, from the growling of the basso to the liquid caroling of the prima donna, came with wonderful distinctness. Solos, choruses and the sudden outbursts of melody from the orchestra alternated delightfully. Strange to say, although the vibration of air caused by a deep masculine voice is tenfold greater than that produced by the

SOFT FEMININE TONES,

The latter emerge from the instrument as plainly as the former. When it is remembered that atmospheric vibration is the fundamental principle of the telephone, this fact is quite curious and incomprehensible. Individual voices in choruses were distinguished without difficulty, and the peremptory directions of the prompter (in whose box the other end of the line terminated) formed a running by-play to the whole opera. A curious fact was that although soprano, tenor and basso were heard as distinctly as in the auditorium, the contralto was distinguished only by attentive listening. Whether this weakness of the contralto was due to the telephone or to the lady herself, of course could not be determined. Kellogg's and Verdi's voices were marvelously distinct, every note being heard with ease. The telephone, which has already been fully described in these columns, is now coming into

GENERAL USE IN THIS CITY.

Gen. Colton has one from his residence to his office. Gen. Coey, in the Post-office, confidentially informs Mrs. Coey, dozens of blocks away, that he will bring a carriageful of friends home to dinner. The marine reporter at Point Lobos now makes his reports to the Merchants' Exchange through telephone, which has been in operation several days only. When the reporter is wanted the clerk at the Exchange turns a little crank and a bell rings sharply. He rings in response, and the commercial dialogue ensues. Falkner, Bell & Co., will shortly have a telephone in operation, and many others will soon be established. Samuel Hubbard, the agent, says that he received a letter yesterday, stating that Mr. Cheevers of the New York Telephone Company recently held a conversation with Mr. Watson of the Bell Telephone Company of Boston, the distance between them being about 250 miles. The conversation was carried on without difficulty. He further states that if the telephone had made its appearance a few months earlier the Central Pacific Railroad Company would have put some of them into use at their snow sheds, instead of the American District Telegraph dials now used. The telephone is truly wonderful.—S. F. Chronicle, Nov. 10.

A KENTUCKY COURT-ROOM SCENE.—A special to the Cincinnati Gazette from Vanceburg, Ky., says; Our Criminal Court was opened by Judge Sands in a creditable style, as reported through your paper, but no business was transacted, because Judge Sands failed to sustain his judicial and personal dignity. There was much bad feeling manifested, at one time, toward this young and gifted Judge, until he came into Court and said: "Gentlemen and fellow-citizens—I appear before you to say I am a victim to a vice which has disgraced me before you and my country. As I entered this Court-room I heard some one say, 'there goes pretty timber to make a Criminal Judge of.' I feel that remark as steel through my heart, for it is just. I am unworthy of the high honor and trust you have conferred on one so young; and I return to you the office I have lost, being unworthy of it. Pardon me, friends and countrymen, but you shall bear this no longer. My judicial integrity and official acts are blameless. Thank God, I am no longer Criminal Judge of Lewis county. May heaven help me in my affliction!" So eloquent and feeling an appeal was never heard before. Prejudice was turned to sympathy, and sympathy to compassion for Judge Sands. He has a warm place in our hearts, and we hope he will return to us reformed.

THE CONFEDERATE FLAG.—During our civil war, the several seceded States used at first distinctive State flags. In March, 1861, the Confederate Congress adopted the so-called "stars and bars," composed of three horizontal bars of equal width, the middle one white, the others red, with a blue union containing nine white stars arranged in a circle. The resemblance of this to the "stars and stripes" led to confusion and mistakes in the field; and in September, 1861, a battle flag was adopted, a red field charged with a blue saltier, with a narrow border of white, on which were displayed thirteen white stars. In 1863, the "stars and bars" was supplanted by a flag with a white field, having the battle-flag for a union. The flag of 1863 was found deficient in service, it being liable to be mistaken for a flag of truce; and on February 4th, 1865, the outer half of the field beyond the union was covered with a vertical red bar. This was the last flag of the Confederacy.

PACHECO has completed the preparation of his case with the assistance of Shellabarger, who expresses a highly favorable opinion upon its strength. The missing evidence from Los Angeles has been mailed, and will be here Wednesday next, when it is expected the case will open. The missing part of Wigginton's evidence is the decision of the Judge at Bakersfield in regard to three votes attached to the decision, which, however, has been made out in copy and sworn to by the Judge. Neither contestant appears to expect to have more than 20 or 30 majority.—Cor. S. F. Chronicle, Nov. 10.

BELLADONNA IN ASTHMA.—The Melbourne Medical Record states that smoke from the leaves of belladonna possesses much more power in cutting short an attack of asthma than that from stramonium; a long pipe being the best means of smoking them, the smoke to be drawn deep into the chest. Or if, when the attack is at its height, the patient has not the power of doing this, the leaves may be placed in a saucer containing lighted charcoal or wood ashes, which should be put on a chair in front of the patient, this chair, as well as his own, being covered with a large sheet, so as to confine the fumes before the leaves are put on the hot charcoal. From two and a half to five grains of the leaves are sufficient when smoked, and from five to twenty grains when burned.

What Pays?

IT PAYS EVERY MANUFACTURER, MERCHANT, Mechanic, Inventor, Farmer or Professional man, to keep informed on all the improvements and discoveries of the age.

IT PAYS the head of every family to introduce into his household a newspaper that is instructive, one that fosters a taste for investigation, and promotes thought and encourages discussion among the members.

THE SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN, which has been published weekly for the last thirty-one years, does this, to an extent beyond that of any other publication; in fact it is the only weekly paper published in the United States devoted to Manufactures, Mechanics, Inventions and New Discoveries in the Arts and Sciences.

Every number is profusely illustrated and its contents embrace the latest and most interesting information pertaining to the Industrial, Mechanical and Scientific Progress of the World; Descriptions, with Beautiful Engravings of New Inventions, New Implements, New Processes and improved Industries of all kinds; Useful Notes, Suggestions and Advice by Practical Writers, for Workmen and Employers, in all the various arts, forming a complete repertory of New Inventions and Discoveries; containing a weekly record, not only of the progress of the Industrial Arts in our own country, but also of all New Discoveries and Inventions in every branch of Engineering, Mechanics and Science abroad.

The Scientific American has been the foremost of all industrial publications for the past thirty-one years. It is the oldest, largest, cheapest and the best weekly illustrated paper devoted to Engineering, Mechanics, Chemistry, New Inventions, Science and Industrial Progress published in the world.

The practical Recipes are well worth ten times the subscription price, and for the shop and house will save many times the cost of subscription.

Merchants, Farmers, Mechanics, Engineers, Inventors, Manufacturers, Chemists, Lovers of Science, and People of all Professions, will find the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN useful to them. It should have a place in every Family, Library, Study, Office and Counting Room; in every Reading Room, College and School. A new volume commences January 1st, 1877.

A year's numbers contain 832 pages and Several Hundred Engravings. Thousands of volumes are preserved for binding and reference. Terms, $3 20 cents a year by mail, including postage. Discount to Clubs. Special circulars, giving Club rates, sent free. Single copies mailed on receipt of 10 cents. May be had of all News Dealers.

PATENTS. In connection with the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN, Messrs. Munn & Co. are Solicitors of American and Foreign Patents, and have the largest establishment in the world. More than fifty thousand applications have been made for patents through their agency.

Patents are obtained on the best terms. Models of New Inventions and Sketches examined, and advice free. A special notice is made in the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN of all Inventions Patented through this Agency, with the name and residence of the Patentee. Patents are often sold in part or whole, to parties attracted to the invention by such notice. A Pamphlet, containing full directions for obtaining Patents sent free. The Scientific American Reference Book—a volume bound in cloth and gilt, containing the Patent Laws, Census of the U. S., and 142 engravings of mechanical movements. Price 25 cents. Address for the paper, or concerning patents, MUNN & CO., 37 Park Row, New York. Branch office, Cor. F and 7th sts., Washington, D. Mr. Parker Trifles With Powder.

Mr. Parker, besides being a philanthropist, is a scientist. He is interested in all the discoveries of the modern philosophers, from Polycarp down to those lately assembled at Nashville. Mr. Parker reads all the transactions of all the societies for the promulgation of This, That and The Other, and discourses learnedly thereon. Yesterday Mr. Parker read that a lady had presented a paper before the Science Association in Nashville, in which, among other valuable things, she suggested a method for the extermination of mosquitoes. "Take powder," said the estimable woman, "and place it in a shovel; close all the doors and windows of your room, and then explode the powder. The concussion will exterminate all the mosquitoes in the apartment."

"What a discovery!" said Mr. Parker, as he read, glowing with excitement, and emphasizing his remark with a resounding slap on the bald spot on top of his head, where one of the pests whose destruction he was meditating had established himself in business.

"Great guns!" continued he, "what a noble idea. So simple, so inexpensive, so easily applied. No complicated apparatus needed; only a shovel. Who is there that hasn't a shovel and a pound or two of powder? Where is there a grocer's shop at which one cannot get powder? And only to think that this philanthropic invention should have been struck out, in a moment of inspiration, by a woman! Oh, woman," said Mr. Parker, ecstatically, "in our hours of ease, uncertain, coy and hard to please, but when mosquitoes nip the brow, a fierce, destroying angel thou!" At the conclusion of this apostrophe to woman, Mr. Parker, seizing his shovel in his right hand, pointed pointed it toward heaven, and assuming the attitude of Liberty Enlightening the World, shouted "Tableau!" in a loud voice. Then he went out and bought two pounds of powder.

When Mr. Parker returned to his room he made elaborate preparations. He closed the windows carefully, and, to secure the best results, stuffed cotton in all the cracks; then he shut all the doors and locked them. After he had finished those arrangements he glanced about the room.

Two fat mosquitoes sat leering at him from the top of his bookcase. All was calm without. Through the closed windows came the muffled hum of the city's myriad activities. The wail of a peripatetic glazier could be faintly heard, and his pathetic "glass puddin," "Do you want any glass puddin," sounded like a prophecy. The sun shone brightly, the birds sang sweetly, the waters of the bay danced to the fluting of the breeze. Within all was silence and expectation. "Aha!" said Mr. Parker, pouring the powder into the shovel and perhaps fancying himself a modern Guy Fawkes—"s'death, odds bodkins, caitiffs, thine hour has come" (he was addressing the mosquitoes); "thy shrift shall be a short one. Marry come up, by my halidom!" By this time the shovel was full of powder, and dropping his character of conspirator Mr. Parker rubbed his hands cheerfully together and began to hunt for a match. At last he found one; he scratched it upon the wall, but before he applied it he thought of a passage from Orpheus. "Just the thing," said he, "for a funeral oration. I'll give it to 'm." Then, keeping one eye on the fat mosquitoes and the other on the match, he said: "I have placed my hand in the hamper. I have tasted the sacred barley. I have beaten the drum. I have said 'knox ompax, and it is finished.'" Mr. Parker touched the match to the powder——!!!!!! It was finished. The mosquitoes were exterminated.

As the policeman conducted Mr. Parker through the streets half an hour after the explosion the boys thought the tattooed man had been arrested for getting drunk, to such an extent had the epidermical administration of powder changed the philanthropic countenance of Mr. Parker.

"What have you to say, sir, against the charge of attempting to blow up the city?" asked the stern sergeant in the station house.

"It was a great surprise to me, sir," said Mr. Parker in a dazed manner, "and I have no doubt it was a surprise to the mosquitoes."

"What can the man mean? Take him to the deepest dungeon beneath"—

"Ef ye please, sargeant, I know the gent. 'E is a scientific gent, as was a trying an iperiment w'en it went off, sir." The speaker had a box full of glass on his back. It was the man whose "glsss puddin'" had sounded like a phrophecy.

"Saved!" said Mr. Parker.

The peripatetic glazier had a job which took him three days to finish. —New York World.

How Sniffles Was Cured.

Sniffles brought his two weeks' spree to a close on Thursday night. He lay on a lounge in the parlor, feeling as mean as sour lager, when something in the corner of the room attracted his attention. Rising on his elbow, he gazed steadily at it. Rubbing his eyes, he stared again, and as he stared his terror grew. Calling his wife, he asked hoarsely:

"Mirandy, what is that?"

"What is what, Likey?"

Sniffles' name is Lycurgus, and his wife calls him Likey for short and sweet.

"Why, that—that—that thing in the corner," said the frightened man, pointing at it with a hand shaking like a politician.

"What! you don't see it?" he sighed. "Then I've got 'em. Oh, heavens! bring me the Bible, Mirandy—bring it quick! Here, here on this sacred book I swear never to touch another drop of whisky. If I break my vow may my right hand cleave to the roof of my mouth, and—"

Here, catching another glimpse of the terrible object, he clutched his wife and begged in piteous tones:

"Don't leave me, Mirandy—don't leave your Likey," and burying his face in the folds of her dress, he sobbed and moaned himself into a troubled sleep.

Then his wife stole gently to the corner, picked up the toy snake, and threw it into the stove.

A PAMPHLET published by the "Executive Committee of the Workingman's Party of the United States," and devoted to the advocacy of the rankest communistic doctrines, gives a list of eighty-four "sections" of the party established in different cities from Massachusetts to California. It also recommends, as organs of its theories, no fewer than sixteen newspapers. Ten of these papers are printed in German, and one in Bohemian—a significant fact, which lends countenance to the opinion we have heretofore expressed, that the socialistic movement in this country is but an empty echo of that going on in Europe. It takes no deep root among American workingmen, and its noisiest champions are visionary foreigners who have but an imperfect comprehension of American affairs, and who imagine that the evils of class privileges and landed monopoly are oppressing the laboring classes on this side of the Atlantic. As long as the Government gives every man a farm who will go and cultivate it, there is not likely to be much response to the demand of these hare-brained agitators that property in the soil shall be abolished as legalized robbery.

A POLICEMAN in Montreal had his eye on the Queen's statue early Sunday morning, when the earth trembled. Her arm seemed to move and beckon the huge Bonaventure block to topple over on him. The policeman rubbed his eyes and muttered, "Well, I must have three drops too many." Not far away in St. Urbainst, a cat smelled the earthquake before it came, and jumped upon a bed where a gentleman lay sleeping. He started up and frightened the cat still more, so that she sprang upon him and clawed his face. He stooped to find a boot to fling at her, but before he had time to lift it came the earthqake. Then there was a soldier, who kept his father's sword in a scabbard suspended over his bed. The earthquake reversed the scabbard and the sword slipped out and fell upon the bridge of his nose. An earthquake is very jolly when a fellow finds out that his prayers were premature.—N. Y. Tribune.

TACT.—People cannot help having been born without tact; but there are occasions when it is almost impossible to be quite charitable to a tactless person. Yet people who have no tact deserve pity. They are almost always doing or saying something to get themselves into disgrace, or which does them injury. They make enemies where they desire to concilitate, and get a reputation for ill-nature which they do not deserve. They are continually doing other people harm, treading on metamorphical corns, opening the cupboards where family skeletons are kept, angering people, shaming people, saying and doing the most awkward things, and apologizing for them with a still more terrible bluntness. If there is one social boon more to be desired than another it is tact; for without tact the career of the richest, the ablest, and the most beautiful is often utterly marred.

EDITING a paper is like carrying an umbrella on a windy day. Everybody thinks he could manage it better than the one who has hold of the handle.

A Wonderful Invention.

It has been said that science is never sensational; that it is intellectual not emotional; but certainly nothing that can be conceived would be more likely to create the profoundest of sensations, to arouse the liveliest of human emotions, than once more to hear the familiar voices of the dead. Yet science now announces that this is possible, and can be done. That the voices of those who departed before the invention of the wonderful apparatus described in the letter given below are forever stilled is too obvious a truth; but who ever has spoken or who ever may speak into the mouthpiece of the phonograph, and whose words are recorded by it, has the assurance that his speech may be reproduced audibly in his own tones long after he himself has turned to dust. The possibility is simply startling. A strip of indented paper travels through a little machine, the sounds of the latter are magnified, and our great grandchildren or posterity centuries hence hear us as plainly as if we were present. Speech has become, as it were, immortal.

The possibilities of the future are not much more wonderful than those of the present. The orator in Boston speaks, the indented strip of paper is the tangible result; but this travels under a second machine which may connect with the telephone. Not only is the speaker heard now in San Francisco for example, but by passing the strip again under the reproducer he may be heard to-morrow or next year, or next century. His speech in the first instance is recorded and transmitted simultaneously, and indefinite repetition is possible.

The new invention is purely mechanical—no electricity is involved. It is a simple affair of vibrating plates, thrown into vibration by the human voice. It is crude yet, but the principle has been found, and modifications and improvements are only a matter of time. So also are its possibilities other than those already noted. Will letter writing be a proceeding of the past? Why not, if by simply talking into a mouthpiece our speech is recorded on paper, and our correspondent can by the same paper hear us speak. Are we to have a new kind of books? There is no reason why the orations of our modern Ciceros should not be recorded and detachably bound so that we can run the indented slips through the machine, and in the quiet of our own apartments listen again, and as often as we will, to the eloquent words. Nor are we restricted to spoken words. Music may be crystallized as well. Imagine an opera or an oratoria, sung by the greatest living vocalists, thus recorded, and capable of being repeated as we desire.—Scientific American.

RUSSIAN SOLDIERS AND THE BIBLE. Among the strange incidents of the war in the East is the eagerness the Russian soldiers show for the purchase of Bibles sent for their use by the British and Foreign Bible Society. Over 60,000 Bibles have been bought by them since the Russian armies crossed the Pruth. An agent says that the readiness of the soldiers to buy is unparalleled in the experience of the society's continental work. It is a strange thing, he says, when fierce-looking Cossacks, armed to the teeth, thank you ten times over for having brought them the New Testament, and when they can scarce be restrained, in the gladness of their hearts, from taking you up in their bony arms to give you a well-meant hug of gratitude. And not only do the men buy, but they also read. The Russian soldier, he says, has yet to be discovered who would speak an irreverent word of the Holy Gospel. The commanding officer has frequently been the first to buy a number of copies, which he himself would distribute at once as a gift to the common soldiers aronud him.

THE REAL THING THIS TIME.—The inventor of the telephone is, it is rumored, at work upon a new instrument. It is a contrivance which can be applied to street organs, hurdygurdies, German bands, and pianos out of tune. It will collect the sounds and convey them noiselessly away to commons and other waste places, or out to sea; and there the objectionable music will disperse harmlessly. This is a better idea than the telephone; and as soon as the inventor can get it to work he ought to secure a large sale.

"IT is a very unclerical practice, and I must say, a very uncleanly one. Tobacco! Why, sir, even a hog would not smoke it." "Doctor C——," replied his amused listener, "do you smoke tobacco?" "I? No, sir!" he answered, gruffly, with great indignation. "Then pray, who is the hog, you or I?"

THE telephone has been utilized in a mine near St. Austell, Cornwall. The wire extends from the surface to a depth of 252 feet, and a conversation, in whispers even, can be carried on between the men above ground and those down in the mine.

A LITTLE girl who had great kindness of heart for all the animal creation saw a hen preparing to gather her chickens under her wings, and shouted earnestly "Oh, don't sit down on those beautiful little little birds, you great ugly rooster!"

THE thing to do now is to give the Democratic party an unrestricted supply of rope.—N. Y. Tribune. But it is hard to say whether that would halter the situation or knot.—Norristown Herald.

FORTY Roman Catholic schools have recently been opened in Georgia, Alabama and Louisiana, in which colored men and women may be educated free.

THE ARMY NOT TO BE REDUCED.

Those ungrateful idiots in Congress who voted first, to violate the Constitution of the United States by taking the command of the army into their own hands, and, second, to make the army still more of a skeleton than it is, have suffered a little defeat in this: That the Senate refused to concur in their idiotic propositions, and after adopting some amendments, the bill went back to the House which body voted to sustain the Senate amendments. The action was as follows:

The amendment reducing the appropriation for expenses of the commanding General's office from $3,000 to $2,500, was concurred in. The next amendment was one striking out the clause providing that four full cavalry regiments shall be kept up on the Texas frontier, and inserting instead of it a proviso that the cavalry troops may be recruited to 100 men, and that a sufficient force of cavalry shall be employed in defense of the Texas frontier. The following Democrats voted with the Republicans in the affirmative: Aiken, Benedict, Lockwood, Hart, Gouse, Mockey, Williams of Michigan, Williams of Delaware, Culberson, Mills, of Texas, Giddings, Schleische and Throckmorton. The recommendation of the Committee on Appropriations was to not concur, but Foster, moved to concur; agreed to—yeas, 140; nays, 126.

The next amendment of the Senate was to insert 25,000 instead of 20,000 in the clause prohibiting recruiting the army beyond that number. On this clause the Republicans voted solidly in the affirmative and were joined by Williams of Michigan, Williams of Delaware, Culberson, Schleisher, Giddings, Mills. Throckmorton, Luttrell and Randolph.

Foster moved to concur. The vote was taken and resulted yeas, 134, nays, 130.

A VALUABLE WORK.—We are in receipt from the publisher, of Copp's Hand-book of Mining Laws, the most useful book of the kind we have ever seen. It contains all the U. S. laws pertaining to mining, forms for location notices, application for patent, abstracts of the most important decisions, and a complete list of patents for mines granted in the United states. Every miner and prospector needs this book.

AFFAIRS seem to be in a somewhat critical condition along the Texan frontier. Irresponsible parties of Mexicans and irrepressible bodies of Texans are about equally anxious to precipitate a conflict. If we are to remain at peace with Mexico, affairs in that quarter will stand considerable watching on the part of the officials of both Governments.

THE expensive character of modern warfare is evidenced by the fact that the Russians are building a railroad from the Danube to the Imperial headquarters. Feeding and supplying an army in the field is harder work than fighting, and continues to grow more difficult as the implements of war increase in variety and costliness.

IN LIMBO.—Jack Tyler, well remembered in this section as the original swindler of the Tyler furnace operation at Darwin, is in limbo in San Francisco, for having robbed and swindled the depositors of the Collateral Loan and Savings Bank out of a large amount.

THE town of Independence lacks fire works, and the citizens are urged by their local press to get an engine, hose, etc., at once, lest their town go up in flame.—Bodie Standard.

Plenty of fire works, neighbor, including Jersey lightning. What we lack is water-works.

THE trade of New York city is being steadily gathered into a few hands. One mammoth concern now does the business that forty wholesale merchants would have done a generation ago.

AS ANYBODY OUGHT TO HAVE KNOWN.

The points that Stanford is playing on those Los Angeles people are much the same as that heathen Chinee played on Jim Nye—"most frightful to see." He has put his coils completely around that great railroad center that was to be; he is gradually but surely choking the last vestige of commercial life out of that beautiful city by the sea. Every day, when he can spare the time from his regular squeezing operations elsewhere and everywheres else, he gives the screws another little turn, and takes note of the squeal produced. One day he sets down on, and proscribes, a newspaper that didn't happen to remark that he was the very salt, also, the great mustard plaster, of this Western Slope. Another day he hitches a locomotive to a private bridge and snakes it into kindling wood, merely to give a transient amusement to his trusty men. Then, at all times and for a regular thing, he tells the farmers of that section that it is nonsense for them to try to raise supplies for their own back country in competition with San Francisco as a base for similar supplies: and he so fixes the respective freight rates that they begin to see with half an eye that his suggestions on this point are eminently sound. Next, on similar grounds, he gives the merchants and all others who thought to use the world's highway, the sea, instead of his railroad for freighting purposes, such a long continued squeeze that the breath is about to leave the bodies of the more feeble, while the stronger are beginning to buck much more vigorously than might have been expected of people with so much climate—a possesion, and the only one, that Stanford has not yet tried to interfere with. These latter have been talking of establishing an independent road to Wilmington harbor, there to connect with ships and steamers not sailed by Stanford's thralls, if any can be found. By some means the railroad magnate has heard of this audacious proposition, and the good man's feelings are considerably shocked at such contumacy. It is quite annoying to him to have people kicking and squirming in this way after all his pains to get his splay feet across their necks so gently yet firmly. If he had gone at it roughly, same as if used to yoking pigs for a living, he might not feel so worked up at such a trifling ebullition of temper, being assured it cannot last long, or spread far, in a climate like that, especially among the very people who not long since had such a splendid chance to have obviated every possible risk of humiliations at his hands but had not the energy to avail themselves of it. Knowing what they might once have done but didn't do, also the reason they didn't, he is not in the least alarmed at their present spasmodic kicking, but merely annoyed that such people should make a pretense of kicking at all. That is why some folks don't blame him much for starting in to quiet them summarily instead of honeying them up as an over-indulgent parent might do with a wayward child, and as has been his own wont with other communities heretofore. No, he tells them in effect to "shut up instantly, or I'll make you!"—that is, if they offer to make use of Wilmington or any other harbor by which to cut him out of his regular exorbitant tributes by either land or sea he "will consider it an act of hostility and take measures accordingly!" That is the exact sum of his latest warning.

It is a comfort to know that even the traitors down there who did all they could to help yoke their own town—even that numerous band begin to grow restive under it, and acknowledge that they have been instrumental in overreaching themselves as well as their neighbors; even they are becoming apprehensive that all the pottage they have received up to date will hardly amount to a respectable mess; and as their help is not likely to be demanded by Mr. Stanford any more as things now look they feel despondent, indeed. But they needn't despair; there are a good many energetic, thoroughgoing and spirited citizens yet in Los Angeles, and these being now well aroused, may erewhile be able to do enough toward emancipating themselves as to again force Mr. Stanford to throw another sop to that despondent band of henchmen, but for whom the great anaconda would never have got his coils so completely around their fair city, and, by token of the same, around every town and city in the State. In a very great measure is the future of the entire southern portion of this State and its dependencies to be shaped by this little local contest there at Los Angeles. The results certain to follow, no matter how the contest ends, make the fight of paramount importance to every portion of this southern region. If Los Angeles with her advantages cannot maintain a tolerable independence of Stanford's dictation, then how absurd for any other community north of San Diego to attempt it. There is no question as to her innate ability to so maintain herself—merely a question as to the numbers and influence of the traitors in her midst, that and nothing more.

AN INTERESTING REPORT.

Some time ago there was a good deal of talk about a compromise between Sutro and the mining companies regarding the question of draining the Comstock. A committee, composed of Superintendents of wide experience, was appointed to ascertain the cost of raising the water with pumps, the figures thus obtained to be used as the basis of the proposed settlement with the Tunnel Company. The report, according to the Stock Exchange, is a very interesting one, and valuable as well. Of course, they find that the cost of pumping varies greatly. For instance, at the Ophir, Mexican and Union mines, it costs an average of $102 75 per day to raise the water from the various levels; at the Imperial it costs about a mill per gallon; at the Overman, about 4-5ths of a mill; at the Caledonia, 3-10ths of a mill; at the Justice, 1-3d of a mill; at the Baltimore American, about 2-3ds of a mill, and at the Belcher it costs $116 40 per day to raise an average of 268,185 gallons from the various levels.

But the average cost is found to be much below what was generally believed. An estimate of the exact cost of raising 1,000 gallons 100 feet will be the basis adopted for the estimate of the total cost from the tunnel level, and, from present appearances the monthly sum to be proffered to Mr. Sutro for the use of his tunnel will not come up to his figures (about $80,000) by some $56,000 or $60,000. The Superintendents repudiate the idea of a compromise. They intend to offer Mr. Sutro a certain sum, based upon quantity of water drained by the tunnel, for the use of it. If he will not accept, then the committee will study up other methods of getting rid of the water at reduced cost.

LONGSTREET ON GETTYSBURG.

Gen. Longstreet has contributed an article to the Philadelphia Weekly Times, recounting incidents of the battle of Gettysburg, in which he figured very prominently. Part of the information he furnishes is new, and all of it interesting. He says that he opposed the march into Pennsylvania on the ground that the Western Confederate armies needed assistance, Grant having "bottled up" one of them in Vicksburg. When the two armies faced each other at Gettysburg he advised Gen. Lee to decline battle, interpose his army between Gen. Meade's and Washington, and force the latter to make the attack. But Gen. Lee said: "If the enemy is there to-morrow we must attack him." Longstreet replied: "If he is there, it will be because he is anxious that we should attack him—a good reason, in my judgment, for not doing so." He tells us he was directed to make the opening attack. His corps numbered 13,000 men. It charged up Cemetery Ridge with such bravery and audacity that Gen. Meade thought Gen. Lee's whole army was at its heels. Reducing his right wing to one brigade, Meade hurried the others to the support of his imperiled left, and forced Longstreet back. When night came, Longstreet found that he had lost 4,529 men, or more than one-third of his corps. Gen. Longstreet ascribes the repulse of the Confederate army to Ewell's inactivity, declaring that if Ewell had attacked Meade's weakened right wing, it would surely have been overcome, and the battle won. He also criticises Pickett's assault on the second day of the battle, and says it was a great mistake in Gen. Lee to order it made.

LUTTRELL'S bill in Congress for the introduction of fresh water on the desert west of Fort Yuma is the Wozencraft measure of last session, with two modifications. The first provides that the Secretary of the Interior shall appoint three competent persons to appraise the present value of the lands, and that Wozencraft and his associates shall pay for them at such appraised valuation before acquiring title. The second amendment provides that water rates, to be fixed by the army engineer detailed by the Secretary of War for the examination of the work, as it progresses. The bill requires the work to be commenced within two years and completed in ten.

THE cowardly militiamen who scampered away from the Pittsburg riot last Summer, do not escape with simply a loss of their own and everybody's else's respect. The State laws against desertion are being put in force against some of the more notorious offenders; they are arrested and brought before the courts for leaving their ranks without permission, and civil suits are also brought against them to recover the arms and equipments which they threw away. All of which is, of course, not altogether pleasant to the cowardly young gentlemen and their friends.

THE assessments upon Storey county mines delinquent in November aggregate $916,000.

OUR LAW MAKERS.

As there will be some very important issues for the coming Legislature to settle, and as the course of individual members, as well as the entire body, will be watched with corresponding interest, we think it well worth the space in our columns to give the complete membership, and the political faith of each member of both Houses, that the list may be kept for convenient reference.

Those Senators marked with an asterisk (*) are hold-overs, all others newly elected.

ALL the Cabinets in Europe have advised Marshal MacMahon to use moderation in the present political crisis in France, but the marshal has a will of his own, and whether the friendly advice will be accepted remains to be seen. Great anxiety and depression prevail in Paris.

THE Supreme Court, of Nevada has affirmed the judgment in the case of Sam Mills, the colored man convicted of murder in Elko county, and directed the Court to fix a day for carrying its sentence into execution. He will be the first colored man ever executed by law in that State.

FOR the benefit of those not posted, we will state that the newly-elected County Judges and Justices of the Peace will go into office on the first of January, and that those officers who were elected at the general election assume their respective duties in March next.

MONO INCORPORATION.—Articles of incorporation of the McClinton Mining Company were filed, November 3, to work in Mono county, with a capital stock of $6,000,000. Directors—Geo. S. Dodge, S. Heydenfeldt, E. B. Bond, J. Miller and A. W. Rose.

THE reports of the Pope's illness turn out to have been greatly exaggerated. There is no immediate danger of his death, but he is weakened greatly by age. The most alarming symptom of his condition is a constant drowsiness.

IT is said MacMahon has declared he had only to give a sign and the Bonapartists would furnish him with the elements necessary for forming a vigorous ministry.

WE now read in Eastern exchanges that the "Keeley motor" is pronounced an unmitigated humbug by those who have examined it.

JAMES R. KEENE has become a permanent resident of New York, and San Francisco is no longer entitled to call him "Our Jim."

NOTICE.

I WISH TO CALL THE ATTENTION OF EVERY one subject to Special Tax Duties in Division Eight, First District, Internal Revenue Department, to the law requiring the mutilation of the revenue stamp on all packages (barrels, kegs, etc.), immediately after the said packages are emptied. Heavy penalties are imposed for refusal to comply with said law. Dealers are requested to see at once that the stamps are torn from every empty package in or leaving their possession, as I shall, from time to time as far as practicable, personally inspect all such goods.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:
SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 24.....1877.

HOSPITAL MATTERS.—There are now seven patients in the County Hospital, of which two or more will be discharged in a day or two. Dr. Bicknel, physician in charge, seems to be remarkably successful in his hospital as well as general practice. Among the recent discharges from that institution were Moore and Ames, the first named, it will be remembered, being the man who was last week acquitted on the ground of insanity of the charge of an assault to murder Ames. His wife still remains in the hospital, and is likely to indefinitely unless sent away as provided by action of the Supervisors. Another of the patients is a Mr. Harkless, of Big Pine, who, about ten days since, was thrown from his wagon, by a runaway team, breaking his leg above the knee. At the time he was out of reach of assistance, so lay all night and part of the following day before relief came, suffering most horribly from his broken limb and the coldness of the weather. He is now getting along quite as well as could be expected from the nature of the hurt and exposure, severe as both were.

DEPREDATION.—Up to two or three weeks ago, since work on the Virginia Con. mines in Kearsarge District has been closed down for the Winter, the various buildings were left without a guardian, being securely locked and bolted, presumably free from molestation. However, some person has broken open the door of the cabin, the blacksmith shop and the barricade to the tunnel where was stowed charcoal. Quite a quantity of coal was taken, a lot of blacksmith tools, steel, etc. Supt. Chenot has repaired damages and kept a man there for some weeks since in watch for the marauders. He has strong suspicion as to the parties, and will make things interesting if the experiment is repeated.

OFF FOR THE CAPITAL.—Hon. S. P. Moffat, member of Assembly elect for Inyo and Mono, left for Sacramento yesterday by the Southern route. He goes a little ahead of time, to attend to some cases in the U. S. Circuit Court at Sacramento before Legislative work begins. He was accompanied by Seth G. Sneden, of Bishop, who goes to the Bay on business matters. Both were in charge of, or at least in the company of, a United States secret detective—an attache of Uncle Sam's Revenue Department.

MERCHANDISE.—The prominent business firms of Inyo, represented in our advertising columns, now includes the house of J. H. Stoutenborough, of Bishop Creek. Agent Sam Cowles of the Cerro Gordo Freighting Company states that the firm mentioned have for some months been the heaviest shippers of freight, in and out, of any similar establishment in the valley. Attention is directed to the advertisement, wherein is set forth what may be bought at the lowest rates at the Bishop Creek store.

CONCLUSION OF DISTRICT COURT BUSINESS.—Judgment in the following cases was rendered after our report of last week closed: J. Silva et als vs. Dorgan Mining Company; decree signed. James Shaw vs. S. G. Sneden, et al; report of referee received and approved, and order of sale of real estate signed. Fannie L. Sherrer vs. Carl Sherrer; report of Court Commissioner received approved and decree granted. Jos. Seeley vs. Thos. Passmore, Sheriff; by consent of counsel, stay of proceedings for sixty days granted.

THE DARWIN BREWERY.—Among the new advertisements of the present week will be found that of Joseph Davis, the popular Darwin brewer. Besides a standard quality of beer, he manufactures ale and porter, to which attention is especially invited. Our patrons in Darwin, as well as those of our readers who may visit the mining metropolis of Inyo, will make a careful note on't.

HOLIDAY GOODS.—L. Wood is in constant receipt of fancy goods, toys, confectionary, etc., etc., for the coming holiday season. He is receiving the largest stock of good things that ever came to Inyo, and all who have any regard for the happiness of the little folks will go and make some purchases therefrom.

FANDANGO.—On Tuesday night, near Camp Independence, was held one of the annual "heap big dances" of the Piute tribe. Bucks and mahalas from all parts of the valley participated, while it is stated that some two or three low down white bucks disgraced the Indians by their presence, as usual.

A CLOSE CALL.—Through an overdose of gelsemium, taken to relieve neuralgaic pains, our cotemporary of the Darwin News had a close call for an excursion to his long home. Dr. Howard managed to pull him through, by great exertions. Brother Harris has soured on narcotics, and advises that such things be let severely alone.

MARRIED.—Friends of the fair bride will be interested in the fact that Miss Ida A. Hardy, lately of Independence, was recently married near Downieville, Sierra county, to a Mr. Joy. Also, Dr. Matthews and Miss Wotherspoon, both most favorably known hereabouts, were recently united in wedlock, at Angel Island, San Francisco Bay.

HOLIDAY SPORT.—The programme of races and purses offered by the Independence Jockey Club will be found in full in the present issue. There is a good deal of "horse talk" now going on in town, in consequence of the coming sport.

ASSESSMENT.—The Rex Montis Company have levied an assessment (No. 8) of $4 per share, delinquent December 17, 1877.

FALL GRAIN.—The farmers of Round Valley are making their first experiment of sowing Fall grain on a large scale. It is the opinion of experienced men there that it will do well; the volunteer grain is much better, larger, plumper berry, and has bigger heads than the Spring-sown grain.

INCORPORATED.—A short time since the "Chieftain Gold and Silver Mining Company" was incorporated, to operate here on Kearsarge mountain. The Directors are—R. D. Caldron, H. Bartting. H. N. Clement, Chas. Moss and C. J. Flatt. Capital stock $10,000,000.

THE SPORT.—The racing season at the Taboose track begins on Wednesday next, November 28. There are some thirty odd horses in training, all of which intend to walk off with one or more of the various purses.

LIQUOR STAMPS.—Parties dealing in articles subject to stamp duties will observe the notice published this week by the Deputy Internal Revenue Collector for this Division, H. L. Childs, Esq.

BULLION SHIPMENT.—Thursdays stage took out three bars of Rex Montis bullion valued at $1,600. The old mill keeps up its licks with great regularity, and will probably continue to do so till torn down to be rebuilt.

FENCED IT IN.—They are somewhat distressed up there at Bishop because Wm. Powers has fenced in a part of that portion of the county road running from Brockman's to the lower town.

BADLY INJURED.—Jack Horton's little boy received a kick from a horse, a few days since, from which it is doubtful if the child can recover.

ADJOURNED.—The County Court adjourned for the term last Monday. No additional proceedings of importance to note.

THE Resumption Act has brought into sight immense hoards of gold. The Treasury now holds $91,648,068, and the banks of the leading Eastern cities some $25,000,000. During the month of October the Treasury gained $23,268,532. This did not come out of the Eastern banks, as they have also increased their specie $2,000,000 during the month, nor did it come from abroad, as the excess of imports over exports of the precious metals at all ports for September was only $367,271. It must have therefore been gathered up from private hoards, or drawn from the Pacific Coast.

AN exchange wonderingly asks if this is a foreign country. To which another exchange replies: "We do not feel surprised at the question when we remember that Russia leather is made in Connecticut, Bordeaux wine is manufactured in California, French lace is woven in New York, Italian marble is dug in Kentucky, Marseilles linen is produced in Massachusetts, English cassimere is made in New Hampshire, Parian art work comes from a shop in Boston, Spanish mackerel are caught on the New Jersey coast, and Havana cigars are rolled out by the million in Chicago.

THE annual report of the Postal Superintendent of Special Agents shows that during the past year 543 persons were arrested for offenses against the postal laws, 104 in excess of the preceding year. The number of complaints of loss of registered letters were 3,289; aggregate value, $54,-410; the percentage of actual loss compared with the number of letters registered is about one-fiftieth of one per cent., or one in every 5,000.

A DELEGATION of New York and Philadelphia bankers opposed to the silver bill now pending in the Senate interviewed the President recently and asked him to use his authority to defeat the measure, arguing that the remonetization of silver would ruin our credit abroad. The President gave them no particular encouragment, and they left for home in a despondent mood.

THE interview of the committee of the Republican Senatorial Caucus with the President relative to appointments resulted in no compromise and no concessions. Mr. Hayes reminded the committee that he was President of the whole country and not of any party.

FOUR hundred Ute Indians have arrived at Rawlins, Wyoming, from their reservation on White river, in a starving and desperate condition, their supplies not having been forwarded by the government. Nobody's fault, as usual.

IT is assserted that Germany is urging Belgium to accept a German protectorate and to conform her military system to that of Germany in return for a guarantee of independence in every other respect.

TAKEN AT LAST.—The Russians have at last taken Kars, and now will soon take the whole train. The "Sick Man" is getting no better fast, and John Bull mourneth muchly bekars of that.

SITTING BULL says that the fight with Gen. Custer was a fair one, but that the desperation of Custer and his men made it necessary for the Indians to kill them.

THE Napa Reporter started a story that the long war between the Ukiah papers, Aleck Montgomery's Democrat and Belle Lynch's Dispatch, was about to be ended by a matrimonial contract between the editor and the editress, and the merging of the two papers. Aleck vigorously denies the story in a half-column editorial. Belle more tersely declares: "The individual who furnished the private report to the Napa Reporter regarding Uncle Aleck and us, must be a lunatic, and fails to know that to marry, two must be willing. In this case neither would be; Aleck would as leave have a hyena, while we would prefer an ape." So the war goes on.

THE story of Prince Jerome Napoleon nonplussing the Connaught Town Councillor, who thought he was addressing him in French, by telling the poor man he regretted he did not understand Irish, has been eclipsed at Geneva. The International Medical Congress was in session there lately, and Signor Baccelli, the Italian deputy, rose to read a paper on aneurism of the aorta. He had hardly got beyond a few sentences when one of the French representatives of the faculty requested the learned Italian to speak in French, in which language it was well known he was fluent, instead of in his own, which the French delegates did not understand. Signor Baccelli at the time was reading—Latin!

A LUMP OF SILVER.—Yesterday at the Eureka Saloon, we were shown a specimen of silver ore from the Rainbow mine weighing 87 pounds, which is literally a mass of silver. It is one of the richest specimens ever produced on the coast. This mine is owned by Leach, Osborne & Co. The specimen will assay at least $5,000 to the ton. Mr. Rasberry forwards it to-day to Mr. Pierce, Cosmopolitan Hotel, San Francisco. Resting Springs is certainly one of the richest camps yet discovered on this coast. And from indications, the discoveries have just commenced. There are three stratas of this extraordinary ore, averaging from 12 to 18 inches in width, each. The specimen brought into town was taken from the mine at a depth of 27 feet.—San Bernardino Argus.

THE Marquis de Surge, a zealous Roman Catholic, has published a book in which he tells a number of things concerning the Pope. One of them is that in 2866, the Pope being seriously ill, a young lady of Marseilles, named Leautard, resolved to offer up her life in his place, and asked his permission to do so. After some thought the Pope told her to go and do what the Spirit of God suggested to her. The next day she partook of the sacrament, expressed the desire of her heart fervently, was seized with a sharp pain, and in three days was dead. On hearing of her death Pio Nono exclaimed: "So soon accepted!" The Marquis professes his belief that this sacrifice made in his behalf accounts for the Pope's long life.

GOLD SCALES.—"One of the largest gold balances in the world was recently made for the United States Mint by Henry Tromner of Philadelphia. The beam is five feet six inches in length, and is mounted on agate bearings, with a capacity of 10,000 troy ounces (about 600 pounds) in each pan, and is sensible to a single grain when loaded. Over $20,000,000 in gold pass over this balance yearly. The workmanship is of the very finest."—N. Y. Sun.

There is one from the same maker in the Consolidated Virginia assay office. It is of similar workmanship, but has a capacity of but 5,000 ounces. More than $35,000,000 of gold and silver are weighed on this one yearly.—Virginia Enterprise.

DURING the absence of our "senior," last week, a paragraph was inserted in our columns with respect to the removal of the county seat from Bridgeport to Bodie; therefore will now state that we are not prepared at present to advocate the removal of the county seat to Bodie until the town is more settled and buildings are erected more suitable for the increasing business of the county than those at present occupied.—Bodie Standard, Nov. 14.

A MACON, Ga., correspondent relates an amusing incident that occurred when McCullough played "Virginius" there recently. When the curtain fell on the last act the whole audience remained in their seats expecting some more. It became necessary for the stage manager to go before the curtain and explain that Virginus being dead, Virginia dead, and the Decemvir dead, nothing more could be done that evening. The audience growled a good deal, but went away.

IT snows every other other day in Russia during the Winter, and thousands of young men join the Czar's army to fight the Turks for no other purpose than to get rid of shovelling three or four feet of snow off the front pavement three or four times a week.

MARTIN BRIGGS, of Gilroy, recently killed a snake twenty feet long. The reptile was found while hunting in the Tres Pinos country, and had taken possession of a fawn which had been shot a short time previously.

LITTLE Mac, if he shows any "speed" as Governor, will certainly be entered in the free-for-all race for the Democratic nomination for the Presidency.

CALIFORNIA has an enormous foreign trade. Besides our prodigious wheat crops, we harvest from 300,000,000 to 500,000,000 pounds of fruit yearly.

MEXICANS have crossed into Texas and chastised Indians who had stolen cattle from the Mexican side. Tit for tat.

IT is generally conceded that on the first ballot in the Democratic caucus, Mark McDonald will be near the lead.

STANLEY, the African explorer, was at the Cape of Good Hope recently, and went thence to Zanzibar.

A LARGE number of cattle are dying of starvation in the western part of San Joaquin county.

IF there ever was a time when the people of Los Angeles ought to act as one man it is the present. A powerful and insolent corporation, upon which we have lavished our bounty with the hand of misplaced liberality, threatens to coerce us into submission to its oppressive will by impeding our efforts to open free communication with our ocean highway. As long as it can prevent us from utilizing our harbor and reaching San Francisco by water independent of any line which it controls, it holds us in a slavish state of subjection, and destroys our advantages as a commercial centre. We must escape from this galling thraldom. All the wealth of the Central Pacific is not equal to holding us down if we are true to ourselves. Let us at once seek outside communication by our natural highway, and when we have perfected our arrangements let the merchants of this city all pull together in one direction, and we can then whistle the monopoly off and let it down the wind to prey at interests that are more submissive than ours. Our kindness to the railroad has been requited by insolence and outrage. Let us show it that we can do without it, and treat it to a lesson of contempt of which it is sadly in need.—Los Angeles Express.

HOW A MINE WAS FOUND.—A good story is told of a former resident of Negaunes, now living in Colorado. He was an explorer of note, and was one day digging at the foot of a mountain in Boulder county, when a Teutonic gentleman came along and inquired:

"My goot frient, vat you peen do here?"

"Oh, I'm only scratching around to see what I can find."

"Vell, my frient, I dond know pretty much by dis explorin' bissness; auver dond you could tell me vere I could vind me a gold mine right avay, quick."

"Oh, you just find a big pine tree and go to digging in its shadow, and you'll find what you want."

"Donk you, mine frient;" and the German went a littie way up the mountain, found the shadow of a pine tree and went to digging. In a short time he found what is the celebrated Melvine mine, and now our Negauneelt is suing for an interest in the valuable property, on the ground that he gave the information which led led to its discovery.—Marquette Mining Journal.

DARWIN ITEMS.—Mr. Taylor, Superintendent of the Emigrant mine, brought in on Tuesday one bar of bullion valued at $1,500....On the same day the Rex Montis shipped 2 bars of bullion valued at $1,000.

A quarrel of some sort among Directors, stockholders, or somebody else, in regard to Minnietta Belle affairs has created a little scare relative to their financial standing, but we are assured that a few days more will set things all to rights, money having been negotiated for sufficient for all present demands.

During our four days sickness a little bullion war sprang up in our midst, but what caused it, whether the richness of the bullion, or what not deponent sayeth not, as that same is to be ventilated in the courts, we do not desire to prejudice either side. We can probably give full particulars next week. —Darwin News.

A BILL introduced in the House on Saturday by Alex H. Stephens has the following title: "A bill for the financial relief of the country, and to facilitate the return to specie payments without injuriously affecting the commercial business and general industries of the people." Reminds us of the titles of some of the bills introduced in the Nevada Legislature: "A bill for an Act entitled an Act to regulate freights and fares on the Cross Lots Railroad; to compel the managers thereof to render monthly statements of their receipts, disbursements and profits, and to relieve the people of the State of Nevada of the oppressive burdens of a monopoly that is eating like a canker into the very vitals of the body-politic."—Austin Reveille.

FROM present appearances and the Winter before us, we consider that it would not be advisable for persons to come to this section without they have means sufficient to support them, as at the present time there is no employment to be had, for action will not be taken in several of the mines around here and Aurora until next Spring. —Bodie Standard.

A KENTUCKY man who went to the Black Hills wrote back to a local paper, saying: "Offer a premium at your coming fair for the biggest fool in the country, and I'll try and get there in time."

THE Harvard college students have formed a rifle corps for military drill, and the company will number about 125.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 24.....1877.

THE Russian generals in Bulgaria are mainly very old men, who studied the art of war forty and even fifty years ago. They are described by a correspondent of The Daily News as men who never look in a book, and who rarely read a newspaper, and appear to be utterly oblivious to the march of progress, and of science especially, in the military art. Their whole lives may be said to have been passed in one occupation; their whole minds, whatever they ever had, concentrated on one object, and that the most trivial to which the human mind can descend—card playing. They have done nothing else, thought of nothing else, for years. Their minds have rusted until they are as dull, as heavy, and as incapable of receiving new impressions as the veriest clod-hopper's. Called from their card-tables by the trumpet of war, they rise, rub their eyes, look round them completely bewildered, and as thoroughly out of the current of modern war as if they had been asleep for forty years. Not even Rip Van Winkle, with his rusty gun dropping to pieces after his long sleep, was more bewildered and lost than the majority of these poor old generals suddenly thrown into the campaign at the head of their brigades, divisions, and corps. It may be asked why the Emperor does not send these old dotards back to their card-tables, replace them by younger men, and men of talent, of which, after all, the Russian army is not destitute. The soft heart of the Emperor has much to do in retaining these old incapables in their positions. He cannot bear the idea of depriving an old public servant of his position and thus disgracing him, and so unconsciously prefers to sacrifice the lives of thousands of brave fellows to this misplaced feeling of kindness.

SETTLING.—The ground along F street, near Union, and on Union street yesterday was found to be settling. The water and gas pipes were broken for the distance of about 100 feet on F street, and large cracks in the ground were opened, into one of which an ice wagon sank to the hub. There seemed to be a side movement to the east as well as a gravitation of the earth in that section. The veranda in front of Mr. Kelley's house was drawn away from the upright pillars to a considerable extent, and portions of the bulkhead were thrown out of plumb. The gas company took the precaution to dig the earth from underneath their pipes, so that they would settle evenly and not break. The center of the street had settled about five inches at noon, and was still slowly receding last evening. Another crack was discovered on Taylor street, near the Episcopal church. Of course the only cause of this is the giving way of the earth where mining has been done underneath. It is the opinion, however, of those best posted in these matters that if the whole timbering was taken out of the big bonanza the swelling of the vein would be so great as to shut up the entire space, so that no effect would be perceptible on the surface, or, at least, none appreciable except by the running of nicely adjusted machinery. The operations yesterday were doubtless caused by workings nearer the surface. The excavations in the Consolidated Virginia under the place where the ground settled are at least 1,500 under ground.—Virginia Enterprise.

IMMENSE PIPE LINE PUMP STATION. A correspondent of the Oil City Derrick says the American Transfer Company are building two of the largest pump stations in the world. One of these is located at Carbon Center and the other at Freeport. The boilers, engines and pumps are enormously large and powerful, the latter being the largest ever manufactured, the cylinder having a diameter of 30 inches. In each station are three 60 horse-power boilers, with engines to correspond. Instead of iron smoke-stacks, such as are commonly used, brick chimneys 60 feet high will be built. The company expect to be ready to pump in about two weeks. In the line from Bullion to Oil City, and with but one station, they throw 3,300 barrels a day, and if pressed can throw 4,000 barrels. The Pittsburg line has a capacity of 6,000 barrels per day, and instead of having four stations, as was at first urged by the company, Mr. A. C. Beeson, the manager, said he could do it with one; and this he proposes to do with the splendid machinery above mentioned.

IT is stated that quail have not bred in some parts of the State this year, and the local papers call on the sportsmen to spare that game. Some kinds of fishes, it is said, have not spawned and now we hear that a number of farmers in this county complain that most of their cows have failed to breed, and that many others have prematurely dropped their calves; from all of which it is inferred that the hard times have reached considerably beyond the human family. In the case of the cows, some farmers have been feeding exclusively on alfalfa, and suspect that to be the cause, but we hear of other similar results from pastures which contain only native grasses. It would be of interest to the public, and profitable to our farmers and stock-raisers, if they would more openly communicate their experience in this and other matters relating to their business to the local press. Such a course could hardly fail to result in an exchange of views and a diffusion of knowledge which would add greatly to our general prosperity.—Visalia Delta.

STANDARD MILLS,

NOTICE TO FARMERS & OTHERS.

THE UNDERSIGNED, HAVING CHARGE OF the Flouring Mills belonging to T. D. Lewis, at Bishop Creek, would respectfully inform the public that he is now ready to accommodate any who may give him a call. This mill is direct from the manufactory; is one of Harrison's Combined Grinding & Bolting Flouring Mills, which carried off the laurels at the Centennial. Its capacity is twenty-four barrels per day. All lovers of modern improvements and of perfection in a nut shell are respectfully invited to call and examine the mill and its workings.

Owing to his extensive experience of twenty-five years in some of the best mills on this Coast including four years in this State, the undersigned flatters himself that he can give entire satisfaction to those who may favor him with their patronage.

All Flour from good wheat guaranteed. Flour constantly on hand to exchange for good wheat. Corn and Barley cracked to order. Corn Meal a specialty.

Terms Liberal.

A little money always on hand for buying Wheat.

What Pays?

IT PAYS EVERY MANUFACTURER, MERCHANT, Mechanic, Inventor, Farmer or Professional man, to keep informed on all the improvements and discoveries of the age.

IT PAYS the head of every family to introduce into his household a newspaper that is instructive, one that fosters a taste for investigation, and promotes thought and encourages discussion among the members.

THE SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN, which has been published weekly for the last thirty-one years, does this, to an extent beyond that of any other publication; in fact it is the only weekly paper published in the United States devoted to Manufactures, Mechanics, Inventions and New Discoveries in the Arts and Sciences.

Every number is profusely illustrated and its contents embrace the latest and most interesting information pertaining to the Industrial, Mechanical and Scientific Progress of the World; Descriptions, with Beautiful Engravings of New Inventions, New Implements, New Processes and improved Industries of all kinds; Useful Notes, Suggestions and Advice by Practical Writers, for Workmen and Employers, in all the various arts, forming a complete repertory of New Inventions and Discoveries; containing a weekly record, not only of the progress of the Industrial Arts in our own country, but also of all New Discoveries and Inventions in every branch of Engineering, Mechanics and Science abroad.

The Scientific American has been the foremost of all industrial publications for the past thirty-one years. It is the oldest, largest, cheapest and the best weekly illustrated paper devoted to Engineering, Mechanics, Chemistry, New Inventions, Science and Industrial Progress published in the world.

The practical Recipes are well worth ten times the subscription price, and for the shop and house will save many times the cost of subscription.

Merchants, Farmers, Mechanics, Engineers, Inventors, Manufacturers, Chemists, Lovers of Science, and People of all Professions, will find the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN useful to them. It should have a place in every Family, Library, Study, Office and Counting Room; in every Reading Room, College and School. A new volume commences January 1st, 1877.

A year's numbers contain 832 pages and Several Hundred Engravings. Thousands of volumes are preserved for binding and reference. Terms, $3 20 cents a year by mail, including postage. Discount to Clubs. Special circulars, giving Club rates, sent free. Single copies mailed on receipt of 10 cents. May be had of all News Dealers.

PATENTS. In connection with the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN, Messrs. Munn & Co. are Solicitors of American and Foreign Patents, and have the largest establishment in the world. More than fifty thousand applications have been made for patents through their agency.

Patents are obtained on the best terms, Models of New Inventions and Sketches examined, and advice free. A special notice is made in the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN of all Inventions Patented through this Agency, with the name and residence of the Patentee. Patents are often sold in part or whole, to parties attracted to the invention by such notice. A Pamphlet, containing full directions for obtaining Patents sent free. The Scientific American Reference Book—a volume bound in cloth and gilt, containing the Patent Laws, Census of the U. S., and 142 engravings of mechanical movements. Price 25 cents. Address for the paper, or concerning patents, MUNN & CO., 37 Park Row, New York. Branch office, Cor. F and 7th sts., Washington, D. C. n342t3

Mountain Harry.

One evening, three years ago, after a dreadfully hard march down the western side of one of the most difficult passes through the Rocky Mountains, our small party emerged from the rough trail into the open savannas of Middle Park, and camped beside a companion-party that had preceded us. Approaching their fire, we met, coming up at a leisurely lope from the opposite direction, a large, lean sorrel horse that showed good points, but seemed to have been roughing it quite as much as his rider. The horse bore a gayly-rigged ranger's saddle, behind which was slung the carcass of a black-tailed deer, whose flapping head and heels seemed not to disturb him in the least, and in the saddle sat a remarkable man—a person of medium height, but of so powerful a build that his breadth of chest and massive loins seemed better fitted for a giant. His hair and beard were curly, and yellow as corn-silk; his face fiery red through incessant exposure to sun, and snow, and alkali-dust; but his eyes were blue as the little Lycaena butterflies flitting in thousands over the blooming prairie. Across his shoulder he balenced a heavy double-barreled rifle; his waist was girdled by a red-white-and-blue cartridge-belt; from his boot-leg protruded the horn handle of a hunting-knife, and a six-shooter was strapped to the pommel of his saddle. He was dressed throughout in buckskin, from every seam of which depended a six-inch fringe of the same material; but his hat was a colorless sombrero, badly crushed.

This was "Mountain Harry" Yount and his horse "Texas." He was a professional hunter; and when, last Summer, he was with us for three months in the wilds of Western Wyoming, I became well acquainted with him, a notable man, who is almost as foreign to the types of the Eastern States as a native of Japan.

Yount's parents were Swiss, but he was born at Susquehanna, Pennsylvania, and so came by double right to his deep affection for the mountains. When he was a child, his father moved to Kansas, introducing the boy at an early age to pioneer-life. But, wearying of the Plains, when eighteen years old Harry joined an emigrant-train and pushed out to Pike's Peak, driving oxen. Gold-mining, however, was not his vocation, and, stimulated by his innate passion for the freedom of unfenced Nature, Yount quickly abandoned the rocker for the rifle, and began the wild and lonely career he has since led. At that time such a life was far more lonely than at present, notwithstanding that he was able to get his game much nearer to the main settlements than is now possible. Yet the towns twenty years ago were far between, and wanderers among the snowy ranges or interior parks very few. Harry hunted principally in the Medicine Bow Ranges, the snowy crests of which are about the only peaks of the Rocky Mountains the traveler on the Union Pacific Railway catches a glimpse of after Cheyenne has been left an hour behind. Here roamed the mountain-buffalo, the broad-antlered wapiti, the agile black-tail, the shy, covert-loving Virginia deer; every valley was haunted by antelopes, and all the crags were homes of the mountain-sheep. Where there was so much tender flesh, of course many beasts of prey were present—Harry once unexpectedly stepped into a convention of seven grizzlies—and hard experience with these creatures added deliberate courage to the skill learned from seeking wary deer and trapping the small, shrewd game whose furry coats were coveted. To find out all the passes and game-trails through these unknown mountains, all the resources of living alone anywhere and at any season, to elude or concilitate the Indians, all of whom were to be dreaded, and most of all to become thoroughly acquainted with the distribution and habits of the animals and birds, was the task before this young hunter, and one looked forward to with eager pleasure. He was armed with stout hands, keen powers of observation, and strong enthusiasm. Never killing for sport, all his energies were directed toward making every grain of his costly ammunition yield a profitable return. He shot buffaloes for their robes and what meat he could send a wagon after from the nearest mining-camp, many a time slaughtering a whole herd by keeping himself concealed while he shot them one by one, or by riding them down in a long chase on Texas's back. Antelopes he hunted for the flesh. They were abundant on the Plains everywhere, and his method was to drive a span of mules and a wagon to some point and hunt in a circle around it, killing a load and then driving back. There is far more skill than appears in this kind of work. He once shot seventy antelopes in one day in a match with a crack shot from the East, who was mightily skillful in scoring bull's-eyes, but found hitting a nimble pronghorn an entirely different matter. Difficult as this feat was, and much credit as it reflected upon him, Harry was always ashamed of it. It went against his heart to kill so many innocent creatures only for glory.—Appletons' Jowrnal, for December.

Interview between Grant and MacMahon.

On being introduced they grasped each othed warmly by the hand, shook and smiled. This seemed satisfactory to both parties. But it could not last forever. And when their grips relaxed and their palms fell apart they then gazed at each other in that utter hopelessness which men always feel whose tongues work through different colloquial channels. Both Grant and MacMahon were armed, each with a copy of Ollendorf.

MacMahon—Git out!

Grant—Sir!

MacMahon—An! Pardon, General. Sac-r-r-e! C'est goot day, sare!

Grant—Bong choor, Mar-a-shall. (Reads.) "Have-you-seen-the-green-umbrella-of-my-wife's-uncle?" No, no! Confound it, that's English! An, here it is: "Commay voo portay voo yourself?" But I've lost all the places! (Reads hurriedly.) "These-are-the-green-pantaloons-of-my-sister's-niece." No, no! Oh, this is it! "J'aime Francais. Je l'adore q—"

MacM. (reads)—"I have veree vell, but they have taken the green boots of your aunt." Ah, velcome Sheneral to ze Republique Francaise.

Grant (loquitor) Where in thunder is the place? I had everything I wanted to say checked off in this book.

MacM.—Yees, sare. Sheneral, you speek the language French like to a native—

Grant (interrupting)—Of Illinois?

MacM.—Comment?

Grant—Eel-ee-noy!

MacM.—Oui, oui, Monsieur.

Grant—Used to live there, carted wood, tanned leather—before the war.

MacM.—Oui, oui, Sheneral; il fait beau temps ce jour!

Grant—Yes it's po—very po—confound him, what does he mean?

MacM.—Avez vous faim, Sheneral?

Grant—No. Haven't any about me, Marshal.

MacM.—Voulez vous boire?

Grant—(Reads) — I-will-take-a-frog-on-toast.

MacM.—(Aside)—Comment drole!—Fumez vous, Sheneral?

Grant—No, I never fume. I take it easy.

MacM.—Oui, Monsieur.

Grant—We, Mongshure.

Grant—(Bowing)—We, we, we, Monshure!

MacM.—(Bowing)—Oui, oui, oui, Monsieur!

Grant—We, we, we, we, Mongshure. (I can fight it out on that line with him, anyhow).

MacM.—(Bowing him out)—Oui, oui, oui, oui, oui, Monsieur.

Grant—(leaving)—We, we, we, we, we, we, Mongshure! (There, that's over, and I got the last word in on him.)—N. Y. Graphic.

MEDICAL ADVICE.—A night or two since a citizen of Charlotte avenue, who has a wood-pile in the alley concluded to sit up a few hours and see if he could detect the person or persons who had stolen a dozen sticks the night previous. About eleven o'clock a bow-backed colored man came up the alley, looked around in a cautious way, and then took a stick of wood on each shoulder and started off.

"I've got you, you thief!" cried the citizen as he dashed out.

"So you hez—so you hez," replied the man, as he let the sticks drop, "but jess wait a leetle afore you fires off any pistols. Does yer know what I was gwine ter do wid dis wood?"

"Yes, I do! You were stealing it!"

"Jess like I fought you'd say, sah, but dar's whar' you hurts my feelins. I was talkin' to de doctaw 'bout dis bendin' ober in my back, an' he tole me to walk up an' down the alley wid a load on boaf shoulders. I was borrowin' dis wood to carry out dat medical advice, sah, an' if you charges anyfing, I can pay de cash right down."

The citizen said he thought he could cure the "bending over," but he can't be positive whether he made any improvement or not, as the man broke after the fourth kick and galloped down the alley like a barrel of sand rolling down hill.—Detroit Free Press.

Tweed's Talk—What he Says about Himself and his Family.

Boss Tweed has been entrapped into talking freely to a New York reporter, whom he did not know to be a reporter. At least the reporter so states. In the course of the conversation the reporter asked the Boss what he considered the great mistake of his life, and Tweed replied:

"In pressing forward for leadership, I was always ambitious to be influential and to control. When I was twenty years old I joined an Odd Fellows' lodge, and in three months was the President of it. Liking busy occupation and social influence among men, I think I pressed on too confidently. I ought not to have tried to be the leader.

"Since you have spoken of your principal mistake, tell me also what act of your life—what performance, rather—you take most pride in?"

Mr. Tweed stopped and looked dreary.

"Nothing. I don't see anything great that I did."

"Not the new boulevards, nor the parades, nor the docks?"

"Nothing," said Mr. Tweed. "My vanity sees nothing to delight it. I recall nothing eminent."

"Did you create any celebrated person or raise any unknown merit to public life?"

Mr. Tweed smiled wearily. "There was John Morrissey," he said. "I sent him to Congress. He seemed to be an engaging fellow, and he whined and said he wanted to give a character to his son. Jimmy Hayes also interceded for him. Hoffman and Sweeney protested, but I persisted. After Hoffman was defeated that year for Governor he rather laid it to me that nominations like Morrissey's had lost us the election. Morrissey's return to me is in abusing me in the prints so as to afflict my family. I'll fight any man on that subject."

"Your wife and family seem to be very well considered here?"

"My wife!" said Mr. Tweed, with a little quiver and some warmth. "She is God's own workmanship. The only thing against her is, that she has such a worthless husband."

"Your children do well?"

"Yes. I have no complaint to make of my children. There are eight of them. I might want some of them to be a little smarter, but they do very well."

Mr. Tweed added, that a person who had recently got into his confidence published a "screed" so annoying to his family that Mrs. Tweed, who is subject to epileptic attacks, nearly lost her life. "Now," said he, "when I saw that John Morrissey undertook the same thing, I told John D. Townsend that, with or without his consent, I would settle Morrissey. Nobody can make my family think any less of me," said Mr. Tweed.

A Story of General Miles.

At the recent reunion of the Boston Light Infantry Association at the Parker House, John H. C. Campbell related the following incident:

In the early part of the Rebellion of 1861, while one of our members was on his way to the usual nightly drill at Boylston Hall, he was accosted on Washington street by a young man with whom he was slightly acquainted, and asked where he was going. To this Tom Huddleston replied that he belonged to the Tigers, and was going to their armory to drill for an hour or two. The two walked along the street, and during the conversation which followed the young friend said that he thought it would be a pretty good idea for him to belong to just such a company, for he could there obtain exercise and, perhaps, a little insight into military tactics. "But," he added, "I don't suppose I can get in." Tom, like a good fellow, as he always was, looked down on his friend and said: "Come right along with me and I'll put you through." Tom had that young chap's name on our roll, accepted as a member, and a musket in hand in twenty minutes. For a week the new recruit was constant, day and night, at our drills, but one night he was missing. I said to Tom, "Your man is sick of it." "Not a bit of it," replied Tom, "he likes it, and he is smart enough to be an officer." A week or two after he disappeared from our drills. Tom met the young man on the street. He had enlisted for three years of the war, and his uniform confirmed the statement. From the 9th of September, 1861, when that young man was appointed to a Captaincy in the Twenty-second Massachusetts Volunteers, his promotion from one position to another was rapid and merited. He has won a name for personal courage that challenges our admiration, he has shown all through his career the talent and power to command, and he stands to-day with a national reputation as the best Indian figeter of the times. I ask you to drink to the health of Tom Huddleston and his young Tiger recruit (the Colonel of the Fifth United States Infantry) Colonel Nelson A. Miles.—Boston Journal.

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 1.....1877.

A RUSSIAN journal having suggested an alliance between France and Russia, Germany is agitated. Germany has been the friend and quasi ally of Russia in this war; but a German paper, no doubt speaking officially, says that such an alliance would transform Germany's friendship for Russia into sheer and open hostility. An alliance of France and Russia would revolutionize the status of the Eastern question and in all probability bring about a league, offensive and defensive, between Germany, Austria, England and Turkey, which would be a power sufficient to almost crush the life out of any power or powers opposed to them. Neither Russia nor France contemplate suicide just yet; and it is fair to presume that the recommendation of the St. Petersburg paper for Russo-Franco alliance is a mere suggestion and has no official sanction and but little political significance.

TOM EWING insists that we can't resume specie payments until we get twelve hundred millions of gold in the Treasury. He says: "Experience has shown it to be an axiom in finance that, in order to sustain specie payments, it is necessary to have on hand a very much larger amount of coin than the entire volume of paper currency which is kept afloat. Take England, for instance. She keeps constantly on hand about seven hundred millions in coin; but the volume of her paper afloat never exceeds two hundred and fifty millions. On the same basis we should have much more than twelve hundred millions of coin on hand, for we have nearly seven hundred millions of paper afloat."

THE effect of the enforcement of the strict liquor law in the larger cities and towns of Maine is said to be very injurious to society, which is resorting to opium to supply the craving for strong drink. Since the liquor law was passed the opium trade has rapidly increased in the State, and at the present time, Maine consumes more morphine in proportion to its population, than any other State in the Union. If prohibitory liquor laws are going to produce this bad effect, the propriety of passing any more of them will be seriously questioned by legislators; and liquor dealers will use the Maine case to prevent the suppression of the trade in other localities.

THE remnant of the Cahuilla tribe of Indians have for many years been located on the Colorado Desert, where they have occupied little patches of land watered by springs here and there on the road between San Bernardino and the Colorado River. They have raised thereon enough mesquit, corn, beans, pumpkins, and melons to enable them to live. Their little oasis are of small value, but are their all; yet there seem to be white men mean enough to covet them. Cabezon, the old chief, is in Los Angeles, trying to get the Land Office there to stop the robbery.

THEY are having a pleasant little mining war at Central City, Dakota. The miners who took possession of the Keets mine in lieu of arrears of pay still hold it. The latest news is that they have a communication with the Hidden Treasure mine, and contemplate retreat through the tunnel when the fight becomes too hot for them. All efforts at a compromise have failed, and unless the Sheriff burns the timbers of the shaft and attempts to starve them, they have the best of the game. Meanwhile we suppose they are living on porphyry horse.

THE Court of Appeals of Texas decided that, "Though drunkenness neither aggravates nor excuses an act done by a party while under its influence, still it may affect both physical ability and mental condition, and may be essential in determining the nature and character of the acts of the defendant, as well as the purpose and intention with which it is done." This opinion was pronounced in a case of murder.

THE entire Pacific Coast delegation in Congress, with the exception of Senator Booth and Representative Pacheco, have united on recommending Charles Clayton for the Superintendency of the San Francisco mint.

VARIOUS alarming rumors come from the Texas frontier. It is said El Paso county is in possession of a Mexican mob who defy the United States authorities.

THE FREE SCHOOL SYSTEM AND ITS ASSAILANTS.

The recent attacks upon the High Schools have developed the fact that there is a strong desire in certain quarters to break down and destroy the free school system. Thus we find Protestant divines like Dr. Platt openly advocating the abolition of all but elementary education on the part of the State, and we see that this proposition is cordially indorsed by the Roman Cathotic organs, whose hostility to the school system has never been disguised. We have further been informed that many copies of Dr. Platt's attack upon the schools have been circulated in Arizona by the Catholic priests, for the purpose of creating opposition among the Mexicans there to the establishment of free schools, now being actively pushed by intelligent and patriotic American citizens. These facts demonstrate that a certain degree of union may be looked for between Catholic and Protestant divines, for the furtherance of the common purpose, which is the destruction of the free schools, and the erection of an educational scheme founded upon dogmatic theology. When the utterances of Protestant ministers are thus employed by Roman priests as weapons wherewith to assail the State educational policy, it is time for the people to realize the significance of the movement, and to take steps to protect their institutions against it. The principle of secular education is one which the experience of nearly a century justifies and commends, and all attempts to depart from this principle should be regarded with the sharpest suspicion.

The foregoing is a portion of a lengthy editorial in the Record-Union. The sentiments therein expressed will find a hearty response in the minds of every American citizen who is not a blind religionist. Nevertheless, now that certain leaders of churches of such antagonistic creeds as the Catholic, Protestant and Mormon, to which if circumstances gave it the opportunity might be added the Mohammedan, are making common cause against our cherished free school system, it behooves every lover of free institutions to take note of what is going on.

Speaking for ourselves we have the highest respect for religion and religious teachings, no matter of what church, so long as it is an earnest religion, and so long as these teaching are simply appeals to intelligence, and not dogmatic assumptions of facts addressed only to the fears of ignorance. In that view, then, we hold, that the world, our portion at least, would be a thousand times better off with no church organizations whatever, than with such of any denomination, Catholic, Protestant, Mormon, or any other, invested with full control of the education of the young; for granted that power to either, or any of them, and sooner or later every effort would tend to the inculcation of dogmatic theology, than which, give full scope, nothing could be more dangerous to the well being of any people. The bloody pages of history sustain the truth of this beyond the slightest chance of dispute. As the Record-Union remarks, "whenever and wherever theology has been suffered to control education it has stunted the intellectual development of the people, dwarfed their mental growth, and converted them into blind, narrow and fanatical bigots. We will not refer to Catholic influences in this connection, for they are familiar to all. But there is a remarkable case in point, in which Protestantism controlled the education of a people, and the experience of Scotland under Presbyterianism affords abundant evidences of the mischievous and paralyzing effect of theological domination in educational matters." To which may be added the passing history of the Mormons, here almost in our midst.

No, we want no church dictation in our public educational affairs whatever. Neither do we want any church that cannot live and flourish in the light of that intelligence derived from the text books in use in our free schools. "But," Dr. Platt says, "that system has done all it should be allowed to do after it has imparted knowledge sufficient to enable the pupil to read his Bible and vote." "Then," says he "the churches should be allowed to do the rest." In which we reply that our public school system interposes no objections whatever to the churches doing "the rest," doing it all, A B C's included, if the churches choose so to do with those willing to accept their good offices. The free school system simply insists that the work shall not stop at that stage; that it shall go on till the youth cannot only "read his Bible and his vote," but can likewise understand their import when he does read them and that in the light of other studies no less important to his physical welfare, but not in the least any more inimical to his spiritual well being.

It really seems that so eager are the leaders in more churches than one for the supremacy of their own particular belief, they would hardly hesitate, were the power invested in them, to maintain a watch at the public expense over every cradle in the land, to the end that no child should be left to stray on to any of the innumerable wrong roads to heaven through lack of instructions they alone should give. But we thank God that among the laity, among the rank and file of no church do we find but the very fewest number naturally inclined to give support to such leaders or such dogmatic theology, consequently among such do we find but the very fewest in the least disposed ever to enter or connive at a crusade against our public schools, America's most absolute safe guard. Give us universal infidelity among intelligent beings, in preference to universal religion based on ignorance.

THE TEXT BOOK QUESTION.

The Darwin News comments at considerable length upon the text book issue, and adversely to the claims for preference in the right to furnish text readers for public schools set up by Bancroft & Co. The concluding remarks are as lows:

We are not sure that the Pacific Coast Text Books are superior to the McGuffey series. There is a wide divergence of opinion in that regard among our best teachers. But if they are better our idea is this: If we desire to combine utility with economy, and keep this sum of $180,000 yearly in the State, let us do our own printing. Pay Bancroft & Co. for their copyright, or appoint a commission of our most talented teachers and authors to get up something equally as good or better than either McGuffey's or the Pacific Coast series, and then print them in our State printing office. This State has one of the best and most complete offices in the United States, and the work heretofore to be done has not kept the presses and material employed one-fourth of the time. The establishment of an office to be owned by the State was an experiment, but it has been tried and proved a grand economic success, as, we were informed while in Sacramento last August, it had, since being started, saved to the State four times its cost price. We have hundreds of good printers who are idle, and as many more who cannot obtain work over about one-half the time in printing establishments we now have on this coast, and if we can utilize this State printing office by giving them employment we shall be gainers in more ways than one.

We do not say that a change of text books is not desirable. We go in for progress in any form, but, if we make this change, we hope the members of the Legislature will see that money and undue influences are not used in passing the bill, and that it shall be so framed as to compel Bancroft & Co., or whoever gets the contract, to have the work done upon this coast, and to fix the price to be charged for the books after the even exchange has been effected.

THE INDEPENDENT has advocated the proposed change in readers (the only text book, by the way, embraced or contemplated in Bancroft & Co's proposition), because, first, that we believe them best suited to the present day; secondly, because, under that firm's offer, their substitution need not add a dollar's extra cost to parents; and, thirdly, we believe strongly in the principle of in all cases giving the preference to home productions and home institutions when conditions give the choice. In this last we know we but express our neighbor's sentiments, and as he does our own in his suggestion that when the change be made it should be distinctly stipulated that the entire work of producing the new books be done by home labor, material and brains. Bancroft & Co. have already agreed to those conditions in full, if we understand the matter rightly, and also to a satisfactory and permanent schedule of prices. Such being the assumed facts, and that firm being perfectly competent to fulfill all required conditions, and the only home institution to submit proposals, we think they are entitled to the preference, even over the State printing office itself since the amount of employment given to needy printers, bookbinders, etc,, must be, necessarily, about the same. However, the suggestion by the News that the printing be done in the State office, a new work be compiled, etc., is worth attention by a legislative committee before the main question is finally disposed of.

THE President declares that he will veto any silver bill which does not expressly except from its operations the payment of the public debt. This is the signal that the silver bill will not become a law this session, notwithstanding the hopes of the entire laboring class of the country. It is not probable that a two-thirds majority can be obtained in the Senate.

COL. BLOOD, Woodhull's paramour has been defrauding a woman's rights woman in St. Louis. Possibly this bloody victim will now put in the plea that she had no right to be defrauded, being "only a woman."

THE best sporting paper published, in our opinion, is the Pacific Life, a 16-page weekly, of San Francisco. It ought to be on the tables of every saloon and hotel.

THEY never do things by halves over in Virginia. The net receipts of a Catholic fair just closed in that town were $10,191 60.

CONUNDRUM.—Why is a greenback like poor, fallen man? Because it must have a redeemer or there is no salvation for it.

It was a backward debtor who said: "The dues you say."

DECLINES.—Ex-Governor Haight, in a letter addressed to the Sonoma Democrat, declines to become a candidate for the United States Senate, saying among other things that "the question whether I would be a candidate for the Senate was propounded to me three or four weeks since by different gentlemen in the interior of the State, and my reply in substance was that the business reasons which induced me to decline the nomination in 1873 had ceased to exist, and that I could now afford to serve, but would not consent to make a personal canvass for the office. Since giving this qualified assent I have had occasion to exchange views personally and by correspondence with a number of friends upon whose good faith and judgment I can rely, and the prevalent opinion seems to be that inasmuch as it was not supposed prior to the election that I would be a candidate, and as a number of the members elect are committed to others, it would necessitate my presence at the Capital, and personal canvass there, to secure election. Without assuming that there would be anything intrinsically improper in this, and without intending to reflect in the least upon those who comply with this custom, it is inadmissible so far as I am concerned, and has determined me to decline being considered in connection with the office."

IMPORTANT TO HOTEL KEEPERS.—Major General Hancock has been beaten in a suit to recover from a hotel proprietor the value of $3,000 worth of jewels stolen from a hotel at which he was boarding. The loss of the jewels was proven; also, the absence from the rooms of the usual notice that there was a safe in the office for the deposit of valuables, and that the landlord was not responsible for valuables not so deposited. The defense was, that as Gen. Hancock occupied the rooms not as an ordinary guest, but as a boarder, under a special contract, at lower than the usual hotel rates, the provision of the inn law fixing the proprietors' responsibility did not apply to him. In other words, that he was a boarder, and not the guest of an inn. The referee, to whom the case was referred by the Supreme Court, gave judgment on this ground for the hotel keeper, citing numerous law decisions to sustain this position. As the case was vigorously contested, the result is of importance to all hotel keepers.

THE production of the Eureka silver district in Nevada is now, according to the Sentinel, about $500,000 monthly. That paper says:

We made a computation last week of the number of miners and furnace men employed in the district, the total reaching 1100. Taking this as the total number, and averaging their wages at $4 per day, we find that from this source coin to the amount of $132,000 is monthly disbursed to this class, the money finding its way into general circulation and stimulating every branch and artery of trade. The present consumption of charcoal will amount to an average of 10,400 bushels daily, or 312,000 bushels a month. The companies pay for this fuel an average of $80,000 per month, every dollar of which is a direct contribution to a home industry, and is retained within our borders. Taking into consideration wood, timbers and mining supplies, the amount of cash disbursed monthly that finds its way into home channels will not fall short of $250,000.

A LOS ANGELES dispatch of the 23d says great excitement prevails in Yuma, Arizona, owing to the unexpected discovery of fourteen well-authenticated cases of small-pox in the city. It is stated that the County physician was in attendance upon the parties first attacked, but preserved the strictest secrecy in regard thereto until the number and virulence rendered publicity necessary. There was a feeling of intense indignation among the people against the physician when the spread of the disease was first made known. The most rigid quarantine regulations will at once be established to prevent the entrance of the disease into Los Angeles through the medium of passengers on incoming trains from Yuma.

MAKING A NAME FOR HIMSELF.—According to statements published in the Southern Californian, Judge Colby, of the Kern County Court, is getting to be most insufferably arrogant and vindictive in the performance of his official duties. The details of his latest offendings are too lengthy for us to attempt even a synopsis and would hardly be worth an allusion except that the Judge is known to many of our readers in this county, and that this is by no means the first time he has been charged with such high-handed official conduct.

MAJOR RENO'S conduct at the battle which resulted in the slaughter of Gen. Custer and his men is severely criticised by the New York press in view of Sitting Bull's corroboration of the stories heretofore told of the affair by scouts and friendly Indians.

THE silver bill, in an amended form will probably pass the Senate at this session. Thirty-nine Senators are said to favor the measure, thirty-two are against it and twelve are doubtful.

STATE Legislatures adopt too many memorials to Congress. The Missouri Legislature, always modest, now asks the law-makers at Washington to do various things, among which are: To remove the National Capital to Missouri; to repeal the bankrupt law; to build a Southern Trans-Continental railroad on the 32d and 33d parallels of latitude, from the Mississippi river to the Pacific ocean; to widen and deepen the channel of the Mississippi river in Missouri.

ANOTHER DISTINGUISHED JUDGE. Judge Bob Ferrall of the San Francisco Police Court, heard the cases of Kearney, et als, the San Francisco incendaries, and dismissed the charge "because not sustained." This action excites great indignation in certain quarters against his Honor, it being alleged that his conclusions were false on their face, and that it was simply a bid for favor among the class represented by this Kearney—or, what is quite as likely, through fear of them.

COL. KANE, the new Mayor of Baltimore, in his inaugural address, said all it was necessary to say in the following three sentences: "I shall administer the city's affairs with all judicious economy. Taxes ought to be diminished very considerably. I always entertained the opinion that the way to give employment to working men is to hold out an inducement to the capitalist to invest in property and manufactures."

THE late Commodore Vanderbilt was a physical wonder, if the evidence given by the members of the family is to be believed. He had dyspepsia, flatulence, hernia, pleurisy, heart disease, dropsy, Bright's disease, a second wife, and other diseases yet to be developed in the progress of the trial. And yet the shaky invalid lived to be an octogenarian, only succumbing to this no small fraction of "the thousand ills that flesh is heir to" at the age of 84.

IN the House, Representative Garfield made a powerful speech in favor of hard money and against the bill repealing the resumption act. It is declared to be the best ever delivered on finance in Congress.

THE members of the French ministry have resigned in a body. A well informed Paris correspondent gives it as his opinion that civil war in France is only a question of weeks, perhaps days.

THE trial of Gen. Escopedo at Brownsville, Texas, for violation of the United States neutrality laws, resulted in his acquittal.

New Counties.

The approaching session of the Legislature brings forward the usual crop of proposals for the formation of new counties. All these questions are, of course, best understood by the districts concerned. But it should not be overlooked that the creation of a new county of necessity involves increased taxation. Just at this time there is a popular demand everywhere for retrenchment. This cry is stronger in the interior possibly than elsewhere. There can be no decrease in the burdens of tax-payers if they are to be saddled with the cost of another set of officials. And this is not the only outlay. There must be new county buildings erected, the expense of which runs into hundreds of thousands of dollars. To raise funds for this purpose bonds are issued. Struggling communities are by these means saddled with a heavy debt.

There are of course instances where the creation of a new county may be of great public convenience and benefit. But it often happens that such propositions are simply real estate speculations, engineered by persons anxious to sell town lots at the new county seat. These considerations should not be lost sight of by tax-payers when the question of organizing a new county is brought before them.

A project has been discussed for establishing a new county out of portions of Nevada, Sierra and Placer. It is proposed to cut off from each of these counties the slice that is situate on the eastern slope of the Sierra. Then there is a proposal to create the county of Lompoc. To effect this a strip would be severed from the northern part of Santa Barbara and the southern portion of San Luis Obispo. Some of the Los Angeles papers want that county divided, resuscitating the old project for Orange county. The people around Chico are agitating for a separation from Butte. There is also a revival of the scheme for a new county from portions of Yuba, Nevada and Placer. From the Upper San Joaquin Valley we hear a demand that the boundaries of Tulare and Kern should be readjusted and a new county formed. The prospects are that the coming session will be a lively one with reference to the creation of new counties.—S. F. Bulletin.

THERE is a probability that the French Assembly will adopt the American legislative bull dose, by refusing to vote the appropriations. They call it the "budget" in France; but garlic by any other name would smell as sweet; and MacMahon can't run a French republic without money any more than Gov. Bradley can sail the ship of State over the financial seas without a few dollars in the hold for ballast.—Austin Reveille.

IN Turkey, it is said, mining superintendents who fail to open up bonanzas are scourged and hung. This method of procedure would be very popular here if outsiders had their way.—Stock Report.

ALL SORTS.

The relatives of the late Mrs. Caroline Merrill, of New York, are preparing to contest that codicil of her will which makes Cardinal McCloskey the residuary legatee and gives him $300,000, on the ground that the lady was not in her right mind when she executed that instrument, and that she was induced to do so by the exercise of an undue influence.

Charley Ross' father, in his vain search for the stolen boy, has spent $60,000—his entire fortune—and is now a traveling salesman for an Eastern house. He has made 300 journeys in search of his lost child, and he says he shall persevere until it is found or he dies.

THE BOTTOM OF THE SEA FROM A BALLOON.—The most enthusiastic advocates of ballooning would have hesitated to declare that submarine surveys were within the province of the aeronaut. Such, however, is the case, since M. Duruof and his companion, going up in a balloon on the 25th of last August, at Cherbourg, and being at an altitude of 5,000 feet, were amazed to see beneath them, with startling distinction, every rock, fissure, and depression at the bottom of the sea. And yet, the sea opposite Cape Levy, where the aerial voyagers obtained this bird's-eye view, has an average depth of about 200 feet. So limpid did the water appear that the under-currents were perceptible, while nothing would have been easier than to sketch or map the bottom of the sea. —Chambers' Journal.

FRANK MCCULLOUGH, Superintendent of the Merrimac Mill, last evening received a dispatch from Sacramento, conveying the sad news that Charley Van Gorder was slowly dying, and there was no hope for his recovery. Poor Charley! From the earliest period identified with Nevada's leading interests; known from border to border and loved by all all. Nevada should utter a prayer for his recovery. Frank went below per lightning express on Monday evening.—Carson Tribune.

DIED.

At Independence, Inyo County, California, November 30, 1877, JOHN A. REDDY, a native of Rhode Island, aged 31 years and 3 days.

The funeral and burial will take place at the residence of his brother, P. Reddy, Esq., at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

DISSOLUTION OF CO-PARTNERSHIP.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT THE CO-PARTNERSHIP heretofore existing between D. P Macarter and W. J. Phillippay, carrying on the business of merchandising in the town of Lone Pine, Inyo county, California, under the firm name and style of MACARTER & PHILLIPPAY, has this day been dissolved, by mutual consent. D. P. Macarter will continue the business and liquidate all outstanding accounts; and all persons indebted to the late firm are requested to come forward and settle up.

D. P. MACARTER,
W. J. PHILLIPPAY.

Lone Pine, Cal., November 26, 1877.

The undersigned returns thanks to the public for the liberal patronage heretofore enjoyed by the firm, and respectfully solicits a continuance of the same.

D. P. MACARTER.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

GET READY YOUR SPECIMENS.—Register Briggs of this Land Office, authorizes us to say that he will cheerfully forward any and all mineral specimens any one may wish to send to the World's Exposition at Paris. H. G. Hanks, Room 22, Safe Deposit Building, San Francisco, is the Exposision Commissioner for this State, and his many personal acquaintaince in this county will readily agree that he is a man eminently well qualified for the position. If preferred specimens may be sent to him direct per express and C. O. D. We are further authorized to say that such specimens as parties may wish to exhibit but not to donate will be receipted for and carefully labelled, and after the Exposition, safely returned to the owner, free of expense. All the donated specimens will be brought back to San Francisco and then become the property of the State. Now, it is to be hoped every mine owner in this county and section will take the trouble to select a fair specimen of their ores and forward to this Great Exposition. If they will do so we truly believe this section will make a showing second to no other region of equal area in the world, and such a display will be certain to bear good fruits of no little value in due course of time.

DEAD.—At about 11 o'clock yesterday occurred the long expected death of John A. Reddy, from consumption, after an illness extending back for years. He came to Inyo about three years ago, then emaciated and suffering, scarcely expecting to survive the year out. As the guest of his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Reddy, and Mr. E. A. Reddy, accorded every kind attention and consideration that love and money could command, he has survived until the present. Except at moments in the last days of his life, the deceased was a man remarkable for his cheerfulness and resignation during the times when suffering most, traits which won for him the highest regard and deep sympathy of all. He was a man of fine information and liberal views, and there can be nothing but regret that the dread disease had fastened its fell fangs upon one once so robust, so young and talented. He leaves a wife and infant daughter at Providence, R. I., where his father also resides.

UNION CON.—The new works are in full operation to the 700-foot level, the repairs on the shaft below that point to the bottom or 900 still going on. It was mostly filled up, and will require some time to complete the work of clearing. Some ore is coming out, but so far nothing like such extensive bodies of ore as distinguished the old works have been encountered. One furnace is in steady operation upon ores from the old workings. The San Felipe silver ledge, nowopened at several levels, contributes its quota of rich ore, and the statement is made to us by a stockholder in the Company that the last month's work of the single furnace has produced the sum of $27,000 clear.

LAND PATENTS.—The following patents have been recently received at the Independence Land Office, and ready for delivery on surrender of the duplicate receipt: J. T. Poe, Townsite of Bridgeport, Joseph W. Sumner, Albricht Jacob, William Harriel, Francis M. Brady, Henry F. Boden, Amon Herington, Michael J. Carney, Jasper M. Harvey, Daniel M. Barnett, Louis Colleau, Jonothan W. McMurray, Addison G. Boley, Robert Arnold, John F. Denton, Thomas Williams, Thomas Clark, Sr., Moses F. Brockman, Michael McCullough, James F. Hutchinson, James G. Birchim.

INTELLIGENT BETTING.—At the Taboose races the other day, a gentleman who sometimes sports a little on such matters, and the initials of whose name might be set down as Ch. Th. Grant, Esq., got to buying pools and bought the first, second and third choice in the same race and pool, none other being sold. After the race was run and won, C. T. made some innocent inquiries as to whom he was betting against, when he was handed back his own coin, less exactly ten per cent commission. Nothing like speculation, when you get fairly started in.

THE NEW MILL.—Lumber and timbers from Stewart's mill at Big Pine has been continually forwarded to the Rex montis mill for the new addition. Five more stamps are to be added to the battery with pans and all other machinery requisite for a complete institution.

NEW STRIKE.—Messrs. Bowen and English, through the good offices of an Indian, are reported to have made a rich strike down the San Lucas canyon, on the eastern slope from Cerro Gordo, in the shape of a large quartz ledge showing free, coarse gold.

ARRIVAL.—Mr. J. S. Rothschild, principal of the firm of J. S. Rothschild & Co., San Francisco and Independence, arrived at Lone Pine by stage and thence to Independence by private conveyance yesterday, upon an annual visit.

LEE DISTRICT.—The Union Con. furnace at Cerro Gordo has been working some of the rich chloride ores from Lee District, shipped in by C. S. Mott, with results most satisfactory to all parties.

RESCINDED.—The order of the Interior Department requiring further proof as to the character of desert land applied for has been rescinded, except so far as applicable to the Visalia office.

CHRISTMAS BALL.—The Beaudry Brass Band, Cerro Gordo, contemplate giving an entertainment in their usual liberal style on the coming Christmas.

WITH THEIR COMPLIMENTS.—Thursday evening a Chinaman drove up to this office, and dumped out two of the largest and finest cabbage heads we have ever seen in this region, at the same time delivering a letter envelop addressed to the proprietors and on the same the words "From Ah Hong & Co.," that and nothing more. Altogether it leaves us much to infer: First, as to whether Ah Hong & Co., are in a strict vegetable line of business; secondly, if so, where abouts? thirdly, were these fine cabbages of home growth or imported productions; fourthly, is the presentation of cabbage heads the China method of insinuating something derogatory to the present and a former local editor, since engaged in the infernal revenue business? fifthly and lastly, Messrs. Ah Hong & Co., have our thanks "allee same," and just the same. However, being somewhat adept in matters of chirography, we suspect that that other Chinaman down there about Lone Pine, Albert H. Johnson, had something to do with the business.

FINE, INDEED.—Those Santa Barbara and Los Angeles fellows never tire bloviating about their climate, but after all, if it is fine weather they mean, we can't for a moment allow them a monopoly in that line: no country in the world can boast of any more beautiful than we might do for our own section so far this season. In fact its long drawn out fineness is getting to be distressingly monotonous. It would be a relief to have about three feet of snow in the valley and ten times as much in the mountains.

DROWNED.—On Wednesday night a man named H. Hickey, a sheep herder, left Lone Pine and went to the Bridge Station on the river, some four miles distant. About 9 o'clock in the evening he walked out from the house toward the bridge, and was gone so long that fears were excited as to what had become of him, and parties went out in search but to no avail that night. But his remains were discovered on the following day some distance below the bridge, in the water, and lying close to the bank.

THANKSGIVING.—So far as observed in Independence, the day was devoted mainly to the discussion of good dinners. Besides at residences, the Blaney and Eudey Houses as well as the restaurants of Louis Fromm and Henry Levy, served up turkies, wines and general good things for the entertainment of guests.

AN ERROR.—It appears that our report of the sale of the San Benito mine at Cerro Gordo was premature, but we understand that negotiations are pending which will probably result in a final purchase by Mr. Wheeler and Company. They also contemplate the purchase of the Italy and other mines belonging to Diaz and Silva.

DARWIN ITEMS.—Yesterday, on arrival of the stage from the south, numerous and conflicting reports soon became rife in regard to a shooting scrape between—as first reported—a man by the name of Durkee and another named Lott, both of them wagon bosses for the Cerro Gordo Freighting Company. It was at first reported that Durkee was killed by Lott, and then that Lott was killed by Durkee. In a short time Durkee had nothing to do with it, but another man, a teamster for the same company, named Jackel, had hit Lott in the back of the head with a rock and then pulled his six-shooter to kill him, when Lott turned loose with a shotgun and put Jackel's lights out. The last report is that it was a Mexican who was killed. It is impossible to get at the facts in the case, and, from the contradictory reports, we about conclude there has been no shooting at all, but that the passengers on that stage must have indulged in some new sort of whisky, which does not affect any two men alike.

The Darwin Brass Band is about to be revived, the weather now being cool enough so that the boys can get their wind occasionally.

Billy Welch's stereopticon arrived last Monday and created considerable curiosity, although it was all boxed up tightly. Wonder what a furore it will create when opened and placed on exhibition.

Does our city government want to invest in a fire engine? Sacramento has a number of second-hand ones to sell, as they have no further use for them since they introduced the steam fellows.

Elsewhere in our columns will be found the assessment notice (No. 3) of 50 cents per share, of the Modoc Mining Company, delinquent in office on the 21st day of December next. The mines are looking well, but as it is in contemplation to remove the entire smelting works down the hill and erect a mill for reducing the dry ores, we presume the present assessment is for that purpose.—Darwin News.

THROUGH the kindness of Mr. J Wood Piatt we were shown a copy of the INYO INDEPENDENT, a very neatly printed little six column folio sheet, published weekly at Independence, Inyo county, California. It is a very newsy and spicy paper and shows evidence of good typographical work. In the district Court calendar of this sheet we notice the names of Reddy & Conklin, as counsellors, in twenty-one out of twenty-six cases to be tried.—Wyoming (Pa.) Democrat.

THE forgoing is from the home paper of Judge Conklin and his sister, Mrs. P. Reddy, hence the reference to the legal firm.

SHOOTING AT MOJAVE.—A dispatch came to Dr. Rogers, Coroner, on Tuesday, from Mojave, notifying him of the death of a Mexican named Jacob. The facts, so far as known, are that the wagon-master of the Cerro Gordo Freighting Company, S. D. Lott, was assaulted by the Mexican, who threw a stone in his face, and then drew a pistol, when Lott drew a self-cocking pistol and fired five shots, killing the Mexican instantly.—Bakersfield Californian.

The Bullion Trouble at Darwin—A Card from Mr. Boultinghouse.

DARWIN, Nov. 28, 1877.

MESSRS. EDITORS—As it may be of interest to your readers to hear a history of the "Bullion War,"—as it has been styled by our local paper, but which refrained from giving the public any account of the merits of the case—I desire to give a brief and correct statement of all the facts, so that all may judge how "impartially" the laws are construed and executed by some of the officers of this county, and it may be a warning to others.

Some months since a party of miners leased a mine known as the Hidalgo, then supposed to belong to the Santa Rita Mining & Smelting Company, for the purpose of extracting ore from it to either work or sell. They worked about five months, getting out in the meantime some 200 or 300 tons of ore, having men to assist them working the mine. Failing to sell, they made arrangements with H. W. Fortune, Superintendent of the Santa Rita, to smelt the ore in the furnace belonging to that company; the terms I am not certain of, but hearsay says at one-quarter the bullion yielded. While working the mine the original contractors and their employés boarded in town on credit, which they received on the assurance that the board bills would be paid out of the bullion run out, one board bill amounting to nearly $600.

They employed teams to haul ore from the mine to the furnace on the same basis, as also purchasing wood, coal and fluxes to run it with.

They started up the furnace, and the first 275 bars run, amounting to about eleven tons, were turned over to Sharp Bros., and by them shipped to San Francisco; but no money was forthcoming for any of the bills except the Sharp Bros.' bills. After running some time longer the creditors ascertained that the bullion was of much lower grade than represented by their experts and the Coso News; instead of being worth in silver $190 per ton, was in fact worth less than $104 per ton. They also learned that the balance of the bullion, 735 bars, would be turned over to the Sharp Bros. by their pseudo-Superintendent; and how he came there is a mystery, as the original contractors claim that he (Jerome Childs) was never admitted as a partner nor employed by them. They then endeavored to have the Sharp Bros. give them some tangible security for the bills, but were refused, and desiring to secure themselves they to the number of twelve attached the bullion—got judgments in all the cases, and executions were issued and placed in hands of W. F. Welch, Constable, to levy on the bullion, which he did and advertised it for sale. Then in steps the Sharp Bros. again and make affadavit that the 735 bars of bullion were their property, claiming that it owed them $2,700. Among the attaching creditors were S. Boultinghouse, having three attachments, amounting to about $575 (this was entirely for board, furnished them while working the mine). Constable Welch notified Mrs. Boultinghouse's attorney, after 4 P. M. that if his client did not furnish bonds in the amount of $10,000 before 5 P. M. of same day, he would turn the bullion over to Sharp Bros. and the Cerro Gordo Ftg. Co., this bond as after events will prove, could not be obtained in the town of Darwin (or rather no bonds furnished by property owners here would be accepted) and less than one hour given to procure that amount. I would ask any unprejudiced person to say if $10,000 is not an exorbitant and unreasonable bond to ask for attachments amounting to less than $600, and the value of all the property attached was less than $3,000. None of the other attaching creditors received any notice whatever. Constable Welch then proceeded in company with R. W. Woolard, Henry Sharp and H. Wisdom of the Cerro Gordo Ftg. Co., to deliver over the bullion to Sharp Bros. and Cerro Gordo Ftg. Co., claiming at same time to be acting in his official capacity, but having no orders from any court to that effect. But on arriving at the ground, they were met by a party of citizens who informed Mr. Welch that he could turn over none of that bullion to any one, and discretion being the better part of valor, the bullion was untouched and remained so for several days. Welch then endeavored to obtain warrants from Justice McManus for the arrest of the parties, who were at the bullion when he attempted to turn it over, but failed. Subsequently warrants were issued by Justice Gould for Manuel Castillo, J. Fronbath, R. Harvey and myself, who were arrested by Under Sheriff Gregg on charge of resisting an officer, and tried before Judge Gould and acquitted. On the arrival of Under Sheriff Gregg, alias executions in eleven cases were placed in his hands, as also one original, and he levied on the bullion, but would not fix any bonds until the arrival of Sheriff Passmore, who was expected here in a few days.

Constable Welch permitted the day of sale which he had advertised to run over, and neither sold the bullion or postponed the sale. Sheriff Passmore having arrived, it was found that the alias executions were irregular, and were withdrawn, having only one execution on!—that being for less than $250. Sheriff Passmore notified the attorney in the case, in the first instance that he would require $10,000 bonds, otherwise he would release the levy, but subsequently reduced them to the trifling sum of $6,000 (attachments, $250), and publicly stated that he would not take all the men in Darwin as the bondsmen, for the reason that there was no real estate here, and the improvements did not figure as of any value; evidently forgetting through some cause that the very same day he had collected and receipted for taxes on real estate in this place. Consequently the people here, although compelled to furnish their quota for the support of the county, were left without any protection in their rights; the bullion was released and taken by the Sharp Bros., one of whom stated in a public saloon, during the pendency of the trouble, that the bullion did not owe them anything; that the affidavit they made was done for accommodation. This conversation was heard by several parties, one of whom has made an affidavit to that effect.

Before closing I must say that no blame can attach to the original parties who worked the mine. The whole trouble was caused by a party who managed to worm himself in on them, and they are left without one dollar for their six months' work.

Not wishing to encroach on your space further, and only desiring to place myself right before the community, and show what kind of officers we have, I remain

Truly yours,

JAS. BOULTINGHOUSE.

Public Lands and Timber.

The Commissioner of the General Land Office, in his last annual report, made some suggestions touching the disposition of timber lands, which will be likely to receive the early attention of Congress. The depredations upon public timber lands during the last five years have exceeded anything in the former history of the country. There have been a number of seizures, but no adequate remedy has been provided for these encroachments. When the lands are stripped by plunderers, the value is so reduced that it is next to impossible to sell them at the fixed price. The depredators have taken from the lands nearly the entire value.

The Commissioner recommended that Congress should withdraw all timber lands from the operation of the homestead and pre-emption laws, and from all sales except for cash, at a fair appraised value, and that provision be made for the care and custody of such timber lands as are unfit for agriculture. The Commissioner refers principally to pine timber lands, but the provision should apply to all timber, especially fir, redwood and cedar. The belt of sequoia gigantae in this State is in danger of extinction from lawless depredations. A number of saw mills have already been erected upon lands over which no Government survey has been extended, and, of course, no title could pass to the occupant. Heretofore no adequate provision has been made for the protection of timber lands. It has indeed been unlawful to commit waste on such lands. But there was no money to pay the expenses of prosecution, and Federal officers have not been very zealous in prosecuting trespasssers.

Ex-Governor Pacheco has introduced a bill in the Lower House looking to the better protection of timber lands. It divides the public timber lands into two classes, and withdraws them from homestead and pre-emption entries, so that they can hereafter be sold only for cash, or located with land warrants, agricultural college scrip, or other scrip. These last provisions ought to be stricken out. No scrip should apply to timber lands. They are not agricultural and their value is greater than ordinary tillable public lands. Immense bodies of timber lands have been reduced in this State to private possession by the aid of scrip of one kind and another, mnch of which cost the holders less than a dollar an acre. Thousands of acres have been stripped of the timber where the parties had hardly so much as the color of title. Ex-Gov. Pacheco's bill provides that 160 acres only of timber land shall be sold to one person for $2 50 an acre. The aim of the bill is certainly in the right direction. If Ex-Gov. Pacheco can find some way to secure the survey and classification of all the public lands of the State, he will render a good service. Settlers are constantly embarrrssed and harrassed because they can secure no adequate title to lands wanted for agricultural purposes. The convenience of speculators has always apparently received more consideration in the matter of securing lands in this State than the actual wants of settlers.—S. F. Bulletin.

RIDING ON A WHALE'S BACK.—Mr. D. Finney, with his neighbor, Ancel Bartlett, were off Gunner's point, South Plymouth, coot shooting. They were in separate dories, as far apart as boats usually are in that sport, when a humpback whale rose some distance off and spouted. He rose again near the boat, and Mr. Finney thought, by the direction he was taking, that the next time he come up he would come ahead of the boat, and he would give him a shot. While waiting for him to come up, kneeling in the bottom of the dory, he felt a shock, and, as he expresses it, found himself on the whale's back dry shod. The next thing he knew he went down and came up on the other side of the boat. Probably the whale sank when he found he had a rider, and drew the man with him. When he came up he was near Mr. Bartlett's dory and was taken into his boat. Throughout the whole he had held on to his gun, and brought it on board with him.—Boston Herald.

GOOD FOR BAULKY HORSES.—Experiments in driving by electricity have been made in France. An electro-magnet is placed beneath the coachman's seat, from which one wire is carried along the reins to the horse's bit, and another to the crupper, so that the whole length of the spine forms part of an electric current. A sudden shock, which the driver can administer at discretion, will, it is said, arrest the most furious runaway.

A CANADIAN farmer claims to have plowed up "a petrified turtle or something," which measures 3 feet long, 2 feet wide and ten inches high, and weighs about 500 pounds.

What Pays?

IT PAYS EVERY MANUFACTURER, MERCHANT, Mechanic, Inventor, Farmer or Professional man, to keep informed on all the improvements and discoveries of the age.

IT PAYS the head of every family to introduce into his household a newspaper that is instructive, one that fosters a taste for investigation, and promotes thought and encourages discussion among the members.

THE SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN, which has been published weekly for the last thirty-one years, does this, to an extent beyond that of any other publication; in fact it is the only weekly paper published in the United States devoted to Manufactures, Mechanics, Inventions and New Discoveries in the Arts and Sciences.

Every number is profusely illustrated and its contents embrace the latest and most interesting information pertaining to the Industrial, Mechanical and Scientific Progress of the World; Descriptions, with Beautiful Engravings of New Inventions, New Implements, New Processes and improved Industries of all kinds; Useful Notes, Suggestions and Advice by Practical Writers, for Workmen and Employers, in all the various arts, forming a complete repertory of New Inventions and Discoveries; containing a weekly record, not only of the progress of the Industrial Arts in our own country, but also of all New Discoveries and Inventions in every branch of Engineering, Mechanics and Science abroad.

The Scientific American has been the foremost of all industrial publications for the past thirty-one years. It is the oldest, largest, cheapest and the best weekly illustrated paper devoted to Engineering, Mechanics, Chemistry, New Inventions, Science and Industrial Progress published in the world.

The practical Recipes are well worth ten times the subscription price, and for the shop and house will save many times the cost of subscription.

Merchants, Farmers, Mechanics, Engineers, Inventors, Manufacturers, Chemists, Lovers of Science, and People of all Professions, will find the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN useful to them. It should have a place in every Family, Library, Study, Office and Counting Room; in every Reading Room, College and School. A new volume commences January 1st, 1877.

A year's numbers contain 832 pages and Several Hundred Engravings. Thousands of volumes are preserved for binding and reference. Terms, $3 20 cents a year by mail, including postage. Discount to Clubs. Special circulars, giving Club rates, sent free. Single copies mailed on receipt of 10 cents. May be had of all News Dealers.

PATENTS. In connection with the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN, Messrs. Munn & Co. are Solicitors of American and Foreign Patents, and have the largest establishment in the world. More than fifty thousand applications have been made for patents through their agency.

Patents are obtained on the best terms, Models of New Inventions and Sketches examined, and advice free. A special notice is made in the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN of all Inventions Patented through this Agency, with the name and residence of the Patentee. Patents are often sold in part or whole, to parties attracted to the invention by such notice. A Pamphlet, containing full directions for obtaining Patents sent free. The Scientific American Reference Book—a volume bound in cloth and gilt, containing the Patent Laws, Census of the U. S., and 142 engravings of mechanical movements. Price 25 cents. Address for the paper, or concerning patents, MUNN & CO., 37 Park Row, New York. Branch office, Cor. F and 7th sts., Washington, D. Irrigation With Steam Pumps in Fresno.

A reporter for the Republican who has recently investigated the new irrigation enterprises of Fresno Slough and the San Joaquin river, furnishes the following items:

Mr. Murray, who owns a large tract of land in what is called "the pocket"—the point between the San Joaquin river and Fresno Slough, where they unite to form the main stream, has recently put up a small upright steam engine of about six horse power, with which he pumps water with a rotary pump from the river on to the level land. Everything was in readiness and fires built on Monday, Oct. 23d, and the pump set in motion. The water is raised fourteen feet. Since the beginning, three weeks ago, he has flooded 1,100 acres, most of it for the natural grasses that will grow upon it, but insuring a crop of grain wherever it may be planted on the tract. He has cheaply and thoroughly solved the question of irrigation for himself. Lying just above, and adjoining the ranch of Mr. Murray, is the large ranch belonging to, and occupied by, Gustavus Herminghaus. This ranch is one of the finest for grazing purposes in the county, and, when irrigated, also for agricultural purposes. * * * But perhaps the most important feature of this large ranch is the steam irrigation works, now nearly ready to commence operations. Mr. H. has put up a 40-horse power steam engine, with which he will run four large Chinese pumps, raising the water from the San Joaquin at the head of the ranch. A ditch six feet on the bottom and ten feet wide at the top and two and a half feet deep is required to carry the water after it is on the surface. Large tracts of grazing lands will be flooded immediately, and afterwards portions of the place brought under cultivation.

J. R. White, owner of White's bridge formerly known as Watson's Ferry, will erect an engine and pumping works in a short time. He will pump the water from Fresno Slough, and will cultivate alfalfa and other products, and will irrigate a large tract of grazing land.—Fresno Republican.

PRINTING OFFICE SECRETS.—A properly conducted printing office is as much a secret as a Masonic lodge. The printers are not under an oath of secrecy, but they always hold themselves as truly in honor bound to keep office secrets as though triple-oathed. Any employe in a printing office who willingly disregards this rule in relation to printing office secrets would not only be scorned by all his brethern of the craft, but would lose his position at once. We make this statement because it sometimes happens that a communication appears in a newspaper under an assumed signature, excites comment, and various parties try to find out who is the author. Let all be saved the trouble of questioning the employes of a printing office; they know nothing on such points as these. On such matters they have eyes and ears, but no mouth; if any fail to observe this rule, let them be put down as dishonorable members of the craft. It is the same in job printing. If there is anything to be printed and kept secret, let the proper notice be given of the desire for secrecy, and you might as well question the Sphynx as one of the printers, so that even the secret books for lodges are printed without fear.

A DECISION.—A at a meeting of the meeting of the Sazerac Lying Club last night, while the Club was working under the head of "the Good of the Order," a member wanted to know if it was permissable for a member to tell a lie in rhyme. "Certainly," replied the President, so long as ii is a ly-ric poem."—Reveille.

WHAT SOUTH CAROLINA LOST BY THE REBELLION.—In October, 1865, the Charleston Daily News attempted to give an idea of the losses sustained by South Carolina, as follows: Of $15,000,000 bank stock, all is lost. Of $5,000,000 bills in circulation, the market value is not more than 20 per cent. Of three insurance companies, none can continue business. Of $20,000,000 in railroads, no dividends can be expected. Of 5,000 houses in Charleston, 1,500 have been burnt, and others almost irreparably damaged. Of estates of descendents and minors, and of property in litigation, four-fifths are therefore valueless. Of the many large and valuable estates in Beaufort district and adjacent islands, all have been abandoned, and many have been sold for taxes. Of the stock, horses, hogs, cattle, farming implements, utensils and furniture, and silver ware, all but an inconsiderable amount have been consumed, destroyed, or taken. Of money in the hands of our citizens at the commencement of the war, or accruing from the sale of property or the practice of professions, all has been invested in securities, of which nine-tenths have no possible value. Of the debts uncollected, few are expected to be paid. Of the funds of churches, colleges, charitable institutions and societies, all also, or nearly all, have been sunk. Of the lands of the State not held by Government, little has any marketable value. Into this frightful gulf of ruin has also been swept the value of 400,000 slaves, estimated a few years since at $200,000,000, and thus, therefore, of the $400,000,000 of property in the State in 1860, but little more than $50,000,000 now remains. It would be interesting to learn how matters stand now, after twelve years have passed. A Charleston paper might render a very valuable account in October, 1877, as compared with October, 1866.

A BIG LEAD FORMING.—It is quite probable that in Steamboat Springs we have a second Comstock lode growing and forming under our own eyes, and noses, too, for that matter, as the place gives evidence of its presence to the organ of smell as to those of sight. At the springs we find a number of lateral crevices extending northeast and southwest, just the course of all our principal leads, and there is evidence that these crevices, but a foot or two in width on the surface, are of great length and breadth at no great distance below the crust of silicious matter that roofs them over. When stooping over some of the larger crevices the boiling waters below can be heard surging to and fro and lashing the walls of what seem, from the hollow, thundering sound, to be caverns of great extent. Down in these cavernous depths the work of ledge making is, doubtless, in progress. The walls are being lined with quartzose material suitable for the reception and growth of the silver and other minerals evolved by Nature from the seething caldrons of her subterranean laboratories. Probably, in half a million years she will have the soil properly prepared and ready to be made fruitful in silver and gold, and in a million or two of years hence some Comstock to be born in that day will strike it rich and bring about another grand Washoe excitement. The lode at Steamboat is steadily growing, but it will be a long time yet before it is ripe.—Territorial Enterprise.

A TERRIBLE INDIAN KILLER.—The man who has been in the Black Hills and returned is a big gun at the village drug store, and feels called upon to tell the truth when narrating his adventures. Such a man, named Curt, was telling, the other night, how many Indians he had killed during his three months' residence in the Hills.

After he talked half an hour, one of the listeners, who had kept track of the number killed, exhibited the figures. "I find," he exclaimed, "that you killed 1,500 savages in three months."

"Is that all?" exclaimed the unabashed Black Hiller; "why, I believe you have left out a week's work there somewhere." "If you had such good luck killing Indians, why didn't you stay there?" demanded another suspicious listener.

"Well, the truth is gentlemen, I was afraid of ruining my left eye. I'd squinted along my gun barrel so much that my face was being drawn out of shape, and the sight was so far gone that I had to be led about by a dog."

"And you killed Indians while in that condition?"

"I did; though I've always felt a little mean about it. I couldn't see to shoot and so I run 'em down and kicked 'em to death. It wasn't manly in me, and I want to ask the forgiveness of you, gentlemen, right here and now."

There was a long spell of appalling silence; and then some one said that Eph Francis had bought a new coon dog."—Bismark Tribune.

A SAD MISTAKE.—One of the young men at Milford sat down the other day and wrote on the back of a couple of postal cards. Then he turned them over and directed them, but by some mischance placed the address on the wrong cards. The result was the shirt manufactory in New York got a very polite invitation to go carriage-riding somewhere on the Milford pike, while the young man's girl was made frantic by receiving the following: "Please send me sample of the stuff your shirts are made of."

IN France architects and contractors are legally held responsible for a period of ten years after the completion of a structure, for total or partial loss occasioned by defective plans or work. A rule of this kind might be tried in San Francisco without doing any harm.

EGOTISTIC TALKERS.—Almost every circle is blessed with the egotist, who exercises a kind of dictatorship over it. Are you in mistake as to a matter of fact? He cannot suffer you to proceed until you are corrected. Have you a word on the end of your tongue? He at once comes to your relief. Do you talk bad grammer? He quotes rules and gives examples like a pedagogue. Does he discover there is a link wanting in the chain of your argument? He bids you stay until he has supplied it. Do you drop a word to which he has devoted much research? He inquires its primitive signification, and directly inflicts upon the circle a long philological disquisition. When you relate an incident which you suppose new and affecting, your friend listens without emotion. When you have done, he observes that he has heard the same long ago, and adds a very material circumstance which you omitted. He is never taken by surprise, and it is impossible to give him any information. And yet he never takes the lead in conversation, nor advances an original thought. It is his business to come after, and pick up the words which others let slip in a running talk, or to check their impetuosity, that he may may point out to them their missteps. Had he lived in the days of Solomon, he would have flattered the royal sage with an intimation that some of his proverbs were plagiarisms; or, had he been a contemporary of Solomon's father, he would have felt himself bound to give the slayer of Goliah some lessons on the use of the sling, and hinted to the sweet singer of Israel his private opinion that the shepherd bard did not perfectly understand the use of the harp.

A POINT connected with deep mining which has been much disputed is that relative to the increase of temperature with depth. The varying results attained by different experiments lead to the conviction that there is no fixed rule applicable to all localities and all classes of rock. That the rocks increase in temperature there is of course no doubt; but in what ratio this increases occurs is still a matter open for discussion. For the first 50 or 50 feet there is no perceptible increase; after that the increase of temperature becomes noticeable as depth is attained. But whether it is in the ratio of one degree for every 45 feet or one degree for every 73 feet is a disputed question, and the figure has been placed all the way between these numbers.—S. F. Stock Report.

CHALFANT & PARKER.

J. E. PARKER. P. A. CHALFANT.

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 8.....1877.

THE BAKERSFIELD TITLE.—The Supreme Court has rendered a very important decision in the case involving the title to Bakersfield. It will be remembered that it was decided, in the case of Edwards against Estell, that it was against public policy to allow a County Surveyor to purchase State lands of himself. Baker thus purchased the title to Bakersfield; but the Legislature passed an act March 27, 1872, curing such defects, and the Court now holds that that act did cover the defect in Baker's title. The decision affects many claimants there. It comfirms the title of large tracts held by James M. Johnson, while it defeats the claim of G. A. Bodsford and others to large parcels of land in different localities.

TELEPHONES IN THE MINES.—The telephone which has been placed in the Consolidated Virginia mine is doing its regular duty like any other part of the apparatus of the mine. It runs from the office down to the bottom of the shaft at the 1650-foot level. A fine copper wire is used which is insulated and covered with India rubber or gutta percha. The instrument operates perfectly and orders from the office to the bottom of the mine are transmitted distinctly. This saves a good many trips of the cages, and in case of an accident can be made of very great service. It will undoubtedly be introduced in nearly all the mines before long and replace the old bell and cord signal.

THE CONTEST ENDED.—After one of of the most memorable struggles ever witnessed in the United States Senate, Butler, of Hamburg fame, and Kellogg, of Louisiana notoriety have both been seated in that body, leaving its relative political divisions precisely as they were before, that is, with Sharon absent as he ever is, the Republicans have 38, votes to the Democrats 36, supposing again that the two carpet-baggers, Patterson and Conover, whose votes seated Butler should hereafter vote with the Republicans. Patterson, however, is likely to exchange his seat in the Senate for a place in the Penitentiary, so that altogether the Republican ascendency is a very uncertain quantity.

THE Official canvass, lately published, shows that woman suffrage got a big vote in Colorado, but it wasn't half as big a vote as that which woman suffrage didn't get. Those voting aye on the question number 6,612, while the negative vote is 14,054. This must be very discouraging to the women who so courageously worked up the campaign in Colorado, and will probably incline them to think that any future effort to get their rights in the Centennial State would be a waste of energy.

CHANGED HANDS.—The Territorial Enterprise has passed into the hands of Mr. R. M. Daggett, who took the helm on Saturday last. We look upon Daggett as the chief newspaper writer on the Pacific Coast, and will be greatly mistaken if the Enterprise does not soon outrank any of the cosmopolitan dailies. Among the wise changes the price of subscription for the Enterprise has been reduced—subscription for one year $10; six months $6; and 25 cents per week.

SERVED HIM RIGHT.—At Carpenteria, Ventura county, H. D. Brackett, a school teacher, seduced one of his pupils, a simple minded child, aged about fifteen, and the daughter of Benjamin Sutton. The latter, when made fully acquainted with the facts, took his shotgun and, on the 25th ultimo deposited about sixteen buckshot in the breast of the amorous pedagogue, but whether with fatal effect or not remains to be seen.

THE Secretary of War has issued an order that all names of battlefields on the army standards, which have heretofore been carried at the head of regiments, shall be kept out of the ranks till further orders. The order excites considerable comment, some not at all complimentary.

AND now comes Father Mesplie, who has spent over thirty years among the Indian tribes, saying: That Sitting Bull is a noble and able savage; a good French and English scholar; and a close student of "the Campaigns of Napoleon."

THE Erie Canal is becoming so little used that the freights no longer suffice to keep it in repair. The railroads have almost entirely superceded it; and the trade of New York City is seriously threatened by its decadence.

GEN. ORD has telegraphed for another regiment of cavalry, owing to the threatening outlook on the Mexican border.

STATE DIVISION.

The papers throughout the southern part of the State are discussing the advisability of a division of the State. They are not unanimously of the opinion that it ought to be done just yet. The Los Angeles Republican favors the proposition on the grounds that "The central portion of the State has grown fat at the expense of the northern and southern portions. A large portion of the taxes we pay is used to aggrandize the towns in the favored office-holding belt that is bound across the central portion of the State. All educational and reformatory institutions, the Supreme Court and the United States Courts, are there located. The absorbers of fat salaries and heavy perquisites there reside, and sneer at our demands for equal rights. Our representation in the Senate and Assembly is abridged, and our petitions for equitable legislation are pocketed by unscrupulous legislators."

That is more of a querulous complaint than a sound argument. It is true the "office-holding belt" enjoys the advantages named, and that the other portions of the State, north and south, pay a tax for their maintenance. But the aggregate of that tax paid by the two sections together is very little in excess of one-third of the whole; now, as such institutions are deemed necessities in every State, there would be three sets of them to maintain instead of one when the State is divided into three, as proposed—three times as much taxation to alone maintain these institutions, with no expansion of business or benefits to correspond. The reason why these institutions are now located where they are is quite as much the sequence of commercial demands as geographical appropriateness. No amount of local legislation by these new States, or additional representation accorded them, could change this set commercial tide to the local advantage of either of the new capitals or States. Yet that commercial advantage held by the central portion is the real ground of complaint in the above extract. Until natural causes, or a more determined spirit on the part of the complaining sections, turns this tide to their advantage it is absurd for them to hope for prosperity by the mere assumption of the entire burdens of separate State governments. In one shape and another they must ever continue to pay as great a tax or tribute to this "office-holding belt" as they now do, simply because it is the trade belt—and one, too, that no State lines can hope to circumscribe, or divide so as to make new ones by which to build up new States within its own wonted scope of territory.

The new southern State that is to be is to consist of seven counties as follows: San Luis Obispo, Santa Barbara, San Buenaventura, San Bernardino, Los Angeles, San Diego and Kern. The northern boundary, running nearly east and west, is to follow existing county lines. The territory embraced will contain about 60,000 square miles, or over one-third the present area of our State. But the new State will contain an immense area of utterly worthless lands, much more in proportion than in the remaining northern section, or either proposed division of it. It will be noted that Inyo is assigned to the central division. This is well; still, had Los Angeles made herself an independent railroad and business center, as she at one time might have done, the topography of the county is such it would have suited Inyo's convenience quite as well for a political and business center as where it now is. But as that golden opportunity was permitted to pass unimproved, the proposed new State has no far-reaching metropolis at any point in its lines, and but small hope there ever will be; therefore, Inyo is content to be left out; furthermore, it looks like foolishness to attempt to make such new State at all.

THE Southern Pacific railroad has made a reduction in its land rates, and announces that the charge on freight from the anchorage to Los Angeles will be $5 50 per ton. The rate on corn in car-loads, from Los Angeles to San Francisco, has been reduced to $5 50 per ton, and on broken lots to $6 25. The aggregate reduction will amount to about 50 per cent. of the old schedule.

THE Pacheco-Wigginton contest in the Senate has been postponed till December 5th. This case promises to be interminable. It was hoped that it would have been settled before now, but the outlook for a final decision is hardly more promising than it was before Congress met.

THE South has had the Speakership of the National House of Representatives for forty-six years, in the the forty-four Congresses that have been held, the first being Macon of North Carolina, and the last James James L. Orr, of South Carolina.

JOHN M. YOUNG, son of the Prophet of all the Mormons, has left for Arizona with the latest addition to his harem, until his friends settle with his Eastern creditors. Pretty much all his property in Salt Lake is under attachment.

EVENTS IN BAKERSFIELD.

The town of Bakersfield has recently been stirred to its depths (which are great, as all acquainted with its mud-puddles well know), by facts growing out of the decision of the Supreme Court just announced. This decision fully and forever confirms the "Baker title" to the town site, under which all the residents hold title to their homes and property; hence their natural exhuberance in this confirmation. In the original trial of the cause before Judge Reed, of this District Court, the judgment was adverse to the Baker title. The Supreme Court on appeal, does not remand the case back for a new trial at all, but orders the District Judge peremptorily to enter judgment in favor of the Baker title, therefore against his own former judgment. Considerable feeling was engendered in Bakersfield against Judge Reed, because of this original judgment, he being a resident of the new town of Sumner, and never friendly to Bakersfield. Another active worker in the interest of the Brower, or the adverse title, was Judge Colby, of the County Court. It is alleged that Colby had interests involved other than as a mere attorney, his nominal attitude in pushing through the grand scheme of robbing his fellow citizens, as the Bakersfield people naturally characterized it. This fact explains their expressions of animosity against that Judge also.

When the news of the confirmation of the title was received, the citizens turned out en masse to parade and give expression to their delight in every practicable way. One of these ways was embodied in a wide strip of canvass stretched across the street bearing in large letters. "Now we can READ our title clear." Observing this, Judge Reed sent word from his residence at Sumner that it must be taken down. The unanimous vote of the people present was, that his Honor must come and take it down himself. Also, during the parade, a man of straw, supposed to represent Colby, of the County Court, was set up opposite his (Colby's) residence, and burned up, to show in what warm esteem he was held. This ended that class of demonstrations.

It is to be regretted that Judge Reed so far forgot himself as to send such a foolish order, or even a request to the same purpose, at that time and under such circumstances, for such a display of temper only gave his enemies a better hold upon him. Notwithstanding the fact that his judgment is now reversed by the Supreme Court, and that that judgment was rendered under circumstances calculated to give color to the allegation that it was the outcome of his own prejudices against the town of Bakersfield, there are but very few indeed who know him, but believe it was an honest judgment; such is our own belief, without qualification. As for that other judicial functionary, Colby, we are inclined to think he has labored hard for a long time to render himself full worthy of the effigy indignity tendered by his own townspeople, and therefore, from this distant standpoint, it is not worth our while to tender sympathy on his account.

THE Grangers of California are making efforts, after the manner of Nebraska, to establish a festival "arbor day"—on this day every man, woman and child plants a tree of some kind. Such a festive custom would, in five years, change the landscape and the climate of the State.

THE State of Virginia has suffered immensely from floods in the past few weeks. Cities were flooded, and great destruction wrought everywhere. The like has not been experienced there before for many years.

A. H. STEPHENS is assuredly a loyal American. He said the other day: "I would rather be hanged in the United States than live in any other country."

THERE are 3,438 breweries in the United States, which produce ten million barrels of beer annually.

THE LEGISLATURE.

The California Legislature convened at 12 o'clock last Monday. Lieut. Gov. Johnson called the Senate to order, and Judge Bob Ferrall, the hold-over Clerk, did the same for the other House.

This preliminary work done, the next business of importance was transacted in caucus. The Senate Democratic caucus nominations are reported as follows: President pro tem, E. J. Lewis; Secretary, R. C. Shoemaker, Assistants, P. Dunne and Geo. Seckle; Sargent-at-Arms, W. S. Bell, Assistant S. S. Ford; Minute Clerk, Newton Benedict; Journal Clerk, Jas. Cosbie; Enrolling Clerk, Geo. W. Green; Engrossing Clerk, Michael Mitchell.

The Republicans will make a full set of nominations, among which will be C. S. Abbott, of Monterey, for Speaker of the House, and Geo. S. Evans, of San Joaquin, as President pro tem.

In the House caucus the Democrats are having trouble and have submitted no list of nominations.

The chances for the U. S. Senatorship, are apparently about equal between Ryland, Farley and McDonald, but standing somewhat as in the order named. Some think the contest between them will be of such an uncompromising character they will all be finally ruled out and a new man agreed upon.

"The Wrong Font."—Scene in a South Side Oyster House.

A certain well known printer (whom we shall designate as Footstick), slightly intoxicated, is seated at a table perusing the bill of fare.

Footstick—"I say (hic) waiter!"

Waiter (approaching quickly)—"Yes, sir."

Footstick — "Gimme some oysters (hic). Stewed oysters; an' don't be all night about it."

Waiter departs. In preparing the stew a few clams accidentally got mixed with the oysters, and, without waiting to remove them (the waiter thinking Footstick too drunk to observe the mistake) returns and deposits the dish before him. A few mouthfuls are consumed when the man of types cautiously feeling about his soup with his spoon, presently brings forth a clam.

Footstick (wildly)—"Waiter!"

Waiter (returning)—"Yes, sir."

Footstick—"What did I order?"

Waiter—"Oyster stew, sir."

Footstick—"Oyster stew! That's so. Jes' yer look a' that! (holding up a clam). My friend, here's a wrong font oyster, (hic) or the proof lies."

ON Friday last, J. W. Freeman, District Attorney, filed an affidavit with the Clerk of the Probate Court, setting forth that Julius Chester is editor and publisher of the "Southern Californian and Kern County Weekly Courier," and that in the issue of that paper of November 22d, 1877, he published an article that is wilfully and grossly false as an accurate report of the proceedings of the Probate Court, the same being a Court of Justice. Upon the filing of this affidavit the Court ordered that an attachment issue for the person of said Julius Chester, returnable Saturday, Nov. 24th, at 10 A. M., and that the Sheriff serve such attachment and admit said Chester to bail in the sum of $500, for his appearance, which was accordingly done. On Saturday, the case coming up, defendant was given until Wednesday next to file an answer and the case continued until Saturday next.—Kern Co. Gazette.

THE Virginia Enterprise says of the first annual message of President Hayes: The communication is characterized throughout by unaffected candor, broad patriotism and an abiding faith in the justice of the popular will. In these respects it harmonizes closely with the messages of President Lincoln, which, in their concise simplicity, more resembled neighborly letters to the people than the stately communications to the Legislature of a great nation. The message is neither arrogant in matter nor manner. It is simple in style, devoid of rhetorical display, and every sentence is expressed in plain and unequivocal English.

THE temptation for cheap demagoguing is too strong to be resisted at the present time. Every stock gambler who has come to grief, every fellow who has come to want, every vicious fellow who has used up his capital of health and energy, is ready to listen to any loud-mouthed fellow who will tell him he is a victim to somebody else's misdoings rather than his own. It is true there are evils in legislation and administration that should be corrected, but it is also true that the worst evils suffered by individuals in nine cases out of ten are the result of their own misconduct.—Home Newspaper.

SIX months ago a party of young men left Burlington for the Black Hills. From time to time they have proudly written back that they were doing well. But last week one of them wrote to his father that he would be home Wednesday evening, and added, "Meet me on Agency road, at dark, just out of town, and bring a blanket or a whole pair of trousers with you. I have a hat."—Hawkeye.

THOSE PIUTES, AGAIN.—We learn that Piute John and some of his followers, just how many is not known, have put in an appearance again at the wood camp on Mono Lake of the Standard Mining Company, and have fenced in some 1,000 cords of four foot wood, and demand of the company a royalty, claiming that the Indians own all of the nut pine hereabouts. Parties were to have gone out from Bodie, well armed, who would at once convince Capt. John that his demands were useless; that the company would tear down all fences, and proceed to carry on the wood business about as usual. The representative of the Standard Company, a few days since, offered the Indians, if they would come into Bodie, to give them $100 worth of flour, not in payment of their demand or any part of it, but as a present, thinking their necessities were urgent. This proposal was refused by the Indians and will not be renewed by those who wished to make the Indians a present. It seems this same band have been making trouble with the timber men down about Benton, having exacted of Sharp a considerable sum of money or forbidding him to cut any more wood. If the Indian Agents do not call in their pets, some of these days they may lose a few. These wood men do not propose being fooled with very much.—Esmeralda Herald.

ELEVATED TRAMWAY.—All the woodwork is completed and now awaiting the arrival of iron material from San Francisco. Last Monday two wagon loads arrived comprising the principal parts of the iron work and steel wire rope; the balance is expected to arrive this week, when the tramway will be completed and in running order about the 15th inst.—Bodie Standard.

REFEREE'S SALE OF REAL ESTATE.

BY VIRTUE OF A DECREE IN PARTITION and order of sale issued out of the District Court of the Sixteenth Judicial District of the State of California, in and for the county of Inyo, in the partition suit of James Shaw against Seth G. Sneden, administrator, and John Smith et als, heirs of George Smith, deceased, duly attested the 28th day of November, A. D. 1877, to me as Referee of said Court directed and delivered, by which I am commanded to sell all the following described real estate, to-wit:

The southeast quarter, and the south half of the northeast quarter, and the south half of the northwest quarter of Section Number Thirty-five (35), in Township Number Six (6) South of Range Number Thirty-two (32), Base and Meridian of Mount Diablo, containing three hundred and twenty acres of land, being the James Shaw and George Smith ranches, situate at Bishop Creek, in the county of Inyo aforesaid.

Notice is hereby given that on Monday, the Thirty-first Day of December, 1877, at 11 o'clock A. M., in front of the Court House, in the town of Independence, in said Inyo county, I will sell all the right, title and interest of the said James Shaw and the said John Smith et als, heirs of said George Smith, deceased, in and to the above described property, at public auction, to the highest bidder, for cash in gold coin of the United States, subject to the approval of said Court.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

ANOTHER STRIKE IN PANAMINT.—On Wednesday the news reached Darwin that the small force of men left to work for the Surprise Valley Company, Panamint, had struck a body of very rich ore in cross-cut from the main shaft in the Hemlock mine, and at a depth, as we understand the matter, of about seven hundred feet from the surface. This body of ore is from seven to eight feet in width, quite as rich and of the same general characteristics as the surface bodies which gave the mine a great name and value in the first instance, but which deposits all petered out in less than 300 feet from the top as did similar ore bodies in all other mines in the district. From that point, or thereabouts, downward to seven hundred feet, the greatest depth attained, the rock has been perfectly barren, though the ledge never diminished in size in the least. In consequence of this fact the company had about virtually abandoned further prospecting as hopeless. Should the report of this last strike turn out as stated, and as we feel pretty well assured it will, its importance can hardly be over estimated. Of course the extent of this new ore body remains to be determined.

THE RACES.—The corrected programme for the coming races at the Independence track, under the auspices of the Independence Jockey Club, will be found under the head of "New Advertisements." A change has been made in the order of races, but no purse has been withdrawn while one has been increased. The gentlemen in charge of the matter propose seeing that the whole affair is conducted on the dead square—something of a novelty, in view of more recent events of the kind. Arrangements have been effected for placing the track in perfect order, including the building of a commodious Judges' stand. From what we can learn all the fast horses of the valley are in active training, and the crowd in attendance will tax the whole town to find sufficient accommodations.

NOTHING KNOWN ABOUT IT YET.—R. M. Briggs, the very efficient Register of this Land Office, tendered his resignation sometime in September last, and in the following month received notice of its acceptance, but neither then or at any time since has he been able to learn who is to relieve him or when. In this state of uncertainty he is kept here at his post when business if not inclination demands his time and attention elsewhere. As yet no one here has the remotest idea who the new Register or Receiver either is to be, Receiver May having also decided not to take the office another term, if left at his option to accept it.

LUMBER AND BUILDING AT BENTON. The number of new buildings in course of completion at Benton (upper town) make quite a showing. Lumber is delivered in town at $45 per M. Considering the distance from the mills—12 miles to the nearest—it is cheap enough; probably too much so for the teamsters. One singular fact is noted: teams returning from the northern markets to Bishop Creek load back with Benton fire-wood—not abstracted during the night, but legitimately purchased. Would it not be wise for the farmers of Gospel Swamp to plant out a few trees for fuel?

PREPARING FOR WORK.—We have it from reliable authority that M. A. Wheeler, as agent for the Swansea company, has contracted with the Inyo Wood & Coal Company for wood and coal with which to start up the old Swansea furnaces on or about the beginning of the new year. Enough ore has been secured from different parties in Cerro Gordo, including a quantity on hand belonging to the company to keep the furnaces running about three months, by which time it is hoped the company's mines will be able to furnish sufficient for continuous work.

BENTON BULLION SHIPMENTS.—The following shipments, per Wells, Fargo & Co., of bullion for the year and for the last month, November, is not so very extensive, but it shows the permanency and regularity of the little camp at Benton: For the year, $337,999 80; for November, $35,992 21.

MONO.—We had a representative in Mono this week, but he was on business of a different nature from that of a newspaper, and his time was otherwise taken up. If, however, the things that were said—the lies that were given and listened to need revising, the individual source may be considered.

GOING EAST.—Mr. Clugage, of the Northern Stage Line, was in Benton the other day, but the weather was too warm for the genial man, and after nearly evaporating in the hot springs he departed to Aurora. He will go on a visit to the Atlantic States in a short time.

TONSORIAL.—We neglected mention of the fact that our popular barber, W. H. Huff, is now temporarily located in one of the club rooms of the Aldine saloon. He is a chief at his business and conducts the only shop in the county where the uniform price for shaving is only 25 cents.

OUT OF LUCK.—J. L. Bourland, of Bishop, lost a valuable horse out of his team at Benton Wednesday last. The horse was taken sick suddenly and kicked the bucket in a few minutes, regardless of the fact that he was valued at $400 by his owner.

BULLION SHIPMENT.—Thursday's stage south took out four bars of Rex Montis bullion, weighing 236 pounds and valued at $2,300.

GAME.—Wild geese and ducks are said to be most plentiful on the river and sloughs.

SCHOOL EXHIBITION.—Mrs. A. Lowe, teacher of the Independence school, is preparing to give a school exhibition, to take place at the Court House on Christmas Eve. We hope to give the full programme next issue, therefore will for the present only say that the entertainment will consist of plays, declamations, tableaux, recitations and music, to be preceded at an early hour the same evening by the usual Christmas Tree dispensations. This tree by the way, is at the service of the public generally, and it is to be hoped all ages, sexes, sects and callings will avail themselves of the opportunity to make Santa Claus' dispensation an object of personal interest to every man, woman and child in this locality. The exhibition exercises will be mostly but not entirely by the school children themselves, but volunteer aid in the performances, as well as in the preparations, will be warmly acceptable, none the less so, because needed. A leading object in the undertaking is that the children may not only have the amusement here where there is so little to amuse, but also the benefits of the training. There is still another object which ought to enlist the aid of every citizen in the place. That is, by charging a small admission fee of 50 cents for adults, to raise funds with which to help pay off the indebtedness of the shool house, incurred, as it has been, in fitting it up with first-class furniture, and other additions to promote comfort. A statement in detail of these expenditures and balance due will be submitted soon, and in the meantime all interested are invited to visit the school and schoolhouse so as to see for themselves if the objects attained are not worth all, and more than all they cost. In the meantime don't forget that the Exhibition is to take place on Monday evening, December 24, and that no pains will be spared to make it a pleasant affair to all who may honor it by their aid and attendance, both of which is most respectfully solicited.

A GIANT POWDER STORY.—A fellow here tells this, with many protestations of veracity: He was teaming, and with his other freight was a quantity of giant powder. In rearranging his load he set a broken case of the dangerous stuff under the wagon, near the wheel mules. Soon after, his dog came along and smelling the compound of grease and dynamite, bolted a stick or two; trying another it stuck in his throat, and while wrestling with it, staggered against the heels of the off-mule. As a matter of course the mule kicked the ill-fated dog. and instantly there was a terrific explosion. Our informant adds that there was a steady rain of dog and mule meat and bits of harness indiscriminately for about half an hour before things finally cleared up. The most singular part of this story is that the narrator is not from Nevada, nor has he ever lived in that State.

IMPROVEMENTS.—The new buildings now under headway on the west side of Edwards street, our main thoroughfare, will materially improve its appearance. The Bennett livery stable is completed so far as to be ready for the siding and shingles; the celler and foundation of the Mairs' building has been finished and most of the heavy timbers framed. C. A. Walters has begun excavating for his new branch brewery, and is putting a deep drain across the street and beyond. His plan is for a cool and cosy beer celler 28x34, with a store room above. Gus. Stecker and his workmen are engaged in dressing lumber and framing the timbers for Fernbach's extensive new establishment. The Aldine saloon is undergoing a thorough repainting and remodeling, much for the better.

MONO ECCENTRICITY.—Mono is the counterpart of Inyo in her occasional bucolic attacks; and the compatibility of the two little empires is interestingly funny to a disinterested observer. The other day at Benton we listened to a proposition by some leading citizens to the effect that they would like to fire themselves out from the affiliating embrace of the aristocratic northern end of that county, and come to a county seat at Independence instead of continuing to travel the long, sinuous road to that at Bridgeport—a hundred miles or more of the roughest road in America.

FOR THE WINTER.—The McDermott, sometimes called the "Sardine" company, have perfected arrangements by which to continue work on their mines on Kearsarge mountain all through the Winter. We are informed this company have excellent prospects before them, and by Spring hope to develop something of tangible value.

SCHETIC NOTES.—We were entertained at the office of express agent E. R. Miner while in Benton and noted some things, but his anatomical field was easily exhausted and his time occupied in prospecting mail bags and express boxes—so we don't endorse the gentleman as a good miner by a long shot, though a first rate agent for THE INDEPENDENT.

THE REX MONTIS MILL.—The principal part of the heavy timbers and other material for the new mill for the Rex Montis is now on the ground, and we presume, the work of constructing it will soon begin. The design is to make it one of the most complete ten-stamp mills in this part of the State. The old mill continues to hammer away without material interruption.

SICK.—L. E. Tubbs, attorney at Bentou, was suddenly stricken with hemorrhage of the lungs on Tuesday last and now lies in a critical condition. Dan Ashley of the same place has been suffering severely, the result of a heavy cold, for some time. He will come to Independence as soon as able to travel to recuperate.

MASONIC ELECTION.—At the next stated meeting of Inyo Lodge, No. 221, F. & A. M., occurring next Saturday evening, the regular annual election of officers will take place.

SOLD OUT.—Ex-Sheriff J. J. Moore has retired from the saloon business at Big Pine.

DARWIN ITEMS.—We are informed by a reliable party who arrived from San Francisco this week that Superintendent C. P. Purinton will be here in a few days to recommence operations upon the Bella Union mine of the Coso Con. Mining Company, it having been determined by the Directors to sink a new working shaft. The company is out of debt, and has a good surplus of cash for future operations. We are glad to see them still hopeful, and believe that Purinton will eventually open up something good in the Bella Union, once the favorite mine of the camp.

It is reported that an immense strike has been made in the Lucky Jim within the last few days. We hope so.

Quite a large number of men are taking advantage of the cool weather, and have gone in different directions prospecting. Plenty of leads yet to be found in this section.—Darwin News.

WE made a flying visit yesterday out to the clay-pipe manufactory and found work progressing rapidly. A two-story building, 40 by 60 feet, has been erected; the large circular furnace eighteen feet in diameter is nearly finished, and a force was engaged in laying water pipe to connect with the main leading from the Vicente Springs. In a short time we shall be able to announce this establishment as being in complete running order. The clay and pipe have already been thoroughly tested, and found to be the best in the State. —Santa Monica Outlook.

EXPENDITURES ON CLAIMS.—The General Land Office has rendered a decision of importance concerning Section 2,324 of the Revised Statutes, which requires a certain annual expenditure on all mining claims. Commissioner Williamson holds that the first annual expenditure upon a claim located prior to May 10, 1872, should have been made by the first day of January, 1875, and the second by January 1, 1876; also, that the first annual expenditure upon a claim located since May 10, 1872, should have been made or must be made within one year from date of discovery and location, and that the amount required by the local mining laws or regulations to be expended before a record of such claims can be made may apply upon the first annual expenditure on claims thus held, if the other provisions of law are complied with. The second year commences immediately on the expiration of the first, and the required expenditures may be made at any time during the year.

THE COST OF INTEMPERANCE.—Carefully prepared statistics show that there are over six hundred thousand drunkards in the United States, and that seventy thousand die annually who go to the drunkard's grave. Every year one hundred thousand men and women are sent to prison under the influence of intoxicating liquors, while three hundred murders and four hundred suicides occur from the same cause. Two hundred thousand orphans are annually thrown upon the charity of the world by this curse of intemperance. Nine-tenths of our crime and not less than seven-eighths of the pauperism is the immediate results of whisky, and that at a cost to the government—besides individual want—of not less than $60,000,000 every year.—N. Y. Mercantile Journal.

A DAY or two ago, while in conversation with a distinguished gentleman, the subject of banks and insurance company failures came up for discussion. Said the gentleman: "Its very hard to stand in front of a large, fine house and look at it, read the sign 'Mutual Life Insurance,' and then walk in and see a fine marble counter with a robust gentleman standing behind it, who looks as if his digestion was good, and to think that there is anything wrong about the concern. But I never insure my life now. I have insured two or three times during my life, and I've outlived all the companies!"—Los Angeles Star.

THE Silver State is informed by persons just down from Tuscarora, that eight deaths from pneumonia occurred at that place last week. This disease, so prevalent and fatal in new mining camps at this season of the year, is generally caused by exposure. At White Pine, where it prevailed to a great extent at one time, it was attributed to the "pogonip," a peculiar frosty mist, which affected the lungs and brought on the fatal pneumonia. —Eureka Sentinel, Nov. 29.

STANDARD MILLS,

NOTICE TO FARMERS & OTHERS.

THE UNDERSIGNED, HAVING CHARGE OF the Flouring Mills belonging to T. D. Lewis, at Bishop Creek, would respectfully inform the public that he is now ready to accommodate any who may give him a call. This mill is direct from the manufactory; is one of Harrison's Combined Grinding & Bolting Flouring Mills, which carried off the laurels at the Centennial. Its capacity is twenty-four barrels per day. All lovers of modern improvements and of perfection in a nut-shell are respectfully invited to call and examine the mill and its workings.

Owing to his extensive experience of twenty-five years in some of the best mills on this Coast, including four years in this State, the undersigned flatters himself that he can give entire satisfaction to those who may favor him with their patronage.

All Flour from good wheat guaranteed. Flour constantly on hand to exchange for good wheat. Corn and Barley cracked to order. Corn Meal a specialty.

Terms Liberal.

A little money always on hand for buying Wheat.

I WISH TO CALL THE ATTENTION OF EVERY one subject to Special Tax Duties in Division Eight, First District, Internal Revenue Department, to the law requiring the mutilation of the revenue stamp on all packages (barrels, kegs, etc.), immediately after the said packages are emptied. Heavy penalties are imposed for refusal to comply with said law. Dealers are requested to see at once that the stamps are torn from every empty package in or leaving their possession, as I shall, from time to time as far as practicable, personally inspect all such goods.

A Very Narrow Gauge—Passenger Cars Running Safely on a Ten-Inch Track.

We find the following in a Boston letter, dated November 10, in the Los Angeles Express.

There is "something new under the sun" in railroads. At least I have seen no description in any New York paper of what has just been experimentally completed in Massachusetts. A perfectly-working, safe—yes, much safer than the ordinary—road has been produced, and which will revolutionize traffic in both passengers and freight. The cost and the price of both will come down one-half, and yet the companies coin money where now they cannot pay expenses.

The young gentleman who conceived this plan, is a practical wood and iron machinist, and also an engineer. To show how narrow a track may be, and be practical and safe, with his own hands he constructed a railroad, having but ten inches width of track, from the elevated village of Hyde Park down to the depot. He also, with his own hands, constructed the cars to run on the track. In these he carried in six weeks over 3,000 passengers from the village down to the depot, without the slightest injury to anyone. There were several short curves on the way, and the track crosses the highway twice. The people of Billerica, wishing a road across through their town from north Billerica, on the Boston and Lowell Railroad, to Bedford, a distance of 8½ miles, requested the projector, Mr. George E. Mansfield, to come and give the people a lecture on narrow-track railroads. Some said "It is a chimerical notion;" but others said, "This is of God and must prevail," and they gave a helping hand and securred a movement so far as to get a petition for a charter from the Legislature. The charter was allowed. Then the right of way was secured gratis the whole distance. Two very able men gave the way only because as they said, it was a visionary, crazy-headed scheme, and would never be accomplished. But next the stock was subscribed. Ben Butler went in for one-fiftieth of the whole stock, which was $50,000. Then came the building of the road, which was completed by the 1st of September, so that cars passed with passengers over the entire route that day, and secured the right of way. There are eleven bridges on the route, one over 100 feet long. The rail weighs 25 lbs. to the yard, which is quite strong enough; 20 lbs. would do. The road is well built and equipped; one grade is 155 feet.

The cars and engines of the road will at once attract and fix the attention. They are very well proportioned, and make a very handsome appearance. The engine is behind the tender and next to the cars, so that when the train moves the car next the engine draws down upon and increases the adhesion of the engine to the track. Both engine and cars are constructed so as to be very near the ground, giving great advantages in regard to safety, also very little oscillation. The cars have an aisle with one seat on each side, in the same manner as ordinary cars have two seats. The length of the cars allows thirty seats, each person having a seat to himself. The cars are warmed with steam, are well ventilated, have closets, wash tanks, all the modern improvements, Westinghouse breaks, etc. They weigh but four tons and a half, ordinary cars weighing on an average eighteen tons. Hence Mansfield will carry sixty persons with cars weighing nine tons, while ordinary roads must draw eighteen tons to carry fifty-six persons. The engines are equally light and less costly than on ordinary roads. It is quite evident that a road eight and a half miles long, which cost equipped $1,500 less than $50,000, and which can be run for half the expense upon ordinary roads, must be a great and notable achievement. This road cost $4,500 per mile. The trains run about twenty miles an hour. Engines weigh about eight tons, and draw two passenger and two freight cars twice per day each way, at a cost of coal only one-fourth that of ordinary engines.

ALL SORTS.

The beautiful and accomplished Miss Lurline DeMudgins, the protean artist and vocal wizardess was the victim of a frightful runaway the other day. The carriage was overturned and the gifted actress sustained a broken back in two places, her neck was painfully dislocated, and her pet dog Tramps was fatally killed all over. Miss DeMudgins has entirely recovered from the severe injuries, but the loss of her Tramps has given her nervous system a severe shock. This favorite actress expects to appear at the World Theatre shortly in a new play written expressly for her. N. B—The accident part of the foregoing is a pure—or poor—fabrication, but Miss DeMudgins is worthy of as much free newspaper advertising as any other actress, and we hope our newspaper friends will give her the benefit of this paragraph.—Norristown Herald. Oh, certainly with the utmost pleasure.—American Reporter.

A Brooklyn bride's back hair fell down, and fell off, during the ceremony in church the other evening. There was an instant pause, but nobody was brave enough to stoop down and pick up the mass of blonde stuff and hair pins. The bride left the church leaning heavily on her husband's arm. Her face was very red, and a sprout of hair (possibly eleven hairs in all) stuck out at the back of her head, tied with a bit of shoestring. And now her pa is mean enough to refuse to pay the poor hairdresser's bill!

There are times when a man feels himself a weak insect and would cheerfully go hungry two weeks for the privilege of enjoying the kicking powers of the mule for fifteen minutes. One of these occasions is just about the time a great big burly six-footer of a drayman marches in on a wet day with soggy, muddy, rubber-boots, covering the carpet with tracks looking like Chinese pictures, and pouring a pint of dirty water over a desk full of papers from an oilcloth sleeve, as he lays a bill upon it for four kits of mackerel, which he has brought to the wrong place.

There are a great many valuable lessons that are difficult to teach a boy. Through the Summer he is not at all careful in his walk, but runs his shoes over at the heel, and thereby distresses his parents. He don't care anything about this, but when November comes and he tries to crack walnuts on the pavement with his heel, and is thrown over on the side of his head by the movement, he sees the folly of his carelessness.

"That always makes me think of my mother-in-law's mouth," said Skipler to a friend, as he pointed to a saloon on Vine street, with a familiar bulletin in the window. "How so, Jack?" queried the companion, with much surprise. "Because it's open at all hours." Then they both laughed and went in and winked at a man with a diamond pin, who set out a black bottle, and said it was a fine day.

There are one hundred farmers to one saloon keeper in the Indiana penitentiary, which only goes to confirm what we have so often tried to impress upon the minds of our readers, viz: the danger and foolishness of farming when there are so many saloons in this great land which need attending. Pause for a moment of sober reflection.

"Lucullus, wilt abstract for me, from their siliceous bivalvular environment, the nutritious portions of two score ostraceons, and place them before me with proper condiments?" Lucullus, being thus instructed, repairs to the kitchen and remarks to the cook: "Gimme forty raw with salt and pepper."

"Ma," said a thoughtful boy, "I don't think Solomon was so rich as they say he was." "Why, my dear, what could have put that into your head?" "Why, the Bible says he slept with his fathers, and I think if he had been so very rich he would have had a bed of his own."

Denton (Texas) has a desperado of African descent named Joe Faust, whose tactics are rather peculiar. Cocking his pistol on a divine, he made him get down on his hands and feet, bleat like a sheep, and compelled him to butt an oak until he made the acorns fall.

"What is the age of your little boy?" inquired a venerable gentleman of the mother of an impetinent youngster. "The sauce age, of course," replied the mother. The sage saw it.

SNOW ON THE MOUNTAINS.—The snow fall in the Sierra Nevada has not been very heavy this season, and as a result the snow line along the crest and slopes of the range from Oregon to Arizona has not been established. This is not surprising, as it is yet early in the season for deep snows. The Central Pacific Railway Company's daily weather reports show that there have been tweive snowy days at the Summit since the 10th of October. The heaviest fall was 7 inches—occurred early in the present month, and the total fall is 37 inches. At Cisco 22 inches have been registered. On the eastern slope of the mountains, between Winnemucca and Toano stations, the fall of snow has been exceedingly light. One of the theories of weather sharps is that copious rains in the valleys and plains follow a heavy lodgment of snow in the mountains; and to a certain extent observation has demonstrated the correctness of the theory. It is argued that when the warm currents of air from the ocean come into contact with the colder currents from snow fields the vapor is condensed into showers which fall on the lands between the foot-hills and the coast. In the absence of the snow line the conditions are unfavorable to condensations and the rain-fall is consequently light.—S. F. Bulletin, Dec. 6.

HOW THEY DIE IN BULGARIA.—When the head of a Bulgarian family perceives that he is about to die, he sends for the priest and begins to bargain with him about the cost of his funeral. The moment he dies all the pots, pans and kettles in the house are turned upside down to prevent his soul taking refuge in any one of them, and great care is taken to prevent either man or animal—capecially a cat or a dog—from stepping across his body, as otherwise, in the opinion of his family he would turn into a vampire and be a continual nuisance to them and their neighbors. The body is buried without any coffin, in a shallow grave, and left there for three years, during which time many offerings of food and wine are placed upon it. At the end of the third year the bones of the dead man are dug up, carefully washed, put in a linen bag, laid before the altar in the village church, and, after receiving the blessing of the priest, are finally buried for good.

THE following is a list of United States patents issued to Pacific Coast inventors for the week ending November 30, as reported by Dewey & Co.: Frank A. Howig, San Francisco, production of wooden bottle-stoppers and bungs; Ivea Scoville and Plinty Bartlet, Oakland, Cal., washing machines; William P. Barclay, Virginia City, Nev., hydraulic and wire rope pumping system; William A. Cates, Union, Oregon, geographical clocks; Calvin H. Covell, Stockton, Cal., wrenches; James N. Dudley and John Anderson, Petrolia, Cal., saw handles; Henry C. Fallin, Grangeville, Cal., windmills; Thomas A. Fitzsimons, Benicia, Cal., devices for tilting chairs; George McArthur, San Leandro, Cal., chill molds for wheels; Joseph Perkins, San Francisco, signs. Trade marks—More, Reynolds & Co., San Francisco, whisky; Whittier, Fuller & Co., San Francisco, white lead.

INSTINCT OF SALMON.—The bar at the mouth of Russian river forms a barrier which effectually prevents salmon, or any other fish, from coming in, and the fish instinct, or whatever it is, is exhibited in the fact that salmon can be seen in the surf directly opposite the mouth of the river trying to get in. How the fish know, while in the ocean floundering about in the surf that they are opposite the mouth of the river is a conundrum for ichthyologists. There are a few salmon in the river now, and the only possible way they could get there is by being washed over the bar by the sea. The sea sometimes does break over the bar.—Santa Rosa Democrat, Nov. 30.

PACIFIC COAST MAIL ROUTES.

The Postoffice Department has completed and is now issuing a printed advertisement in pamphlet form, inviting proposals for carrying mails on all routes in the Pacific Coast States and Territories, during the term of four years, commencing the first day of next July. No advertisements will be made in newspapers as heretofore, but intending bidders may procure these pamphlets, containing time schedules, forms of proposals, etc., on application to the Department, or can inspect any which the law requires shall be posted at each and every Postoffice within the District above designated. Proposals will be received until 3 o'clock P. M., on February 2nd next, and awards announced on or before March 30. The routes to be let include one hundred and sixty-seven in California, sixty-four in Oregon, thirty-four in Nevada, thirty in Washington Territory, and one hundred and eighteen in Utah, Arizona, New Mexico, Montana and Idaho.

A PRESS letter from Washington has the following: Representative Springer, of Illinois, Williams, of Alabama, and Waite of Connecticut, appointed by the House Committee on Elections as a sub-committee to hear arguments and report on the Wigginton-Pacheco contest, have requested both parties to submit supplemental briefs next Monday, referring in detail to the testimony and law bearing on each alleged instance of illegal voting. The oral arguments and briefs hitherto presented have dealt mainly with the controversy concerning the alteration of the count of two votes in a San Lorenzo county precinct, but the sub-committee think it is manifestly inadvisable to devote time at present to a consideration of this particular controversy in view of the fact that each party offers to prove that a certain number of votes counted elsewhere were cast illegal and should be thrown out. The Committee will first ascertain, by examination of documentary proofs in regard to each individual vote thus challenged, whether or not it should be rejected, and after casting out all proved illegal votes from both totals, will perhaps reach a result, rendering the decision of the San Lorenzo question immaterial. Wigginton makes charges of illegality against twenty-six votes, which is nearly twice as large as the number challenged in turn by Pacheco.

A SUIT brought by the United States to recover a large quantity of timber cut on the public lands was recently tried in the United States District Court for Minnesota. The defendant shewed that he cut the timber on land duly entered under the Homestead law, but which he had not yet occupied for the five years requisite to make it his absolute property. The Court held that he might clear the land and sell the timber, if he cut it for purposes of cultivation, but if his only object in severing the wood was to sell it, without reference to improving the land, there should be a verdict for the Government. There was evidence tending to show that sale and traffic were the only purposes which he had in view, and the jury must have believed this evidence, for they found a verdict against him.

BOTH the State Legislature and Congress are beginning to tackle the Chinese question. Congressmen Shelby, of Alabama, and Nunan, of our State Legislature, start off on the same track, viz, levying a tax per capita upon every Chinamen who comes to our shores for the purpose of laboring among us, except those who come in an official capacity. Shelby's tax, $250 per capita, goes into the National Treasury. Nunan's $50 tax goes one-half into the treasury of the State, the other half into that of San Francisco.

SAMUEL BOWLES, who is now lying dangerously ill at Springfield, Mass., is New England's foremost journalist. For more than a generation he has been editor of the Springfield Republican, a journal which has acquired a national reputation. He was with the Colfax party which crossed the continent in 1865, and an account of the trip appeared in a book which he afterwards published on the Great West. According to late telegraphic reports he will very soon be beyond the realm of toil.

AN illegal voter was astonished recently at being sent to the New York Penitentiary for a twelvemonth. In the old Ring days he would have received a nice fat office.

SENATOR JONES is recommended by the Worcester Press to write a story on "That Mine of Mine."

THE JAMES' RAILROAD.

A Mr. James, residing at Visalia in our neighboring county of Tulare, has recently received letters patent upon a new style of railroad which, we confidently believe, is destined to become an all important factor in the solution of the great railroad monopoly, or "freight and fare," question on this coast—a question of far greater import to many sections of this State if not the entire Pacific Slope than the over-shadowing and all-absorbing Mongolian issue itself, threatening as the latter may be. By means of this invention, according it the excellencies to which it seems fairly entitled, it will be in the power of almost any community to dictate absolute terms to our great railroad magnates, instead of the reverse as at present; through it any energetic locality can emancipate itself from the coils of the great monopoly, and take the whip into its own hands at a less expenditure of breath and means than it costs some of them now to make useless plaints. But, independent of this general consideration, which is not specially pertinent to the object here in view, there is a fair probability that this new style of railway will soon obtain trial in our own county, and it is with that we now have to do. It will be first in order to give a brief description of the working plan of the railway.

The track consists simply of a single line of timbers laid on or dove-tailed into cross-ties from four to six feet distant from each other; these timbers, constituting the rail proper and track complete when capped with a two-inch plank spiked on, are 10 inches in depth by 12 in width. To prevent any misconception it is well to state there is but a single string of these—that is, a railway with but one rail. It is not material to our present purpose to explain in detail how these stringers are to be held rigidly in place with respect to each other and the road bed, which latter requires no further preparation than an ordinary wagon road; in fact, none at all except to lay down the ties level on the surface, so as to maintain a reasonably uniform and easy grade. The faces of the locomotive and car wheels are 12 inches to correspond to the width of rail, those of the locomotive driving wheels being covered with vulcanized rubber for the double purpose of adding traction power and to prevent unnecessary wear upon the rail. As these wheels have but a single rail to run upon it is obvious that whether arranged by pairs in trucks or singly as would be the rule for cars if not locomotives, there could be but a single line of wheels, therefore the body of the car and engine would have to be suspended between its supporting wheels or trucks placed at the ends. This arrangement permits the use of wheels of any convenient diameter, the side supports of the car with its load being so shaped or bent downwards from the axles, as to give the maximum of strength with the minimum of material, at the same time lowering the center of gravity of car and load almost to the surface of the rail—an important object. In addition to the main wheels mentioned each locomotive and car is provided with a pair of small guide wheels, set nearly horizontal, having V-shaped faces to work in correspondingly shaped grooves cut in the vertical sides of the stringer or rail, one on each side, the guide wheels of course working opposite to each other. These are held to constant contact by means of rubber or strong steel springs, and, in addition to subserving all the purposes and with less injury to the rail, of the flange of the ordinary car-wheel, their effect is to widen the gauge of the road, or what is the same in effect, to increase the apparent supporting base of the car of but 12 inches to full three feet—practically a broader base for this single rail when the low attainable center of the load is considered than that of the standard guage of 4 feet 8½ inches. Should anyone deem this gauge, even the face of the rail alone, too narrow for safety or effectiveness in any way, we need only refer such to facts given on the first page of this issue relating a road of but 10-inch gauge now in highly successful operation in Massachusetts, and to the fact that 18-inch guages are satisfying every demand of mountainous districts in Great Britain, and have been doing so for months past. It was in those the narrow-guage was first tried, and but so recently, and being such an innovation and expensive experiment withal, that the extreme limit of effectiveness has never yet been practically demonstrated: nor does this James' plan trench upon tried limits as is shown above, therefore in that direction it is no degree a problematical experiment. To put it short, we have not a shadow of doubt but this road, substantially on the James' plan, will work well in every essential particular, and, proportionate to first cost and duty performed, with less percentage for repairs to rail and rolling stock than any ordinary iron-laid wide gauge with its crushing rolling stock and smashing rates of speed. With these lengthy but somewhat necessary premises, we now take up the real business in hand, which is the construction of a tramway on the James plan, as the one most feasible, from Owens Lake to Darwin.

The distance on a perfectly practicable grade is nineteen miles very nearly, in which there will be not to exceed two miles of side hill grading, the remainder of the distance, laterally considered, being level, and on an easy grade at all points—it should be borne in mind that 200 feet to the mile is rated as a comparatively easy grade for a road of this class, being 80 feet more than for the ordinary. The estimated cost of the track ready for the rolling stock is not to exceed $2,000 per mile, which presupposes the builders to own the timber in the first place, consequently out but little more than the cost of preparation and delivery—say $20 per M, board measure, and 70,000 feet per mile, leaving $600 per mile for construction. Add say 50 per cent. to this for rolling stock and incidentals, and it will be amply sufficient to put the entire road in fair working condition.

Next as to its need—which is a matter we would prefer to submit for elaboration to our contemporary, the News, as being better posted and more directly interested—we will undertake to say this: There are at this time in sight in the various mines and upon the numerous dumps of the same in Darwin district literally thousands upon thousands of tons of low grade ores containing precious metals to the amount of from $15 to $40 per ton. That owing to the high cost of reduction on the ground the whole of this is now rated as of no more real value than so much granite. That as the most of this has to be handled anyhow the same as other waste, therefore having in reality little or nothing to be charged against it for cost of special extraction, it is possible by the means here to be indicated that every ton of this can be made to yield dollars clear profit, depending of course upon the process of reduction, of which more presently. That a similar additional profit can be realized upon every ton of the vast quantity of the so called high grade ores, much of it now being worked at a cost so near the yield as to be little else than a dead expense to stockholders.

The chances for gain through the influence of this tramway may be judged from the following: Taking the Defiance mine for the purpose of illustration, we have a cost of $1 per ton for transportion from the dump to the furnaces. Now, for $1 additional, making a total of $2, or at the highest, $2 50, the same could be delivered at a furnace on the west shore of Owens Lake. The capacity of the Defiance furnaces (two cupolas) is 60 tons of ore, and about 20 of bullion, per day. To produce this the water, (every drop of which used in the camp has to be paid for as any other article of merchandise, the rate being 2½ cents per gallon), costs 50 cents for each ton of ore reduced, while, with wood at $11 per cord, and charcoal at 32 cents per bushel, and transportation from the mine, we have, fractions omitted, $9 50 as the cost for these four items alone in reducing every ton of this ore. At the lake wood costs $5, charcoal 20 cents, ore transportation, $2, water nothing, making a total of $7 50 in even numbers at that point as against the $9 50 at Darwin, saying nothing about the saving in freights on the bullion forwarded in the ore that far toward its destined market, the vastly superior facilities for living more cheaply and healthfully, and numerous other advantages of no trifling moment in the general count. Assuming the present system of reduction to be continued without change, here is still an absolute saving of $2 per ton, equal to $120 for every full day's work of the Defiance furnace, and proportionately, as much for every other in the camp. How many weeks run of the several furnaces at these rates would it take to make a saving equivalent to the construction of a dozen such roads as this by which it can be brought about? Figure it, ye mine owners, before you levy another assessment, and also see if the above figures and assumptions are not perfectly reliable as a whole.

The greatest saving to be anticipated, and the one of special import to these low grade ores particularly, lies in the adoption of the well established "concentration process," of which we can only stop now to say that the pulp of a hundred tons more or less of ore may be concentrated into one, and that one smelted or otherwise reduced at no greater expense than the same amount of crude ore, and that the cost of the mere concentration is but a few cents a ton. Concentration of the reduction business for such an expanse of country as hereinvolved is also a desideratum of great moment. There is but one place from the lake to Los Angeles, east of the mountain, where that can be done; that is at Cottonwood creek, at the foot of the Sierras, west of the lake, and centrally located with respect to all freight routes southerly, and mining and agriculteral business of the country.

In a great degree if not absolutely so it is, or soon must be, the key to the entire mining or reduction business of the southern end of the county. By means of a long flume reaching to the top of the Sierras it commands access to the only inexhaustable supply of timber for railroad, mining, lumber and fuel purposes practicable for that entire region north of the S. P. R. R. The same is also true in respect to the only large stream of clear mountain water. It is the property of the Inyo Wood & Lumber incorporation, of which Col. S. Stevens, a man of the most indomitable energy, honest and far-seeing business capacity, is a large owner and local manager. The company have already expended in hard dollars no less than $64,500 in developing this valuable property; this was for the title to 1,400 acres of timber, the long flume, charcoal kilns, steam tug, wharves, lighter, sawmill, etc., all now as good as new. The Colonel is determined to build this road, and having authority from the company, intends to put the entire property into a pool against say $60,000 cash with which to do the work, and conceding such privileges of control to parties advancing the money that we will venture to say no capitalist having an eye to a splendid investment can hesitate to accept this offer, after thorough personal investigation of the facts as to the situation in general, and assurance of the real working merits of the road proposed.

CHANCE FOR A STRIKE.

With Inyo's grand distinction of being the best mineral country in California, and probably producing more varieties of rich ores than any similar stretch of country on the Coast, it would be an act of commercial suicide to neglect the proffered opportunity of making a showing at the coming great Paris Exposition. Nothing takes the eye of capital so well as the idea of mining the precious metals from the earth; nothing can give the world so fair an idea of the the chances for that thing as an exhibition of specimens from the numberless mines within our county's borders.

There is a chance for a ten strike in this business; no need to argue a fact perfectly patent to every thinking man. The necessity is for all to lend a helping hand, and go to work and do it. Let competent men in each district lead off with a proposition to receive, label and ship to San Francisco specimens of ores and minerals. Let every mine, ledge and deposit become represented in the grand collection; the cost and trouble is trifling compared to the possible results. The subject should be earnestly agitated at once, while we shall again refer to this important matter.

THE DESERT LAND LAW.—In his annual report Secretary Schurz, of the Department of the Interior, recommends that the Desert Land law be so amended as to require that before the entry is allowed that the desert character and quality of the tract bought or to be entered shall be established by competent testimony to the satisfaction of the Register and Receiver of the district in which the land is situated, after notice by publication for four successive weeks to adverse claimants, if any there be; that the quantity or portion of land in the tract to be irrigated, cultivated and improved shall be specially defined; that a neglect or failure to irrigate and improve the quantity or portion of the land in said tract specified for the period of six months at any time shall be considered an abandonment of the same. The Secretary also recommends that the law be so amended as expressly to prohibit the selling, or contracting to sell, or encumbering of the right or interest which the applicant acquires until final proof and payment therefor has been made, and that upon satisfactory evidence being produced of the violation of such proposition the applicant shall be deemed to have forfeited all his right and interest therein, and thereupon his entry shall be canceled.

COUNTY SEATS.—It is said that the Benton people object to traveling the long tedious road to Bridgeport to reach the county seat, and suggest that Independence would be a much more suitable and convenient place, and that the county seat be moved there. We doubt it.—Bodie Standard.

Having one Court House and county officers complete, Independence don't ask for any other to be "moved" here. If the Standard was really published in Mono it would know more about the geography of its own county, and understand that it has been suggested simply that it would be more convenient for the citizens of Benton, the southern part of Mono, to have their territory annexed to Inyo.

THE Eureka Sentinel is getting wel along in years, having entered upon its seventh year and fourteenth volume December 2. It was started nearly cotemporaneous with this paper, as a weekly, but was shortly merged into a daily and has maintained an enviable position among the newspapers of the Silver State.

THERE is serious danger of a war between the United States and Mexico. In either country is a warlike element eagerly intent on conflict. The Mexican Government is said to be massing a force on the Rio Grande that outnumbers Ord's army twenty to one; and in case the latter attempts to cross, in compliance with his instructions, there is a strong probability that he will either be driven back or will meet with such a warm reception that he will not care to cross again soon. A collision would, of course, produce a war.

FLOOD & O'BRIEN now control all of the Virginia end of the Comstock with the exception of Chollar-Potosi, Bullion and Union. The mines under their management are: Hale & Norcross, Gould & Curry, Best & Belcher, Consolidated Virginia, California, Utah, Sierra Nevada, Ophir, Mexican, being all except the Chollar-Potosi and Union. Sharon's Comstock kingly crown is taken from him and his scepter has fallen from his hand. Flood & O'Brien, Mackey and Fair are now the kings of the Comstock.

LORD DERBY'S recent statement that England would not intervene in the Russo-Turkish war, except Russia were about to occupy Constantinople, is regarded with satisfaction by both Independent and Liberal journals. The Conservative organs desire a more warlike tone. Russia denies that she will propose an armistice when Plevna falls. She doesn't propose to stop half way, but intends to capture Constantinople if she can.

THE recent strike of New York cigar makers resulted in the employment by the manufacturers of the city of about 4,000 girls. The employers say the success of the girls is marvelous, and if the strike continues, in a few weeks the men could not obtain employment, as their places will all be filled with girls. There are 12,000 men engaged in the strike.

QUITE a lively discussion is going on in the Republican ranks as to who is responsible for the present deplorable condition of the Radical party. The majority seem disposed to charge it upon Rutherford B. Hayes. But, most likely, divers and sundry rascally officials and independent papers that know too much, had quite as much to do with it.

ORDERS have been issued from army headquarters for the departure of a number of troops—cavalry, artillery and infantry—for the Rio Grande.

THE Senatorial contest in progress at Sacramento is a perfect bonanza for the saloons and the hostleries of that sleepy city.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:
SATURDAY, DECEMBER 15.....1877.

ORE SPECIMENS. — From W. A. Greenley, of the Ygnacio mine, Cerro Gordo, we are in receipt of a magnificent specimen of rich ore. It presents a combination of the richest class of milling ores, but equally adapted for smelting with galena, and the average value will not fall short of $2,000 per ton. Mr. Greenley proposes sending a big one to the Paris Exposition, through our old friend Henry G. Hanks of San Francisco. From the developments which have been going on so long in the Ygnacio there can now be no question that the mine is an immense property. There is a large quantity of ore on the dump; the ledge matter is very extensive and contains much such ore as the rich specimen in hand. Through the kindness of Under Sheriff Gregg, Supt. Blair of the Minneatta has placed us in possession of a specimen from the new strike opened out on the 4th instant, while Mr. Gregg was there. The piece in question, which will assay $3,000 per ton, is carbonate with a considerable proportion of chloride, and comes from an ore breast of four feet in thickness—the whole of which will average $300 per ton. We have also received during the week some pieces from the Red Gauntlet, a mine situated on a spur leading from Kearsarge mountain, and about one mile below and north of the Rex Montis. The proprietors, Messrs. Cunningham & McKenzie, have been unable to do more than open the ledge a depth of some 5 feet at different places, showing a strong 4-foot ledge, which is distinctly traceable for 1400 feet. The pieces of ore which have been subjected to fire test show globules and films of clear silver.

HORSE THIEVES.—The "tramp" nuisance as so far manifested in this county, is evinced by the number of horses stolen. There being no telegraph, the scoundrels deem it no trick at all to capture a horse or horses, go on their way and either sell or abandon the animals when convenient. Some weeks since a valuable mule was taken from near this place, the thief succeeding in selling and trading the animal to Mrs. Moran of Whisky Flat, who was of course the final loser. Before that a pet mare very highly valued by Mr. and Mrs. Keppler of George's Creek, was taken one night and has not been heard of since. On the night of the 6th instant four animals were taken from Sheriff Passmore's ranch at Olancha, out of which there were two fine horses. The Sheriff and others have since been in hard pursuit, and will undoubtedly stay with the work until the animals and thieves are caught. Some of these gentlemen with such imperfect notions of property rights will come to very serious grief before long.

FUNERAL.—Friends at Bishop take the trouble to send an account of a mock funeral of some drunken bum, participated in by many people there, yet we are totally in the dark concerning the facts of an actual death and burial—that of T. D. Lewis, a good man and prominent citizen. We onl know through general report the main fact that poor Lewis is dead, yet through the kindness of jokers thereabouts we are in full possession of all the details pertaining to the "funeral" first mentioned. Perhaps THE INDEPENDENT will be better informed next week, when both joke and fact will be given in full.

CHRISTMAS BALL.—The citizens, headed by the general executive committee in charge of the holiday races, announce the fact that a grand ball and supper will be given on Christmas night, either at the Court House or Mairs' new hall, should the latter be completed in time. The music engaged is the very best procurable; the Blaney will get up the supper in its usual good style, while the floor management, etc., will be of the best order. The price of tickets, including supper, has been placed at $1.

HOPEFUL.—We are prayerful for a copious rainfall in Tulare county at least, in the hope that during the next season there will not be more than ten sheep men a week in this office inquiring for the Visalia papers. One part of the annoyance is the stereotyped statement that they had "subscribed for the Times (or Delta or Age), but it failed to come."

HOLIDAY GIFTS.—Our holiday announcement for the present week is that of J. H. Stoutenborough, Bishop Creek, who has just opened out a large variety of goods suitable for a proper observance of the coming holiday season. The time is close at hand, and Bishop Creekers cannot do better than to call and examine Charley's new stock, which is really first-class.

UNION CONSOLIDATED.—The shaft of the Union Con. has been cleaned out to the lowest or 900-foot level, and drifting has begun with a strong force of miners. The new shaft house is being built of corrugated iron, and is now about half completed. It will be a fine and most substantial structure, a credit to the company and the Superintendent who proposed it.

DISCONTINUED.—The postoffice at Panamint and mail service to that point has been discontinued. There has really been no postmaster there since the death of young Corbit some months since. However, if the recently reported strike in the company's mines there proves correct, the place will not be long without regular mail service.

MINSTRELSY.—The Beaudry Brass Band, Cerro Gordo, have resolved themselves into a minstrel company of thirteen, and will make Hughes' Hall ring with melody Christmas night.

FIRE CLAY.—T. McDonough has been opening up a mine of fire clay in Cerro Gordo.

School Finances.

The following is an itemized list of obligations recently incurred in placing the Independence district school in proper shape for work:

Following is a list of the amounts contributed, through solicitations of the children, toward the benefit of the school: Mrs. Lowe, $10; Harris & Rhine $10; Mrs. J. D. Blair, $5; H. Levy, $1; Mrs. May, 2; Mrs. Schmidt, $2 50; J. C. Irwin, $5; S. P. Moffat, $5; L. Wood, $5; D. Gill, $1; D. B. Curtis, $1; Chalfant & Parker, $2 50; A. W. Eibeshutz, $2 50; J. Fernbach, $2 50; Cash, 25cts; L. Fromm, $2; Cash, $1; Mr. Mathewson, $1; W. Woods, 50cts; T. Brothers, $2; Mrs. Mrs. Eudey, $2 50; G. M. Gill, $1 50; Cash, $1 50; Mr. Walker, 50cts; A. Rose, 50cts; J. Davis, $1; Cash, $1; Mr. Huff, 50; Mrs. Trigg, $1 50; Abraham Parker, $1; A. W. H. Smith, $2; Mr. Holt, $1; T. Webb, $1; W. James, $1. Total, $80 75. There are some $25 or $30 of the foregoing remaining unpaid, which would be thankfully received. The teacher in the name of the children desires to make acknowledgments to Jos. Shalten for work donated, remodeling school house, dressing lumber and setting up desks and seats, to the value of $100; to T. A. Gardner for painting to the value of $20; to Dr. Blair for sett of maps worth $10, and to Mr. Chalfant for carpentering, $20.

CERRO GORDO.—A gentleman just down from Smoky Hill mentions the following items: For the first time in a number of years Cerro Gordo prides herself upon having a resident physician—Dr. B. E. Stevenson, late of San Francisco. He is a most successful practitioner and a great acquisition. Ritchie & Whalen, conducting a saloon business two doors above the store of Hoff & Co., are said to be doing a rattling trade, while business affairs throughout the town are considerably on the improve.

BULLION WAR.—The Darwin News proposes to give "the other side" of the Boultinghouse-Sharp-Welch & Co. bullion question this week, in detail. If the author makes as respectful and dignified a statement as the one published in this paper on the subject we shall be pleased to reproduce it—only premising that we don't care a continental cent about the matter either way, and presume that the general public are in about the same fix.

A BEAUTIFUL SIGHT.—Saturday evening last the whole town, nearly, was out watching the strange juxtaposition of the evening star, Venus, with the quarter moon. They seem to travel together for an hour or more, the star seemingly hanging on the edge and appearing far the brighter orb of the two. Madam Luna and Venus—like two girls kissing.

COMMITTEE WORK.—Representative Moffat of these counties has been assigned work in the Assembly as follows: Committee on State Prison; on Mines and Mining Interests, and on Federal Relations.

DARWIN ITEMS.—Superintenden Guptill and Mr. Tibbetts, book-keeper, of the Modoc, were both in this week and say that everything at the works is progressing very favorably. Some fifty men are employed in the mines and the main tunnel, and the daily developments are quite satisfactory. We are glad to see that operations at the Modoc are being carried on in a more careful and economical manner than characterized the management of former Superintendents. It will win success in the end.

A party in from Snow's Canyon, a day or two ago, states that the mill of the Sheldon Mining Company was started up last Tuesday morning. We hope to be able to report, in due time, a successful run and a large shipment of gold bullion. The success of this company will have the effect to encourage others having locations near them, and we may look for the advancement this season, through actual development, of a section of country which has been idle for some time.

The Emigrant Mining Company, by Peter Taylor, Superintendent, shipped per W. F. & Co., 163 pounds of fine bullion valued at $2,000. The total value of shipments from W. F. & Co's office at this place for the month of November was $13,000.—Darwin News.

THE Sacramento Bee says: A large number of gold coins, $5, $10 and $20 pieces, are met with now having their edges filed or ground, the scraps being taken as profit by the sweater. Most of these are found in possession of Chinamen, who go to the banks, brokers, etc., to exchange them for silver. The public are cautioned against receiving them, because they are not a legal tender.

THE output of precious metals for the month of November, in Eureka district, aggregates $700,000.—Sentinel.

BENTON, Dec. 7.

MESSRS EDITORS—As you are ever ready to give a space in the columns of your valuable little paper, I therefore propose to pen you a few facts and figures relative to the resources and liabilities of Benton and adjacent country—more particularly a synopsis of matters and things in the adjacent country, as Benton is quite an old town and its resources are pretty well known by the bullion shipments.

MINES.

New mines are daily being unearthed and the quality tested as to their value and to the satisfaction of lucky locators. Col. A. G. Boley formerly of Bishop Creek has made several discoveries in the Indian Mining District, and considers them worthy of his valuable time and capital. He is about letting a contract to sink a shaft on one of them 100 feet deep. The Colonel understands considerable about the profession of prospecting and we hope he will be rewarded. Messrs. McBride & Neal, who also own a valuable mine in the Indian District, have bonded the same to parties in Virginia City. And taking into consideration the above named mines, the Illinois mine, the Tower mine and various other good locations, we think Indian District bids fair to produce her share of bullion, and the day is not far off. Lake District at the head of Owens river is attracting the attention of prospectors and quite a number have gone there recently. The Big Bonanza, discovered and owned by Jas. Parker, is also bonded to parties in Virginia City, and they have gone to work with a force of eighteen men and five months' provisions, and calculate by Spring to know whether it is or is not a bonanza. The mines here at Benton are all paying well, with but one or two exceptions; during the month of November the Comanche Company shipped $18,000 worth of bullion and the Diana Company $17,000. The Diana mill is now shut down to receive a new settler to take the place of one which has been in use for three years. Parties here talk of building a first-class wagon road to Lake District via Mt. Diablo springs in Long Valley, which we think will be a paying piece of property, as it will not cost to exceed $2,000. Mr. Clugage proposes to start stage line from here to Lake District in the Spring if prospects are good.

PERSONAL.

Since our last letter the couple spoken of as having eloped, have returned, settled down and gone to keeping house, and it is supposed by some that they are about married by this time. Judge Robinson tried his maiden case last week, in which some parties were arrested for horse stealing. I believe they call it grand larceny in law. L. E. Tubbs was for the prosecution and Messrs. Mitchell, Harbin and Almond for defendant; the prisoner, Criss. Hilderbrand, was held to answer before the grand jury and not being able to give bonds was sent to jail. G. W. Cross has gone to San Francisco and contemplates going from there to Arizona. John Clark has two large teams drawing lumber to Silver Peak; the lumber trade runs lively, as there are several new buildings going up in town. Mr. Badger & Son have dissolved partnership by mutual consent, and the Sr. has gone to San Francisco. Mr. J. A. Creaser has sold a half interest in the merchandise business to James Milliner. Mrs. Holbrook, the first wife of G. W. Hightower, arrived a few days ago. Messrs. P. and E. A. Reddy are in town and shaking hands with old acquaintances on every corner. We had the pleasure of a short visit from H. L. Childs. J. L. Bourland lost a fine horse here last week, which took sick and died, and strange to say it is the first animal that ever died in Benton that was ever drawn out of smelling distance.

DIED.

At the residence of G. W. Rowan, on the evening of November 26, John E. Baker, formerly of Keokuk county, Iowa, aged about 32 years. At the time Mr. Baker was taken sick he was running the engine in the Diana mill, and after ten days of intense suffering death came to his relief. He leaves a father and three sisters in the State of Iowa to mourn his loss. He was not a man generally known here, for he made but few acquaintainces and such as those he sought were of the best class of citizens. RURAL JACOB.

THE PALACE HOTEL.—The talk about the purchase of the Palace Hotel by the United Statas Government to be used for a postoffice, military headquarters, Circuit Court-rooms, etc., seems to be somewhat premature. A reporter of the Chronicle called upon Senator Sharon to learn whether any definite measures had been taken to secure a transfer of the property. Mr. Sharon said that Gen. Coey had been looking about for an eligible site or a suitable building for a new postoffice. He had looked at the Grand Hotel and the Palace. He had himself taken no action in the matter, and did not expect to. He was willing to sell the Palace, the Grand, the Cosmopolitan, or the California Theater, of which he owns two-thirds, for Government purposes if they were wanted. If the Government desired the Palace, it could have it at less than it cost. The great dining-room would make a very admirable room for postoffice uses, and there was plenty of room for the Courts. But it might take years to consummate so important a purchase. The California Theater and Cosmopolitan were conveniently located, but a site somewhere on New Montgomery street, between Market and Howard, would, he thought better suit the commercial and general public. Mr. Sharon expects to start for Washington during the holidays, or soon after the 1st of January.—S. F. Chronicle.

THEY have a "veiled woman" in Eureka, who plays faro, and wins at it, too. She enters the haunts of the tiger closely veiled, and her identity is a mystery. No one knows whether she be beautiful as an houri or homely as a mud fence.

Consumption of Lead.

Speaking of the present consumption of lead, a contemporary says that the United States consumes 60,000 tons of lead every year. Every pound of this can be produced at home. And yet with the bounty of two cents a pound in the shape of protection, we last year imported 7,000 tons of lead; producing at the same time 53,000 tons.

The annual lead production of Europe is about as follows:

	TONS.
Great Britain	66,236
Spain	66,803
France	16,692
Germany	49,337
Sardinia	23,255
Belgium	10,352
Greece	8,483
Austria	7,635
Sweden	284
Total	251,077

Two countries only, Spain and Great Britian, are producing more lead than the United States. This production has increased as follows:

It would only require a slight increase of lead to give us a surplus for export; nor can any limit be placed on future production. We do not need any protection. Lead can be produced in this country as cheap as in any other. Lead has become an incident of silver mining everywhere west of the Rocky Mountains. Argentiferous galena is found everywhere. A few years ago the miner did not know what to do with his base metal. Now he wants nothing better than to find that his silver mine is carrying a large proportion of lead. The day is not far distant when 50,000 tons of lead will be annually shipped from the port of San Francisco to Europe. And this will be done without the aid of bounties in the shape of protection. Lead will be parted from the silver and both products will be sold in the market. The consumption of lead in the civilized world is enormous; and it is increasing rapidly. The cheaper it becomes the more general will be its use. The Eureka mines of Nevada and the mines of Inyo county, California, are rendered very valuable by reason of the very large percentage of lead found in the ore. In a shipment of a thousand bars of bullion from the New Coso Mining Company, made lately, the silver value was $12,000, the lead was $5,500. The importance and value of what are called base metal mines cannot be over-estimated, when the demand for lead is so general, and that demand increasing.

A REVIVAL.—We observe in many of our exchanges, both Eastern and foreign as well as local, a revival of interest in the mines of the Pacific Coast which had in a measure drooped during the dull and troublous times which ushered in the year of grace whose termination we are now approaching. We do not mean to say that the outside interest in our Coast's great industry ever absolutely flagged, but it became during that time, partly from the pressure of exterior events of importance, partly from its own temporary apathy, relegated to the limbo of less vital importance. It is with pleasure we observe the present change; we like to see English and Eastern papers quoting the statistics of Nevada mines as they did in the brighter days that we all remember, reprinting old statements of dividends and assessments, dwelling on the working prospects of the mines, and otherwise evincing a thoroughly reawakened interest. This is as it should be. There is nothing in the history of Pacific Coast mining to justify or even excuse neglect, however temporary, and outside capital might seek the world over without meeting with so favorable and profitable an investment as mining on this Coast affords to-day.—S. F. Stock Report.

IN a sermon, the Rev. Dr. Talmage, of Brooklyn, said: One of the great trials of the newspaper profession is that its members are compelled to see more of the shams of the world than any other profession. Through every newspaper office, day after day, go all the weaknesses of the world—all the vanities that want to be corrected, all the dull speakers that want to be thought eloquent, all the meanness that wants to get its wares noticed gratis in the editorial column, all the men who want to get set right, all the crack-brained philosophers with stories as long as their hair and as gloomy as their finger nails in mourning because bereft of soap—all the bores who come to stay five hours. Through the editorial and reportorial rooms, all the follies and shams of the world are seen from day to day, and the temptation is to believe in neither God, man nor woman. It is no surprise to me that there are some sceptical men in this profession, I only wonder that the journalists believe anything.

A SCIENTIST who has studied the situation says that Steamboat Springs is all that is now left of the immense volcano of which the site of Lake Tahoe was once the crater. The springs constitute a sort of side "blowhole," coming up through the vast beds of lava, sulphur and the like with which the big volcano, when active, filled an almost unfathomable crevice or chasm, and made what is now known as Washoe and Steamboat valleys.—Virginia Enterprise.

THE humanitarians are still much agitated about the use of explosive bullets, which the Russians and the Turks accuse each other of. It seems to us that there is nothing worse about being plowed up with one of these infernal missiles than in being macerated by the fragments of a shell or divided into sausage meat by the explosion of a mine or torpedo. With all the talk it is extremely improbable that war will ever be made exactly a comfortable sort of an affair.

CHARLEY VAN GORDER died in Sacramento at 5 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. Deceased was a Washoe pioneer, and possessed in a marked degree the best traits characteristic of the class of men who pioneered California and Nevada. A host of friends throughout this State will say, "poor Charley!" when they learn of his death.—Austin Reveille.

GEOLOGICAL SURVEY OF BRAZIL. Among the more important results so far accomplished by the geological survey of Brazil, says the Engineer, has been the discovery of the existence in Brazil, of the silurian, Devonian, carboniferous, triassic, Jurassic, cretaceous and post-tertiary formations, all of them furnishing well-characterized fossils in great variety, and of which large numbers have been collected by the commission for its investigation, and for the purpose of distribution in Brazil and of exchange with foreign establishments. So far no well-defined tertiary has been found to exist in Brazil. The survey has also been very successful in its ethnological researches especially among the kitchen-middens of Santa Catharina, Parana, San Paulo, Bahia, and the Amazons, the results of which have been announced in part, although much of interest yet remains to be published. The researches in the coral reefs have been made the occasion of securing numbers of marine animals, all of which add to the resources of the survey.

STYLE OF A BEAUTIFUL PRINCESS. The Princess of Wales at a London theatre is thus described: Her face is exceedingly gentle and pretty, and she smiles frequently as a school girl; yet occasionally a nervous and anxious expression flits across her countenance, as if she were enduring sudden and acute pain. Her hair is of a very pretty chestnut brown, and is very skillfully dressed in a style that was invented for her and for a long time worn by no one but her. A large false piece covers the whole top of her head, and from the forehead backward is one mass of tiny curls and dainty puffs; at the back the usual plaits and puffs finish the coiffure.

SOME Rebel bonds and notes, assets of the bankrupt Bank of North Carolina, were sold at auction in Raleigh recently. One man paid $6 70 for $100,000 of Treasury notes, and $3 40 for $400,000 in bonds. Another bought $182,000 worth of the notes for $2 50, and $628,000 or North Carolina war bonds for $10. One lot of unsigned notes were sold for $9 75. The fellows who are howling for cheap money ought to have attended the auction.

THE Pope comes of a long-lived race. His two brothers were nonegenarians. one dying at the age of ninety-five and the other at the age of ninety-six. During the last twenty years of their lives their death was expected at any moment. It may be the same with the Pope. His doctors assert that should he endure the early cold of Winter toward Christmas, like his brothers, he may live ten years. He is now in his eighty-sixth year.

MR. FORBES, correspondent of the London News has been a pet of the Czar, but since returning home has published an article in the Nineteenth Century that will not please the Russians. He says the Russians are corrupt in the extreme, the Bulgarians are arrogant and self-seeking, and the Turk alone has respected himself and his enemies, Mr. Forbes is now in London, and is so far recovered as to be ready for his next commission.

THE Khedive of Egypt has the first choice of all the slaves that still are sold freely in his dominions, and has no preference for any particular hue, from Circassian to Nubian. The war has ruined the slave trade this year, and $800 Circassians were sold for $200 and pretty Somali girls at $60, at the great Tanta Fair, their owners preferring to realize on them at any price rather than hold them for future delivery at a possible advance.

THOMAS JEFFERSON: "I served with Gen. Washington in the Legislature of Virginia before the Revolution, and during it with Dr. Franklin in Congress. I never heard either of them speak ten minutes at a time, nor to any but the main point, which was to decide the question. They laid their shoulders to the great points, knowing that the little ones would follow of themselves."

BRIGHAM YOUNG once ingeniously put off a simple disciple who had lost a leg and wanted him to have another supplied by miraculous growth, by saying he could command another to grow, of conrse, but begged the petitioner to consider how awkward it would be to walk around Heaven with three legs, while the other saints would have only two! The credulous sufferer went away satisfied.

THE Chicago Times has come to this conclusion: "The man who has demonstrated his unfitness to live in the social state by putting some better-fitted person out of existence, society should 'expeditiously exterminate,' without any consideration of his sanity or insanity, responsibility or irresponsibility—terms of whose meaning we have no positive knowledge."

A RED-NOSED reprobate, whose wardrobe would only have been merchantable by the pound, entered the corner grocery and planting an empty soda bottle on the counter said: "Gimme some alcohol to clean silver with." "All right," responded the dealer in wet goods, "let's see your silver."

THE Turks are unwilling to believe that their enemies are able to whip them in a square fight, and so ascribed the loss of Kars to the treachery of an unnamed pasha. Out with the bowstring.

THEY are going to have a paper in Tuscarora called the Six-Shooter. It onght to keep things popping around that district.

HOLD on to virtue—it is above all price to you, under all circumstances.

A GOOD suggestion is like a crying baby at a concert—it ought to be carried out.

A WASHINGTON correspondent writes this about the Cabinet: "We sit," said one member, "in an order carefully observed. The President has the large chair at the head of the table. On his right sits Mr. Evarts, who is the leading officer, and in this Cabinet is decidedly the most loquacious. Opposite Evarts, on the President's left, is Mr. Sherman. Below Evarts sits McCrary, of the War power, who is opposite Thompson, the Naval chief, and Key, the Postmaster-General, whose vis-a-vis is the Attorney-General, Devens. Carl Schurz is at the foot of the table, furthest from the President, because his Department was the latest in time of its institution. Mr. Hayes speaks with considerable positiveness sometimes, and more than any Cabinet Minister, walks up and down the room while talking or forming his judgment. The members push back their chairs from the table, reclining or sitting at ease. If a Cabinet Minister is absent, the Assistant represents him, thus it has happened that Fred Seward and Richard McCormick have had the right and left hand of the President."

THE Santa Rosa Democrat says: When Jerry Donahue was taken before the authorities at Ukiah and fined $50 for making an assault upon Ben Forsythe with rocks, he remarked, "Now Mr. Justice, I am going to pay this fine in gold. I could pay it in silver, but I'll pay it in gold and the premium will allow me to throw two more rocks." He paid in gold and straightway threw the two additional rocks at Forsythe.

COST OF SUTRO TUNNEL.—The entire cost of the Sutro Tunnel, up to August 1, was $2,830,597. From that date to the completion of the work, the expenditure will amount to $250,000. To provide a double track railway and wire rope transportation, and to put everything in thorough order, will take $500,000, making the entire expenditure about $3,600,000.—Enterprise.

THOUGH the Turks are incurring heavy war expenses, and the holders of their bonds whistle for the interest on them, Sultan Abdul Hamid seems to have plenty of money. At present he is having a marble staircase made at Carrara which will cost about $1,250,000.

WHEN a mother is mending her son's pants what a pang it causes her to find a euchre deck and a pistol in the pockets. And what a pang—or several of 'em—she causes the boy, when she interviews him a few minutes later on the subject.

Patent Your Mines.

The importance of patenting the mines cannot be too frequently impressed on the mining community. Every man who finds a ledge looks forward with bright hopes to its future, and is assured that success will reward his labors. When it does it seems too bad to have a defective title prevent a sale. A United States patent is a guarantee that no one can come in with a conflicting title after the patent is granted; and people will not buy mines nowadays unless they are sure of this. The avoidance of litigation with mining property is worth looking after, and when the title is once vested in the proper owner by means of a patent, that is the end of any legal proceedings.

A doubt regarding ownership is a worse thing to contend with in negotiating for mining property than a doubt as to the value of the mine itself. When a man buys a mine he is not compelled to spend more than he wants to and can stop when he likes; but in a law suit he is not a free agent. Therefore, if miners intend selling their claims or getting capitalists to aid them, the first step after getting the claim is to get the patent. Moreover, by procuring a patent the miner is released from annual expenditure. Once the mine is patented it can lie idle until the owner is ready to work it, as the title then rests in him and no longer in the Government.

Much trouble and expense can be prevented by getting a patent, and it is much less expense than many suppose. —Scientific Press.

MESQUITE GRASS.—A variety of this grass has found its way into California, or is a native of the State, and for the last four or five years has been spreading over the river bottoms, especially where the old soil has been covered with sediment. The farmers here call it joint grass. In some localities it has been named butter grass, on account of the avidity with which cows eat it, and because it is supposed to make the milk very rich and the butter yellow and sweet. It may be seen in a number of private lots in Sacramento, where it has been planted for a sod instead of Kentucky blue grass. It has spread from these lots for blocks in every direction, rooting the salt grass out and occupying the place formerly covered with this useless grass along the side of the streets. The sod formed by this grass is the most compact and impenetrable we ever saw. For sowing on the water side of levees, to set the soil and prevent its washing away, we think this very valuable. It would also prove a good protection to railroad embankments running through tule or low lands subject to overflow and rapid currents, or waves caused by winds.—Record-Union.

THE work on the new wagon road to Yosemite valley, from the town of Madera, has been commenced and it is to be finished before April, so that the new route shall be open before next year's throng of tourists begins. The surveyors report the route very favorable, the distance being less than from Merced, and the ascent no where more than four feet in the hundred, whereas it is seven and a half on the road to Mariposa. This low grade implies cheap construction, and will permit high speed. The programme is that tourists from San Francisco, instead of leaving the cars for the hotel at midnight, as they do at present, shall spend the night in the sleeping car, which will be switched off at Madera, and starting early, arrive in the valley before night, making the trip in about 28 hours, the time now required being about 50. The expense of the trip in time and money will be considerably reduced by this road, and it is to be presumed that the travel will increase.—Alta.

Rules of Table Etiquette.

1. Do not keep others waiting for you either at the beginning or close of a meal.
2. Do not sip soup from the tip, but the side of the spoon.
3. Be careful not to drop or spill anything on the table cloth.
4. Keep your plate clean; do not heap all sorts of food on at one time.
5. In passing your plate to be helped retain the knife and fork.
6. When asked for a dish do not shove, but hand it.
7. While drinking do not look around.
8. Instruct the servant to hand the cup at the left side, so that it may be received by the right hand.
9. Do not drink your tea or coffee without first removing the teaspoon from the cup to the saucer.
10. Use the knife for cutting only; never put it to the lips or mouth.
11. Break your bread into small pieces, and rest them on the plate while spreading.
12. Do not eat too fast; besides giving one the appearance of greed, it is not healthy.
13. If you find anything unpleasant in your food put it aside as quietly as possible, without drawing the attention of others to it.
14. Do not open the lips or make an unnecessary noise in chewing.
15. Do not touch the head.
16. Do not rest the elbows on the table.
17. Be thoughtful and attentive to the wants of those about you.
18. Converse on pleasant subjects with those sitting near you.
19. Do not say anything not intended for all present to hear.
20. Leave your plate with the knife and fork lying parallel, the handles pointing to the right.
21. Never leave the table before others have concluded their meal, without asking the lady or gentleman who presided to excuse you.

THE origin of the word "Canada" is curious enough. The Spaniards visited that country previous to the French, and made particular search for gold and silver, and finding none, they often said among themselves, "Aca nada"—there is nothing here. The Indians, who watched closely, learned this sentence and its meaning. The French arrived, and the Indians, who wanted none of their company, and supposed they were also Spaniards come on the same errand, were anxious to inform them in the Spanish sentence, aca nada. The French, who knew less of Spanish than the Indians, supposing this incessantly recurring sound was the name of the country, gave it the name of Canada, which it has ever since borne.

A DISTINGUISHED Chicago clergyman said, in the course of a powerful sermon, a few Sabbaths ago, that no true woman would let a man put on her shoe. This is timely, and we are glad to hear this brave voice crying in the Chicago wilderness for a deeper spirituality among clergymen. Why ministers, when they call professionally upon their lady parishioners, should always insist upon buttoning their boots, is one of the theological mysteries which has ever stumped the mere human reason of the present writer. And besides—but we will go no further than the boots.—Eureka Sentinel.

A WASHINGTON dispatch says that the order of Secretary McCrary directing that the names of battles be omitted from future editions of the Army Register has been misunderstood, and that the purpose of the order is to "incorporate a different plan of statement of the engagements" in the Register. The new plan, we are told, is now being prepared by Gen. Sherman. If the Secretary had explained this at first he would have spared himself much unfriendly criticism. Even now there will, no doubt, be skeptical persons who will unkindly suggest that his "new plan" is an afterthought.—N. Y. Tribune.

SECRETARY THOMPSON is a transparent fraud. After all his talk about "nor' by nor' east" and "keeping her about three points off" and "blasting his tarry toplights" and shouting "star bo' leens ahoy" to a friend across the street, and going along hitching his pantaloons, it has transpired that the old sea-dog wears suspenders. Let this man be impeached at once. Public sentiment will listen to no talk of concilliation in such a case as this.—Hawkeye.

JOHN HOWELL, the inventor of the White furnace, and who is now in Cherry Creek, is soon to pay Ward a visit. The furnace he has placed in running order at Cherry Creek, is said, unlike the one here, does its work well. He could, no doubt, cure the furnace here of its malady. Improvements had been made upon the furnace which the Martin White knew not of or had no right to use at the time of its erection. —Ward Reflex.

"COME, Jane, get up!" shrieked Mrs. Spilkins at the foot of the attic stairs, early this morning. "Hurry down stairs now. It's quince preserving day, you know." "Yes, Marm-a-lade awake all night a thinkin' about it," replied Jane.—N. Y. Commercial. That's a jam lie.—N. Y. World.

MATHEMATICS AND MEDICINE.—Among other talks to-day, it came out that whale ships carry no doctors. The Captain adds the doctorship to his own duties. He not only gives medicines, but setts broken limbs after notions of his own or saws them of and sears the stump when amputation seems best. The Captain is provided with a medicine-chest, with the medicines numbered instead of named. A book of directions goes with this. It describes diseases and symptoms, and says "Give a teaspoonful of No. 9 once an hour," or "Give ten grains of No. 12 every half hour," etc. One of our sea captains came across a skipper in the North Pacific, who was in a state of great surprise and perplexity. Said he: "There's something rotten about this medicine-chest business. One of my men was sick—nothing much the matter. I looked in the book; it said give him a teaspoonful of No. 15. I went to the medicine-chest and I see I was out of No. 15. I judged I'd got to get up a combination somehow that would fill the bill, so I hove into the fellow half a teaspoonful of No. 8 and a half a teaspoonful of No. 7, and I'll be hanged if it didn't kill him in fifteen minutes! There's something about this medicine-chest system that's too many for me!"—Mark Twain.

THE MONEY'S WORTH.—An English merchant prince lately engaged a rising young painter for the purpose of having his own portrait in oil conveyed to posterity. The terms were arranged. "How long do you think it will take?" asked the model. "Perhaps fifteen days," was the reply. Sitting began, and the artist entered so heartily into his work that in eleven days the portrait was done. "Why," asked Crœsus, when the fact was announced to him, "do you intend suppressing four days' work?" "It does not matter at all; the portrait is finished," answered the painter. "Well, sir, this is not business; we said a hundred guineas and fifteen days' work. I am quite prepared to stand the price, but you ought not to spend an hour less upon the work than was agreed upon." There was no use arguing with such a man. The painter took his brush again, and spent four sittings more in lengthening, little by little, in the portrait, the ears of his patron.

A BOX FULL OF GOLD.—About ten days ago a couple of young men named Jesus Gomez and Vargine, in the employ of Hancock Johnston, while digging gravel in an arroyo in East Los Angeles came upon what looked to them like an old sugar box. Upon opening it they found $4,000 in gold dust $375 in coin and about $1,000 worth of jewelry. We were unable to get a full description of the jewelry, but learn that there was one chain for which one of our jewelers offered $300. We heard the story some days ago but refrained from publishing it, thinking the find a myth, but we were assured by a gentleman of East Los Angeles yesterday that it was really true, and we therefore reproduce it as fully as we heard it.—Los Angeles Herald, Dec. 6.

A DOUBLE-HEADED SNAKE.—J. W. Linden of Los Gatos, Santa Clara county, recently discovered on the South Pacific Coast Railroad a small gopher snake with two heads. It was captured alive and brought to this city, designedly for Woodward's Gardens. The snake is 22 inches long, brown in color, and probably six months old. The heads are perfect, and each has its independent neck an inch long, on an angle to the other of about 10 degrees. The reptile is a strange wonder, and sees with facility what transpires before and behind at the same time.—S. F. Chronicle.

COMPLIMENTS.

Our readers will accept THE INDEPENDENT'S hearty wish for a joyous holiday season to all — "A merry Christmas and a happy New Year!"

THE QUESTION REVIVED.—The Carson Tribune is again advocating the cession to Nevada of that portion of this State lying east of the Sierras, but more specially of Alpine and Mono counties. Among other things it says that they "legitimately belong to Nevada, and an effort will be msde to pass a bill through the California Legislature ceding that portion of their State of Nevada. We are credibly informed that the citizens of that part of the State are desirous of being taken under the protecting wing of Silverland; also that the gentleman representing those counties are disposed to help such a measure through." The Tribune states that the Virginia and Truckee Railroad Company will rnn a road to Aurora next year, thus more intimately connecting Bodie and Mono county with Nevada. The grave and reverend Deacon Parkinson may as well waste no further ink upon "consummating this deed of so much advantage to all concerned," notwithstanding "little trouble will be experienced" in so doing. California is always magnanimous enough to supply Nevada with United States Senators, but her sisterly regard goes not to the extent of ceding away a mineral country large enough for a State of itself.

The report of the South Carolina investigating committee on the election of Patterson to the United States Senate is a wonderful document. It contains the sworn statement of sixty members of the Legislature of 1872 that they were offered money for their votes or heard of money being offered to others, and the voluntary confession of a large number of members who took the money. The prices ranged from an overcoat to $15,000. A good many of the members failed to get their money, some receiving part only and some receiving none at all. Patterson told one member who dunned him that the "d— election cost him more than it was worth," and he is doubtless more than ever convinced of that fact now. The total cost to him is estimated at the sum of $40,000.

AFTER all her life-long struggle to secure her New Orleans property, poor Mrs. Myra Clark Gaines is not to be permitted to enjoy it in peace. A number of people, most of them German residents, have filed a bill in equity claiming that the property recovered by Mrs. Gaines belongs to them by virtue of an old Spanish grant.

U. S. SENATOR.—Having, at the time of our latest advices, received the caucus nomination, Hon. James T. Farley of Amador has doubtless before this been elected by the Legislature to succeed A. A. Sargent as United States Senator. We believe that, outside of ex-Gov. Haight, the Democracy have selected their best man.

THE nearer the Turks come to being cleaned out the more exciting European affairs become. England's attitude is threatening. And Servia, now that the Sick Man is sick nigh nnto death, has declared war against him, and is going to clean him out right away all her own self.

THE gunshops in Paris are closed, and many foreigners are leaving the city. There is an internal tempest threatened there, ready to break forth in havoc and blood and murder and outrage. So says the Reese River Reveille, but it admits that there is no necessity for any anxiety in Austin.

NAST is credited with having got the best of George William Curtis in a recent difference of opinion relating to the Weekly. The editor kept out one of Nast's cartoons, and the artist refused to draw another stroke until it had been inserted. Harpers ordered it in.

THE House Judiciary Committee has agreed to recommend the repeal of the ironclad oath and the jurors' test oath, and to report favorably a bill allowing persons charged with crime to testify in their own behalf.

THE MAIL ROUTE, SOUTH.

Postmaster General Key has sent one of his advertising pamphlets to Postmaster Rowley at this place inviting proposals to carry the mails over certain routes in the States and Territories west of the Mississippi. Among the rest, bids are asked on a route described as follows: "No. 46136—From Caliente, by Havilah, Kernville, Weldon, Darwin, Olancha, Inyo, Lone Pine, and George's Creek, to Independence, 215 miles, three times a week; time, either way, 54 hours; present cost of service at the rate of $16,770 per annum." The day and hour for arrivals at Caliente and Independence, the termini, are also specified as customary, but that is of no consequence in what we have to say to this remarkable conjunction of distant and disconnected localities as points in one and the same mail line.

It is evident the Postmaster General is not well posted in the geography of this region; likewise, that he has paid no attention to suggestions of local Postmasters, Rowley's particulary, furnished in response to Department letters of inquiry; otherwise, he would not have promulgated such an absurd proposal. Possibly, though, some would-be contractor furnished him with the plan in the hope of a fatter job in doubling over more routes. It is true there was a time when a mail route existed and a contract let to carry the mail over it substantially, if not precisely, as above set forth; but that was before the construction of the Southern Pacific railroad changed the geography of the country, or turned it end for end, as it were, so that the oldest contractor would hardly know it.

Now, if Mr. Key will follow us for a moment he will perhaps see how it is, and probably appreciate the propriety of amending this proposal as we will presently suggest. Let him, on the map, place his finger on this place, designated as the Independence terminus—owing to its long name it is not hard to find on a good map. Drawing a line south, then easterly, then south again then westerly, for a total distance from point of beginning 160 miles by the road, he will have reached the town of Mohave on the Southern Pacific railroad; in that stretch his finger will have passed over these places, viz: George's Creek, Lone Pine, thence, quite near Inyo P. O., also Olancha, to Darwin, thence, at one stretch to Mohave, thereby covering every foot of road that should compose mail route No. 46136. But, as now constituted, as he advertises, he is not half around the circle to reach the furthest place included. To get on the rest of the way he will have to take the trans-continental cars of the S. P. R. R. at Mohave. After traveling west and northerly and every other direction for several hours, during which he will have steamed over the Sierra Nevadas, he will suddenly drop down on to his proposed southern terminus in a gulch, Caliente, where there used to be a town, but isn't any now; going to the north, sometime in the night Weldon, if there is any such place, is reached and passed; early next morning, barring accidents and changes in the time table, Mr. Key, at Sumner, will be advised that here he must leave the railroad and take a mule or other primitive conveyance by which to proceed thirty or forty miles, nearly due east this time, into the high mountains where he will find another point in route No. 46136, being the site where Havilah once stood, but does not stand now to any appreciable extent. Also, somewhere in that vicinity he will find Kernville, which completes his route and list. This last point may be of interest to Mr. Key inasmuch as it is there where one of his neighbors in Washington, Senator J. P. Jones, owns a 100-stamp mill and a mine that has paid a number of fine Irish dividends, with a show for more of the same sort whenever Kernville becomes itself again. By that time we are satisfied our traveled Postmaster General will know to a certainty that it is nonsense to include any of the places mentioned after Mohave in a mail route to this place.

As Mr. Rowley officially suggested the route should be from the railroad at Mohave by Darwin, Lone Pine and George's Creek to Independence, there connecting with the existing separate route north—Olancha and Inyo P. O. to be let as side service, Cerro Gordo the same, but distinct. And to this we will add that the service should by all means be increased from three to six times a week.

NATURE may be said to have gone into the refining business. Four miles from Millersville, Pennsylvania, has been tapped a well of refined oil, of a greenish tint, but as clear as though passed through a retort. From the brightness of the flame and the results of the tests, one would suppose that it was the best artificially refined oil.

A MOVEMENT is on foot at Washington to induce the Government to purchase the Palace Hotel at San Francisco for use as a postoffice and military headquarters.

"THE OTHER SIDE" AGAIN.

The Bullion Trouble at Darwin.

Editor Coso News—In the issue of THE INYO INDEPENDENT of December 1, 1877, appeared a card with the above heading, and having the signature of James Boultinghouse affixed thereto. As said card does not state the actual facts relating to the bullion therein referred to, and should the same be allowed to pass by unanswered by us it would be inferred that silence gives consent, we therefore ask the privilege of your inserting the following facts of the case in your valuable paper:

On the 2d of July, 1877, Robert Williams, Joseph Johns, Robert Harvey, William Hocking and James Trembath leased the Hidalgo mine from H. W. Fortune, Superintendent of the Santa Rita Mining Company, for the purpose of taking out ore, the agreement being that Williams & Co. were to have three-fourths of the ore taken out by them, and the Santa Rita Company the other fourth. The said Williams & Co. at the time they entered into this contract took into partnership with them Jerome Childs, on the understanding that he should manage the business affairs of said contractors, procure supplies, etc. This being distinctly understood between the parties, Messrs. Childs, Williams, Johns, etc., went in company to Sharp Bros.' store, and on the representations made them, the Sharp Bros. supplied them with supplies. After some three months had elapsed, Williams & Co., having taken out about 150 tons of ore, decided that they would have some smelted, and about the 20th of October hired the furnace of the Santa Rita Mining Company for that purpose. Messrs. Williams & Co., having no property, the Sharp Bros. went security to the Santa Rita Company for the rent of the furnace, Mr. Childs superintending the smelting on behalf of himself and partners, Williams & Co. After the furnace had been running two or three days, on assaying the bullion made it was found to be in value far below what Williams & Co expected it would be, and it was clear to all parties that there would be no profits, in fact, it was doubtful whether it would pay expenses.

As soon as this fact became known, certain parties, who had furnished supplies, became anxious as to their receiving their money, and went to Sharp Bros. and demanded either their money or to be secured by them. The Sharps finally concluded to secure them, but required, as a protection to themselves, that all the bullion made should be turned over to and shipped by them, and that the proceeds of the bullion should be received by them, and after they had been paid the amount that was owing them and also that for which they had become liable, the balance was to be paid over to Childs, Williams & Co. to pay the other indebtedness of running furnace, etc., and should any balance be left it was to be divided amongst Williams & Co. On this understanding, Childs, with the consent of his partners, turned over to the Sharp Bros. the bullion as fast as it was made, and they delivered it to the Cerro Gordo Freighting Company for shipment to Oakland wharf, and the Corro Gordo Freighting Company receipted to Sharp Bros. for same.

During the time Williams & Co. had been taking out the ore referred to, they had been boarding at Mrs. Boultinghouse's, and incurred bills for board to the amount of several hundred dollars. On the 9th day of November, 1877 Mrs. Boultinghouse, sole trader, commenced suits against Williams and others. Attachments were issued and placed in the hands of Constable Welch, of the Sixth Township, to serve, and he attached all the bullion, to-wit: 735 bars, and Welch placed his keepers, R. C. Parker and Jesus Olivas, in charge of the bullion. On Sharp Bros. being informed of this fact, and they having taken legal advice in the matter, they immediately served upon the Constable a written statement, sworn to by them, that they had a lien for $$2,770 84 on the bullion, and that they had delivered the bullion over to the Cerro Gordo Freighting Company, who had receipted to them for it, for the transmission of same to San Francisco. The agent of the Cerro Gordo Freighting Company also served a written notice on Constable Welch to the same effect, and that they would hold the Constable liable for the bullion.

In the meantime James Boultinghouse, learning that the Sharp Bros. claimed the bullion, went down to the Santa Rita furnace, in company with four others, all being armed, and on their arrival told Mr. Olivas (the Constable's keeper) that there was no further use for his staying there, and for him (Olivas) to tell Constable Welch that if he wanted that bullion he had better come down for it, and thereupon Boultinghouse and party drove Olivas off the premises. Olivas at once went to Constable Welch and told him what had occurred.

Constable Welch had notified Mrs. Boultinghouse's attorney that Sharp Bros. and the Cerro Gordo Freighting Company had served him with a notice that the bullion was theirs, and that he (Welch) would require bonds in the sum of $10,000 to indemnify himself against loss, and that should he (plaintiff) not give the bonds required by him he would then turn over the bullion to the Sharp Bros. The time having expired in which the plaintiff had been notified to give the bonds, and none having been given, Constable Welch, in company with H. W. Sharp and H. Wisdom, went down for the purpose of delivering the bullion over to the Sharp Bros. and the Cerro Gordo Freighting Company. On the parties arriving within about fifty feet of the bullion, they were confronted by James Boultinghouse, who had a carbine in his hand, and who told the parties that they could not come any further. The pile of bullion referred to was also guarded by one James Trembath, Richard Harvey and Manuel Castillo, who each of them had rifles in their hands, and who on the approach of Constable Welch and party, covered them with their guns. These men, Trembath, Harvey and Castillo, are those whom Boultinghouse claims were a "party of citizens who informed Mr. Welch," etc., but actually (with the exception of Manuel Castillo) said men were partners with Williams & Co., contractors. After a short parley with Boultinghouse, he allowed Welch and party to approach where he was standing, when Constable Welch told Boultinghouse his errand. Boultinghouse replied that neither he (Welch) nor anyone else could turn that bullion over; that they had possession of it and intended to keep it. Welch, seeing that resistance, under the circumstances, was useless, then left the ground and returned to town with his party. The day after, Welch went to M. J. McManus, Justice of the Peace, and demanded a warrant for the arrest of Boultinghouse and party for their having obstructed an officer in the execution of his duty; this McManus refused to grant, stating to Welch that he had a delicacy in so doing, and referred him to A. J. Gould, the other Justice of the Peace. Judge Gould, after reading the complaint and taking the depositions of Welch and his keeper, Olivas, finally granted the warrant, and it was placed in the hands of Under Sheriff Gregg, who arrested James Boultinghouse and the three others referred to. After Boultinghouse and party were arrested by Sheriff Gregg, Boultinghouse told Welch that if he went down there that evening he would find no one there to resist him. Welch, on this, proceeded to the Santa Rita furnace, with H. W. Sharp and H. Wisdom, agent of the Cerro Gordo Freighting Company, and then gave said parties possession of the bullion. The next morning the defendants, claiming their privilege to be tried separately, James Boultinghouse first underwent an examination, M. J. McManus, the Justice before referred to, defending him. Mr. Olivas (the Constable's keeper) testified to the facts above stated, of his having been driven off, but his testimony was ruled out on the ground "that he was not a citizen of the United States and could not act as keeper, and therefore was illegally in charge." Constable Welch was then sworn and testified, but his testimony was ruled out on the grouhd "that Olivas was not his keeper (being a non-citizen), and that Welch, when he went down to turn over the bullion, was not Constable, but simply W. F. Welch, a private citizen." The prosecution seeing that it was impossible for Welch to be allowed to testify, then declined to proceed further, and the defendant, James Boultinghouse, was discharged, and the other defendants' cases were not proceeded with.

W. F. Welch, Constable, then immediately started for Independence to lay the case before the Grand Jury, but on his arrival there he unfortunately fonnd that that body had been dismissed the day before he arrived. Had the Grand Jury been in session there is no doubt whatever that all the parties who, illegally, took possession of the bullion and were concerned in said illegal acts, would have been indicted for their unlawful acts.

During Mr. Welch's absence Under Sheriff Gregg remained in Darwin, for the purpose of seeing that the peace was kept. On Saturday, the 17th of November, 1877, certain "alias executions," amounting in all to eleven, were put in his hands by various plaintiffs who had commenced suit against Williams & Co., and Mr. Gregg levied on all the bullion and placed his keeper in charge. Sharp Bros. and the Cerro Gordo Freighting Company, upon being informed of this, at once served the Sheriff with notice and affidavit that they had a lien on the bullion. As Gregg was daily expecting Sheriff Passmore, he declined to fix the amount of the indemnity bonds until he arrived. When the Sheriff arrived he demanded indemnifying bonds, which the plaintiffs in the suits failed to give, whereupon the bullion was turned over to Sharp Bros. and the Cerro Gordo Freighting Co.

It is claimed by Mr. Boultinghouse that the bonds required, both by the Constable and Sheriff, were excessive; also, that the value of the bullion was only $3,000. The facts are, the bullion was worth over $5,600, and when a Sheriff takes an indemnity bond he requires, for his own protection, that the bond shall not only cover the value of the property, but also be of sufficient amount to protect him from costs in case suit should be brought. Again: the total number of tons of ore taken out by Williams & Co. was 190 tons; not between 200 and 300 tons, as stated in the card.

The statement made by Boultinghouse, that "one of the Sharp Bros. stated, in a public saloon, during the pendancy of the trouble, that the bullion did not owe them anything; that the affidavit they made was done for accommodation," is denied in toto by the Sharp Bros., and the amount due them, and for which they have a lien on the bullion, is still owing them, they being unable to realize on the bullion until it actually arrives in San Francisco.

It is also claimed by Mr. Boultinghouse that the Constable acted irregular in permitting the day of sale to pass by. In these cases the executions were issued on the 9th and 10th days of November, 1877, and the Constable had thirty days in which to return them. The irregularity consisted in the Justice issuing "alias executions" on the 16th day of November, and placing them in the hands of Under Sheriff Gregg when the time had not expired for the originals in the hands of the Constables to be returned.

The above are the actual facts, as can be shown by the evidence and records in the suit.

We deem this statement but just for the reason that Boultinghouse saw fit to have a garbled statement published in the THE INYO INDEPENDENT, sixty miles away, when it is well known that our own local paper, the Coso Mining News, never refuses to publish anything of interest or benefit to the public, and because we think his communication is a reflection upon the "respectable people" of Darwin.

Yours, truly, H. W. SHARP,
C. F. SHARP,
W. F. WELCH,
J. S. CHILDS.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:
SATURDAY DECEMBER 22.....1877.

FATAL ACCIDENT AT CERRO GORDO. It is our painful duty to record another of those all too common mining accidents, the particulars of which we have in a note from Frank Hoyt, dated at Cerro Gordo, December 21st, as follows: Thursday last, a miner named —— Johnson, fell down the new shaft of the Union Con, and was killed instantly. He was at work on the 900-foot level; the bell rope broke, and he started to go up the ladder, with one end of the rope tied around his waist. When about 500 feet from the bottom, the cage came down and catching in the rope, pulled the poor fellow from the ladder, and sent him to the bottom where he was found a shapeless mass. In his fearful descent he crushed like a shot through a platfrom in the shaft composed of two-inch plank, and supported by 2x4 scantling.

ARIZONA MOB LAW.—Robert White and Charley Rice, a couple of sports formerly of Cerro Gordo and Darwin in this county, met with a brutal lynching at the hands of a mob at the Hackberry mine, in Arizona Territory. While Rice was standing by, White was engaged in playing poker, and got into a row with a man on the opposite side of the table. The man was about to shoot when Rice fired from behind and killed him, thus saving, for that instant at least, the life of his partner, White. Being closely set upon both took to the hills, where their pursuers shot and killed White, wounded Rice three times and then hung him. Such is civilization in Arizona, as reported by a letter from there.

THE EXHIBITION.—Elsewhere will be found the programme for Mrs. Lowe's school exhibition, and it will be admitted that the bill promises quite a fund of amusement for the audience, considering that the characters are to be sustained by young school children alone. Don't be niggardly about buying tickets—only four bits each—for the receipts go to the benefit of the school fund, where it is badly needed. Nor don't wait for a "fashionable" hour to occupy your seats.

PETITION.—A petition is being circulated, and signed by all, praying restoration of mail service between this valley and Oasis P. O., and adjacent camps east of the Inyo range. The route should be reestablished by all means, as there is no mail communication whatever across that range, where there are numbers of settlers and promising mining camps, some within our county borders, fully needing and fairly entitled to a mail at least once a week.

BOXED UP.—The Independence Land Office is now boxed up and warehoused at Rowley's store, awaiting action of Congress or the Department as to the appointment of new officers, vice the present incumbents, both of whom are tired of it, and expecting to quit, do not feel justified in fitting up new quarters for its accommodation. The old quarters in May's building had to be vacated because the rooms were needed for other purposes.

OFFICERS ELECT.—At the last stated meeting of Inyo Lodge, No. 221, F. & A. M., held on on Saturday evening, December 15, the following officers were elected: Henry M. Isaacs, W. M.; William Walker, S. W.; Alvah R. Conklin, J. W.; Jas. E. Parker, Secretary and Omai I. Mairs, Treasurer. The names of the appointed officers will be given after the installation, which occurs on Saint John's day.

FOR THE BETTER.—We have been having some eight or nine days of moist weather; the amount of rain in the valley and snow in the mountains is inconsiderable, but still there was enough of both to relieve the clerk of the weather of the prevalent suspicion of having forgot how to do it entirely—and the indications are that he will do it some more pretty soon.

CANDY.—Our town is now to have a complete, and remarkably well fitted, candy manufacturing establishment, T. A. Gardiner, who thoroughly understands the business, being in charge. Some features about it will be worth special notice when the manufacturing, which begins to-day, is fairly inaugurated. See advertisement.

AT DARWIN.—P. Reddy, Esq., is at his post at Darwin, and, as a gentleman, just in from there, informs us, is feeling quite buoyant at the really flattering new prospects in the Defiance. E. A. or "Ned" Reddy is sojourning here, and the proposition is to make him useful in the musical line about Monday night.

TAXES.—Up to date the sum total of taxes paid in is but a little in excess of $4,600, $3,500 of which was received this month, there being one payment of $1,500. Unless there should be a very heavy delinquent list, the Tax Collector will have his hands full about the 1st proximo.

THE BALL.—Every effort is being made to make the Jockey Club ball, set for Christmas night, at the Court House, the finest, and with the largest home and outside attendance of any that has preceded it for many a day.

HURRY UP.—Barber Huff wants a gentle intimation given to those who may require his services on Monday and Tuesday next that they ought to get around early in the day.

RETURNED.—D. P. Macarter, successor of the Macarter & Phillippy firm and Lone Pine agent for THE INDEPENDENT, is back from San Francisco with a lot of new goods, and more a-coming.

GIFTS.—L. Wood is doing a rushing business with his immense stock of toys and holiday goods. John B. White is now presiding at the counters.

A Dead Man in the Brush.

On Monday last the remains of James Wright were found lying in a spot of sand near Owens river, a few miles to the southward of Bishop Creek. A day or so previous his saddle, bridle and blanket were found partially concealed in a spot at a considerable distance from where the body was discovered. The deceased had been missing from Bishop for three or four days, and it was ascertained that his horse had returned to Volkert's ranch. The matter was taken in hand by the proper authorities, and a Coroner's jury has been for several days engaged upon a searching investigation of the facts and circumstances, but without reaching a conclusion up to the time of our latest information to-day. It is stated that the man's neck was broken and marked as if it had been done by a rope.

James Wright, the deceased, had recently filed a homestead claim upon the Volkert ranch, after a formal abandonment by the former proprietor, said Thomas Volkert. Whether this circumstance has anything to do with the present affair or not, a brief history of the place may be outlined as follows: It adjoins the old A. J. Slinkard place, with whom Volkert was in constant trouble. Slinkard sold out to Wm. G. Watson, who got his hand torn to pieces by Volkert's little shotgun, and afterwards had his house mysteriously fired and destroyed. About two years ago a partner of Volkert's was discovered lying in the road some distance from the house, dead—heart disease. Volkert married a few months ago, and has been in trouble with the woman ever since, who, he claims, is trying to get sole possession of his property.

A Killing at the Taboose.

Yesterday morning, at the Taboose Station, some fourteen miles north of Independence, Frank Frazer shot and killed James Fallon, under circumstances as near as we can now learn as follows: The men were respectively in the employ of the Stage Company and H. C. Wright, proprietor of the house. They had quarreled the night before to such an extent that Wright had stepped in stopped the trouble. On the next morning, while Frazer was behind the bar and Fallon in the room, the former picked up a worthless old six-shooter and dashed it to the floor. The weapon flew to pieces; all the parts save the handle were picked up, and a dispute arose as to whether it flew out doors or had gone into the fire-place. Fallon exclaimed "—— —— you, I'll cut your skin anyhow," at the same striking Frazer with his left hand and drawing a butcher knife with his right. With the weapon he began striking and stabbing Fallon, who resisted as much as possible with his hands, and in retreating managed to get hold of a loaded shotgun, the muzzle of which he placed at the breast of his assailant and laid him out. A Coroner's inquest is being held to-day, and the funeral will take place to-morrow. It turns out that Frazer was but slightly wounded, receiving a cut on the shoulder blade.

SHOOTING MATCH AT DARWIN.—On the night of the 17th instant, at the old Densmore hotel, there occurred a sociable little shooting "game" between James Martin and Thomas Reynolds, in which Martin got one through the left arm and Reynolds took his in the right hand—neither wound likely to be very serious. A short time previous the parties had been shooting with an air gun at a target for the beer, of which commodity they absorbed considerable. Getting severally riled up about something, they concluded to fight it out with fists. Adjourning to different saloons, each slipped out the back way and repaired to a spot below town and began the business in hand. After the work had proceeded some ten minutes, both getting severely punished, they were discovered and separated. The next meeting was with pistols, and occurred shortly afterwards, with the result stated. Upon a hearing of facts Justice Gould concluded that the thing was about even—honors easy, as it were—and sensibly declined putting the county to expense by issuing a warrant for their arrest.

AT LONE PINE.—The regular programme of Christmas observances will be carried out at Lone Pine, beginning with the usual dispensation of good things from the Christmas tree at the school house, on Chrismas eve. Then follows a grand ball at the Peterson hall, with supper at the Whitney House, just across the street. All the preparations are complete for a general good time. The Independence quadrille band will furnish the music, returning to this point for the succeeding night.

DELINQUENT.—For the first time in its history a small proportion of Rex Montis stock is advertised as delinquent, on account of assessment. We believe there are but 3,200 shares in the mine, which accounts for the seemingly heavy assessments levied during the progress of so much extensive and permanent improvement. The stock is held at $30 or more per share, which we predict will enhance to $100 during the operations of next season, after a probable cutting up of the stock.

A MEXICAN SHOT.—At Lookout, on on the evening of the 12th, a Mexican by the name of Augustine Moran was shot by Frank Fitzgerald, a Deputy Constable. He received wounds in the arm and shoulder. Fitzgerald came to Darwin and surrendered himself to the authorities there.

MORE OF IT.—And now comes the Big Piners and announce purses for three short races, commencing January 5th. See advertisement.

NEW FIRM.—Jerry Mairs has gone into partnership with Johnny Irwin, in the conduct of the Headquarters saloon business.

GONE.—J. S. Rothschild, Esq., one of Inyo's solid men, left for his home in San Francisco on Saturday last.

CONCERNING THE HIGHWAYS.—There is considerable growling in relation to the nearly impassable condition of the public roads through Bishop Creek valley. As a matter of course the sufferers don't forget to give Road Overseer Connelly a dig in the ribs for not turning out with a force and putting the said roads in order again, as provided in the P. C. It so happens that Connelly is one of those Christians not discomforted much by growls, except on those rare accasions when they strike him simultaneously with a self-conciousness of a neglect of duty—this not being one of those cases, since every dollar for such work at this stage would have to be advanced by himself, he feels that he is quite right in not doing so just yet, feeling too poor to stand the expense of getting the Supervisors to reimburse him according to certain "secshongs" of the P. C., which will stand no go-backs on the fixed amount for the yearly expenditure. And Connelly would rather be right in such cases than be Road Overseer, much less, President. We don't submit these opinions by authority, being our own simply. As the chief, if not the sole, reason why those highways are in such bad condition is that parties allow their irrigating streams to soak them from one year's end to another, it would be a very good idea to make every one of said parties party defendants in divers expensive suits at law. That plan would give quite a number of fore-handed farmers in various parts of the valley something to think about during the long Winter evenings and rainy days, and accomplish more toward making good solid roads than Overseer Connelly could in a month with a dozen plows and nine scrapers. But, thanks to the superlative wisdom and economy of the Board of Supervisors, whose action was so strongly indorsed by the Lone Pine representation in the late Grand Jury, no such actions at law can be begun as the law contemplates, just because there will soon not be a legally qualified Justice of the Peace in the entire county, nor can't be before the new Constitution is voted upon. Therein lies another of Connelly's pull-backs, the which affliction, as with the ladies, prevents him (and them) from striding out and going for those irrigators as duty would otherwise prompt. But, as the only immediate remedy for bad roads, let us empanel a Grand Jury composed largely of teamsters who will find sure enough bills against every one of those promoters of mud-holes, then the mud makers can be brought before the County Court for the instructions that ordinarily could have been had from some J. P. nearer the scene of action. If this remedy is not available, let us console ourselves with the hope that the Supervisors will soon lay their heads together and evolve a way out of this deep mud. That honorable body ought to be able to do something if any in the State can, since their own acts in times past have demonstrated that they possess powers above the organic act of the State itself; if that body cannot show how to legally compass these mud-holes then our sheet anchor of hope is gone, and it will become a duty somewhat tainted with sadness to notify all concerned that they must either go round them else pull up and flounder through, just as Cousin Sally Dillard did, regardless of both appearances and sentiment.

GOING.—W. T. Grant, Esq., is off to Bodie for the Winter, and will be missed by his many friends in this county. He says that that job was put up on him the other night by Tommy Passmore and Jerry Mairs; while the chickens were squalling the other began to cry out "Grant, Grant!"—when the aforesaid Grant was at the Headquarters talking horse all the time.

HOW THEY DISPOSED OF A DEAD (DRUNK) BISHOP CREEKER.—They claim to have had some fun up there at Bishop, the particulars of which a correspondent relates as follows: "A gentleman from the new colony near Owensville came to this locality with a couple of friends, principally, it seems, for the purpose of testing the strength of Doyle's third proof tangle-leg. Now, as the said Doyle's dispensatory is some distance from the town pump, his goods have never been materially damaged by water, therefore it did not take but a few doses and a brief period to cause our friend from Owensville, formerly of the 'auld sod,' to become sociable to a very offensive degree, and pugnacious withal. These attributes did not tend to endear him to some of the prominent natives, ignorant and retiring as they freely acknowledge themselves to be [that is to forestall public opinion and acquiescence on this modest admission, we suppose.—EDS.], and, particularly, after he marched up and down street a number of times displaying his lung power and vaunting his knowledge of calisthenics. While doing these things he found his way into our prominent store where, after inspecting the fine display of holiday goods, he announced himself in full possession and well able to run it. In this he had deceived himself. A stunning blow in the face and a sounding kick by the proprietor was what set him right on this point. In his hurry to get out he fell, his nose striking a piece of iron, which, in combination with the whisky, left him much the same as dead in appearance. Thereupon a young pedagogue endeavored to bring him to life, but only succeeded in inducing artificial respiration without response from the heart, which remained motionless. Two prominent men of physic then came to the rescue: felt for a pulse, ausculted his heart, flashed light in his eyes, looked wise, inquired into the longevity of his ancestors, looked into the density of the merchant's fist and thickness of boot, did other necessary things, and finally reached the conclusion that here was a fit subject for immediate interment. The merchant's heart smote him as he looked at his first man; he declared he should have a decent burial, and forthwith selected the pall bearers. This done, the procession was formed, and slowly marched the 'street along' till opposite Doyle's 'fetch 'em quick,' where the corpus of the lamented was temporarily dumped while the mourners and all went in to congratulate D. on the purity and long range of his stimulant, likewise to give it crucial test. This done, with tearful steps they returned to perfect the odorous plant, when, lo! they found an empty bier! The late lamented had taken that opporutnity to resurrect himself, to get up and mizzle! And now they all rise up as with one voice and say the next time they officiate they will never stop to congratulate anybody, not even the seductive Doyle, till the deceiving corpus is interred beyond peradventure, beyond chance to git up and dust at such a critcal moment."

THE RACES.—There has been a vast amount of work successfully accomplished by the Independence Jockey Club, as preliminary to the series of races to be given by the Club, commencing on the 26th instant. As a matter of first importance, every part of the mile track has been placed in a most excellent condition, and it is asserted by horsemen to be by far the best in the county. Yesterday the flag pole was raised upon the new two-story, 12x12 stand for the judges, while another feature of the permanent improvements consists of a grand stand 15x30 feet in size, fitted with seats for 100 ladies, should that number grace the occasion by their presence. A bar, pool room and lunch stand completes the necessary adjuncts to the institution. The large number of horses preparing for the various trials of speed are in splendid training, and no doubt much "yellow money" will change about among the pockets of sanguine backers. In the advertisement of the races this week will be found additional clauses regulating the time of entries and the hours when each race shall be called.

PROPOSALS WANTED. — Besides the route mentioned elsewhere, the Postoffice Department advertises (in pamphlet) for proposals to carry the mails on local routes and conditions as follows: Lone Pine and Cerro Gordo, 20 miles and back same days, three times a week. Bond required with bid, $1,500. From Aurora, by Benton, Bishop Creek, Big Pine and Taboose, to Independence, 138 miles and back, three times a week. Bond with bid, $10,000, and check for $500. From Aurora, by Marietta, Belleville and Candalara, to Columbus, 75 miles and back, seven times a week. Bond, $18,000; check, $900. Lida, by Silver Peak, to Columbus, 58 miles and back, once a week. Bond, $1,500. Bishop Creek to Round Valley and back, 15 miles, once a week. Bond, $4.0. For further particulars see pamphlet and blank forms at any Postoffice.

JOHN'S EFFORT.—See Lee, a Chinaman doing business at Darwin, writes, in a very legible hand, a letter to the Sheriff in relation to his taxes, the following being a literal copy save in punctuation: "Darwin, Dec. 19, 1877. Dear Sheriff—I have my Propties tax. did not giveing up, but Frank speak to me five month. they come and geteng the tax, but now they did not come to-day. I bring the money to the deliver. sent up to you of $22. they said you not take silver, taking gold coin. now I have $22, all the money I have. will I come up one or two Week then I paid. if you want silver money I sent up to you at 22th day of Dec. 1877, and you sent back a letter to me. SEE LEE.

GONE FOR A TRIP.— Charley Dale goes to San Francisco to interview friends upon some mining proposition. A host of people in Inyo wish him every possible success.

A WICKED man killed himself in the lowest level of a mine, and the account says, "Thus his alleged soul was saved over half a mile of transportation."

OFF FOR HOME.—Fred. Briggs, who, for many months past, has stood at a case in this office as regularly and reliably as Old Time himself, started last Sunday for a month's vacation with the folks at home over in Amador county. This leaves us very short handed indeed, therefore we hope those nice young gals over there won't smile on him too sweet—not but what he is fully deserving the very best they have, only it might have a delaying tendency, you know, in which case we would be compelled to publish the notorious fact that Jackson girls have feet like dough-trays, and knead help every time they take 'em out for an airing.

"POSTMASTERS are required to keep a complaint book, in which all letters reported to them as lost are entered, and after making examination in their offices, they are required to report the loss with all particulars, without delay." Foregoing is a copy of a late Postoffice order, and is a new rule adopted by the Department.

ESMERALDA ITEMS.—We condense the following items from the Aurora Herald of Saturday last:

Eugene Roscoe and Ethel Roscoe, uncle and neice are in custody, being charged with the foul crime of incest.

The Real del Monte mine, on Last Chance hill, is to be opened by a syndicate composed of Flood, O'Brien, Mackey, Fair, D. O. Mills, Sharon, Baldwin, Cook, Boyd, Belden, Haynie, Yerrington and others, and active operations have begun.

A new hotel is to built on Pine street, 25x60 feet in size and two stories in hight.

Larkin Smith, aged 71, father of S. B. and G. E. Smith, died December 13.

Dr. W. H. Rogers has been held to answer for an attempt to murder Wm. Stansfield, in Belleville, on the 4th of September last.

CONGRESSMAN DAVIS has presented to the House of Representatives a memorial of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce, praying for an appropriation for a new Postoffice.

THE United States has an excellent fair weather navy, but as soon as i storms the vessels hunt for land and find it at the bottom.

A NEW YORK firm hung out a sign reading, "In God we trust—everybody else cash."

Old Popular Superstitions.

The following superstitions, handed down by traditions from the past, are fervently believed in in many parts of this country, and by people who rank as intelligent;

White spects on the nails are luck.

Whoever reads epitaphs loses his memory.

To rock the cradle when empty is injurious to the child.

To eat while a bell is tolling for a funeral causes toothache.

The crowing of a hen indicates some approaching disaster.

When a mouse knaws a gown, some misfortune may be apprehended.

He who has teeth wide asunder must seek his fortune in some distant land.

Whoever finds a four-leafed trefoil—shamrock—should wear it for good luck.

When children play soldiers on the roadside it forebodes the approach of war.

Beggars' bread should be given to children who are slow in learning to speak.

If a child less than twelve months old be brought into a cellar he becomes fearful.

A child grows up proud if suffered to look into a mirror when less than twelve months old.

He who proposes moving into a new house must send in beforehand bread and a new broom.

Whoever sneezes at an early hour either hears some news or receives some present the same day.

The first tooth cast by a child should be swallowed by the mother to insure a new growth of teeth.

Buttoning the coat awry, or drawing on a stocking inside out, causes matters to grow wrong during the day.

By bending the head to the hollow of the arm the initial letter of the name of one's future spouse is represented.

Women who sow flax seed should, during the process, tell some confounded lies, otherwise the yarn will never bleach white.

When women are stuffing beds, the men should not remain in the house, otherwise the feathers will come through the ticks.

When a stranger enters a room he should be obliged to seat himself, if only for a moment, as he otherwise takes away the childrens' sleep with him.

The following are omens of death: A dog's scratching on the floor, or howling in a peculiar manner, and owls hooting in the neighborhood of the house.

Domestic harmony must be preserved when washing day comes, in order to insure fine weather, which is indispensable, as that ceremony is generally performed out of doors.

Yarn spun by a girl under the age of seven years possesses extraordinary virtues. Linen made of it furnishes the best bandages for gouty patients, and, when wound into garments, forms a complete coat of mail, not only against bullet and dagger, but the more formidable operations of witchcraft. The very yarn itself can be wound into unerring musket balls.

THE Spanish Government has succeeded in creating a wide impression to the effect that the Cuban struggle is about ended. Nothing could be farther from the truth. The plucky Cubans are fighting with as much determination as ever, and that they may ultimately succeed in their patriotic endeavors is the earnest wish of every enemy of opression.

DISTANCE has only a relative value. When a man sits down on a carpet tack only a quarter of an inch long, it is hard for him to realize that the point did not come out at the back of his neck.

Some More in Relation to Cleopatra's Needles.

The two obelisks known as "Cleopatra's needles" date back to her reign, but are far from being the most magnificent works of this kind. They weigh but two hundred tons each, and each is only about sixty-eight feet in height. Obelisks have usually been found in pairs. The "needle ship" of iron, expressly built for the transportation of one of these obelisks to England, was not as large in size as the vessel built by Caligula for the transportation of the "Watican Obelisk" to Rome, which Pliny describes as "nearly as long as the left side of the port of Ostia—the largest ship ever built." This obelisk stands one hundred and thirty-two feet in height, and is one which has been exorcised and dedicated to the cross; its shaft is but eighty-three feet.

Although it is not quite certain that Cleopatra ever saw the obelisk known by her name, it is a fact of much probability that the Ptolemies removed them to Alexandria. In Cleopatra's time they were already fifteen hundred years old; the term "needle" comes from the Greek signification of obelisk—a spit. The obelisk of largest shaft now known to be in existence is St. John Lateran in Rome moved there from Heliopolis about the commencement of the Christian era. It belongs to Ha-t-asu's reign. Though it has been broken and portions removed its height is now over one hundred and five feet, its weight over four hundred and fifty tons. It shows marks of the desecrating hand of Thothmes III., his name being found on its face, that of Thothmes II. in the lateral lines—a most transparent forgery, as these two kings were in no way associated together.

The most beautiful of all obelisks ever set up in Egypt were the two erected by Ha-t-asu before "The Divine Gate" of Karnak. They are of rose colored Syene granite, are ninety-two feet in height, each weighing three hundred tons, and are broad enough for one hundred men to stand upon. They were brought from the quarry a distance of one hundred and thirty-eight miles, more than three thousand four hundred years ago, and are the largest ever cut from a single stone; their summits were formerly surmounted with caps of gold—spoil from Ha-t-su's conquered enemies. One of these obelisks has fallen, the other still remains, a magnificent monument to Egypt's greatest queen in that country's palmiest days of art.

Napoleon's engineers took the measurement of these obelisks with great exactness. Eighteen human figures of life size are sculptured upon the standing one, with others in bass-relief; also a lion lying down, several varieties of birds, the cross—which in Egypt was the sign of eternal life—and many other hieroglyphics. Even in sculpture these obelisks are unique, and no monument gives us equal knowledge of the artistic taste and skill of that country. The sculptures ore in the highest style of art. No graver's tool of the present day can cut such work in granite, it more resembling the finest intaglio of the Greeks than monuments for outdoor decoration. Rossellini says: "Every figure appears rather to have been impressed with a seal than with a chisel."—Appleton's Journal for January.

THE LOVELY WOMEN INVITED.—A Spanish paper announces as having the approval of the ministry at Madrid a scheme for opening at the Paris Exhibition a competition of international beauty. All the lovely women in the world are invited to send photographs of thir faces in front view, and in profile; and 61 prizes of awards in money; 100 accessists; and 200 honorable mentions are to be dealt out by a jury composed of a male and female for each nation represented. The winner of the grand prize is to be invited to the French capital, and is to be carried in procession in a car drawn by six Andalusian or Arab horses of purest breed, and the other successful competitors are to be at liberty to join in the procession. But as the Paris Dabats asks, how is an international jury to decide, if the Chinese, Hottentots, Polynesians, etc., who have notions of female lovliness which are not ours, send exhibits to do battle with our particular ideal? At all events the dilemma is possible, as the proposition is official.

ONE of the best plants for live fences and hedges is the bush or small tree known as the pyranthus. It has been cultivated in this country for fifty years, but only as an ornamental plant in isolated positions, where its effect is entirely lost. Concerning its adaptability for these purposes, an exchange says: "It is a dense growing evergreen dwarf, thickly studded with sharp thorns, attaining at maturity a hight of about eight feet, is mantled in Spring with fragrant white flowers and decked in Autumn with clusters of coral-like berries; is propagated from cuttings planted in a nursery preparatory to rooting, or directly in the hedge rows at intervals of six or seven inches, and in the Autumn succeeding remove alternate plants, leaving a space of fifteen inches between plants. In good soil, with clean culture and annual pruning to intensify the growth of branches at the base, it will make a hedge in from four to six years that will defy any pig, ox or mule."

THE Emma mine still lingers in the courts, a suit to declare the London suit fraudulent having just been begun. It seems to be worked for the benefit of the lawyers.

THE aggregate amount of the Schultz swindle in Justice will not fall short of $1,000,000, according to the opinion of Lucky Baldwin.

EXPERIMENTS in potato culture conducted of late in Germany but described in a French agricultural paper, are said to have demonstrated that the vigor of a potato plant is always in direct proportion to the weight of the tubers used for seed, and that not only do different tubers vary in productiveness but also different "eyes" in the same potato. The "eyes" in the top of the potato produce much finer offsprings than those lower down or at the bottom, and in planting agriculturists are therefore advised to cut them horizontally, instead of vertically, and use the lower parts for cattle feed. The best plan, however, is to set them whole, cutting out all eyes except those at the top. From careful statistics of the experiments conducted by Prof. Gantz, it appears that from tubers divided vertically only five tons per acre were produced; from whole potatoes seven and a half tons, and from those cut horizontally nine and three-quarter tons. In the last point, however, other scientific observers no not agree with the results of Herr Gantz's experiments, as they insist that other things being equal whole potatoes will always produce more than halves, however cut.

AN aged woman, named Mrs. Candace Rice, who was over ninety years old, living in Wesfield, Mass., labored under the hallucination that all food which was offered her was poisoned, so refused to eat anything. She held out seventeen days, then died of starvation.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 29.....1877.

THE BORDER TROUBLE.—An army officer expresses as his opinion that the people on our side of the Rio Grande are as much or more to blame than the Mexicans. This officer thinks, First—That the people of Texas and a few army officers are possessed with a blind, all-engaging mania for war with Mexico, and are doing all things possible to provoke it. Second—Lawlessness on the Rio Grand is not confined to Mexicans. The worst elements of both nations are gathered on this side. Third—The raids are not confined to one side of the river, and it would be difficult to say which side is the most wronged. Fourth—Mexicans in all towns along the Rio Grande are far more peaceful than the people on our side. Fifth—Most of the war talk is in the interest of speculators who bought or leased large mining properties in Mexico—such as Wells, Fargo & Co., Helfenstein & Co., a Louisville company, one from Cincinnati and two from England. These companies actually have agents whose only business is to stir up strife. Sixth—The use of Texas militia on our frontier is a most impolitic and fearful evil, they being made up of bad characters and under no discipline. Mexicans respect the United States, but hate the Texans. Seventh—To annex the border States of Mexico would require a standing army of 50,000, and be a lamentable folly.

LYNCH LAW.—At Bakersfield, on Friday night last, a mob of citizens forced open the county jail and took from thence five Mexican prisoners—the Caliente robbers and horse thieves—and hung them dead. It was about the coolest operation of the kind we have hearn of lately, especially as the Gazette account states: "There seems to have been no concealment among those who composed the vigilantes. Many of them are prominent citizens."

THE readiness which Servia falls into line with Russia—now that Turkey is pretty essentially whipped—gives assurance that she will rival Roumania and Montenegro as an earnest and efficient ally. She may readily place at least 30,000 men in the field, but her strategic position renders her co-operation of greater account than the number of her forces.

PROPOSED AMENDMENTS TO THE SCHOOL LAW.

We are indebted to State Superintendent Ezra Carr for a copy of his biennial report on public instruction, in which we find much that would be likely to enlist the attention of all individually interested in that most important part of our political economy or policy; but, for the present we can make but brief reference to but one part of the report, that relating to certain amendments to the school law recommended by the Superintendent. While so doing we shall give expression to our own opinions regarding some of them.

It is recommened to strike out subdivision 5 of section 1521. That paragraph vests in the State Board the power "to prescribe a uniform series of text books," etc. In our belief it would be ruinous to the free school system to do so. Teachers and trustees could then introduce any kind of books they saw fit; the tendency would be to subvert the necessary non-political and non-sectarian character of the school system, and oftentimes be a source of bickering among trustees and teachers.

To amend Article III so that two or more counties may elect a Superintendent jointly instead of one by each as now, said joint Superintendent to devote his whole time to his duties, and to receive a salary accordingly. This looks like it might prove a change for the better, for reasons that will readily suggest themselves.

Another change worth the trouble is one to substitute April for June as the time to elect School Trustees. Then the new Board would be organized in time to select their own teachers for the ensuing school year, which is not the case now.

The proposition to substitute County Assessors for Census Marshals is commendable. The census would be less open to questions of unfairness, while wide extended but thinly settled districts would be saved a disproportionate expense in obtaining a complete return.

It is proposed to strike out the "proviso" in section seven hundred and one, as the report reads, but evidently intended for seventeen hundred and one. This proviso exempts Trinity, Shasta, Inyo and Mono counties from the general obligation to employ teachers only who hold proper certificates. Until other existing conditions we know to exist in this and Mono counties are changed by development of the country, and means of communication, that proviso should stand as it is.

"To amend section 1712 so that trustees may, in their discretion, use the library fund in whole or in part in the payment of teachers' salaries." To compass the same end with equal certainty, the substitute might as well read: "District school libraries are hereby abolished in toto"—for that would be the inevitable result of such a very objectionable amendment.

An amendment as proposed by the Professor in the following words we would endorse most heartily: "Amend subdivision fourth [sec. 1858] by making the pro rata apportionment to all districts in proportion to the average daily attendance." Referring to which he truthfully remarks: "The present method of apportionment, by giving the same amount to a district, whether the attendance is ten or ninety per cent. of the census population, is a premium on non-attendance."

To these amendments we would suggest another to this effect: That in all cases of elections to levy a district tax for any school purpose, as provided in Art. XIX, that District Assessors be dispensed with, and in lieu thereof, the last preceding return by the County Assessor of the property of the district be adopted as the basis for the levy and collection. It would be the duty of the Collector or trustees to make the required list of the district property from the County Tax Collector's books; but when distance or other reasons made it cheaper or otherwise more preferable in making out said lists from the books at the county seat, the county officer having them in charge to be authorized to make out and transmit a certified transcript of the required list, and to be allowed a reasonable compensation therefor, to be paid by the district. This plan would save an item of considerable expense, besides removing all questions of partiality in assessments as liable to arise when made by a District Assessor among neighbors and unaccustomed to his work.

The allowance of funds for the maintenance of schools the legal time in these outside counties is utterly insufficient—in many instances, not half enough. But, owing to the expense of assessing and collecting—sometimes equal to twenty or thirty per cent. of the amount to be raised—together with the trouble and expense of holding the election itself according to the strict letter of the law—for these reasons trustees never order elections for this or any other purpose only as a last resort. Hence it is, too, that elections for trustees, or to fill a vacancy particularly, frequently go by default. The whole system of holding elections for school purposes should be modified materially. As compared to the present plan, it would be far better to elect a full Board of Trustees at the general election every two years. But a special law to govern school elections generally is a matter worthy of especial attention by our legislators. And we cannot too strongly urge upon all realizing the difficulties under which our educational interests labor in a region like this, the propriety of at once submitting their views to our Representative, Mr. Moffat, if those views are such as to suggest any remedy through legislation. That is what Mr. M. asks and desires in matters like this in which he has not heretofore had sufficient personal interest to glve it that critical attention its importance would otherwise have received at his hands.

JUDGE REED.

The Bakersville Californian, in its issue of the 20th, has a scathing article upon Judge Reed, based on his official acts and individual course in relation to the title to the Bakersfield town site, etc. It quotes some of his coarse expressions of spite against that place, to show that such are characteristic of the man, also a portion of an article that appeared in this paper in its issue dated December 1, 1873, in which his honor vented much exceedingly coarse wrath against us—and as we will now take occasion to say, did so on premises, as touching him personally, if not in every other respect, utterly without foundation in fact. As a matter of course we gave his Honor such notice as we thought the gravity of the case demanded, and would feel bound to so again under similar circumstances, except to modify or exclude such quoted expressions as our present enhanced ideas of the proprieties of respectable journalism would demand. And this reminds us that at that time this same Courier read us a lecture on proprieties in relation to this very same matter. It was this way: That paper was then under the management of a gentleman who shall be nameless except as Mr. H., since he is not now in a position to rise to a question of privilege and speak for himself, having long since retired from the field of mud-spatterism, in which he was more useful than a bunch of cockle-burs on a calf's tail. Now, Mr. H. hated our District Judge, THE INDEPENDENT, and everybody, very cordially, and used to spend hours, we think, in hunting through the dictionery to find neat words like "fool," "idiot," and all such that he thought he understood, and weave them into leaded lines as tokens of his esteem for the Judge and the rest of us. But notwithstanding all that, and his strong desire to let everybody take a look through his own venom-stained specs at the honorable Judge, Mr. H. actually declined to re-produce his Honor's remarks, as given in this paper, "because they are unfit for publication!" This fact would afford a beautiful text for a moralist—not a very high toned one, mind—for if it was too bad for the Courier, it was high time for a decent paper to think of reform; and we did reform steadily from that time forward—suffering a relapse now and then as a matter of course, owing to associations. Therein is where the moralist would find the text referred to: that is, that if any good could come from such a cause, the God of Nature created nothing so vile but something hopeful might accidentally come of it; for, be it known, since the date of Mr. H's refusal to smut his columns the spirit of reform has spread all over the Union, finally prostrating a prominent Presidential candidate and his many sympathising friends, throwing him into a fit of mumbling that still rages, and, per contra, bursting wide a great party (for stealing), and relieving even the Kern county press of one of its characteristic ornaments. But to resume.

We quote from the Californian before us:

THE INYO INDEPENDENT, in its issue of December 1st, 1873, gave us a picture of this same Judge, while on the bench in that county. It made a name for him for that portion of the district that stands to this day. We ask the editor if it is fair now to say that this Judge may have acted honestly [in his Bakersfield town site decision] and to express the opinion that "We believe he did."

To which we say, first, that we have never at any time been cognizant of any act by "this same Judge," private or official, to lead us to question his strict honesty in this respect, and consequently, have never said anything derogatory to him hinting that way. Secondly, there is nothing so obviously convincing in the points set forth in the Bakersfield decision by the Supreme Court that a mere casual reader, if not a legally trained professional, might not have accepted a reverse conclusion (sustaining Judge Reed) as equally correct, if adjudged on technical grounds simply, and as such cases are supposed to be judged. Thirdly, while, in our imperfect knowledge of the facts of the case, we believe the equities now rest where they belong, we see enough of technical grounds by which an opposite final result might have been reached, and still have been no great surprise—therefore we conclude that the only ground known to us for alleging Judge Reed's decision to have been dishonest, as charged, is that of his manifest bias against the place, simply. That attribute appears to be both strong and lasting with his Honor, but, nevertheless, we know of nothing in his official conduct to lead us to believe he would so gratuitously publish himself to the world as a dishonest and vindictive official fool merely to give expression to it; by no means. Hence that remark, which we reiterate, that our neighbor deems so inconsistent.

His Honor at one time proposed to make us a party defendant in a libel suit, but for what we never did know any more than a babe that don't expect to be born for years to come. That and preceding circumstances opened a chasm—wide, but bloodless—between himself and the writer hereof, across which no vestige of a bridge has ever been placed to this day. But in no instance do we ever knowingly allow things of that kind to warp our ideas of right and justice toward any man in the slightest degree—and, not claiming a monopoly of that virtue, we still believe Judge Reed's official acts will all stand the test of honest intent, let his errors in law interpretation and personal demeanor be what they may.

Judge Gould's Say on "The Bullion Trouble at Darwin."

Editor Coso News—In your issue of the 15th instant appeared a card signed by the Sharp Bros., W. F. Welch and J. S. Childs. There are certain statements in said card reflecting upon some of my official acts, which leaves me the alternative to either submit to misrepresention or reply through the same channel. I have adopted the latter, and in justice to myself I ask for room in your paper to insert the following facts in the case referred to, to-wit: "The People vs. James Boultinghouse et al." The card referred to goes on to state as follows: "Constable Welch was then sworn and testified, but his testimony was ruled out, on the ground that Olivas was not his keeper (being a non-citizen) and that Welch, when he went down to turn over the bullion was not a Constable, but simply W. F. Welch, a private citizen."

Now, I submit there was no such ruling made in the case; neither was it "impossible for Welch to be allowed to testify," for he (Welch) did testify in the case, and his testimony was filed in the County Clerk's office with the rest of the papers.

I will now quote from the records in the case of "The People vs. James Boultinghouse et al:" "Defendant's counsel objected to the witness, W. F. Welch, testifying that he went to the Santa Rita furnace to turn said bullion over to Sharp Bros., as an officer in the discharge of his duty." The Court ruled "that, as W. F. Welch had in his possession no order from any Court to turn said bullion over to a third party or parties, he was acting in violation of the law and the mandates of the Courts who had issued the attachments, and placed said attachments in the hands of said Welch, as an officer, to serve said attachments on said bullion."

The above is all the ruling made in the case in regard to Welch's testimony, and was reduced to writing at the time and read in open Court, then copied into the records of the case; and now I ask the readers of the News to compare the above ruling with the portion of the statement quoted, and draw their own conclusions.

THOSE "ALIAS EXECUTIONS."

In regard to the irregularity of the "alias executions," I have to say: The property was advertised by Constable Welch to be sold on the 16th day of November, 1877, and on that day he (Welch) left Darwin for Independence, without selling the bullion or even postponing the sale. At 8 o'clock P. M. of that day, after Welch had left town, an application was made to the Court and an affidavit was filed, setting forth the facts as above stated, and asking for an "alias execution" in each case. As the day of sale had passed and no postponement of the sale made by the officer, it was only reasonable that the plaintiffs in the several actions should have some remedy, and the executions were issued. But the writer of the aforesaid card does not notice the irregularity of the officer in failing to make the sale, or postponing it to another day, but excuses the officer by saying he had thirty days in which to return his executions. It is a question of great doubt, in my mind, whether or no the original executions were not dead when the officer failed to sell the property on the day of its advertisement, or postponed the sale to another day. But, as I had some doubts about the legality of the proceeding, I withdrew the "alias executions." and no one was harmed by them.

The writer of the card of the 15th instant says: "When a Sheriff takes an indemnity bond, he requires, for his own protection, that the bond shall not only cover the value of the property, but also be of sufficient amount to protect him from costs in case suit should be brought." I would inform the writer that such a bond is not always required in this county. As an example I would cite the case of the "Modoc Mining Company vs. John L. Montaigne & Co.," which case was pending in the District Court of the Sixteenth Judicial District some nine or ten months since. In that case the Deput Sheriff, W. L. Moore, accepted of a bond for $5,000 while the amount of the property attached aggregated about $17,000, and that was a similar case to the one in question. I happened to be cognizant of the amount of the bond in the case mentioned, for the reason I was called upon to justify the sureties and remember the amount of the bond. But I find that it makes a vast difference (sometimes), in Inyo county, whose "bull is to be gored."

The reputed public statement of Sheriff Passmore, that he "would not take any bond that the people of Darwin could give," only excited the pity and contempt it deserved, by a large number of citizens, of his executive ability as High Sheriff of Inyo county.

In conclusion, Mr. Editor, I have only this to add, that I have never counseled nor approved of the proceedings of certain citizens in taking possession of the bullion in question. On the contrary, I advised some of them that the law was sufficient, if properly carried out, for the protection of the rights of all citizens; and further, I have this to ask of my neighbors: that when they make use of my name in the public prints, without my permission, it is only fair that I should be quoted correctly, especially when they assume to state "actual facts, as can be shown by the evidence and records in the suit."

Yours, respectfully,

A. J. GOULD.

THE Sacramento Bee says of Farley's opponents: "Not one of them has shown any ability in conducting a canvass. Farley had his men in their camp all the time, drawing them out as he pleased, and playing with them to keep up their humor."

AND now that Turkey is whipped she wants to know who struck Billy Patterson, and is inquiring what Russia opened war on her for, anyhow. This question is a puzzle to other Governments besides the Porte.

UNDER a new ruling of the Postoffice Department the right to forward letters by mail to a second destination without additional postage applies only to such letters as have not left the custody of the postal officials.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:
SATURDAY, DECEMBER 29 ..... 1877.

ALABAMA DISTRICT.—Jimmy Sharp is still patiently working away at his little gold ledges in Alabama District, some ten miles south of town. The seams and strata vary from one to eight inches in thickness, but are immensely rich in gold—a peculiarity of Sharp's single-handed quartz mining being that he makes it pay. He works the finest pieces into jewelry sets, crushes out the balance by hand and then manufactures the gold into pure, solid rings. We are in receipt of a beautiful piece of hard, brown quartz, flecked all over with the yellow metal, which came from a small feeder among the number which lead into the main ledge. The latter he calls the Sioux, which stands perpendicular and carries from four to eight inches of fine milling ore. The Hitchcock boys are working an equally valuable ledge in the same immediate vicinity. From all descriptions of the place we believe that a deep prospect shaft would show up something wonderfully rich if not extensive.

FINANCIAL.—It is a fact of exceedingly common remark that our local money market never was so tight as at this time. Yet, unlike it was in 1876, when so much coin went to the Centennial, there is no obvious reason why things should be thus, unless some folks are hoarding up stockings of silver awaiting for Jones' ideas to obtain in the way of its remonetization; or else, which is more probable, stowing away gold for the inevitable onslaught of the Tax Collector, who is now about ready to make his final balance. There is no doubt but that the withdrawal of the usual Camp Independence disbursements—$15,000 to $20,000 a year—has added materially to the local money pressure. But the days now begin to lengthen, and proportionately facts should begin to shorten, in the hope that things will soon begin to run smoother.

AT LONE PINE.—The people of our neighboring town of Lone Pine began holiday observances on Christmas Eve., at the school house. Preceding the liberal distribution of presents from the tree, there was given a grand school exhibition under the direction of Prof. Cooper, the school's popular and successful teacher. The singing, by a choir of six or seven young ladies, was exceptionably fine, and would elicit the warmest commendations of any audience. The ball which followed was well attended, but our quondam reporter thinks that the best part of the whole business—especially to a hungry musician—was the most excellent supper served at the Whitney House. "O, I told you, dot vas fine."

FOUND DEAD.—On Sunday last, at a point about half a mile below the ranch of J. M. Horton, on Bishop Creek, was discovered the remains of a man known as Thomas Fox, a sheep herder, recently from Fresno county. Dr. Wainright was immediately called, who found upon making a post mortem examination that the deceased had had his ribs broken and received such internal injuries as to cause death, explained in detail by the doctor. Appearances showed that the man had been thrown from his horse and dragged or kicked to death, and upon a Coroner's inquisition, held before Justice Inlow, the jury returned a verdict in accordance with the foregoing outline of facts.

CHANGE OF BASE.—H. L. Childs, U. S. Deputy Revenue Collector for this Division, has taken the position of bookkeeper for J. H. Stoutenborough, Bishop Creek, and assistant in the post, express and stage offices. All communications for him should be addressed to that place after this week. H. L. will assume a general INYO INDEPENDENT agency, and we commend him to the good offices of our numerous patrons in that region.

INSALLATION OF OFFICERS.—On Thursday evening last the following named officers of Inyo Lodge, No. 221, F. & A. M., were regularly installed, by the retiring Maste , A. N. Bell, to serve for the ensuing Masonic year: Henry M. Isaacs, W. M.; William Walker, S. W.; Alvah R. Conklin, J. W.; Jas. E. Parker, Secretary; Omai I. Mairs, Treasurer; Andrew N. Bell, S. D.; H. P. Cartier, J. D.; James Shepherd and C. F. Stoutenborough, Stewards; J. D. Mairs, Tyler.

THE weather during the present week has been as good as could be desired for the horse race, but pretty rough at times for the human race, particularly the juvenile portion. The wind, when it blew at all, was from the north and, of course, was cool; cold enough in fact to make even a Canuck rub his nose and say "By Gosh!"

THE VERDICT.—The finding of the Coroner's jury at Bishop which inquired into the facts of the death of James Wright, an account of the discovery of whose body was given last week, was to the effect that he "came to his death by violence, at the hands of parties unknown."

NURSERY.—Attention is called to the advertisement elsewhere of Kelsey's Nurseries, at Oakland. From a personal inspection we can bear witness that it is one of the most beautiful places in the garden city, and the varieties of its nursery products are almost numberless.

THE NEW LIVERY STABLE.—Elsewhere will be noted the advertisement of Bennett's new livery and feed stable, which is a complete institution, and in the hands of a man who thoroughly understands his business.

STOLEN.—See advertisement for description of a valuable stolen animal, supposed to be somewhere in this county.

The School Exhibition.

The exhibition given by Mrs. Lowe's school last Tuesday evening came off according to programme, in a manner creditable alike to teacher and children, and greatly to the satisfaction of the very large audience who witnessed and enjoyed it. At the outset there was some hitch or other in the curtain management that foreboded anything but a pleasing success, but fortunately that soon ended, with no worse results than to prematurely shut off some of the younger embryo Garricks and Matilda Herons. But they are so young that there remains ample time in life for all of them to regain lost opportunities occasioned by that defective curtain arrangement and those mistaken signals, if such there were. A school exhibition is one of the worst possible affairs for a newspaper to review, for the reason that none of the juvenile actors are subjects for legitimate or learned criticism. Besides, they all have mammas to resent possible injustice. And, also, it is a scarcely less delicate task to indulge in adjective of praise—well, weller, wellest. Nevertheless, a mention of some of the leading parts is quite in order.

Miss Annie Malone's "Recitaaion" was very well pronounced, though the young lady was evidently contending againsr considerable embarrassment. The set pieces for quite a number following may be counted as failures, owing to the lack of comprehensive curtain arrangement and management.

No. 6 was a declamation by Norman Conklin concerning "Boys' Rights," and in the line of declamations was the best effort of the occasion. It is not amiss to say here that this young gentleman and his sister, Miss Maggie, sustained all their parts in a manner to elicit general praise.

Miss Minnie Walters' "select reading" was quite fair, if not a striking success. The same remark will apply with equal truth to a similar effort by Miss Ada Cornell, though many would have pronounced both these efforts quite good if the pieces had been very much shorter. Long drawn out sentiment, no matter how well worded or how exquisitely rendered, will not amuse and therefore not often interest a mixed audience.

"Homitic Geography" was quite well played. The "Rival Speakers" was somewhat less so.

In the "Spelling Class," Wm. Morton, as teacher, acquitted himself quite well indeed, and the piece itself was a pleasant success.

In "Jotham Down's Courtship" Miss Maggie Conklin acted well her part, and so did Joseph Eadey, the presentation being very creditable to both, as well as to Frank Graham, as the officiating clergyman, who tied the knot very neatly.

In "Madam Savant's Finishing School" the honors rest with Mrs. Lowe herself, though Misses Harris, Gerrish and Walters, particularly the latter, performed their parts very creditably.

"Song," by Norman E. and Miss Maggie Conklin, was deservedly encored, and as prettily rendered as anyone could desire.

In "Mrs. Dosem's Visit to the Country," Miss Minnie Harris sustained the character of "Mrs. Dosem" in a manner remarkably excellent, and won the earnest plaudits of all. Miss Cornell also came in for a due share of praise in the same piece, which, altogether, was the success of the evening.

In the "Home Guards" Miss Lizzie Gerrish did the "rebel mother" in a commendable way; but for the manifest lack of stage appointments the piece, as a whole, was not so well rendered as the same young people would be able to do it under more favorable circumstances. In it Frank Graham and William Stains, as "contrabands," got their work in first rate.

In the declamations, Henry Gaston, Frank Graham, Ed. Shepherd and Henry Walters each delivered their pieces in a style to command favorable attention. Somewhat in the same line, and perhaps better, considering the youthfulness of the speakers, were Miss Louisa Sherrer's "Grandpa's Spectacles" and "little" Minnie Harris' "Why are the Children so Glad To-Night?"

The vocal solos and music by Miss Hetty Hardy and Mr. E. A. Reddy were very acceptable additions to the evening's entertainment, and for which both received well-deserved applause and thanks. And acknowledgments are due to Messrs. Lafe Gill, Ned Reddy, John Langer and W. H. Huff, comprising the orchestra, for their excellent music, volunteered for the occasion.

There are quite a number of those among the children whose names have not been mentioned here, though they played their minor parts quite well worthy of mention, did space permit.

THE FRAZER-FALLON HOMICIDE.—F. Frazer, who shot and killed James Fallon, at Taboose Station, on the 21st instant, as related in our issue of last week, appeared before Justice Schalten of this place on Monday last and demanded an examination. The Coroner's inquest had developed no further conclusion than the admitted fact of the killing, and the Justice accordingly held an examination. Quite a number of persons testified as to the facts, but the substance of the affair is found in the statement of Nate Mount, from which we quote as follows: "On last Friday morning, the 21st day of December, 1877, sometime between the hours of 10 and 11, Frank Frazer, H. C. Wright, myself and the deceased were drinking at the bar at Taboose Station, Inyo county, California. Frazer was tending bar; he had an old pistol, fooling with it; after fooling with it for some time Frazer said, 'Yes, quit fooling with the — thing,' and at same time throwing it over on the floor and it fell to pieces. Mr. Wright, deceased and myself began to pick up the pieces; we picked up the barrel and cylinder; could not find the handle; Frazer was still behind the bar, and said 'it must be there somewhere,' and at the same time came from behind the bar to where we were. The deceased made some remark that he would take it out of his hide, or something to that effect, and struck Frazer on the breast with his left hand, put his right in his bosom and drew out a butcher knife. Wright caught hold of Frazer and I caught deceased by wrist of right hand, in which he held the knife, and shoved him out of the door. I had him to the left of the door, outside, standing in the door myself; I was talking to him trying to quiet him, and he says '— you, you have given me the lash' or the 'racket.' I said, 'how have I given you the lash?' And then he raised the knife to strike, exclaiming 'the —— — — ——,' and started toward me; I stepped out to one side of the door and he passed in; as he did so I stepped outside; as he went in he grabbed Frazer, still holding the knife in his right hand; made a turn, he (the deceased) still striking at Frazer with the knife. I stepped into the parlor door and got the shotgun, which was standing by the door; as I stepped out on to the porch the deceased and the defendant were still scuffling; as soon as the deceased saw me with the gun he left Frazer and made for me; I ran around a part of the porch, when the defendant grabbed the gun; next I heard the report of a gun; I started for the gate and called to Frazer to come on or we would be killed; he says, 'I am killed now.' I went back to him and saw the blood running out through his clothes; I asked him where he was cut; he said, 'in the shoulder;' we started down to the stable; when we reached there I called for assistance to saddle a horse, that we might get Frazer to a doctor as quickly as possible. By this time Wright's boy came and said his father had sent for a doctor; myself and defendant then started for the house. I never had any previous difficulty with deceased; went after the gun for the purpose of making the deceased drop the knife, as I could do nothing with him before." It appears that there was no eye witness to the shot direct; but the foregoing was corroborated by others and the defendant discharged.

WHAT THEY CHARGED TO VON BRIESEN'S WHISKY.—Two of our most sober and responsible young men went to Lone Pine to aid in the festivities at that place Christmas Eve. Starting home very early Christmas morn, before daylight they had reached the Half-Way House. There, nearly to the top of Baron Keppler's 30-foot flagstaff, in the certain darkness, they saw a sight. "By smash!" said one, "I didn't think I took so much as that"—and rubbed his eyes, and looked again, and experienced absolute relief when the other y. m. saw what he saw, and said: "By the Great Bull Fiddle! It's a man a hangin' there!" Further investigation, imperfect by reason of the altitude at which the man hung, revealed the certain fact that it was a man or the form of a man hanging up there, boots and all being easily distinguishable. Perhaps it was the Baron himself suspended there by robber men because he wouldn't disgorge? Right speedily the young men came to town, and reported the facts at the Sheriff's office, stating at the time, however, that they were not at all positive it was anything more than a suspended man of straw they had seen, or a real "human man"—might be either, but he had boots on anyway. Deputy Dad asked if they had taken anything before they had left Lone Pine, and where? "A cocktail at Von Briesen's." "That will do; wonder you hadn't seen the hoofs and horns as well as the boots." And so Dadual lost all further interest in the matter, the cocktail, considering where it was compounded, throwing all the light on the subject a man of his experience needed. But Under Sheriff Steve had been told by somebody there were two or three fellows on George's Creek wanted hanging, and thought it possible parties had accommodated one of them, and, with one of the young men, would go and see about it. About half way down they met the stage; driver had seen nothing on that staff but the American flag, which was streaming gallantly—no boots or anything but that. They came back, and people marveled greatly at the power of Von's cocktails, and looked askance at the young men, because the latter had heretofore ranked above suspicion. But the young men were right, and the cocktail wasn't so bad, after all, for a bona fide straw-man with boots on had waved through the night on that staff; but for what purpose we have yet to ascertain.

THE BALL.—The ball on Christmas night passed off most pleasantly. The attendance was quite large, a larger proportion than usual being the very welcome additions from other places, Big Pine especially being well represented. The music was highly commended, our well recognized local musicians having a valuable accession in Mr. Curt. Ober, of Big Pine, a master of the violin and guitar. The management was excellent, while the supper at the Blaney was unexceptionably good. But right here we shall ask, what good end is attained by waiting till 9, 10 and even 11 o'clock before putting in an appearance in a ball-room in a country like this where daily duties make no allowance for fashionable idleness the following day? It would be more considerate and healthful and polite and nearly as truly fashionable to "come early, go early."

DARWIN MINING ITEMS.—We condense the following mining items from the Darwin News of Saturday last:

We predicted in our issue of last week that if John S. Gorman was placed in charge of the Modoc furnaces their stock would soon appreciate. The rumor—now based on probability—seems of itself to have inspired confidence in buyers below, for we see that on the 19th instant Modoc stocks took a jump from 40@45 to 95@$10. A meeting of dissatisfied stockholders was held on that date, and we presume satisfactory arrangements have been made by which the furnaces will soon start up, with Mr. Gorman as smelter.

The New Coso Company are repairing their furnaces preparatory to starting up early next month.

The Emigrant Company shipped on last Thursday 170 pounds of fine silver bullion, valued at about $2,000.

Active work on the Modoc mines is still kept up, every day bringing to light new bodies of large extent.

THE RACES.

The races over the Independence track have up to this writing (Saturday noon) passed off to general satisfaction, and eminently so as regards the management by the Executive Committee and rulings by the Judges. In both these matters the whole affair is highly creditable to the good name of the course and the Club. The track itself is a very superior one, and in fine condition. The accommodations for spectators and judges are first-class. The crowd in attendance, for the first three days particularly, was very large for this country, the grand stand being crowded with ladies and children at times, while the grounds around swarmed with the rougher sex, horses and vehicles of various descriptions. The weather was quite auspicious up to this morning, since when the wind has blown strong and cold enough to make tears stand in tender eyes and on the ends of the strongest noses.

FIRST DAY.

Trotting, mile heats, best two in three. Two entries—Ebony, by May, and Brown Tom by Gelatt. First heat taken by Eb. in 2:33, neither horse getting down to his work. The second was won by Tom, in 2:29, Eb. breaking up and distanced. Race and money to Tom.

In the quarter-mile race in the afternoon the entries were Black Harry, by Williams, Missouri Ryan by Ball and May Hammond by Dickson. Two false starts, the second being claimed as a race, but ruled out because the horses were not tapped off till two had passed the score by several lengths, the third having made no start. Race set and run at 10 o'clock the next morning, Harry and the Roan only competing, the former taking the race and cash.

SECOND DAY.

Running, mile heat. Entries—Glencoe Chief by McCarthy, Budd Doble by Richardson, Brown Frank by Murray and Wake-up-Jake by Rittgers. Brown Frank took the race and coin in 1:55.

In the afternoon Steel Dust and Flying Dutchman were entered for the half mile stakes, and were run through after a fashion, but on account of obvious jockeying the Judges ruled it no race and declared purse and pools off—a most proper proceeding, and one well sustained by the people.

THIRD DAY.

In the first race, one-fourth mile, the entries were: Croppy, by Wm. Gill, Lucy, by McCarty, Frank Reddy, by Jim Peel, and Sleepy Dick, by Ball. They came through in fine style, and in this order: Croppy, Sleepy Dick, then Lucy.

In the afternoon came off the finest contest of the meeting, being the half mile race, in which Brown Frank was entered by Murry, Black Harry, by Hutchison, and White Stockings, by Russell. Black Harry came out about a neck ahead, Frank next and forereaching fearfully, and Stockings close enough to be a competent witness. Time, 49½, and the best on record for this county.

FOURTH DAY.

Quarter race. True Blue by Kehoe, Black Knight by Hutchison, Tom, by Mount, and Eliza, by Webb. At the outcome Knight was first, True Blue second, with Eliza along side but third, while Tom worried through the cutting dust some yards in the rear.

A mile and repeat race was set for this afternoon, but Brown Frank seems to have scared off his only competitors, and nothing but a walk-over is expected of it. There are some further contests arranged for to-morrow.

TO RESUME.—Mrs. Lowe will resume her school here Wednesday morning next.

I WISH TO CALL THE ATTENTION OF EVERY one subject to Special Tax Duties in Division Eight, First District, Internal Revenue Department, to the law requiring the mutilation of the revenue stamp on all packages (barrels, kegs, etc.), immediately after the said packages are emptied. Heavy penalties are imposed for refusal to comply with said law. Dealers are requested to see at once that the stamps are torn from every empty package in or leaving their possession, as I shall, from time to time as far as practicable, personally inspect all such goods.

H. L. CHILDS,
Deputy Collector 8th Div., 1st Dist., Cal.
Independence, Cal., Nov. 23, 1777. n388t4
